Assistant County Attorney Forbes expects to bring John Aalto to trial next. Aalto is charged with grand larceny, first degree. He was arrested on Feb. 19, charged with having robbed Setti Beckman of $32 in cash and a watch worth $15 in Beckman's room in the Ormond hotel on Lake avenue south. Beckman claims that Aalto got him drunk and then relieved him of his valuables.

VISITING RAILROAD MEN IN CONVENTION

Several visiting railroad men said this morning that they are holding a convention. W. G. Mitch, traveling passenger agent of the Chicago & Great Western was asked why. Said he:

"We're kicking about business; it's rotten. But we have decided that there is still hope."

Other visitors in this line are: John Chamberlain, traveling passenger agent of the Milwaukee; W. H. Snyder, traveling passenger agent of the Burlington; H. C. Carter, district passenger agent of the Union Pacific, George Lovell, Northwestern passenger agent of the Wabash, and F. W. Wolterstorff, traveling freight agent of the Burlington, the only visitor present who does not belong to what is commonly known as the "vaudeville" department.

Thornley O. Pratt, Jr., of Los Angeles, aged 34 months, is forty-three inches tall, weighs fifty pounds and looks like a boy of 5 years.

The United States in 1911 exported 3,500,000 tons of hard coal.

WILSON FAVORS BUDGET SYSTEM

Makes Public Letter Written to Senator Tillman Jan. 30.

Washington, March 18.—President Wilson is in favor of a budget system for the coiduct of the government finances. He made public today a letter written Jan. 30, from Trenton, to Senator Tillman, expressing the hope that a budget system might be worked out after he got to Washington. President Wilson wrote in part:

"Ever since I was a youngster I have been deeply interested in our methods of financial legislation. One of the objects I shall have most in mind when I get to Washington will be conferences with my legislative colleagues there, with a view to bringing some budget system into existence. This business of building up the expenses of the nation, piece by piece, certainly will lead us to error and perhaps embarrassment."

This promises to be a quiet week socially in the White House. President Wilson will observe Holy Week. He wrote a letter to a friend today declining an invitation to a theater, saying he would be glad to go some other time than the week which so many people especially devote to the more serious concern of religion.

AN ESTIMATE OF THE POETICAL WORK OF JOAQUIN MILLER

Comments Made By the Portland Oregonian at the Time of the Death of the "Poet of the Sierras."

The love of liberty is the strongest motive in Joaquin Miller's poetry, and it appears in many forms. Now it is the thirst for adventure, now hatred of the Russian czar and his tryanny, now admiration of the vaquero, or again, loyal love of his practical old friend, "Thomas of Tigre," who shared hero worship with him in England. Thomas was with the poet in the Modoc region before the war which exterminated that warlike tribe, and together they went to the mother country with their faces and their trousers tucked into their boots as the British concept of American notables required. Thomas made a more brilliant debut even than Miller in high London society. He went everywhere and dazzled all the aristocracy by the lavish way he spent the proceeds of his various exploits. "Where does Thomas get his money?" inquired a London swell of Joaquin Miller. "Some of it as a pirate in the South Seas and some as a brigand in Mexico," replied the poet. When Thomas heard how he had been reported "he was greatly pleased and laughed over the story with some friends at Lord Houghton's table." Lords and duchesses were their daily associates. Miller dearly loved the comrade of his wild life, and wrote a poem to him in which the gay old adventurer is addressed as "king and comrade," "soldier singer" and "prince of rovers."

"Coasting on the Oregon,
Saddle bow or birchen prow?
Round the Isles of Amazon?
Pampas plain or mountain brow?
Prince of rovers, where art thou?"

Where indeed? Where are the snows of yesteryear and the great days of long ago?

Miller knew the cowboys, or vaqueros, as he preferred to call them, with his poet's fondness for the sonorous Spanish word. During his life in Eastern Oregon at Canyon City and elsewhere he must have seen them in their glory and, of course, their ways charmed him. Fate condemned him to be a mere judge while he dwelt out there on the range, but his heart was with the vaquero, "the proud vaquero," who, "his broad-brimmed hat pushed back with careless air, sits his steed as free as winds that toss his black, abundant hair." What is the dull dignity of the judicial bench to such splendid liberty, such joy of life?

"Now sweeps the tawny man on stormy steed,
His gaudy trappings tossed about and blown
About the limbs as lithe as any reed."

Joaquin Miller was the first man to discover the romantic charm of the cowboy and celebrate his wild freedom in literature. Others have followed him, but none have done it better, only one or two half as well. The same spirit glows in his description of the pioneers whom he call "pilgrims of the plains." In his picture of their life on the trail he tells of "The long chained lines of yoked and patient steers,

The long white trains that pointed to the West,
Beyond the savage West, the hopes and fears
Of blunt, untutored men, who hardly guessed
Their course; the brave and silent women
In homely spun attire, the boys in bands—
What exodus for far untraveled lands!"

He loved the Indian as well as the cowboy and the pioneer. He "dreamed of all thing free" and sang of them in his verse. "The far, wild wails" of the women when the Comanche chief was brought back to the tents dead pierced his heart.

A thousand red hands reached in air,
O, chu-lu-lee, O, chu-lu-lo,
While midnight housed in midnight air,
Their one, last wailing prayer."

His passion for freedom and democracy broke forth in a fine poem when Riel, the Canadian rebel, was executed. Miller gave no thought to the laws the daring insurgent had broken, nor to the growing civilization he had attacked. All the poet's mind was fixed on the unconquerable love of liberty that burned in his soul and the splendid fight he had made before he was captured. These are the things that make life glorious to the poet. "He died at dawn in the land of snows," Miller sings of the bold rebel.

"The hero was hung in the windy dawn.
'Twas splendidly done, the telegraph said,
A creek of the neck, then the shoulders drawn,
A heave of the breast, and the man hung dead;
And, oh, there was never such valiant dying."

The wild, reckless, daredevil living of the chainless plainsman and his "valiant dying" were what Miller sung with ardent soul. He blazed with the passion for unrestraint. But as much as he worshiped the open air and the men who rode and fought under the blue sky, he hated the tyrant and all his ways. His "brave and unremembered heroes" of the West:

"Those brave old bricks of forty-nine,
What lives they lived, what deaths they died—
Full were they
Of great endeavor, brave and true
As stern crusader clad in steel,
They died afield as it was fit."

These were the men whom his soul loved. Now hear him sing of one he abhorred, the czar of Russia:

"The knout upon the bare white back,
The blood upon the snow,
The gaunt wolves close upon the track
Fight o'er the fallen so,
And this that one might wear a crown—
"The czar is dead, the woman dead,
About her neck a cord.
In God's house rests his royal head,
Here in a place abhorred.
Yet I had rather have her bed
Than thine, most royal lord."

But it was in the lines upon Columbus that Miller's worship of high endeavor in perilous freedom found its noblest expression. This poem will never be forgotten as long as men thrill with the thought of courage that will not yield and hope that will not die. "Behind him lay the gray Azores, before him only shoreless seas." All his men were discouraged and frightened. The mate was disconsolate at the prospect. The thought of their infinite loneliness on the bosom of the Atlantic appalled him.

"Why, now not even God would know
Should I and all the crew fall dead.
Now speak, brave Admiral, speak and say—
He said, 'Sail on, sail on, sail on.'
They sailed, they sailed. Then spake the mate:
'The mad sea shows his teeth tonight.
He curls his lip, he lies in wait
With lifted lip as if to bite.
Brave Admiral, say but one good word,
What shall we do when hope is gone?'
The words leaped like a leaping sword,
'Sail on, sail on, sail on and on.'"

HAD PASSED THE ROAST.

THE TROUBLE WITH VENUS.

Cleveland Plain Dealer: Somebody has discovered that the Venus of Milo has a suffrago face, and there is great rejoicing among the militants.

Hitherto the principal criticism of the sculpior's dream of feminine perfection has had reference to her generous waist—not at all a waist of the self-starving type.

But the suffragette must admit that the stone-throwing outfit of the Venus leaves much to be desired.

LIVERPOOL BULL FACTOR

Upward Wheat Reaction Encouraged By Higher European Cables.

Flaxseed Market Is Very Quiet and Changes Amount to Little.

Duluth Board of Trade, March 18.—A reactionary bullish feeling on the North American markets today was encouraged by higher Liverpool cables and the slump of yesterday was wiped out. Duluth May wheat closed ⅝c higher, whereas yesterday's decline was only ½c. Cash wheat on the Duluth market closed 1½@2c under May. Durum closed ¼c higher, oats ⅜c up, and rye and barley unchanged. Duluth May flax closed unchanged and July ⅛c higher.

While most of the news in regard to the wheat market was of a bearish character this morning, the markets of North America showed an upward reaction from the slump that took place yesterday. The fact that the Liverpool quotations were not dragged down by the bearish cables that were received frem the North American markets today, and helped the reactionary movement. Bradstreet's report showing an increase of more than 2,500,000 bu in the world's visible supply of wheat since a year ago failed to bear the markets perceptibly.

Duluth May wheat, which closed yesterday at 84⅛c bid, opened today at the same figure bid and at noon today was quoted at 85c. There were higher quotations also from Chicago, Minneapolis and Winnipeg.

Wheat on the Liverpool market today closed ¼d to ⅝d higher. The market was bulled by the improved continental demand for steamers and a better demand on the part of millers, but the advance was checked by the high estimates of American reserves, generally favorable European crop reports and a large increase in the European visible wheat supply.

Flax Market Dull.

There was very dull trading on the flaxseed market this morning. Flax brokers had plenty of time for jokes and anecdotes. Offers were light and the demand was not at all aggressive. The cash price at Minneapolis was 1⅜c under the Duluth May price, which was a demonstration that the Minneapolis crushers were not at all eager to buy the seed, and, to all appearances they were well stocked with it. Duluth May seed at noon today was ⅜c off and seed at noon today was ⅛c off at $1.11¾, being 16¼c under Duluth May. Buenos Ayres May seed last night closed ¾c higher at $1.21½. London-Calcutta March seed today closed ⅝c off at $1.56⅜.

MARKET GOSSIP.

The Minneapolis Commercial West says:

"Declining prices in flaxseed in the last week, together with features in the general world's situation that lead linseed oil buyers to believe that the prices of oil may decline still further, have resulted in a very dull trade ther, have resulted in a very dull trade at the present time in linseed oil. A feature of the local situation is that cash flaxseed has declined relatively more than the futures in the last week. Crushers in futures in the last week. Crushers in the markets are now paying 2c to 2½c for cash flaxseed under the Duluth May price. Yet the crushers are buying very little; some of them have been even out of the market entirely a considerable part of the time in the last week. They are carrying all the supplies they care to and there is no object in accumulating stocks, because of the certainty that receipts will continue liberal for some time to come. Crushers say that linseed oil buyers, generally speaking, have good stocks of oil. Nevertheless, it is expected that oil dealers, from the largest wholesalers down to retail dealers, will carry larger stocks of linseed oil this summer than for several years past. The price is now so low that there is little danger of much loss in carrying large stocks; and, too, owing to the low price, the consumption of oil is bound to be very large.

Last year linseed oil reached $1 a gallon, while at the present time it is selling at 42c to 43c. Furthermore, for the last two or three years a very large amount of substitutes found its way into linseed oil by the time it reached the consumers' hands. At the present price there will be a decidedly small percentage, if any, of substitutes used, which will be another inducement for the larger consumption of linseed oil. Some of the Minneapolis crushers say they will not be surprised if approximately 28,000,000 bu of flaxseed is crushed in the United States this crop year—that is, from Sept. 1, 1912, to Aug. 31, 1913.

"Demand for cake oil is very slow and $20 is the best price that can be get, and it is difficult to get that. There is a very good demand for oil meal. Crushers are asking $26, but probably the price is being shaded 50c in instances.

"Receipts of flaxseed in the Minneapolis market since Sept. 1 have amounted to 9,000,000 bu, compared with 6,200,000 bu a year ago."

F. E. Chamberlin of Chicago, representative of John Prindiville & Sons, vessel agents, was a guest on the Duluth board of trade today. Mr. Chamberlin spoke of the large movement of corn that was taking place from the Western states through Chicago to the East. "The grain movement of Chicago does not wait for the lakes to open up as the Duluth grain movement does," said he. "When the rate on grain by water from Chicago to Buffalo is more than 1¾ cents a bushel, Chicago grain shippers do not bother about the lake route, provided cars can be obtained for the direct all-rail shipment to the East."

John Inglis wired from Bellevue, Kan.: "From McPherson to Bellevue the wheat is in fine condition. There is fair growth and good stand. They are still seeding oats. Farmers have not seeded corn. There are liberal supplies on hand. Roads are still good. There is some hauling of corn to stations. Hay stocks are plentiful. Cattle are in good condition.

The visible supply of wheat in Europe this week amounts to 52,868,000 bu against 88,220,000 bu, thus showing an increase of 3,648,000 bu over last week, when there was an increase of 4,320,000 bu. Last year there was an increase of 1,500,000 bu, when the total amounted to 78,700,000 bu.

Bartlett-Frazier wired from Chicago: "A Duluth man says he knows of half a million bushels of wheat afloat at the Head of the Lakes that is offered for sale but brings no bids. He says exporters were buying more wheat when the market was 2 cents higher than at this time. Wheat afloat at Port Arthur is being off 1 cent below wheat in store and still is not attracting buyers. This northwest situation is very bearish and sooner or later something must give way.

"A Chicago exporter says business is absolutely dull. Bids for Duluth and Manitoba are 3 cents lower than ten days ago and futures are practically unchanged. Ocean freights have declined in the meantime, also. The continental demand is the poorest in three months."

Increase in the world's visible supply sent wheat off slightly, but the depression was temporary. The close was firm at 88⅜@88⅞c for May, ⅛@⅜c above last night.

On firmer cables and in sympathy with wheat, corn showed strength. May opened unchanged to ⅛c higher at 51⅜c to ⅝c and went to 52¼@⅜c.

Light receipts tended to keep the market fairly steady. The close was firm, ⅜@½c net higher for May, at 52⅛@52¾c.

Oats were helped by firmness of other grains. May began at 32¾c to 32⅜c, a shade to ⅛c to ¼c up and advanced to 32½c.

A lighter run of hogs sent provision prices to a higher level. The opening was unchanged to 7½@10c dearer, with these prices for May: Pork, $20.77½; lard, $10.70 to $10.72½; ribs, $10.82½.

DECLINES IN STOCKS

Buying Orders Scarce and Pressure Increased at Close.

New York, March 18.—There was further liquidation of industrial shares today owing to discrimination against this class of securities in loans and to poor earnings of some of these companies. Important stocks, after some hesitation, responded to short covering due to the belief that the list was thoroughly liquidated for the time being. Bear traders were impressed by the stability of the leaders in the face of renewed selling of minor stocks.

Bonds were irregular.

The stock market was irregular at the opening today, with a tendency toward a lower level. The widest fluctuations were among the less active stocks. New Haven's long decline was extended further with a drop of 2 points to 113⅜. Goodrich at 28½ also touched a new low figure. Woolworth lost 2 points and Mexican Petroleum 1. Canadian Pacific rose a point.

Standard issues stiffened in the face of material weakness in certain specialties. Rumley broke 5⅜ and some others were off 1 to 2 points. Reading rose to nearly a point above yesterday's close and Steel, Union Pacific and Amalgamated gained slightly.

Scarcity of buying orders as much as an indication of pressure caused the market to sell off slightly, with some leaders falling under the lowest of the morning. Minor stocks continued downward with broadening of the selling pressure in that quarter.

Pennsylvania was heavy and went down to 118¼, its recent lowest. The remainder of the list was motionless. The undertone was depressed, but bear operators put out few stocks and liquidation seemed checked for the moment.

The market closed weak. Standard stocks took a commanding position in the market during the final hour. Pressure increased notably, especially against Steel, Reading and Union Pacific. The last named dropped to 146⅛, a new record.

ATTITUDE OF GOVERNMENT MADE PLAIN

President Wilson Issues Statement Regarding Chinese Loan.

Especially Regarding Participation of American Bankers Therein.

No Guarantee Whatever Will Be Given to Prospective Investors.

Washington, March 19.—President Wilson's statement of the administration's attitude toward American bankers participation in the Chinese loan and foreign loans generally, has attracted widespread comment and discussion in official and diplomatic quarters.

Following closely upon the statement come intimations that the negotiations now may proceed as a five-power affair without the American group.

It is pointed out today that the bankers of China's creditor nations, especially Russia, may now be counting upon the moral support of their governments to continue to press Provisional President Yuan Shi Kai to make the loan but there also are some indications of discord found in the conflicting claims of the various nationalities for preponderating influence in the appointment of administrators of the loan and for its expenditure.

Pressing Feature.

The pressing feature for China, right now, diplomatists point out, is found in the fact that China is more than one year behind in payment of Boxer indemnities to the extent of $20,000,000. With an army clamoring for back pay, many provisional loans coming due and need for money to continue the operation of the provisional government, Yuan Shi Kai is placed in the position of attempting to obtain an extension of time from creditors who have failed to make a loan, or succeed in borrowing money from independent bankers, as was done in the so-called Crisp transaction.

Some May Participate.

It is intimated here that some American bankers, other than those concerned in the loan rejected, are figuring on participation in such a transaction, but it is pointed out that President Wilson's statement made it clear that while the Chinese government would have the sympathetic support of the United States under no circumstances would it take the form of a guarantee to would-be investors in Chinese securities.

Discussion now is turning to the question of when the administration will announce its policy on the recognition of the new republic of China.

DEFEAT SAID TO BE DUE TO INTRIGUES

Friends of Briand Believe Action Planned By Reactionaries.

Paris, March 19.—The defeat of the French government in the senate yesterday on the question of proportional representation and the subsequent resignation of the Briand cabinet have caused an immense sensation throughout France. Almost the entire press of the country expresses praise of Briand's work.

The action of the senate is attributed in some quarters to intrigues manipulated by the forces of reaction against the popular will and President Poincare is urged to select a premier who will push through the reform bills which the senate evidently is bent on defeating.

President Poincare was occupied today in consultations with influential members of both houses. The statesmen most frequently mentioned as head of the new ministry are: Eugene Etienne, minister of war; Jean Barthou, minister of justice, and Louis L. Klotz, minister of finance.

MAGNITUDE OF VICTORY

What Has Been Secured By Passage of Reapportionment Bill.

Plan for the New Congressional Districts Presented to Senate.

(By a Staff Correspondent.)

St. Paul, Minn., March 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—Those who have been fighting reapportionment during the last few sessions of the legislature are finding it hard to realize that they have won at last—harder still to realize the magnitude of their victory and the magnitude of its meaning.

The last reapportionment was in 1897, and that was a makeshift.

Though Southern Minnesota had its full growth—was nearly as great in population then, in fact, as it is now—there was no reapportionment in the real sense of the word, as there has been at this session. The size of the legislature was somewhat increased, and the increased membership was placed in the more grossly under-represented sections. That was all. Southern Minnesota lost none of its representation, and had even when the 1897

Measure for Constitutional Amendment Is Offered in the House.

Committee Urges Office of State Oil Inspector Be Abolished.

Another Tonnage Tax Bill By Dunn, Bjorge and Frankson.

(By a Staff Correspondent.)

St. Paul, Minn., March 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—A commission plan of state government is proposed in a constitutional emendment that will be offered in the house this afternoon by Speaker Henry Rines and Representatives W. I. Nolan of Minneapolis and Ernest C. Pless of Gibbon. The legislative and judicial divisions are left intact, but in place of the present complicated system governing the executive branch there are to be elected only a governor, lieutenant governor, auditor and four commissioners. All other state officers are to be subordinate to and appointed by the commission, which will consist of the governor and the four commissioners. The executive branch is to be divided into four departments with a commissioner in charge of each, and one division is to control state lands and allied subjects. The commissioners are to be elected for four-year terms, but salaries are left to the legislature.

To Abolish Oil Inspector.

The house committee on public accounts and expenditures today submitted a report recommending that the office of state oil inspector, held by Gary A. Eaton of Duluth, be abolished and its work be done by the dairy and food department with four additional inspectors in place of the sixty-seven

BILL PASSES UNANIMOUSLY

Senate Goes on Record for the Initiative and Referendum.

Cashman Distance Tariff Bill Is Passed By the House.

(By a Staff Correspondent.)

St. Paul, Minn., March 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—The senate yesterday afternoon unanimously passed the initiative and referendum bill, as amended by the senate committee on elections and by the senate.

Only one amendment was tacked on in the senate that seriously affects the chances of the bill.

This is the amendment, proposed by Senator A. J. Rockne of Zumbrota, requiring that petitions invoking either the initiative or referendum must be signed in at least one-third of the counties of the state—which, as the state is now constituted, will require circulation of petitions in twenty-nine counties.

The senate also adopted an amendment proposed by Senator George H. Sullivan of Stillwater, requiring that proposed constitutional amendments

PFANSCHMIDT JURY IS HARD TO OBTAIN

Will Be Hard Task as Nearly Everyone Has Formed Opinion.

Quincy, Ill., March 19.—That the selection of a jury to try the case of Ray Pfanschmidt, charged with the murder of his father, mother, sister and friend, will be a tedious and almost impossible task, was foreshadowed by the proceedings of the first hour of the trial today. The first eight veniremen examined by the state declared that they had formed opinions which evidence could not alter.

The case has been given a greater publicity than any case ever tried in Adams county and it is considered difficult to find a man in the county who has not expressed an opinion as to the guilt or innocence of the defendant.

The prisoner appeared in court cheerful and apparently the calmest person in the room. He has an unshakable nerve, having an air of confidence which approaches bravado.

After fourteen jurors had been examined, court was adjourned until tomorrow afternoon at 1:30. The defense objected to proceeding with the panel incomplete so Judge Williams ordered a special venire of 100 men to be drawn. Three additional bailiffs were appointed to summon these men, who are to report tomorrow afternoon.

N. Y. SHERIFFS DEMAND ENTRANCE TO HOUSE.

New York, March 19—Deputy sheriffs camped today in front of the Madison avenue residence of Eric B. Dahlgren, son of Rear Admiral Dahlgren, demanding entrance on behalf of Mrs. Lucy Drexel Dahlgren of Philadelphia. Mrs. Dahlgren contends that property of hers worth $30,000 is held in the residence of her former husband. She recently obtained a decree of divorce and the custody of the children.

"We'll get in if we have to smash the doors," said Sheriff Harburger, when notified that a squad of private detectives had denied his men admittance.

Washington, March 19.—George Foster Peabody of New York has been in Washington to see the president and rumor says that he is to be appointed to some important place. SUFFRAGETTE IS FED THROUGH TUBE

London, March 19.—The Militant Suffragette union makes public a letter received by Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst from her daughter, Sylvia, now in Holloway prison. It says:

"Dearest Mother: I am fighting! Fighting! Fighting! I have four, five or six attendants every day as well as two doctors. I am fed through the stomach tube twice a day. They pry open my mouth with a steel gag, pressing it in where there is a gap in my teeth. I resist all the time. My gums are always bleeding.

"I am afraid they may be saying that we do not resist, yet my shoulders are bruised by the struggling while they hold the tube in my throat. I used to feel I should go mad at first. I think they feared I was pretty near it, but I have gotten over that and my digestion is the thing most likely to suffer now. "SYLVIA."

PRESIDENT SENDS QUEEN MESSAGE OF CONDOLENCE

Washington, March 19.—President Wilson's first act today was to send a message of condolence to the widowed queen of the late King George of Greece. It read as follows:

"Her Majesty, Olga, Queen of the Hellenes, Athens: I am inexpressibly shocked to hear of the terrible crime which has resulted in the death of the king and I offer to your majesty, to the royal family and to the Grecian nation the sincere condolence of the government and people of the United States and the expression of my own deep sympathy. WOODROW WILSON, "President of the United States of America."

ROBBERS MAKE ESCAPE IN TAXI

First Auto Bandit Robbery in Chicago Since Arrest of Webb.

Chicago, March 19.—The first auto-bandit robbery since the arrest of "Teddy" Webb and a number of his associates a month ago, occurred early today when the Plaza restaurant on the South side was robbed and $50 taken.

Two well-dressed young men after eating breakfast a few blocks from the Plaza, telephoned for a taxicab. The driver was ordered to stop a few doors from the Plaza and while one of the passengers remained outside his companion entered the restaurant, obtained the money at the point of a pistol from a waitress who was alone in the place, and in leisurely fashion returned to the cab.

The chauffeur, James Fitzgerald, then took them to State and Madison streets where they paid their fare and hurried away through the crowd.

Janina, March 19.—Constantine, the new king of Greece, left for Saloniki today after handing over to Gen. Danglis the chief command of the Greek army.

When the telegram announcing the tragedy was read to him last night the prince was unable fully to grasp its purport. After it had been read to him a second time he burst into tears and for a considerable time was quite overcome with grief.

Man of Education.

New York March 19.—Aleco Schinas, the assassin of King George of Greece, was a man of education and a confirmed anarchist, according to information obtained by Demetrios N. Botassi, Greek consul in this city. The man nursed a grudge against the king, Mr. Botassi was told today by Greeks in this city who knew Schinas, because the government had closed a school of anarchism which Schinas had established at Volo, the chief city of Thessaly, where Schinas was born.

"Schinas, I have been told by countrymen who knew him, was a much more intelligent type of man than is indicated by the news dispatches," said the consul. "The man was well educated, a confirmed anarchist and an atheist. Recently he established a school in Volo and began preaching anti-government ideas. The school was closed by the government. The man announced himself some time ago as a candidate for the office of deputy from Volo to the Boule, the Greek

House Democrats Confident They Have Framed Good Measure.

Washington, March 19.—Quick tariff revision along lines acceptable to the Democratic leaders of both houses of congress was the object of a conference called for today between the ranking tariff revisionists of the party in the senate and the house. The conference, marking the completion of the tariff revision bill in all essential particulars in the house ways and means committee, was designed as a move to get together on common ground and to smooth the way for the launching of the first Democratic tariff in many years under a policy of swift, harmonious action.

TRAGIC END OF HOUSE OF MANY DEATHS

Place of Tragedies Is Destroyed By Fire, Taking Three More Lives.

Known as "House of Death" Situated on Wentworth Avenue, Chicago.

One Tenant After Another Has Met With Violent Death.

Chicago, March 19.—The tragic existence of the "house of death" at 2359 Wentworth avenue closed early today with its destruction by an incendiary fire in which three lives were lost.

Frank Pustella and his brother-in-law, Joseph Cavelieri, escaped with severe burns by jumping from a second-story window, but Mrs. Pustella and her daughters, aged 3 and 5 years, respectively, were overcome by smoke as they reached a window and perished in the flames. The house gained its fateful name in the neighborhood because of the fatalities which have occurred within it during the last ten years.

A decade ago Jacob Werner opened a meat market in the place. Within a short space of time entire family died and Werner committed suicide. Werner's clerk, Fred Kunz, took the market, but shortly afterward his little daughter was scalded to death in a pickling vat, and a week after this accident Kunz was found dead under mysterious circumstances. The manner of his death never has been solved. The next tenant was a man named Strauss, who was murdered in the house. A few weeks after that an unknown Italian crawled under the porch of the place and committed suicide.

These incidents were recalled by H. W. Schroeder, an undertaker in the neighborhood. He said there had been others but they had passed from his memory.

STRIKE THREATENED ON BIG RAILROADS

Traffic Centering in Chicago May Be Tied Up By Switchmen.

Chicago, March 19.—Traffic on nineteen railroads entering Chicago, including the principal East and West trunk lines, may be tied up today in case of the failure of A. F. Whitney, vice president of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, to reach an agreement with the general managers. The switchmen and switch tenders are involved. They demand "time and a half" for overtime work, Sundays and holidays and semi-monthly paydays.

A meeting was arranged for this afternoon after it was shown that only 200 men out of 6,423 had voted against a strike. Arbitration of the matter was left to the executive committee, composed of twenty-five railway men. If no agreement is reached an effort will be made to prevent the walkout by use of the Erdman act. A strike would affect nearly all of the freight moving in and out of Chicago.

TRIAL OF CLINTON SMITH IS AGAIN POSTPONED.

Minneapolis, Minn., March 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—The trial before Judge Jelley of Clinton Harold Smith, charged with the murder of Mrs. Tamar Collins Hanscom, again has been postponed, this time until Monday morning because of the continued illness of Louis Bredenburg, a juror.

It is believed that Bredenburg will be able to report on Monday. If he is not Judge Jelley may dismiss the jury and order a new trial.

TURKS CLAIM BIG VICTORY

Ottoman Aeroplanes Signal Movements to Turk Commander.

Constantinople, March 19.—A victory is officially claimed for the Turkish forces in a 24-hour battle which lasted until early today along the Tchatalja lines defending this city.

Large forces of Bulgarians were encountered at those three places and fierce fighting soon spread along the whole front. The Turkish troops drove the Bulgarians from their trenches and took possession.

The Turkish center then advanced and stormed the heights in their front, from which they routed the Bulgarians at the point of the bayonet. Other columns of Turkish troops captured several heights held by Bulgarians to the south of the Turkish lines. The casualties have not yet been ascertained but the commanders declare the losses of both armies were heavy.

Two Turkish aeroplanes flew over the scene of the fighting throughout the day, reconnoitering the Bulgarian positions and signaling the movements of the enemy to the Turkish commander.

The police arrested two Chinamen at 3 o'clock this morning and one negro last night on white slave allegations which resulted from suen "dates."

The police declare that the Chinamen and the negro have apparently been trying to make "dates" with young women whom they thought might be susceptible.

The Chinese under arrest are Albert Q. Lee, alias Joe Petton, manager of the Tuxedo chop suey house, 214 West Superior street, and Kin Sue, a waiter in the same place. The negro is John Mandel, a bootblack in a shoe store, and he was arrested when the police raided his room at 326 East Second street.

The police state that reports have reached them that the negro and the Chinamen at the chop suey house have been making efforts to make appointments with various women who came into the shoe store for shines or went to the oriental establishment for meals. To make an investigation the services of two young women were secured. They are said to have visited both places several times and reported that the claims were founded on fact.

Yesterday afternoon they made a "date" with the negro to go to his room. The program was carried out and last night the police visited the place while the women were there. The officers had expected to get another negro in the dragnet but through a misunderstanding they reached the scene a trifle too soon.

From there the two women went to the Tuxedo, where they "fell" for another "date." It is claimed that the Chinese furnished them with cards and directed them to a lodging house. They are said to have handed the cards to the clerk of the hostelry, who showed them to rooms without any questions.

About 3 o'clock in the morning Albert Q. Lee and Kin Sue put in their appearance. The clerk is alleged to have taken them directly to the rooms where he had placed the two women who had come earlier with the cards of the Chinamen. When they had closed the doors the police placed them under arrest. Officers had been placed in a room across from that to which the girls had been placed and were waiting for the Chinese to fill their "date."

It is expected that the negro and the Chinamen will be arraigned in police court this afternoon to answer to white slave charges.

A gray-haired, old woman with care-worn face and hands hardened by rough work swayed and stumbled and fell, picked herself up and swayed and fell again near the corner of Fourth avenue west and Superior street shortly before noon today.

Hundreds of people passing the busy corner saw the old woman in her pitiful state of drunkenness. Some shuddered and turned their eyes away. Others were filled with indignation that any one should furnish her with liquor. They freely declared that the person who was responsible ought to be punished.

She was the center of hundreds of eyes for fifteen or twenty minutes, when she was taken in charge by a policeman who sent her to the police station in the patrol wagon.

So said James Gordon, a youth of 22 years, when he was brought into police court this morning for stealing a billiard ball which he later tried to sell. He stated frankly that he was guilty. He said that he wanted to realize money so that he could get something to eat and added that he had expected to be arrested.

The court gave him $40 and costs or thirty days in the county jail, hoping that when he is released from the county jail he will have been cured of his desire to break into the penitentiary.

The case is one which would have been sent to the work farm, if the city had such an institution in operation. Work and fresh air would do young Gordon a lot more good than a sojourn of a month in the crowded county jail, the police claim.

The jury which heard the case of George Gardner, charged with having assaulted Mrs. Mary Martin on March 7, reported a disagreement this morning and was discharged. The case was dismissed. Mrs. Martin claimed that Gardner had struck her a blow in the face, giving her a "black eye." The defense claimed that the blow was struck by Mrs. Gardner, when the two women engaged in a quarrel which resulted in physical combat.

LOGGERS ARE JUBILANT

Fall of Snow Extends Season By a Month at Least.

Prices Will Be High This Year and Lumbermen Will Profit.

The life of the logging season this winter was unexpectedly extended—granted a reprieve, as it were—by reason of the recent heavy snows, and the lumbermen of the city are wearing smiles as broad as a politician's vest. That the snows of recent deposits have added many dollars to the exchequers of the logging interests of the Northwest there is no question, and no matter how short the cut is in other sections of the country, the supply which the loggers will be able to take out in this section will be about large enough to take care of matters anyway—and then the prospective prices, because of shortage elsewhere, make their teeth water.

Praetically everybody in the logging business—one of the cult is authority for the statement—was ready and expectant of a break-up of operations in the woods about March 10 or thereabouts. On practically the eve of this break-up—or expected one—there came one of the heaviest snows of the year, and that was succeeded in rapid sequence by others fully as heavy. This was the rejuvenation of the logging business for the season. It is not now expected to have a break-up before April 10 to 15, which is almost a month later than was looked for some time ago.

Men Return to Woods.

The snow has still another beneficial effect for the loggers. Of late men—always hard to get this season to go to the woods—have been deserting in droves, with the belief in mind that railroad building would soon open up. Now, with the renewed fall of snow, they find themselves in a peculiar position—without opportunity for railroad building employment and without quite enough cash to tide them over until such operation should begin. Therefore they are piling back into the wods, since the heavy snows came, as rapidly as they can be taken back. That means more logging than ever before this year and means an immense product. Wages are good and accommodations are good, and they figure that it is far better to wait in the comfortable confines of a lumber camp than to rot and be rolled on the boweries of the various cities.

The heavy snows—if, when they melt, they will not run off too quickly—will be very beneficial, so the lumbermen say, to those who plan on floating their logs down some stream or other. The "drive," one of the romantic phases of logging of the old days, is a pretty scarce article these days, but some still work the drive where it is convenient. The Cloquet mills have a few drives, but as to most in this part of the country the thing is becoming obsolete.

Another benefit, mentioned one day this week, is that when this heavy snow melts it will give the ice in the bay and river something resembling ptomaine poisoning, for the ice will go under its melting faster than by any other method than by dynamite.

Duluth's Flower Store.

A new and growing firm, having built up a reputation for square deal to all, by reliable goods at honest prices conforming to safe business policies, not by ruinous or underhanded price-cutting.

Many people know of the Duluth Floral company either by name or reputation and to those who do not is extended a cordial invitation to call and let us at least be friends. The latch string is always out at 121 West Superior street.

Out-of-town visitors are especially welcome, no formal introduction at all necessary, just say where you hail from and our best efforts are at your service.

In conjunction with the retailing of cut flowers and plants, a ten-acre acclimating nursery is conducted near the county poor farm, stocked with a full line of the most hardy shrubbery and perennials suitable for this rigorous climate.

This year's Easter business promises to be phenomenal on account of the fine line of plants grown especially for an early Easter. Now if the weather man will only be good and our patrons come early, while the selection is complete, we will get along fine.

Ladies looking for new ideas or novelties for decorative effects will surely find something different among the many dainty and new things that are continually being added to an already large line of merchandise.

To those not familiar with the personnel of the firm, an informal introduction to Edw. P. Kreimer and Oliver Elschen might not be out of place.

PAY INHERITANCE TAX OF $20,000

Treasurer Receives Big Sum From Heirs of Elisha H. Flinn.

Heirs of the late Elisha H. Flinn, Detroit millionaire, who died on Nov. 24, 1911, today paid into the county treasury an aggregate tax of $20,000 on their Minnesota inheritances. The exact amount of the tax paid was $19,999.98, lacking but 2 cents of even thousands.

The tax is paid by James H. Flinn, son, and Mary Stevens, daughter, who shared equally in the extensive Minnesota holdings of their late father. The estate in St. Louis county consists of mining property appraised at $723,877.22. Of this amount but $20,000 is exempt from taxation under the inheritance tax law of this state.

Mr. Flinn owned interests in the Adams, Fayal No. 1, Fayal No. 2, Spruce, Cloquet, Malta, Genoa, Mariska, La Belle and Hobart mines on the Mesaba range. The board of appraisers which fixed the value of the estate for the purpose of determining the amount of inheritance tax to be paid consisted of Earl Richards, John D. La Mont and W. J. Schulze, all of Virginia.

The county will receive $200 or 10 per cent of the total amount paid by the heirs to the state. Judge W. G. Bonham is attorney for the executors of the estate in St. Louis county.

A Happening From Life

A true story of how one customer came to us.

Mr. and Mrs. B—— were aboard the train, en route from the Twin Cities to Duluth. Mrs. B—— was a woman of comfortable means and scrutinously careful in the selection of her apparel. "The Best was none too good."

She had contemplated the purchasing of a Tailor-made and had made a complete tour of the Twin City stores but all in vain; nothing seemed to quite "fill the bill."

Suddenly during the relaxation of a dreary train ride, the little lady sat erect, seemed instantly alert, and tugged at her husband's coat sleeve, indicating a timely Tailored New Comer. "There," she said, "If I could get a suit like that"—the admiration in her tone bespoke complete satisfaction in the envied Tailor-made.

The New Comer, as if instinctively obeying the wish of the other, presently tossed her coat across the seat, exposing its label to full view.

Mrs. B—— presently made excuse to get within reading distance and lo and behold! It was no other than the Gidding Label of Duluth.

GLEANED ALONG THE POLICE RUN

The police arrested two Chinamen at 2 o'clock this morning and one negro last night on white slave allegations which resulted from such "dates."

The police declare that the Chinamen and the negro have apparently been trying to make "dates" with young women whom they thought might be susceptible.

The Chinese under arrest are Albert Q. Lee, alias Joe Petton, manager of the Tuxedo chop suey house, 214 West Superior street, and Kin Sue, a waiter in the same place. The negro is John Mandel, a bootblack in a shoe store, and he was arrested when the police raided his room at 329 East Second street.

The police state that reports have reached them that the negro and the Chinamen at the chop suey house have been making efforts to make appointments with various women who came into the shoe store for shines or went to the oriental establishment for meals. To make an investigation the services of two young women were secured. They are said to have visited both places several times and reported that the claims were founded on fact.

Yesterday afternoon they made a "date" with the negro to go to his room. The program was carried out and last night the police visited the place while the women were there. The officers had expected to get another negro in the dragnet but through a misunderstanding they reached the scene a trifle too soon.

From there the two women went to the Tuxedo, where they "fell" for another "date." It is claimed that the Chinese furnished them with cards and directed them to a lodging house. They are said to have handed the cards to the clerk of the hostelry, who showed them to rooms without any questions.

About 3 o'clock in the morning Albert Q. Lee and Kin Sue put in their appearance. The clerk is alleged to have taken them directly to the rooms where he had placed the two women who had come earlier with the cards of the Chinamen. When they had closed the doors the police placed them under arrest. Officers had been placed in a room across from that to which the girls had been placed and were waiting for the Chinese to fill their "dates."

It is expected that the negro and the Chinamen will be arraigned in police court this afternoon to answer to white slave charges.

A gray-haired, old woman with careworn face and hands hardened by rough work swayed and stumbled and fell, picked herself up and swayed and fell again near the corner of Fourth avenue west and Superior street shortly before noon today.

Hundreds of people passing the busy corner saw the old woman in her pitiful state of drunkenness. Some shuddered and turned their eyes away. Others were filled with indignation that any one should furnish her with liquor. They freely declared that the person who was responsible ought to be punished.

She was the center of hundreds of eyes for fifteen or twenty minutes, when she was taken in charge by a policeman who sent her to the police station in the patrol wagon.

"Life hasn't any attractions for me. I've got no friends, haven't any money and can't land a job. The penitentiary looks good to me and I'd like to break into one."

So said James Gordon, a youth of 22 years, when he was brought into police court this morning for stealing a billiard ball which he later tried to sell. He stated frankly that he was guilty. He said that he wanted to realize money so that he could get something to eat and added that he had expected to be arrested.

The court gave him $40 and costs or thirty days in the county jail, hoping that when he is released from the county jail he will have been cured of his desire to break into the penitentiary.

The case is one which would have been sent to the work farm, if the city had such an institution in operation. Work and fresh air would do young Gordon a lot more good than a sojourn of a month in the crowded county jail, the police claim.

The jury which heard the case of George Gardner, charged with having assaulted Mrs. Mary Martin on March 7, reported a disagreement this morning and was discharged. The case was dismissed. Mrs. Martin claimed that Gardner had struck her a blow in the face, giving her a "black eye." The defense claimed that the blow was struck by Mrs. Gardner, when the two women engaged in a quarrel which resulted in physical combat.

Elijah Kenner, a fish peddler, was arrested yesterday afternoon by Deputy Game Warden Wood on a charge of having undersized pike in his possession. He pleaded guilty and sentence was suspended upon the payment of costs, $2.50. Kenner said that he had purchased the pike from a wholesale dealer.

Joe Koziol, a one-armed cripple, pleaded guilty to begging when brought into police court this morning. He promised to get out of town and sentence was suspended with the understanding that he would not linger longer than necessary to get a street car.

Woman "Coke" User Ill.

Milwaukee, Wis., March 19.—When the case of Eva Perry, known as the "queen of the snow birds," was called in district court yesterday, she failed to appear and her case was continued to March 31. The woman was recently taken ill and is now in Emergency hospital. Physicians entertain but little hope for her recovery. Constant use of cocaine in quantities which would kill an ordinary person has broken down her powers of resistance, doctors say.

LOGGERS ARE JUBILANT

Prices Will Be High This Year and Lumbermen Will Profit.

The life of the logging season this winter was unexpectedly extended—granted a reprieve, as it were—by reason of the recent heavy snows, and the lumbermen of the city are wearing smiles as broad as a politician's vest. That the snows of recent deposits have added many dollars to the exchequers of the logging interests of the Northwest there is no question, and no matter how short the cut is in other sections of the country, the supply which the loggers will be able to take out in this section will be about large enough to take care of matters anyway—and then the prospective prices, because of shortage elsewhere, make their teeth water.

Practically everybody in the logging business—one of the cult is authority for the statement—was ready and expectant of a break-up of operations in the woods about March 10 or thereabouts. On practically the eve of this break-up—or expected one—there came one of the heaviest snows of the year, and that was succeeded in rapid sequence by others fully as heavy. This was the rejuvenation of the logging business for the season. It is not now expected to have a break-up before April 10 to 15, which is almost a month later than was looked for some time ago.

Men Return to Woods.

The snow has still another beneficial effect for the loggers. Of late men—always hard to get this season to go to the woods—have been deserting in droves, with the belief in mind that railroad building would soon open up. Now, with the renewed fall of snow, they find themselves in a peculiar position—without opportunity for railroad building employment and without quite enough cash to tide them over until such operation should begin. Therefore they are piling back into the woods, since the heavy snows came, as rapidly as they can be taken back. That means more logging than ever before this year and means an immense product. Wages are good and accommodations are good, and they figure that it is far better to spend the winter in the comparative coziness of a lumber camp than to rot and be rolled on the boweries of the various cities.

The heavy snows—if, when they melt, they will not run off too quickly—will be very beneficial, so the lumbermen say, to those who plan on floating their logs down some stream or other. The driving is one of the romantic phases of logging of the old days, is a pretty scarce article these days, but some still work the drive where it is convenient. The Cloquet mills have a few drives, but as to it in this part of the country the thing is becoming obsolete.

Another benefit, mentioned one day this week, is that when this heavy snow melts it will give the ice in the lake and river something resembling pneumatic poisoning, for the ice will go under its melting faster than by any other method than by dynamite.

ST. PAUL COLLECTOR MUCH WORKED UP

Finds Duluth Is Now Main Customs Port of Minnesota.

Marcus Johnson, collector of customs at St. Paul, is much peeved at the new rearrangement of the customs districts, and according to an article in the Pioneer Press yesterday, he has written to Representative F. C. Stevens asking him to do what he can toward having revoked President Taft's order which directed that all ports on the Canadian boundary shall be under the jurisdiction of the ports of entry either at Duluth or Pembina, N. D.

The Pioneer Press says: "The effect of the order, it is pointed out, makes the ports of St. Paul and Minneapolis merely 'inland ports, involving considerable inconvenience to transborder passengers and making more difficult the procuring of experts to act on boards of appraisement.

"The inconvenience to the public will be caused by the fact that all persons coming into the United States from Canada on any of the roads entering St. Paul will have to clear at the subports or else go by wagon overland to Pembina or by way of Duluth. Often some of the passengers have difficulty in adjusting their duties, and under the present system they are allowed to come through to St. Paul and clear here, avoiding delay.

"Students of the situation believe St. Paul is logically the port of entry for all of the railroads crossing the Canadian line and coming directly to the Twin Cities. They believe that Pembina should be reduced to a sub-port and attached to this city. Mr. Johnson refused to discuss this proposition.

"He suggested, however, that Duluth should be left as a distinct port, as, owing to the addition of Superior and the heavy traffic over the lakes, it is an important port of entry."

After explaining the conditions, Marcus Johnson, in closing his letter, declares: "This order virtually leaves St. Paul and Minneapolis an inland port and will make Duluth the main port of Minnesota."

WEST END WOMEN'S CLUB WILL GIVE PLAY FOR CHARITY

MRS. MILTON FISH.

MISS CLARA GOODHAND.

To assist the members in carrying on their charity work in the West end, the Alpha Delta Gamma club will present "Rebecca's Triumph" next Tuesday evening at the Woodmen hall, Twenty-first avenue west and First street.

"Rebecca's Triumph" is a comedy and was played by the club last year. The success of the production was so great that the members have often during the past year received requests to repeat the performance. It is for this reason that the same play is being presented as the annual spring production of the club.

The proceeds of the performance will be used by the club for its charity work, for which it was organized about two years ago. Several concerts and entertainments are given each year for the benefit of this fund.

The play this year is being directed by Mrs. Milton Fish, who played Rebecca, the leading character, last year. Mrs. Fish is also playing one of the minor parts. Mrs. Mac Baillie, Mrs. Irma Hutchinson and Miss Enid Shaw are in charge of the business end of the production.

The complete cast follows:

Rebecca ..... Miss Clara Goodhand
Mrs. Rokeman, a wealthy lady ..... Mrs. George Jewell
Mrs. Delaine, widow ..... Miss Minnie Milne
Clarissa Bodman, a susceptible spinster ..... Miss Chrissy Hanson
Gyp, a colored servant ..... Miss Enid Shaw
Mag, a vagrant ..... Mrs. Irma Hutchinson
Katie Connors, an Irish servant ..... Mrs. Milton Fish

Members of a cooking school: Mesdames Mae Baillie and Frank Glover, and the Misses Dora Gains, Ruth Glover, Sadie Morrell, Jennie Leonard, Jennie Woodman and Nellie Dunbar.

Readings and musical selections will be given between the acts. Mrs. Milton Fish and Miss Enid Shaw will give several readings and Mrs. Mae Baillie and Miss Ruth Glover will render vocal solos.

Surprised By Friends.

Miss Esther Albertson of 412 West Fifth street was pleasantly surprised at her home last evening. Games were played, after which a luncheon was served to the following guests: Misses Myrtle Bergstrom, Ebba Wicklund, Ruth Anderson, Hazel Nelson, Esther Erickson, Margaret McCarthy, Gladys Sykes, Helga Hedberg, Esther Albertson, and the Messrs. STATE SUNDAY SCHOOL CONVENTION NEXT WEDNESDAY

Two special features of the fifty-fifth annual convention of the Minnesota Sunday School association to be held this year at the Swedish Mission church, Twenty-first avenue west and Second street, beginning next Wednesday evening and ending the following Sunday, will be the original number to be composed for the Thursday program by J. Lincoln Hall of Philadelphia and the boys' congress all day Saturday, March 29.

Miss Elizabeth Kilpatrick of Corinth, Miss.

Mr. Hall, who will have charge of the union chorus of 100 voices, has written that he will write an original composition and that he and Adam Glebel, the blind composer of Philadelphia, who is to accompany the chorus during the convention, will then play the selection.

Mr. Hall is well known throughout the world as a composer of church and Sunday school music and also a chorus accompanist. He will lead the local chorus every evening of the convention from 7:30 until 8 o'clock. The chorus is now being trained by A. O. Anderson of the First Norwegian-Danish M. E. church.

J. Lincoln Hall of Philadelphia.

Boys' Congress.

The boys' congress will be held all day Saturday at the First Norwegian-Danish M. E. church, Twenty-fourth avenue west. About 500 older boys will meet and hold discussions during the day. The principal addresses will be made by John L. Alexander of Chicago, the secondary division superintendent of the International Sunday School association and one of the greatest experts on boys in the world.

Norman McLeod of the Y. M. C. A. will act as chairman at the sessions. The congress will open at 9 o'clock, when the delegates will be enrolled and the various committees organized. At 9:20 o'clock J. E. Hauter will conduct a short devotional service. This will be followed by the conference, the theme for which will be "Training and Service." The opening papers will be read by Ralph Dunning of the Endion Sunday school and Richard Cullum of the Y. M. C. A. At 11 o'clock Dr. Robert Yost of the First Presbyterian church will speak on "Motives." The morning session will come to a close with an address by Mr. Alexander on "The Challenge."

Andrew Stevenson of Chicago.

An automobile ride about the city for the delegates will be a feature of the afternoon program. At 4 o'clock there will be a period at the Y. M. C. A. swimming pool and at 6:30 o'clock a banquet with after-dinner speeches.

At 8 o'clock in the evening Rev. F. H. Brigham of Neenah, Wis., general secretary of the Wisconsin S. S. association, will talk on "The Place of the Older Boy in the Sunday School." Mr. Alexander will close the congress with an address on "Go To It." A big rally for the boys will be held Sunday afternoon to be addressed by Mr. Alexander.

CHORUS WILL TAKE TRIP TO NORWAY.

The Normanna male chorus at its regular meeting last evening made arrangements for a series of concerts and dances to be given within the next three months for the benefit of the fund recently established to aid the members in making the trip to Norway next year. The club will take part in the centennial celebration of Norway's independence in May, 1914.

The first of the entertainments will be held at the Foresters' hall, March 29. There will be a dancing party, with the chorus rendering selections between the dances.

On Sunday, April 13, the chorus will entertain at a musical at the Lyceum, featuring Inga Orner, the celebrated Norwegian soprano, who is touring the country.

Arrangements are being made to hold a celebration on May 17, the anniversary of Norway's independence. Senator Knute Nelson and Rev. Hans K. Madsen have been invited to take part in the celebration.

Pre-Easter Mission.

Beginning this evening the annual pre-Easter mission will be held at the St. Jean Baptist church, Twenty-fifth avenue west and Third street. The Easter Sunday evening service will close the mission. Rev. Father Croisler will be in charge of the meetings each evening.

The funeral of Clarence, the 1-month-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Youngs, 120 North Nineteenth avenue west, who was found dead in bed by his mother yesterday morning, was held at 2 o'clock this afternoon from the Olson & Crawford undertaking rooms. Interment was at the Park Hill cemetery.

GOOD QUALITY IN ADVERTISING

Duluth Ad Men's Club Commends Copy in Local Newspapers.

Good copy is turned out by Duluth advertising writers in the opinion of the members of the Duluth Ad Men's church, who held a discussion last evening on "Criticism of advertisements in local newspapers from the standpoint of copy, attractiveness and typographical arrangement."

The regular monthly meeting was held at the Commercial club and was preceded by a dinner. The discussion on ad copy was led by William Betting and was participated in by nearly all present. The club will discuss advertising copy at every second meeting, the object being to improve advertising writing wherever possible.

Those present last evening were: J. R. Hamilton, C. D. Steele, J. D. Glading, R. S. Forgy, E. H. Whelan, J. C. Nelpp, Alfred H. Moe, F. N. Hoff, W. B. Brinkman, William Betting, R. B. Lewis, Hugh Freeman and B. E. Johnson.

JURY GIVES HIM NOMINAL DAMAGES

Abraham Littman Recovers Thirty-Four Cents on Slander Suit.

Abraham Y. Littman's fair name and good reputation were damaged to the extent of 34 cents when Cyrus J. West, a visitor at his second-hand store one day last November, in a fit of passion and anger, called him a thief, qualifying it is claimed by a couple of rather strong adjectives.

Such, at least, was a district court jury's best judgment in the matter after having spent most of a day listening to the rehearsing of a wrangle into which Littman and West were unfortunate enough to have become engaged on the morning of Nov. 26 last.

West is a mechanical engineer. Yesterday he came into court to defend a $2,000 slander case Littman, proprietor of a junk shop at 338 East Superior street, brought against him. He defended his own case without an attorney and made his own plea to the jury. Attorney William Marx conducted the other side of the case.

West while walking by the store saw a pair of boots in the window that he thought had been stolen from him. He went into the store and claimed them. Before he realized that he was mistaken, some rather harsh words were exchanged and the police had been called into the case.

HUSBAND IS ONLY HOPE

Rosie Miller Will Be Deported Unless She Produces Spouse.

Inspector Leaves With Two Other "Undesirable Citizens."

At times Immigration Inspector Brown McDonald has many tales to tell from the records of his office of love unsought, love unsatisfied and love unrequited, but today he has some of several brands, chief among which is one of a love that is missing. This is the case of Miss Rosie Miller of 217 St. Croix avenue. She was thoughtless enough after coming to this country some thirteen years ago to neglect to become an American citizen. But, according to a certificate in her possession, about one year ago she gave her heart and hand in marriage to one Aaron Yerman, whom, she claims, is a traveling salesman for a fur house.

But where on earth is Aaron? That is the question that Rosie is trying to solve, for Inspector McDonald has her incarcerated awaiting a hearing as to whether or not she, as an immoral alien, can stay within the sacred confines of the United States. She tells the officers that for a year before they were married they "lived on the square like a true married pair." Shortly after their marriage Aaron "beat it." Rosie can show, however, $70 on deposit in the Northern National bank. Her hearing will be delayed until the inspector returns from New York, where he has to go tonight.

The reason Mr. McDonald will leave for Gotham this evening is to take back to that port two aliens for deportation. These are Mrs. Mary Barisock and Joseph Balf, both of Austria. The former came from Austria about thirteen years ago, where she became the mother of two children and deserted her husband, so it is claimed. Since coming to this part of the country she again became a mother. The child was born at the poor farm of this county. She refuses to have anything to do with this child and it is to be left as a county charge.

Joseph Balf, the other alien to be deported, came from Austria last October, and was taken to the county poor house, as it is believed that he is a prospective victim of tuberculosis. After staying there one night his esthetic taste was offended by his surroundings so he deserted the county home and has since tried the hospitality of the Bowery saloons. So he was gathered in and will be sent back to Austria and his wife and four children.

Dr. W. H. Konkler, who is a candidate for commissioner for the short term, is making an aggressive personal campaign and many friends are assisting him. Dr. Konkler has lived in Duluth twenty years and has a wide acquaintance throughout the city. He made a good run for alderman in the Fifth ward last year and has had other experience in municipal politics. He is hopeful of election and his friends say his hope is well founded.

MRS. W. J. COX IS SUMMONED

Was Daughter of Late E. L. Fisher, Former Postmaster.

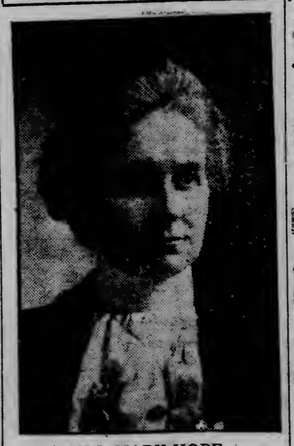
Mrs. Elizabeth I. Cox, the wife of W. J. Cox of 522 Fourth avenue east, died yesterday afternoon at St. Luke's hospital of blood poisoning.

Mrs. Cox was the daughter of the late E. L. Fisher, for many years postmaster of Duluth and one of the prominent residents of the city. She was born and raised in Duluth. She endeared herself by her kindness and consideration to a wide circle of friends and acquaintances, who will be grieved to learn of her untimely death. Mrs. Cox was 26 years of age.

Besides her husband she is survived by a small son, her mother, two sisters, Miss Nellie G. Fisher and Mrs. F. R. Catheral of this city, and two brothers, William S. of Duluth and Loring F. Fisher of Butte, Mont.

The funeral will take place tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock from the First Methodist Episcopal church, Third avenue west and Third street. Interment will be at Forest Hill cemetery.

FUNERAL OF MRS. HOPE TO BE HELD SATURDAY



MRS. MARY HOPE.

The funeral of Mrs. Mary Hope, wife of Fred Hope, who died Monday after a long illness, will take place Saturday morning at 10 o'clock from the cathedral, Second avenue west and Fourth street. The interment will be made at Forest Hill cemetery beside the body of a child who died some years ago.

Mrs. Hope was born at Eau Claire, Wis., and leaves a number of relatives there. She removed to Duluth from that city and made her home here for many years, residing at 11 Fourth avenue east. She was 47 years of age.

Besides her husband she is survived by two brothers, John Hawkins of Duluth and Edward Hawkins of Minneapolis, and four sisters, Mrs. Sarah Olson, Mrs. Frank Gullingsrud and Mrs. T. Haggerty of this city and Mrs. John Dryer of Minneapolis.

CLAIMS HE PAID ALL BUT $150

Charles Peterson Demands Satisfaction of Mortgage on His Home.

An action to compel the satisfaction of a mortgage held by Ada L. Cash against the home of Charles E. Peterson, 621 North Twenty-third avenue west, was started in district court this morning.

The mortgage was given on a $500 loan in 1907. The defendant to the action is an out-of-town resident who was represented at the time by the Hartman-O'Donnell agency.

Peterson claims that he paid the Hartman-O'Donnell agency as agents, $250 on April 13, 1910 and $100 on July 24, 1910, and that on Dec. 19, 1912, there remained due but $150, with a small amount of interest.

On Feb. 25 last, the defendant took her affairs out of the hands of the Hartman-O'Donnell company and made the N. J. Upham company her agents, says Peterson.

He claims that on Feb. 25, he made a legal tender of the $150 owing and $2.10 in interest due to her agents, the N. J. Upham company, and that it was refused. He declares that he was told that the only payment that would be acceptable was $500 with interest from June 19, 1912.

Peterson claims to have receipts for all money he claims to have paid to the Hartman-O'Donnell agency and says he is willing to place $153 in the hands of the court to pay off the mortgage.

He asks that the mortgage be declared by the court as satisfied and that he have a judgment against the defendant for $200 expenses incurred in bringing the lawsuit.

His attorneys are Haroldson and Colton.

A REASONABLE PLEA FOR THE STOMACH

If Your Stomach Is Lacking In Digestive Power, Why Not Help the Stomach Do Its Work?

Not with drugs, but with reinforcement of digestive agents, such as are naturally at work in the stomach. Scientific analysis shows that digestion requires pepsin, nitrogenous ferments, and the secretion of hydrochloric acid. When your food fails to digest, it is proof positive that some of these agents are lacking in your digestive apparatus.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets contain nothing but those natural elements necessary to digestion and when placed at work in the weak stomach and small intestines, supply what these organs need. They stimulate the gastric glands and gradually bring the digestive organs back to their normal condition.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets have been subjected to critical chemical tests at home and abroad and are found to contain nothing but natural digestives.

London, 9th Aug., 1905.

I have analyzed most carefully a box of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets (which I bought myself at a city chemist's shop for the purpose), manufactured by the F. A. Stuart Co., 86 Clerkenwell Road, London, E. C., and have to report that I cannot find any trace of vegetable or mineral poisons. Knowing the ingredients of the tablets, I am of opinion that they are admirably adaptable for the purpose for which they are intended. (Signed)

There is no secret in the preparation of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. Their composition is commonly known among physicians. They are the most popular of all remedies for indigestion, dyspepsia, water brash, insomnia, loss of appetite, melancholia, constipation, dysentery and kindred diseases originating from improper dissolution and assimilation of foods, because they are thoroughly reliable and harmless to man or child.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are at once a safe and powerful remedy. Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets will digest your food for you when your stomach can't.

MINISTER TELLS OF HIS WIFE'S DEATH

Topeka, Kan., March 19.—Rev. W. L. Beers, a well-known Methodist minister, whom the state charges with killing his wife by forcing her false teeth down her throat, gave his version of the quarrel which resulted in Mrs. Beers' death, on the witness stand. His wife was a Catholic and witnesses had testified they quarreled frequently as to the religious education of their three children.

The minister denied he and his wife had quarreled the night of Oct. 9 last, when she left her home in Wakarusa and took refuge with the Catholic sisters of St. Francis hospital, Topeka. Beers said he followed his wife in a few days and after meeting her, they went to a hotel. Here they disagreed as to whether the wife should have Alice, their daughter, to keep.

"I'll never consent to have Alice taken from our home," Beers said he told his wife.

"What did your wife do?" Beers was asked.

"She sprang on me, struck and scratched me. She was getting the best of me, and I used both my hands to push her off. I put one hand against her left shoulder and the other over her mouth to push her off. I think that the fingers of the hand over her mouth slipped into her mouth. I did not mean that they should."

Beers said he had urged his wife to return to him.

Skin Peeling Nature's Aid to New Complexion

(From Women's Tribune)

Mercolized wax is a natural beautifier. By flaking off the devitalized surface skin, it merely hastens Nature's work. The second skin layer, brought gradually to view, exhibits the healthy, youthful color produced by capillary circulation. This because the capillaries are thus brought nearer the surface; also because the new skin is unsoiled by dust and dirt. This wax, to be had at any drug store (an ounce will do) is put on nightly like cold cream, washed off mornings with warm water. Its work usually is completed in from seven to ten days, long enough not to show too marked results from day to day, or cause pain or detention indoors.

A face bath to remove wrinkles, made by dissolving an ounce of saxolite in a half pint witch hazel, is another natural beautifier, since its astringent and tonic effects smooth out the wrinkles in accordance with Nature's own process.

This is the present provision of the Constitution. The bill as it came out of the senate elections committee proposed that constitutional amendments might be adopted by 60 per cent of those voting on the propositions.

The fight in the senate was entirely on these and other proposed amendments, and in spite of very evident opposition to the principle of direct legislation, not a single vote was cast against the bill on final passage.

Unquestionably there will have to be a conference committee to reconcile the differences between the two houses. The house may consent to the Sullivan amendment relating to constitutional amendments, but it will hardly accede to the Rockne amendment requiring initiative and referendum petitions to have signers in twenty-nine counties.

Will Be Reconciled.

But both houses are on record for the initiative and referendum, and there is no question whatever that the differences between the two branches of the legislature will be reconciled in the end, and that the voters will have an opportunity, in November, 1914, to pass on the question whether or not they desire to have machinery by which they can check up the legislature, and if necessary take part in lawmaking themselves.

The first amendment offered, after Senator Ole O. Sageng of Dalton had offered several minor amendments, which were adopted, clearing up possible doubt about some of the provisions of the bill, was Senator George H. Sullivan's amendment providing that constitutional amendments proposed by the people must be ratified by a majority of those voting at the election, exactly as in the case of constitutional amendments proposed by the legislature. Senator Sullivan said that under any other method than that proposed by him the fundamental law of the state might be changed by a small plurality of the voters. He was supported by Senators Rockne, Schaller, Dunn and others, and opposed by Senators Sageng and Haycraft.

Senator Sullivan pointed out that while the requirement of 60 per cent of those voting on the proposition sounds large, if only half of those voting at an election should happen to vote on a given proposition, it would be possible for 30 per cent of those voting at that election to amend the Constitution.

Senator Dunn showed that when the Constitution of Minnesota provided that amendments might be adopted by a majority of those voting on the proposition, every amendment proposed was adopted, without much regard to its character, with the single exception of one which was exposed as a "woodchuck," and widely advertised as such. Many of these amendments were placed in the Constitution by a small minority of the citizens.

Senator Lende wanted to substitute for the Sullivan amendment one keeping in the bill the provision for 60 per cent of those voting on the proposition but making the additional requirement that 40 per cent of those voting at the election must vote in the affirmative. Under the rules no substitution could be made, however, so the Lende amendment was ruled out of order.

Sullivan Amendment Wins.

The Sullivan amendment was then adopted, 33 to 22, the vote being as follows:

Against—Bedford, Benson, Cashman, Clague, Cook, C. F., Dale, Duxbury, Froshaug, Gunderson, Hanson, Haycraft, Johnson, V. L., Lende, McGrath, Moonan, Odell, Peterson, Rustad, Sageng, Saugstad, Sundberg, Thoe—22.

Senator Sullivan then wanted to apply the same rule to statutes initiated by the people, but this amendment was rejected by the decisive vote of 43 to 8.

During the debate on this amendment Senator George P. Wilson of Minneapolis said that personally he was against the initiative and referendum.

"There is no need for these devices," he said, "for if the people really want any piece of legislation, they get it now; and if the demand is made emphatic legislators fall over themselves to provide it. Probably it is taking the unpopular side to say so, but I do not believe that the people at large are capable of legislating."

Senator Dale asked Senator Wilson why it was that the city members seemed to fear the initiative and referendum while the country members did not.

"Oh, you're afraid of the thing too," said Senator Wilson, "but you are more afraid of your constituents. If you voted your convictions you would oppose this bill too, but your faces are turned toward your constituencies, and you are wondering what they would say if you voted what you believe."

Senator Sullivan next proposed an amendment prohibiting the circulation of initiative and referendum petitions, and providing that they be placed where the voters could go and sign them if they were interested. This amendment was also defeated, 17 to 33.

Rockne's Amendment.

Senator Rockne then proposed an amendment requiring that petitions must be signed by people in two-thirds of the counties, which he later changed to one-third.

Senator Rockne said that if the bill was left without any distribution requirement, so that a petition could be signed in only one county, opponents of the initiative and referendum would go about the state pointing out that this gave the big cities too much power, and the amendment would be defeated. Senator John Moonan of Waseca thought Senator Rockne was right about this.

Senator Sageng, however, differed very radically with this view. He said that such a requirement as Senator Rockne proposed would discriminate against the workingmen in the cities, and it would be sure to beat the amendment.

Senator Boyle said that the proposition of Senator Rockne was a rich man's game, and that it would preclude the poor man, the laboring man, from invoking the initiative or the referendum.

"The laboring men are opposed to this provision," said Senator Boyle, "and they ought to be."

Senator H. W. Cheadle of Duluth also entered a vigorous protest against the Rockne amendment.

It was adopted, however, 35 to 19; and then the bill was passed with 54 votes for it and none against it.

Cashman Bill Passed.

While the senate was debating and passing the initiative and referendum bill, the house was debating and passing the Cashman distance tariff bill, which went through by a vote of 71 to 42 after a long debate and after all the amendments that were proposed had been beaten.

The ablest speech for the bill was made by Representative Ralph E. Crane of Grand Meadow, who was supported by Representative H. H. Dunn of Albert Lea. Mr. Dunn took occasion to rap the city newspapers and their representatives for their failure to accord him the dignities he believed himself to be entitled to, and in particular complained bitterly because The Herald had spoken lightly of him.

Representative Charles R. Orr made a logical and brilliant speech against the bill, saying that by its passage the state was simply buying six years of litigation. Speeches against the bill were made by Representatives John G. Lennon of Minneapolis and Henry Steen of Winona.

Representative T. T. Ofsthun of Glenwood offered an amendment giving the railroad and warehouse commission a chance to relieve the situation in which it is feared communities along the longer of two competing lines between common junction points would be placed. While the bill allows the longer line to meet the rates of the shorter line for through traffic, it is feared that the small towns along the longer route would be driven out of the field by the rate that would prevail from towns along the shorter line. Mr. Ofsthun proposed to give the commission power to meet this situation. His amendment was opposed by the authors of the bill, however, and it was defeated, 67 to 35.

Representative J. T. Elmer of St. Paul proposed an amendment postponing the time when the bill goes into effect from Jan. 1, 1914, to the same day in the year 2012; but this amendment was also defeated. So was an amendment offered by Representative Steen requiring the railroad and warehouse commission, in fixing rate schedules under the bill, to apply the Iowa rates, which are very much lower than the Minnesota rates.

The bill then came to its final passage, and now it is up to Governor Eberhart to decide.

Though his position is highly embarrassing, the general impression seems to be that he will sign it.

Even the friends of the bill expect that it will be litigated before it is permitted to go into effect.

The statement issued yesterday made no mention of the question of recognition, but now that the loan proposal has been determined, it generally is believed that a determination of this government's attitude toward the new republic will follow at an early date.

President Wilson's statement follows:

President's Statement.

"We are informed that at the request of the last administration a certain group of American bankers undertook to participate in the loan now desired by the government of China (approximately $125,000,000). Our government wished American bankers to participate along with the bankers of other nations, because it desired that the good will of the United States toward China should be exhibited in this practical way, that American capital should have access to that great country and that the United States should be in a position to share with the other powers any political responsibility that might be associated with the development of the foreign relations of China in connection with her industrial and commercial enterprises. The present administration has been asked by this group of bankers whether it would also request them to participate in the loan. The representative of the bankers, through whom the administration was approached, declared that they would continue to seek their share of the loan under the proposed agreements only if expressly requested to do so by the government. The administration has declined to make such request because it did not approve the conditions of the loan or the implications of responsibility on its own part which it was plainly told would be involved in the request.

Ought Not To Be Party.

"The conditions of the loan seem to us to touch very nearly the administrative independence of China itself; and this administration does not feel that it ought, even by implication, to be a party to those conditions. The responsibility on its part which would be implied in requesting the bankers to undertake the loan might conceivably go the length in some unhappy contingency of forcible interference in the financial, and even the political affairs of that great Oriental state, just now awakening to a consciousness of its power and of its obligations to its people. The conditions include not only the pledging of particular taxes, some of them antiquated and burdensome, to secure the loan, but also the administration of those taxes by foreign agents.

"The responsibility on the part of our government implied in the encouragement of a loan thus secured and administered is plain enough and is obnoxious to the principles upon which the government of our people rests.

Desires to Aid Chinese.

"The government of the United States is not only willing, but earnestly desirous of aiding the great Chinese people in every way that is consistent with their untrammeled development and its own immemorial principles. The awakening of the people of China to a consciousness of their possibilities under free government, is the most significant, if not the most momentous event of our generation. With this movement and aspiration, the American people are in profound sympathy. They certainly will participate and participate very generously in opening to the Chinese and to the use of the world, the almost untouched and perhaps unrivaled resources of China.

"The government of the United States is earnestly desirous of promoting the most extended and intimate trade relationships between this country and the Chinese republic. The present administration will urge and support the legislative measures necessary to give American merchants, manufacturers, contractors and engineers, the banking and other financial facilities which they now lack, and without which they are at a serious disadvantage as compared with their industrial and commercial rivals. This is its duty. This is the main material interest in its citizens in the development of China. Our interests are those of the open door—the door of friendship and mutual advantage. This is the only door we care to enter."

CONFERENCE OVER TARIFF

conference with Chairman Underwood and some of his colleagues of the ways and means committee, the senators going to the house side in accordance with the tradition incident to the revenue originating functions of the house.

House Democrats are confident they have framed a tariff measure that will be a faithful conformance to the party platform and satisfactory generally as a downward revision measure and that the revision in one general bill should be able to run the gauntlet of both houses without much difficulty.

Tells President.

Senator Simmons outlined to the president today his plans for handling the tariff bill in the senate.

The president will be in frequent conference with Representative Underwood, Democratic majority leader of the house, and Senator Simmons, upon whom will fall the chief work of drafting the bill. It is believed that the president will meet in conference in the near future the Democratic members of these two congressional committees.

The entire program will be one of close communication and simultaneous study on the part of the committees and the president before the extra session begins so that the tariff may be disposed of in as brief a period as possible, thus giving time for other legislation.

Amusement Notes.

Without the aid of lilting tunes or ragtime rhythms about the American flag or any other favorite topic, George M. Cohan's newest play "Broadway Jones" has succeeded in scoring one of the big hits of the theatrical year. In the play "Broadway" Jones has squandered a fortune in an endeavor to "burn up Broadway." Just as he thinks he has it properly incinerated, there comes the inevitable smash, and his money is all gone. Not only this, but he is heavily in debt. In despair he consents to marry an heiress old enough to be his mother, but before that event can take place, an obliging uncle dies and leaves him a chewing gum factory in Jonesville, Conn. To further increase his good fortune the chewing gum trust offers to buy out his chewing gum factory for a fabulous sum. The girl in the play dawns on the scene at this time, and through her influence, he is induced to change his mind, and, instead of selling out, goes to Jonesville, his native city, and becomes the active head of his new possession. This, in a nutshell, is the story around which Mr. Cohan has written one of the most entertaining plays of the year. It will be seen in Duluth Friday and Saturday.

Those who have gone to the Orpheum this week expecting Don "The Talking Dog" to carry on a long conversation, have been disappointed. Don does not talk fluently, by any means, but he can bark seven or eight words so that they can be understood. The word that he says most clearly is "Kuchen," the German word for cake. Some times he "speaks" much more plainly than at other times. "When he is working well, he says these eight words so that you cannot misunderstand them," says Loney Haskell, who is presenting Don to the Orpheum audiences. "When Don first landed in New York he was something of a disappointment. He was brought over to appear at Hammerstein's. I guess we expected too much, and when we heard him 'rehearse' we feared he was going to be a 'flivver.' I was working at Hammerstein's then, and I consented to go on with Don and introduce him to the audience. We fixed up a talk explaining that Don could not carry on a conversation and the audience was 'bully.' Don made a big hit there, and he stayed in New York for twelve weeks. Before he left New York his 'kuchen' got to be a byword in the restaurants and buffets. If a man went into a buffet and ordered a buffet lunch, he would throw back his head and say 'kuchen.' Don was the most popular and talked about dog in New York. The act has been popular on the road, too, and once people realize that he simply says a few words, and does not converse, they like the act immensely, and they take up this 'kuchen' byword, until it has become a kind of catch phrase all over the country."

Today's performance will close the splendid bill of vaudeville which has been showing at the Empress theater.

Nederveld's trained animals are getting the big hand. The troupe consists of two monks and a pony and their antics are great. The monkeys ride bicycles and the pony and are great laugh-getters. They are well trained and seem almost to possess "talent."

Mr. and Mrs. Denver present a comedy sketch that is very funny. Mrs. Denver's work is especially clever and she had the crowd laughing at her stuff throughout the performance.

Fred Harris does some nifty dancing in a singing and dancing act and the Twin City trio of singers contribute some popular vocal numbers. Motion pictures complete the bill.

Arrangements have just been completed whereby the management of the Empress will offer its patrons two of the largest and best tabloid musical comedies on tour. "The Winning Widow," with such artists as Lovey Marie Green, Mul Clark and Ben Turbett, carries thirty people and complete scenic production. The company and scenery are direct from a successful tour of the East. The other attraction is "The Love Pirates." This company has never before played this section of the country and it is through the large sureties offered by Manager Abrahamson of the Empress theater and Mr. Long, manager of the Broadway, Superior, Wis., that the company was obtained at all.

legislative body, and was defeated. It is easy to see why he nursed a grudge against the king."

Mr. Botassi said that the Greeks of this city would hold funeral services in honor of the dead monarch at the Greek Orthodox Church of the Holy Trinity at a date to be determined later. Similar services will be held in Greek churches throughout the country.

Queen Leaves for Saloniki.

Athens, March 19.—Queen Olga of Greece was too prostrated by the news of the fate of her husband to sail for Saloniki last night but she left today.

When her sons, Prince George and Prince Andre communicated the news of the tragedy to her, she fell fainting in their arms and only recovered to swoon again. This happened several times and physicians were called in to quiet her.

All the princes and princesses of the royal family accompany their mother to Saloniki. State mourning has been ordered for a period of six months and court mourning for a year.

On public and other buildings the national flag flies at half mast and is draped with crape. The bells of all the churches of the city were tolled all day and minute guns were fired from the forts. The population is overwhelmed. All the newspapers are printed with black borders and contain long eulogies of the dead monarch.

The chamber of deputies met this morning and Premier Venizelos formally announced the death of King George and the succession of King Constantine.

London Mourns.

London, March 19.—Queen Mother Alexandra, sister of the murdered king of Greece, has recovered from the first shock of her brother's tragic death and is giving personal attention to the flood of sympathetic messages received from all parts of the world. King George of England joined her early today and remained with her until after noon.

The flags on all public buildings in London were at half mast today. During the change of guard at St. James' palace, opposite Marlborough house, the regimental band played the "Dead March" from "Saul."

The British court will go into full mourning for three weeks and into half mourning for another week.

The Greek minister, on leaving Marlborough house today, said that his advices assured him not only that the king's assassin was of unsound mind, but also that the man was intoxicated at the time of the outrage. It was clear, he declared, that no political significance could be attached to the crime.

Attack Premeditated.

Saloniki, March 19.—Aleko Schinas, murderer of King George I, of Greece, appears to have lived much abroad. He returned to this city only when it was occupied by the Greek army after the surrender of the Turkish garrison.

The premeditation of the regicide appears to be established by the fact that Schinas lurked in hiding. He rushed out when his royal victim was only six feet from his hiding place and fired point blank into the back of the king. The shooting occurred only a few yards from police headquarters.

Lieut. Col. Francoudis, the king's aide de camp, who was walking beside his royal master, immediately drew his revolver. Schinas, turned and fired at the side but the shot went wild.

Two Cretan military policemen who were acting as an escort to the king, dashed at Schinas and pinioned his arms before he could fire again.

Majesty Stretched on Walk.

When Francoudis saw that the assassin had been arrested, he turned to King George who he supposed had escaped unscathed and was horrified to find his majesty stretched on the roadway.

Francoudis raised the stricken monarch's head from the pavement, but the king was already unconscious and he never spoke again.

Soldiers who had been summoned by the shots lifted the king from the ground and carried him to a hospital. He expired on the way without recovering consciousness.

When questioned by the police, Schinas truculently replied:

"You have courts. I will speak there."

Pressed to say who he was and what was the motive of his crime, he replied: "Take me to the police station so that the crowd shall not maltreat me. I will speak there."

On reaching the police station he gave his name and a few particulars about himself.

Shot Through Heart.

The assassination of King George occurred while he was walking on the streets of Saloniki. The king was shot through the heart.

The king was accompanied only by an aide de camp, Lieut. Col. Francoudis. The assassin came suddenly at the king and fired one shot from a seven-chamber revolver. Schinas was seized immediately and overpowered.

Prince Nicholas, the king's third son, and other officers hurried to the hospital. Arriving first, Prince Nicholas summoned the officers and speaking in a voice choked with sobs, said:

"It is my deep grief to have to announce to you the death of our beloved king, and invite you to swear fidelity to your new sovereign, King Constantine."

Succeeded by Constantine.

Crown Prince Constantine, who succeeds King George, is at present at Janina. He is expected to come here with all possible speed.

When shot, the king fell into the arms of his aide. Two soldiers ran up on hearing the firing, and helped to support him. He was placed in a carriage and efforts were made to stop the bleeding, but he breathed his last on the way to the hospital nearby.

Confidence Great.

Since his triumphal entry into Saloniki, the king had taken an afternoon walk to the famous White tower or to the cavalry barracks in Lesser Karaburum. The king's confidence in the people was so great that he went about freely, accompanied only by a single equerry.

The danger of this custom was apparent to members of his entourage who repeatedly, but without avail, requested his majesty to permit the presence of civil guards.

A few days ago four gendarmes were ordered to follow the king, but their presence was considered so objectionable by his majesty that the number was reduced to two.

The effect of the assassination in Saloniki was most impressive. Groups of grief-stricken people gathered in the streets and conversed in muffled tones. The troops were recalled to barracks, shops and cafes were closed, the street cars suspended service, lights were extinguished and Saloniki tonight had a dead and deserted appearance. The church bells tolling the last call echoed along deserted streets.

Story of Assassination.

London, March 19.—A Saloniki dispatch to the Times graphically describes the assassination. It says:

"The king was shot while returning with his equerry from a walk to the White tower. He was in a happy and contented mood and as he strolled he talked of the war, of the state of the Greek arms, of the capture of Janina and Saloniki and of the fitting climax to his fifty years' reign.

"'Tomorrow,' said the king, 'when I pay my formal visit to the dreadnaught Goeben, the German battleship which is to honor the Greek king here in Saloniki—that fills me with happiness and contentment.'

Monarch's Last Words.

"These proved to be the monarch's last words, for at that moment a shot rang out from behind Col. Francouds. The king's aide seized the hand of the assassin, which was already poised for a second shot. Covering his royal master with his body he seized the assassin by the throat and held him fast until soldiers ran to his assistance.

"But the first shot had found its lodgment. King George had already sunk to the earth. He was lifted into a carriage and, with his head resting on his arm, continued to breathe for a short time. But before the hospital was reached life was extinct.

"The bullet, which was fired at a distance of two paces, entered the back below the shoulder blade. Its point of exit was below the stomach. There was a severe hemorrhage. The jeweled cross which the king always wore was covered with blood."

Northern Beltrami Country Being Won From Frontier Stage.

Bemidji, Minn., March 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—Supt. W. B. Stewart, just back from a trip through Northern Beltrami county, says that section is being rapidly settled.

Running east of Malcolm, almost due north to Baudette and Spooner, a line of settlements is being made. A new telephone line is being installed there, good roads are being built, new schools are being erected, and signs of progress greet the traveler on every hand. An effort is now being made to establish a creamery near Carp.

Bemidji Alderman Suggests Banks Should Pay City 4 Per Cent.

Bemidji, Minn., March 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—Alderman-at Large R. F. Murphy, in the council meeting Monday evening, suggested that Bemidji banks be made to pay 4 per cent on the city funds instead of 2½ per cent, as they have been paying. "When they advertised that they would give 4 per cent to depositors, and when they give that rate to private concerns, I don't see why they shouldn't give it to the city," Mr. Murphy said. "If they won't, I'm in favor of sending it to some outside banks who will."

Hettinger Flour First.

Hettinger, N. D., March 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—First in volume for baking purposes, was the record made by Hettinger flour in competition with flour from forty other mills in a contest conducted in the Twin Cities. The flour also stood high for color and other qualities. The citizens are greatly elated and construe the results to mean, not only that the flour and the miller are all right, but the quality of the wheat is also demonstrated by the tests.

ROUMANIA'S QUEEN IS SUBJECT OF BOOK

QUEEN OF ROUMANIA

Carmen Sylva is the nom de plume of the queen of Roumania. Pierre Loti has just written a book about her. The queen was Princess Elizabeth of Wied when she married the son of the late Prince Karl of Hohenzollern Sigmaringen in 1843. He was elected lord of Roumania in 1866. Roumania was then subject to Turkish dominion. But the country was declared an independent monarchy in 1877. Carmen Sylva is well known for her writings and for her works of charity and kindness among her people.

DULUTH'S STYLE SHOW CONTINUES

Duluth Women Interested in Easter Finery as Shown By Local Merchants---What Shoppers Are Offered at Silberstein & Bondy's, Leiser's, The Miller-Albenberg Company and The Royal.

The style show continues and brilliant and more varied than ever will be the Easter parade next Sunday if the weather man doesn't come to the front with another snow storm, for every woman and girl in Duluth who possibly can is spending hours in the shops this week getting a good idea of what the correct thing in dress for this season is and just what she wants herself.

Never has there been a greater variety of styles all of which are good, but in most everything evidence of the Balkan war is seen for the costumes of Greece, Turkey, the little Balkan countries and big Russia have been drawn upon for style effects which have been ingeniously worked in.

There is the Russian blouse effect with its high belt and there is the Bulgarian blouse with its wide belt low about the hips, there is the rich Bulgarian coloring in trimming and linings and something in the cut, make, trim or coloring of almost every garment is traceable to southeastern Europe or the Orient.

At Silberstein & Bondy's.

Shoppers yesterday were struck with the beauty of the displays in the windows of the Silberstein & Bondy company store on Superior street, most effectively arranged windows calling first attention to what the shop had to offer for the season. Delicate lattice work with an open gateway for the entrance of the spring styles was attractive and much admired. Hats, suits, coats and gowns all representative of the lines the store carries were displayed on models or racks.

One costume which particularly attracted attention was of a white silk with a little jacket of flowered challis which was rather smart.

The millinery department, like a wonderful summer garden is full of dainty and charming creations some of one of which will surely just suit anyone who tries them on. In the little French room a hat of the soft hemp of a vivid green with full fluffy plumes building up several inches of the height was seen and another hat of salmon pink trimmed with self colored plumes attracted the shopper and one of a pretty soft blue with wings the same shade was shown there. Another pretty hat was of a silky ratine in white made in a helmet shape which would afford a good sun shade for the eyes and a sun shade of cream silk edged with Bulgarian insertion goes prettily with this hat. Flowers seem to be particularly popular this season and long bearded wheat is also used.

Suits and coats showing the latest fashion dictations are displayed on the second floor of this store.

At the Leiser Store.

Several costumes of special note attracted the shopper to the windows of the Leiser company store, and potted spring plants and cut flowers in the window and in the shop gave a spring-like air to the store. One gown of white brocaded silk was stunning on a model in the window. A handsome evening coat of blue matalasse was much admired. A dainty little blouse of brown accordion pleated chiffon with cream lace collar and puffs was an example of the handsome blouses carried in this shop and several of white crepe-de-chine in tailored and fancy lines are displayed. One on a pale pink crepe was a favorite with the shoppers.

In the shop two stunning gowns were shown on models, one of a paprika shade, a rich warm brown with touches of black and one a draped model of olive crepe and chiffon with touches of the Nell pink. Another coral chiffon with long train was given a smart appearance with a narrow girdle of black velvet and streamers on the side front and ornaments of jet.

A gown of Nell rose chiffon and crepe-de-chine was ornamented with crystal trimmings and a panel train was weighted with a silver and pink rose.

A dainty little theater wrap shown was of flowered silk poplin with a lining of gold embossed chiffon with an edging of white ostrich feathers, and then there were the fancy and tailored suits and coats.

At the Royal.

The Royal Cloak company at 7 West Superior street is also offering an especially fine line of suits, coats and dresses this week which are furnishing many a wardrobe for Easter with the fresh new things which always delight. They are displayed to advantage with their smart trimming touches of Bulgarian silks and embroideries, and distinctive lines, decidedly noticeable for their utter disregard of previous styles. The coats in the new three-quarter and seven-eighth lengths are useful and decorative and in the suits the styles are so diversified in weaves, colors and trimming that description is impossible.

Hundreds of visitors at this shop this week have been interested in the wearing apparel shown and the free alteration at this shop is an added attraction to shop there.

At Miller-Albenberg's.

Of unusual attractiveness were the costumes displayed by the Miller-Albenberg company in the windows of their shop on Superior street for their opening, which commenced yesterday.

There was an evening gown of pale blue crepe-de-chine with cream lace bodice which was much noticed, and an evening coat shown in the same window was of rose colored metelasse with a hooded cape finished with a deep silk tassel. Another evening wrap of white silk and lace was lined with a delicately flowered chiffon, and still another coat shown was of black silk poplin with lace and satin trimmings.

Very few strictly tailored suits are shown this season, but individuality and style in the novelty suits are more popular this season, and there seems to be no end to the originality displayed in the making of the suits.

One little costume shown was of white crepe with a little cutaway jacket of embossed ratine in a Nell pink which was really a part of the gown, which gave the effect of a dress and small coat. A belt of black gave a smart touch to the costume.

In one of the display cases a model wearing a Bulgarian blouse costume was a popular fancy. A wide soft belt of black satin put on low on the straight loose-fitting blouse was effective and girlish, and the skirt of the costume was made plain and straight.

Hats of style and distinction were also shown in the millincry department of this shop.

OBSERVATIONS

By PEGGY PEABODY

Grandparents Often Too Indulgent for Grandchildren's Good.

It is proverbial that grandparents are more indulgent with their grandchildren than they ever were with their own children. One may be inclined to wonder why, and yet if one will but stop to think, the reason is not far to seek.

Sensible parents, after the first folly of early parenthood, when perhaps they indulge their children too fondly, come to realize that they have made a mistake, and see the stern necessity of being firm in their discipline of their offspring if they would not have them shame them with their spoiled manners. But as they grow older, and become grandparents, they become mellow with age, and their hearts are tender toward the little ones that come into their children's homes. They live over their own parenthood again with the grandchildren, but often do so without the restraining vision that was theirs in their younger days.

For this reason, the young parents who have to rear their children near the grandparents' home often have a tying time of it. The grandparents, indulging only their fond desire to cherish the grandchildren, humor them to the point of spoiling them, and drive the parents well-nigh distracted. Often they carry it so far as to interfere with the discipline which the parents try to impose. If they do not do that, they at least disregard or ignore that discipline whenever they are with the children, with the result that havoc is wrought to the child's behavior.

The parents, of course, are between two fires. On the one hand, they see the discipline, to which they perhaps have given conscientious thought and co-operation, upset by the grandparents; and on the other, if they resent it, they run the risk of hurting those who have brought them into the world and reared them to manhood and womanhood. And yet their duty is plain. The children are theirs, and they will be held responsible for their conduct. If they can make the older people understand, kindly but firmly, that they must respect their discipline, all should be well.

The grandparents are always well-intentioned, but often misguided. They fancy they are doing as they did with their own, but in nine cases out of ten they are not. If they could only be brought to see the necessity of restraint, they would make it easier for the parents. Real love for a child is not shown by following the line of least resistance, and in refusing to deny it things because it hurts one to do so. It is rather shown in making the sacrifice of denial, for the child's good, when it does hurt to do so.

CANNERY IS SURE THING

Farmers Enthusiastic at Akeley and Enterprise Is Being Advanced.

Development Official of Great Northern Delivers an Address.

Akeley, Minn., March 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—Under the auspices of the Akeley Commercial club, which is promoting the establishment here of a canning factory, A. E. Chamberlain, development commissioner of the Great Northern railroad, addressed an enthusiastic audience of over 500 farmers and business men of Hubbard and adjoining counties last night. Other speakers were D. M. Neill of Red Wing, president of the Federation of Commercial Clubs; A. A. Upsahl of Bemidji and Charles E. Glass, colonization agent of Le Sueur. Through the efforts of the Commercial club the owners of lands tributary to Akeley have placed all lands in the market in small tracts of five and ten acres each.

The first gardeners to arrive will be eighty Polish Catholic families.

In the town election Tuesday the sum of $5,000 was appropriated for good roads of Akeley township, to be expended in 1913.

The town of 2,700 people is out of debt and does business on a cash basis. The plans include cleaning and repairing nearly 3,000 acres of land for peas and corn for the season of 1915.

Farmers and business men are liberally subscribing for the stock in the new factory, the largest individual subscription being $2,000, and the new factory is assured.

J. M. Gruber, vice president; G. H. Emerson, general manager; J. H. Taylor, general superintendent, and M. Nicholson, division superintendent, of the Great Northern railway, were in Akeley today.

Some Chamberlain Ideas.

Some of Mr. Chamberlain's most striking utterances in his speech were:

Don't let the doors of any industry you already have swing shut of their own weight, while you are devoting all your energies trying to pry open the doors of a new industry.

The faithful cow, tied behind the covered wagon accompanied the immigrant family across the Alleghany mountains, to the plains of Ohio and Illinois, furnishing them sustenance night and morning during the trip. Arrived at the new homestead, she kept the wolf from the door until the sod had been broken, the seed planted, and the first crop harvested.

Real development means real work. I might talk to you until morning, if you would stay, but that would not develop anything, but if some man, or woman, or boy, or girl goes out here this spring, and digs up the ground and plants and raises a bed of good onions, he or she will have done some real development work. If some of you business men talk your wife into growing the onions, of course you will claim at least part of the credit.

Next to a successful creamery, a successful cannery is the greatest aid to a community in the building up of the country.

If you will persist in shipping in eggs and butter for your own use, be sure to ship them over the Great Northern railway. But it would much rather be hauling them out of here than in. If you were selling them, instead of buying, you would be shipping in more easy chairs, and rigs, and bath tubs, and toilet room outfits for your homes. You would travel more. You would have more books and magazines. You would be a more contented, happy people, and these things mean better conditions, and more business for all concerned.

FORMER MAYOR OF LA CROSSE NOMINATED.

La Crosse, Wis., March 19.—Returns from the primary election of yesterday here are construed as favoring a more liberal policy in regard to an open town. Ori J. Sorensen, former mayor, is nominated for that position by a plurality of 854 over Mayor John Deng-ler. Under the law two candidates are nominated and both run as non-partisans, and Dengler thus becomes the second candidate, the names of the two being submitted to the people at the election on April 1. Total vote shows: Sorensen, 1,807; Dengler, 953; MacMillan, 788; Adams, 340; McCaleb, 38.

Electric Lights for Anamoose.

Anamoose, N. D., March 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—Electric lights are a possibility for Anamoose as a result of the activity of a number of business men. Representatives in other towns of this size are being interviewed as to the cost of the plants and other matters. Two outside investors are reported willing to establish a plant here if the village trustees will grant a satisfactory franchise.

Charged With Blackmail.

Scranton, N. D., March 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—The first charge of blackmail ever preferred in this county was made by Andrew Byers against H. A. Gilbert. Byers lives near Haley and insists the blackmail game was attempted. Gilbert was captured at New England in Hettinger county and brought to Bowman.

Sues Wife's Parents.

Minot, N. D., March 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—A $25,000 suit against the parents of his wife for the alienation of her affections is one of the features of the separation of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Safford. Safford has just returned from the state children's home in Fargo, where, under an order of Judge Fisk, he obtained possession of his child, placed there by Mrs. Safford last summer when they were separated.

The case of E. A. Fahler, who seeks $10,000 damages from W. H. Reighart for injuries received when a horse, driven by him, shied at an automobile driven by Reighart's son, probably will go to the jury today. It has been in progress in the district court since Monday afternoon.

FAY MAKES BITTER ATTACK ON BACKERS OF W. I. PRINCE

"Took Man From Church to Drag His Coattails in Mire."

Twenty Candidates Speak at Public Ownership League Meeting.

A campaign that has heretofore been free from personalities was given that political adjunct last evening at the meeting of the Municipal Ownership league, when Marcus L. Fay, candidate for mayor, made serious charges affecting the candidacy of W. I. Prince.

"There is a combination or arrangement existing by which the Duluth Edison Electric company expects to capture the whole commission," Mr. Fay declared. "This combination exists between the Duluth Edison Electric company, the breweries, the saloons they control, the pickpockets and thugs wherever you find them in the city. That is why we have so many candidates in the field. The agents of the combination have been out patting candidates on the back and getting them in.

"The breweries, the Edison Electric company, the tinhorns and the men who live by woman's shame have drawn a man from the church to drag his coat-tails in the mire of their dirty politics. They are asking the citizens to vote for a man who stands high in society and high in the church after they succeed in bringing him out.

"This 'Prince' among men will not give his whole time to the city if he is elected. He is president of the First National Bank of Bessemer, Mich., and before the campaign he had moved his family, bag and baggage, to Michigan. He was induced to stay and make a campaign for mayor, and his family was brought back again."

Henry E. Voight, manager of Mr. Prince's headquarters was present and heard the attack.

Mr. Fay preceded his attack on Mr. Prince by a statement that if he is elected mayor he will issue the $700,000 bonds and proceed to the building of an independent municipal plant unless the Duluth Edison Electric company comes to the city with a proposal to sell the plant at the cost of installing it, less a fair percentage for wear and tear.

Twenty-four of the fifty-seven candidates for commissioner attended the meeting last night and twenty of them addressed the meeting, declaring for the immediate acquisition of the plant of the Duluth Edison Electric company or the issuing of bonds and the building of an independent plant by the city.

Frank Crassweller, president of the league, opened the meeting with an address in which he urged the members to scrutinize closely the record of the candidates as well as their present stand on the municipal electric lighting question. Mr. Crassweller reviewed the fight for municipal ownership, and declared that men willing to continue the fight in official position must be chosen.

"What do you want in the commission?" he asked. "Men who don't stand for anything? You can't elect men and get servants who will do your will by any such method. Do you expect that the Duluth Edison Electric company, the Loyal Liberty Protective league are going to adopt such methods? They will know how every candidate stands toward them.

"We want men who are right today and who were right yesterday and ten years ago. Deathbed repentances are not altogether to be relied upon. Some of our candidates were saying a week ago that it was all right to make a contract with the Duluth Edison people and now they are in favor of building a plant. Are you going to take their view today without considering what they said two weeks ago?"

Mr. Crassweller said that no wobblers are desired, but that every man must stand squarely on the issue.

Kaplan Speaks.

Morris Kaplan, the Socialist candidate for mayor, was the first speaker. He declared that the Socialist position on municipal ownership is almost too well known to need repeating, but that the five candidates are pledged to immediate municipal ownership of the electric lighting plant, either by purchase or the building of an independent plant.

Dr. D. H. Day, candidate for mayor, read a letter from Henry Truelsen, in which the former mayor of Duluth urged municipal ownership men to stand firm for their principal.

M. B. Cullum, candidate for mayor, emphasized the need of efficiency under the new government.

"In emphasizing efficiency, I must include everything that affects the public's interest," he said. "As in municipal ownership, my record shows that by every appointment, word and act, I have been loyal to the municipal ownership idea, and I shall continue to be so. It necessarily includes matters of taxation, law enforcement, economy, industrial conditions, business and social problems, and every other problem that the public official has to solve."

W. E. McEwen said that he cast his first vote in 1896 for Henry Truelsen for mayor of Duluth. He said when the franchise was granted to the Great Northern Power company, he, as a member of the council, endeavored to have an amendment adopted providing that the company should give the city power at 15 per cent less than any other consumer, and he said if that amendment had been adopted, it would have saved the city much in the operation of its own electric lighting system.

"If you elect me mayor of Duluth, I promise to have an electric lighting plant for the city, either that now existing or an independent plant," said Mr. McEwen.

Mr. McEwen called attention to the water and light department report, showing that millions have been saved the city in light and water rates, but that in addition the city has an asset of $4,000,000. He said the plant stands as an offset against the entire bonded indebtedness of the city. He charged that the Duluth Edison system is capitalized for three times its bonded indebtedness, and that if the city adopted a similar system its water and light plant could be capitalized for $12,000,000.

Getchell Favors It.

W. B. Getchell, candidate for mayor, made a short talk in which he said his attitude on municipal ownership is well known, and he repeated that he stands for the immediate acquisition of the electric lighting system.

P. E. Dowling declared that municipal ownership is a toy to him, and that law enforcement and other similar questions are also toys. He said the big thing is the influence of corporations on Duluth, and he said that the Duluth Edison Electric company is one of the smaller fry of corporations. Mr. Dowling says the mandate of the people has been given in the case of the electric lighting plant, and the mandate must be carried out by any man who is elected.

W. A. Hicken, B. N. Wheeler, John T. Armstead, W. L. Bernard, F. J. Voss, Leonidas Merritt, Nell B. Morrison, C. F. Graff, John Hogan, C. E. French, H. J. Mullin, John Cashin and Olof G. Olson also made short talks.

FOR MUNICIPAL OWNERSHIP

Silberstein Favors Erection or Purchase of Electric Light Plant.

Bernard Silberstein, in a letter to the Municipal Ownership league, comes out strongly in favor of the municipal ownership of an electric light plant, either by purchase or erection of such a plant by the city. The letter was addressed to Frank H. Crassweller, president of the Municipal Ownership league, and reads as follows:

"Dear Sir: As I will be unable to be present at the mass meeting proposed by the Municipal Ownership league, I take this opportunity to putting myself on record as to my position with reference to the ownership of a municipal electric lighting plant for the city of Duluth.

"I do not even concede this to be an issue. The people having spoken so recently through the ballot in favor of the purchase or erection of a municipal electric lighting plant, I can see but one course to pursue and I hereby give you my assurance that, if elected, I shall use my best endeavor to carry out the expressed wish of the people in a businesslike manner at the earliest possible moment.

"In meeting this and all other issues, I have not been guided by, or concerned in a political policy for success at the polls, so much as a desire to express frankly and openly my convictions on this subject. Respectfully,

"B. SILBERSTEIN."

In speaking of his attitude on this question, Mr. Silberstein had this to say today:

"I have always believed in the municipal ownership of public utilities, when such ownership will result in a saving or advantage to taxpayers. I was among the first to advocate the purchase of the Duluth Water & Light company's plant, but not at the high price that company first asked for it, $3,000,000. Henry Truelson also insisted upon the purchase of the plant on a reasonable basis, as did a great number of the business men of this city. The result of the negotiations for that plant justified our fight for the lower price.

"My attitude toward the Duluth-Edison electric plant has been consistent with my course throughout the fight for municipal ownership. As a business man I was interested in securing the best results for the city and if it could not be done by contract with or concessions from the Edison company, I stood for the municipal ownership of that plant or building a duplicate of it in the earliest possible time. In fact, I expressed myself in words to that effect at a council meeting some months ago when a number of business men were asked to be present and present their views on that subject.

"I repeat that my attitude has always been one of loyalty to the interests of the city and that I have always been an ardent and firm believer in the principle of municipal ownership and in considering this question have applied the same business test and scrutiny that I would in a matter affecting my own business."

SOCIALIST MEETINGS.

Kaplan Says Cost of Living Is a Campaign Issue.

Tuesday night the Socialist candidates held the biggest meeting of their campaign at Sloan's hall.

Morris Kaplan, Socialist candidate for mayor stated that the issue is not municipal ownership of the electric light plant as all candidates are in favor of this. One of the chief issues is the lowering of the cost of living by municipal enterprises such as coal, ice, and food sales departments, he said. He claimed that coal could be sold $1.50 a ton cheaper than the same quality is sold at present. The average workingman's family would be enabled to save from 15 per cent to 25 per cent on groceries if the city would make an earnest effort to reduce the price of groceries by buying from the grower and canner and by eliminating the jobber and retailer, he claimed.

The police, said Mr. Kaplan, would not be used to club strikers into submission. The Socialist candidates would, if elected, emulate the actions of Mayor Seidel. He claimed that protection or prosecution had a great deal to do with the outcome of a strike.

Two years ago when the garment workers of Chicago went on strike the police clubbed women and children and the workers went back beaten and starved, he asserted. The same workers at the same time were only out four days in Milwaukee and won the strike owing to the fact that the police were used to protect the strikers and not to abuse them.

Wednesday E. N. Edes, Edward Blackwood and Kaplan will speak at the Park Point Mission. Thursday a meeting will be held at Victor hall, West Duluth, 5528 Grand avenue. Friday at Lakeside town hall, and Sunday afternoon at New Duluth.

EXPLAINS BALLOT AT EACH MEETING.

David H. Day, candidate for mayor, has had a large sample ballot made for use in speaking from the platform, and at all his public meetings he will devote a portion of the time to a description of the preferential system of voting which will be used at the coming election.

Although there were many meetings held in different parts of the city by the charter commission the attendance of voters was not large, and there are thousands of voters who do not yet understand how to use the new system of voting in order to insure the election of the best men. Dr. Day therefore will devote a good portion of his time to the education of the voters along that line.

BIG AUDIENCES AT REVIVAL SERVICES

The Passion week audiences at the revival in the First Christian church are on the increase, and by the end of the week the "S. R. O." sign will have to be put up. Evangelist Whiston last night spoke on "The Sheepfold." Mrs. Compton's solos are also giving much pleasure. Mrs. Whiston presides at the organ and Miss Violet Flaaten at the piano.

The evangelist said in part: "A study of the New Testament will reveal that God has provided for every nature of man. Do we need water? Jesus said, 'I am the water of life.' Do we need food? Jesus said, 'I am the bread of life that cometh from heaven.' Do we need shelter? 'He that dwelleth in the secret place of the Most High shall abide under the shadow of the Almighty.' The great sheltering rock for the Christian is that of prayer. Prayer is walking with God. If there is the art of asking from God, there is the art of receiving from God. Prayer is becoming a lost art in the church, not in that we don't know how to ask, but we don't know how to receive. The keyword of the New Testament is not pray, but receive, take, appropriate. It is hypocritical to pray for what we are not willing to work for. We need more kneeology and less theology. Prayer is power with God. When we learn how to pray we will know how to preach, to live and to save the world."

The sermon was based upon John x. 9, and involved the simplicity of the gospel, the inclusiveness, the exclusiveness, the certainty, the liberty and the provisions of the gospel.

Tonight he will speak on "The Tragedy of Life and Destiny." On Friday night the evangelist will give his lecture-sermon on "Heroes," in which he will describe the greatest game of baseball ever played.

The Return of Blood Eruptions

No Reason Why Anyone Should Suffer With Such a Disheartening Experience.

No case of contagious blood poison is ever cured until the last particle of the virus has been removed from the circulation. The least taint left in the blood will, sooner or later, cause a fresh outbreak of the trouble, with all its hideous and destructive symptoms of ulcerated mouth and throat, copper colored splotches, falling hair, sores and ulcers, etc. No other medicine so surely cures contagious blood poison as S. S. S. It goes down into the blood and steadily and surely drives out every particle of the infection. It absolutely and perfectly purifies the blood, and leaves this vital fluid as fresh, rich and healthy as it was before the destructive virus of contagious blood poison entered the circulation. S. S. S. quickly takes effect on the blood, and gradually the symptoms disappear, the health is improved, the skin cleared of all spots, sores and other blemishes, the hair stops coming out, the mouth and throat heal and when S. S. S. has cleansed the system of the poison no trace of the disease is left. S. S. S. cures contagious blood poison because it is the greatest of all blood purifiers, tested and proven in hundreds and hundreds of cases all over the country.

You will find S. S. S. for sale in all drug stores at $1.00 per bottle. Write to The Swift Specific Co., 127 Swift Bldg., Atlanta, Ga., for private medical advice and a very instructive book on all blood diseases, sent free, sealed in plain wrapper.

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

TO SHAKE UP STATE CLUBS

Reorganization of North Dakota Commercial Clubs Is Proposed.

President of State Federation to Favor Plan at State Meeting.

Grand Forks, N. D., March 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—Plans for the reorganization of the North Dakota Federation of Commercial clubs will be submitted by President E. J. Lander in his annual address at the organization's meeting here tomorrow. The first session of the federation will be held tonight and delegates have already arrived.

President Lander will contend that the federation should be placed on a better business basis; that its by-laws should be so amended as to give its officials greater powers, and also make the purposes of the organization more definite. The purposes of the federation are now rather indefinite, and President Lander says the officials are without enough power to carry on the work properly.

Should Have Definite Policy.

The president also will ask that the federation commit itself to some certain line of work, and that methods of raising cash for the carrying out of its work be worked out. He also would have the officials elected from one district of the state, thus permitting frequent conferences, as against the plan of spreading the officers throughout the state and thus doing away with the possibility of regular meetings.

DANCE HALLS TO KEEP REGISTER

New Regulation May Be invoked By Grand Forks Police.

Grand Forks, N. D., March 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—Patrons of Grand Forks dance halls will have to register their names at the doors as they enter if the police department insists upon such registration under the terms of a new ordinance just passed by the council.

Girls under 18 years are barred entirely after 9 p. m., unless they are accompanied by guards, while those under 21 years must register as they enter, giving their age, but the registration of other patrons is optional with the police department. Licenses are also provided and the character of the dance hall owner must be taken into consideration in granting such licenses, which is revokable at any time the owner fails to live up to the law.

Intoxicated persons must be barred from the dance halls, and no intoxicating liquors are permitted in the buildings.

ANTI-TWISTING BILL HAS DISAPPEARED

Measure Passed By North Dakota Legislature Is Lost.

Bismarck, N. D., March 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—Though the records show that the so-called anti-twisting bill was passed by the state legislature, the bill did not reach the governor's office on the closing day of the assembly. The bill was checked out of the enrolling and engrossing committee's hands for transmission to the governor, but from that point all trace of the measure is lost.

There was a hot fight over this measure in the legislature, but it passed with a big majority. It prohibited insurance agencies from twisting policies, that is, of inducing policy holders to drop one policy and take another. It also prohibited rebating.

"DRY" CITY HAS DRUNKS.

Grand Forks Averages Better Than One Inebriate Case Daily.

Grand Forks, N. D., March 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—Although this is a prohibition city, it had an average of slightly better than one drunk a day during the past year, according to the report of Chief of Police Lowe to the council. The department arrested 385 drunks in 365 days, in addition to which there were 66 men and women tabbed as "drunk and disorderly." There was but one wife beater during the year, twenty prominent citizens were haled into court for speeding their automobiles.

The police matron, in four months, handled thirty-five cases in which girls were the offenders.

ASHLAND PRIMARY.

Dennis Nominated for Mayor and Five Others for Commissioners.

Ashland, Wis., March 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—Yesterday's primary, the first held under the new commission form, resulted in the nomination of Clarence Dennis for mayor and W. G. Nohl, James Phillips, E. J. Stahl, Louis Mattson and Grant Childs for commissioners. The six will be voted for April 1 when a mayor and three commissioners will be elected. Of the three candidates for mayor, Dennis, a real estate dealer, received 755 votes; Mr. Mattson, a piano dealer, 421; and V. T. Pierrelee, a lawyer, 353. There were twelve candidates for commissioner. City Treasurer Nohl received 978 votes; James Phillips, who is serving as street commissioner, 539; E. J. Stahl, ticket agent for the Omaha railroad, 291; and Grant Childs, a foundry worker and chairman of the Central Labor council, 261 votes.

BIG SNOW BENEFITS.

Red River Valley Farmers Welcome Coming of Moisture.

Crookston, Minn., March 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—The farmers of the Red river valley are rejoicing over the heavy fall of snow Monday night. They are coupling the two heavy snows of this month with good crop talk and are not at all anxious about getting to work. Invariably when the breakup is extraordinarily early, a freeze-up follows, and this sometimes comes after some of the seeded grain has germinated. While the damage is not generally material, the tender sprouts are not benefited by the frost and the unanimous verdict is that a breakup at an average date is better, as spring then comes to stay. In addition the moisture is most beneficial. The farmers are all prepared to rush seeding when the time comes. More care has been exercised in getting good seed than ever before. The Northwest experiment station has been bombarded with applications for pure bred seed. Scores and scores of farmers are planting small plots of seed and breeding up from year to year, where a few years ago only a scattering farmer was paying diligent attention to the pure seed idea. The Pure Seed association has revolutionized the seed grain proposition.

STORK VERY BUSY IN POLK COUNTY

Beat Grim Reaper Last Year About Two and a Half to One.

Crookston, Minn., March 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—The stork outdistanced the grim reaper in Polk county last year. Clerk of Court Waage has compiled the records for 1912, which show 783 births to 317 deaths, or a ratio of nearly two and half births to a death.

During the year there was not an epidemic of any kind in the county worth mentioning. There were a few cases of typhoid fever, but nothing of a widespread nature. The splendid showing is due to an exceptionally good water supply and universally good drainage. Coupled with this the health authorities have been more particular because of the campaign of publicity, the extension work of the state university, Prof. Washburn's good seed having taken root very generally in the anti-fly campaign.

DIG PRIVATE CAR OUT OF SNOWBANK

New York Women, Imprisoned in South Dakota Snow, Are Released.

Rapid City, S. D., March 19.—The private car of Mrs. Oliver Harriman of New York, stalled here by the blizzard of Thursday, pulled out last night. A gang of seventy-five men drove against a 40-foot drift of snow in a cut a mile long, accompanied by a rotary and seven locomotives, which have been attempting since last week to clear the car which, besides Mrs. Harriman and her sister, contained the body of their mother, Mrs. Grace Carley, who died last Wednesday at Hot Springs.

While here Mrs. Harriman contributed liberally toward the funeral expenses of six members of the Perry family who perished in the blizzard last Thursday.

Indian Agent Brennan reports that the loss of stock in the recent blizzard is appalling.

Family Is Dug Out.

Pierre, S. D., March 19.—During the blizzard that raged over this state Friday and Saturday, snow to the depth of nine feet was drifted over the home of J. P. Greenwood, on a hillside, near Greenwood. Neighbors succeeded in digging the family out Tuesday. Before they were rescued several members of the household became ill from the lack of pure air in the building.

FRANK S. TALCOTT.

Bismarck, N. D., March 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—State Senator Frank Talcott of Cass county was appointed by the board of control warden of the North Dakota penitentiary yesterday, succeeding F. O. Hellstrom.

His appointment will compel his resignation from the senate, after a service of four terms.

Mr. Talcott has been prominent in the affairs of the Republican party in this state for several years. He was chairman of the state central committee, has been secretary of the North Dakota State Fair association, and he has served in other public capacities also.

FAMED AS OARSMAN.

Stillwater, Minn., March 19.—The funeral of John Thomas Kaine, aged 73, a native of New Brunswick, who had lived here many years, who died Saturday, was held Tuesday morning.

Formerly he was engaged in logging on the St. Croix. He was a member of the famous St. Croix Boat club and was one of the crew of famous oarsmen that won championship honors when the St. Croix Boat club was famous. The other three were John McGrath, Thomas Scully and John Mclarity.

Mr. Kaine was a charter member of the local branch of the Ancient Order of Hibernians. He is survived by the widow, Mrs. Ellen F. Kaine, the adopted daughter, Mary Sullivan Kaine; the brother, Matthew Kaine of Missoula, Mont.; the sisters, Mrs. Rose Egan and Ellen Lyman, both of Canada, and Mrs. Mary Maddock of this city.

HORSES IN DEMAND.

Many Work Animals Needed in North Dakota By the Farmers.

New England, N. D., March 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—Because of the small amount of plowing done last fall there will be a greater demand for farm horses in North Dakota this year than in any other season in the history of the state. The animals will be required to get this year's crop seeded in time.

For many years this section furnished range horses for the entire eastern half of North Dakota, but conditions have been completely reversed until this town is one of the greatest selling points for farm horses in the state. Dealers from a half dozen states are shipping animals in here and find they are still unable to supply the demand. The opening of new farms and the increased acreage on the others creates additional demand.

INSANE WOMAN MAKES BREAK FOR LIBERTY.

Minot, N. D., March 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—Miss Kate Trettle of St. Paul, held here under an information of insanity, nearly escaped when, jumping into a carriage to which a team of horses was hitched, she made a mad drive into the country. Officials overtook her by using automobiles. The woman had been held at a local hospital, and seemingly was improving, being given considerable freedom. She was taken to the Jamestown asylum last evening.

Prisoner Tries to Escape.

Marshall, Minn., March 19.—George Clark, the only prisoner in the county jail, took advantage of the sheriff's absence and tried to escape by tearing out the brick wall, starting at the window casing. He was about ready to crawl out when the sheriff arrived and locked him in his cell.

Accuses His Predecessor.

Napoleon, N. D., March 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—W. A. O'Donnell is charged by his successor, Public Administrator Noddings, with having failed to make final accounting to the judge of the county court on official matters. It is asserted several important estates are involved. No legal action has been instituted.

Have "Walking Smallpox."

St. Paul, Minn., March 19.—"Walking smallpox" is prevalent in the Northwest, according to Health Commissioner Lankester of this city. A St. Paul business man walked into the office yesterday and after an examination was sent to the pesthouse. Patients from Savage, Gladstone, Mendota and other Minnesota points, and one from Petersburg, Wis., recently have reported to the local department. The disease is in a mild form.

WHY SUFFER?

Breathe HYOMEI and Kill the Loathsome Catarrh Germs.

Just as long as you have catarrh your nose will itch, your breath will be foul, you will hawk and sniffle, and you will do other disgusting things because you can't help yourself. The germs of catarrh have got you in their power, they are continually and persistently digging into and irritating the mucous membrane of your nose and throat. They are now making your life miserable; in time they will sap your entire system of its energy, its strength, its vigor and vitality.

If you do not kill the loathsome germs of catarrh, their desperate assaults will in time undermine your reason, rob your brain of its brilliancy and activity, and leave you not only a physical but a mental wreck.

This picture is not overdrawn; the writer has seen thousands of just such cases. He has personally experienced the demoralizing results that come from the ravishing attacks of the horrible catarrh germs, the greatest pest of civilized nations.

But there is one remedy that will kill the germs and stop catarrh, and that is HYOMEI, the Australian dry air treatment. There may be other remedies, but they are not guaranteed as Boyce Drug Store will guarantee HYOMEI to banish catarrh or money back. Every day you allow these germs to exist in your system brings you nearer to complete demoralization. Boyce Drug Store and druggists everywhere will sell you a complete HYOMEI outfit, for only $1.00. Ask them about it. It is also guaranteed for bronchitis, coughs, colds and croup.

DULUTH IN BIG BUSINESS.

If anybody doubts that Duluth is to be ranked among the big business interests he should read the report of the water and light department, just made public for the year 1912. Then let him remember that the figures given in that report represent only one section of the city's activities, and he will get some comprehension of what it means to manage the government of such a municipality.

There are some interesting figures in the report. For instance, it shows that the gross earnings of the department for the last year totalled $583,816.14 and the net earnings $156,691.17. This is an excellent showing, and it contains assurance of increased extension of the service. It also shows the splendid growth of the service, for the earnings for 1912 are 23 per cent greater than in 1911.

The city now owns and operates 142,629 miles of water mains and 126,671 miles of gas mains. Think what this means, if you can realize it. If the Duluth water mains were stretched out around the earth they would make the complete circuit of the globe 5.7 times, and the gas mains, if laid out parallel to the water mains, would run side by side with them for all but the fraction of that distance.

In 1912 the city laid 13,537 miles of water mains and 14,995 miles of gas mains. The work done in this one year was equivalent to the laying of four such lines of gas and water mains from New York to San Francisco, and there would still be enough of the new gas mains left to cover two-thirds of the distance again.

In his report to the board, Manager Hatch makes two important recommendations—that a complete classified inventory and valuation of the property of the department be made, and that a change be made in the general accounting system, so as to make instant information available on various points instead of its being necessary to cull the information from various parts of the records. The manager gives good and sufficient reasons for his recommendations.

It will be worth while for every citizen to study the board's report. It will give an increased appreciation of the magnitude of the problems that enter into city government.

Those fractious persons who have been telling us that March has lost its old-time vigor will please stand up and apologize.

LOOK OUT FOR CHICAGO.

Chicago is "coming." The Windy City has had a way of doing that before, after a fashion. She couldn't help it. Her location is such as to insure the growth and greatness of any city with even ordinary enterprise and ambition. And Chicago never has been accused of having less than an extraordinary amount of those qualities.

But now Chicago promises to "come" more than ever, and to keep on "coming." She is getting a bit of inspiration from the Chicago Tribune, inspiration that ought to count for something.

In its edition for last Monday, March 17, the Tribune started a campaign for a united city. Not the sort of a campaign that is marked by flamboyant displays of black letters and urges somebody to "do something." It is a campaign that points the way to something to be done. The Tribune takes up the old Chicago slogan of "I Will" and amends it to read "We Will." The campaign is for co-operation, in which men and women are called upon to forget that they are individuals who may have selfish interests to serve, and to join in an all-together effort to see that the interests of all are made the paramount task of all.

A single paragraph will show the spirit of the Tribune's appeal. It reads:

> "I Will" has been too long the official motto of Chicago. It belongs on the rifle lock of the wilderness hunter; on the shield of the robber baron; on the letterhead of the pirate who sees in a great city only an opportunity to exploit a huge and helpless population. It is no fit device for the man who sleeps in the same municipal bed, breathes the same smoke-laden air, drinks the same water with two and a half million polyglot people. "We Will" is the better battle cry. It calls for leaders as able and more devoted. It makes a place in the line for every citizen.

It's a safe bet that the Tribune has started something. Look out for Chicago. And while you are about it, get a copy of that paper and read the Tribune's appeal. Then, while it is fresh in your mind, think how that same idea might be applied to Duluth.

Duluth is favorably situated, too. Duluth people have common interests, as well as Chicagoans. And Duluth needs united effort to go ahead, just as much as Chicago does. Recently there was a get-together meeting of the various civic clubs of this city. There ought to be another. And more to come.

Duluth people never before had such a chance to get together as they have right now. We are about to pass under a form of city government that will help us do so. Our demands for better transportation service are getting attention, and in view of the more united front the citizens are presenting there is ground for hope that these demands will be granted.

There never was a time when Duluthians had so much to inspire them to unified effort. If we will, we can make even the mighty Chicago's slogan capable of amendment by the addition of a phrase of comparison so that it will read:

"We Will—Duluth Does."

Efforts are being made to revive the Houn' Dawg song, but it's a safe bet that it never will achieve half the lasting popularity of "There was an old soldier and he had a wooden leg."

WISCONSIN AGAIN.

Wisconsin, which has taken the lead in so many movements that later became nation-wide in their scope, may take up something more intimately related to the daily life of the people than anything heretofore attempted. This is the proposal made by Governor McGovern in his special message to the legislature proposing the creation of a state market commission. The governor's proposal is not left in the air, but is accompanied by a draft of a bill which the governor believes would accomplish the things he suggests.

Many details enter into the scheme, but the principal object is the increase of prices the farmers get for their produce and the decreasing of the prices the consumers have to pay for those same products.

Co-operation is the keynote of the governor's message. He asks for some action that will establish co-operation among the producers and between the producers and consumers. His plan, if it succeeds, will eliminate the present system of making great payments to the middlemen.

It is pretty generally agreed that the middlemen are the ones who get the enormous profits out of the present arrangement, or lack of arrangement. How this works out is put plainly by Governor McGovern, when he says that the farmer sells his products to the first comer or at what amounts to public auction. These methods of sale are notoriously poor ways of getting the real value for anything, and their application to the articles that enter into trade in the daily necessities of life has helped bring about the present condition.

What the governor seeks to have done in Wisconsin is to secure co-operation among the farmers so that there shall be knowledge of the best markets and market conditions, and also a systematic way of getting articles to the markets. He believes that with such co-operation established, the prices of all such commodities will be raised, as far as the farmer is concerned, and lowered, as far as concerns the consumers.

Perhaps Governor McGovern has hit on a practical means of reducing the cost of living. It is apparent that unless he can provide some means of controlling the middlemen, who buy direct from the farmers and handle city distribution, his plan must fail. He hopes to accomplish this by strict regulation of contracts and combinations.

At least, his plan is worth trying out. If it succeeds it is sure to be copied in other states unless some better system is developed in the mean time. At any rate, it is a start, and if the legislature approves it Wisconsin will have added another movement to the many that she has started in the interests of the people of the nation.

If you have positive information that any five of those candidates are sure to get more than 5,000 first choice votes, it will be your own fault if you aren't able to retire on a competence after April 1.

KING GEORGE'S MURDER.

The assassination of King George of Greece has stirred the civilized world as few such acts have stirred it in the last decade. There have been instances in which political oppression has stirred up class hatred, and in such cases assassination has brought no great surprise to the world, however much it might be condemned. But the striking down of such a figure as that of the Greek king, whose rule has been recognized as humane and in the interests of his whole people, is another matter.

Cable dispatches from Saloniki, where the crime was committed, say the act was that of a degenerate. As such it is difficult to imagine any adequate protection that could have been given the monarch. His part in the war in which his country is now engaged necessitated his appearance in public more than would have been necessary under conditions of peace. The murder was not one that could have been foreseen and guarded against by special precautions.

That the madman's act will have any marked effect on the war with Turkey is not at all likely. The new Greek king, Constantine, has shown himself an able commander, and undoubtedly will be able to continue the work his father began. But the Greek nation has lost an able and conscientious ruler, and the sympathy of the whole civilized world will be extended to that nation.

Mexico had better hurry up and get order restored. Aguinaldo is coming to visit on this continent.

REAPPORTIONMENT AT LAST.

Reapportionment has at last been granted to Minnesota by the state legislature. It is not wholly a reapportionment that gives strict justice to all the people of the state. As far as it concerns the house it is equitable, but as to the senate it is really a kind of makeshift, forced on the state by the selfishness of some of the Southern Minnesota senators, and which the northern counties have seen fit to accept because it comes vastly nearer to giving them a square deal than anything they have had in the last score of years, during which time the legislative power of the people of the north has been ruthlessly curtailed and that of the people of the south multiplied.

The bill as passed also increases the membership of the legislature. This was nothing if not unnecessary. The larger the legislative body the more unwieldy it becomes. Minnesota is sadly out of harmony with the general spirit of the states in the comparative sizes of her population and legislature, as can be seen by a glance at the following figures from states larger in their number of inhabitants than Minnesota:

State—	Population.	Senate.	House.	Joint Ballot.
California	2,377,549	40	80	120
Illinois	5,638,591	51	153	204
Indiana	2,700,876	50	100	150
Iowa	2,224,771	48	104	152
Kentucky	2,289,905	38	100	138
Michigan	2,810,173	32	100	132
Minnesota	2,075,708	67	130	197
Missouri	3,293,335	34	142	176
New Jersey	2,537,167	21	59	80
North Carolina	2,206,287	50	120	170
Ohio	4,767,121	33	123	156
Pennsylvania	7,665,111	50	207	257
Tennessee	2,184,789	33	99	132
Texas	3,896,542	31	109	140
Wisconsin	2,333,860	33	100	133

Under the new reapportionment Minnesota has more senators than any other state in the Union, including fourteen of greater population, and more than twice as many as four of these. It gives Minnesota a bigger joint ballot than any other of these states with the exception of Illinois, with a population more than double that of Minnesota, and Pennsylvania, with a population more than three times that of Minnesota. But neither of these states has a legislative record that is worth imitating. Wisconsin, with but 33 senators and 100 members of the second house, has a much more enviable record. Minnesota would better adopt the Wisconsin system of representation in her legislature than to increase the number of members.

But at any rate the reapportionment given us by the legislature is far and away in advance of what the state has been struggling under for the last dozen years or more. It has been a long, hard fight, and the members of the St. Louis county and other northern delegations have done themselves proud. They have had to overcome appeals to sectional prejudice, and also the claims of entrenched selfishness. And they have stood firmly for justice and nothing else.

They have won an almost complete victory, and they should be given recognition for their courage and firmness throughout the entire state, as they will be in their own home counties.

THE OPEN COURT

(Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas about the topics of general interest, but discussions of sectarian religious differences are barred. Letters must not exceed 300 words—the shorter the better. They must be written on one side of the paper only, and they must be accompanied in every case by the name and address of the writer, though these need not be published. A signed letter is always more effective, however.)

"SCOTCH-IRISH."

To the Editor of The Herald:

I am interested in your statement in the Open Court of last Friday's Herald that President Wilson is of Scotch-Irish descent. I have had an argument with a friend concerning the real meaning of "Scotch-Irish." Is a Scotch-Irishman the offspring of an Irish and Scotch marriage, a full-blood Scotchman living in Ireland, or is the term "Scotch-Irish" used to designate a Protestant of Northern Ireland?

Will you kindly explain the real meaning of the term and enlighten

A SUBSCRIBER.

Cloquet, Minn., March 18.

In the sense The Herald used the term it meant the offspring of Scotch and Irish parents.—The Editor.

The Excitement of Writing

Atlantic Monthly: I cannot help defending my own writing mood: and what I am sure must be the mood of many of the tribe, great and small. My blood does not run sluggish as I sit down to write. No matter whether what I produce has any merit or not, I only know that to write—to feel the pen in my fingers and the words leaping from my head or my heart, or wherever they abide, out upon the paper—is a joy to me almost as thrilling as the joy of great friendly talk and silence. I suppose this argues a smallness, a coldness, in me; but it is true.

There is something half physical about it, like the tingling glory of standing on an autumn hilltop or at the prow of a swift seagoing ship. It is a breathless speed and wonder. It does not feel like any slow deliberate process of heavy thought, or even of cunning, happy craftsmanship. There is freedom in it, like the freedom of seagulls, and of youth; abandon, audacity, shudderings and horror, splendors and mirth. I feel, when a good spirit of writing is upon me, expanded, powerful, infinitely alive. As Whitman has it:

"I am larger, better than I know,
I did not know I held so much goodness."

I drew deep breaths and am free to run where I will, over hill and dale, sea and city, dead icefields and lush, lazy tropics. I become a dweller in eternity, and am not at all afraid to die.

And yet, when I am not writing, none of this swift wonder is with me. I have no winds and flames. Even with my friends, I am aware often that my freest self is dumb. There is no loss to them in that, perhaps, for they might not like my winds and flames at all. But it makes me sad that I cannot share with them what seems, at least, to be the happiest of me.

And then it makes me sad—but whimsically, and I hope philosophically—when, the flying windy wonder passed and my feet again on the solid roads, I know that, after all, my ecstasy and urge of seeming creation is to so small an end. For what have I said, when all is reckoned up? I have chirped like a cricket, and mourned like a dove, and laughed like a silly parrot; and there is nothing truly memorable and worthy in such chirping and mourning and laughter. I, too, shall go out into silence, and what I have tried to sing and say shall not stand by me then.

The Barber Business Abroad.

Consular Reports: With the exception of some cities in Canada, the elaborately furnished barber shops to which Americans are accustomed are practically unknown outside of the United States, according to reports received from consuls in all parts of the world regarding the market for barbers' supplies. Foreign barbers generally do not offer to their customers the extended list of services provided by American shops. In most cases confining their work to shaving and hairdressing. Face massage is unknown to the barbers of many European cities, and consequently the market for apparatus for this work is almost entirely undeveloped.

The ordinary equipment of an English barber shop is much less expensive and ornate than in the United States, and the shops in the city of London proper, where are located the stock exchange and many of the principal financial institutions, would, from the American point of view, be regarded as very simple establishments. Only a small proportion of the money which would be required to furnish an establishment in a corresponding locality in any large American city is spent in equipping one of these places. American barbers' chairs are found in London, Liverpool, Manchester and occasionally in some of the smaller cities, but the type in most common use is a four-legged wooden chair with a movable back and head rest.

In London the charges for services are 4 to 12 cents for a shave, 8 to 24 cents for a haircut or shampoo, and 60 cents for massage, varying according to the patronage of the different shops. In other cities the maximum rates are generally somewhat lower.

Correcting Family Speech.

Cleveland Plain Dealer: A Cleveland man who makes a practice of choosing his words with care, a practice which he has endeavored to instill into the family circle, made a memorandum of the misused words uttered by his son and daughter during a recent breakfast. Here is the result:

Elegant, nineteen times.
Awful, eleven times.
Dandy, six times.
Fierce, four times.
Great, two times.

When the meal was over the head of the household called the family around him in the library and gravely read the totals to them.

"Gee, that's fierce!" said the son.

"Isn't it awful!" said the daughter.

Statesmen, Real and Near

By Fred C. Kelly.

Washington, March 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—People are still wondering how Woodrow Wilson has such a knack at handling politicians and preventing them from placing him in the objective case. How is a man who has spent all his life in the halls of colleges able to see through political intrigues as through a glass windshield?

"Why, as the president once told me himself," says this man, "the average bunch of politicians are pygmies in the way of intrigues and hatching frameups when compared to the faculty of a big college. There is just as much politics and scheming to advance selfish interests in a faculty or a board of regents as there is in a state legislature. The difference is that the college faculty is made up of men having keener minds than the average politician possesses. There at Princeton, Wilson had a constant fight against being undermined by ambitious members of the faculty. One or two men, in particular, fought him with every conceivable kind of diabolical scheme that an educated man of resourceful mind could think of. But he was amply able to take care of himself. Do you suppose he didn't profit by such training? Why it made him a master."

There is one job that Postmaster General Burleson would like a whole lot better than being in the cabinet. It is said to have been his life-long ambition to become governor of Texas, just to square things up for his grandfather. This grandfather ran for president of the Texan republic, but lost out and was obliged to content himself with the vice presidency. From the moment Albert Sidney Burleson heard of all this, as a small boy, he wished to put the Burleson family on the right side of the ledger with destiny, by becoming governor. He will never feel that he has made good until he does.

The time had come to swear in William G. McAdoo as secretary of the treasury. A small group of persons had assembled in the secretary's room, including Justice Charles E. Hughes of the supreme court, who was to administer the oath, and everything seemed to be in readiness, when Retiring Secretary MacVeagh spoke up and said:

"I guess we'll have to wait."

"What's the trouble?" asked another department official.

"Mr. McAdoo doesn't seem to have arrived," said MacVeagh. And he was right.

In three or four minutes, McAdoo came hustling in. Justice Hughes asked for a Bible. Heretofore treasury officials have been sworn in with much informality, and no Bible has been used. Acting on Hughes' suggestion, Chief Clerk Wilmeth started to hunt a Bible. He said he was almost certain there was one in the building some place. In a comparatively short time he located the treasury Bible, but it was a large family size, too heavy for one to handle conveniently in taking an oath. So Wilmeth sent out and bought a new one of ordinary dimensions. This one will be kept for similar emergencies in the future.

Senator James Martine of New Jersey thinks he is the man who really put Woodrow Wilson on the political map. Martine was the head of a Democratic club in Plainfield, N. J., that was dying, as he says, of dry rot. He conceived the idea of having a lecturer come there under the auspices of the club, in the hope that the club might in that way acquire some slight prestige in the community. After trying to think of somebody for some time, Martine wrote a letter to Wilson, then president of Princeton university. As it happened, Wilson accepted. And when he introduced the speaker, referred to him as a man whom he hoped to see some day at the head of their state government. That was the first time such a thing had been suggested, and Martine did it just by way of being pleasant, never thinking anything would come of it.

The member of congress with the most unenviable job ahead of him is one Frank O. Smith of Maryland, now entering on his first term.

Smith's district lies all around the District of Columbia, and hundreds of his constituents can ride right to the capitol for a nickel. The average congressman has comparatively few face-to-face interviews with the home folks who want things done, and can hand out lovely generalities by letter, saying that "the matter will be one of the next things to claim his attention," and similar guff. But not so with Smith. He hasn't found it out yet, but he is destined to have the very life pestered out of him. A constituent sees by the morning papers that Smith voted a certain way on a certain bill. Within an hour that constituent may be in Washington to ascertain why. Smith will receive more calls than any ten other congressmen.

But Smith ought to get along well in the house at that. Here is the reason for thinking so: He says he got a whipping at school every day, as nearly as he can recall, clear up to the day he quit. His trouble was that he couldn't keep still. He wanted to talk all the time. Now he has his chance to make capital of that tendency. On looking over the files of the Congressional Record, one finds that the members with the most yards of talk have often been those who pulled down the biggest pluralities.

Antidotes.

Marguerite O. B. Wilkins in the Craftsman: Have you come close to a cynic and been in danger of shipwreck because of his doubts?

Seek you the young and struggling idealists who live around the corner?

Has a hypocrite infected your soul with nausea and weariness?

Go at once to the honest persons who live nearest you and visit with them.

Does Nero reign violently and cruelly in the world of your labor?

Go outside of that world, for once, seeking those who are of the kingdom of Christ.

Do you frequently meet the devil at the corner of the street on which you live?

Turn into another avenue and walk fast, hoping, and also expecting, that there you will meet God.

For when the body sinks into deep waters we reach out toward something that floats, something to which we may cling.

When flames take hold upon our clothing we seek water, or earth, wherewith to quench them.

When we have swallowed poison we hunt for an antidote while there is yet time.

We do what we can to save the body, and we do it quickly.

When the soul is drowning, burning, poisoned, in danger of life, shall we not do what we can to save the soul?

The State Legislature

Press Views on the Session.

Sees the Customary Ending.

St. Peter Free Press: Over 1,500 bills are pending before the legislature and but a little over a month is left for their consideration. The final outcome is easily surmised. There will be all sorts of scheming, log-rolling and compromising, resulting in the passage of lily-digested bills, while bills of merit go to the waste basket. To partly overcome this evil the legislature should not permit the introduction of any bills a month before adjournment except by consent of a two-thirds vote of its members, or at the special request of the governor.

Improvement Expected.

Red Wing Republican: The Dunn road bill puts a stop to the old way of working out a poll tax on the public roads and makes it payable only in cash. This is what should have been done long ago. It means that there will result an immeasurable improvement in the care of the highways.

Would Be Step Backward.

Cass Lake Times: We rejoice to know that the attempt to restore capital punishment is defeated. Two wrongs never made a right. A murder committed is not avenged by committing another. Minnesota would have gone a long way back into the night of Time had the death penalty been reestablished.

Wants a Commission.

Albert Lea Standard: The legislature is now in its tenth week and while much of importance has been given a good start, but little has been achieved that has been expected and hoped for. A commission form of state government would do business better than this.

Good Measure.

Red Wing Eagle: The mothers' pension bill which passed the house yesterday is a good measure. A widow, left with children on her hands to support, instead of seeing them scattered to be cared for by the state, the pension law will enable her to keep them at home and to be brought up under such care as only a mother can give them.

Park Rapids Enterprise: The Minnesota legislature is doing mighty good business this session. Two thousand bills have been introduced, but only a dozen have been passed.

Shorter Voting Day.

Warren Register: The present legislature may and should, shorten the voting day in all precincts of the state, except, perhaps, those of the big cities. Cutting off four hours, two at each end, would work no hardship on anyone, nor do we believe that it would diminish the size of the vote cast a particle. From 8 a. m. to 7 p. m. is certainly long enough for the polls to be kept open, at both primary and general elections.

Where Is It?

Breckenridge Gazette: With all the reform legislation that the senators and representatives are endeavoring to place upon our statute books this winter, we are surprised that thus far no anti-treating measure has been introduced.

Why Are We Afraid of 13?

Chicago Tribune: What is the foundation of the "thirteen" superstition? Why is it, now that we are fully started in the year 1913, that the superstitious are becoming more and more weighted down with the burden of their inexplicable fears? For they are unexplainable—no one can tell you just why they are in such dread of the number if you press them for a reason.

Neither is it in English-speaking countries that the date is a fateful one. You can trace it in France, where the minister postpones the publication of the names of a new cabinet, that the list may not appear on the thirteenth of the month.

You meet with it in Germany, too, where even Bismarck would rather sacrifice a dinner than make one of thirteen at a table. Again you can come across the same superstitious terror in Switzerland, in Italy, and in the Scandinavian countries. You find it on the stock exchange, and even in gay, cynical Paris it creeps out, when a holiday starts on the thirteenth and half the people stay shamefacedly at home.

An English expert along statistical lines has recently compiled some valuable information on this queer but interesting subject. The superstition, traced back to antiquity, is thought to have its foundation in all Scandinavian countries in mythology. Their ancient gods and goddesses apparently loathed the number, but back of that none can go.

As for the reason in England two explanations are offered, though probably not one person in 1,000 who cherishes the delusion can really tell them. One authority ascribes the whole tradition to the ill luck thought to be associated from the fact that 13 sat down to the Last Supper. But why any blighting or pernicious influence should result in mankind from that solemn gathering no man or woman of any sane mind has ever been able to say. Though there are scholars who explain the terror by pointing out that since Judas, who was the first to quit the table, hanged himself, the superstition has come down through the ages since then.

But there is another and more definite reason for its origin which was only reached after a long and laborious search on the part of a number of learned men. "The superstition," they say, "that where a company of persons amount to thirteen one of them will die within the twelvemonth afterward, seems to be founded on the calculations adhered to by the insurance offices which presume that out of thirteen persons taken indiscriminately one will die within the year."

So, apparently, the superstition comes from a ridiculous deduction from Biblical history or from the chance calculations of some forgotten insurance man's computation, whose theory would probably be upset in five minutes by a modern authority upon life averages of healthy individuals.

Regard to Humanity.

Epictetus: A person once brought clothes to a pirate who had been cast ashore and almost killed by the severity of the weather; then carried him to his house, and furnished him with all necessaries. Being reproached by someone for doing good to the evil, "I have paid this regard," answered he, "not to the man, but to humanity."

Sign Language.

London Globe: Constable: "The prisoner used very threatening language, your worship."

The Magistrate: "What was the language?"

Constable: "Took off his coat to fight."

Bill Bryan's Gone to Work.

Don't talk about your thunderbolt that drops from clear blue skies,
That's quite a tawdry commonplace, an everyday surprise;
Just wait and gather breath to gasp, for here's a piece of news
That's jolted half the whiskers off of Justice Charles E. Hughes;
That's staggered C. F. Murphy; that has turned Joe Bailey pale,
And made a lot of senators forget their Archboid mail;
That's stopped Bill Sulzer's talking with a short and shuddery jerk.
You've heard it—what? You ain't? Great Scott! Bill Bryan's gone to work.

That's right, he sure has gone to work, the capital's a-throb
With shouts that sound through every street; Bill Bryan's got a job.
No more he flits from stump to stump and hands out vibrant chat
About the way they ran things on the dear old yellow Platte;
But with his fountain pen in hand he writes to foreign kings
All sorts of notes and protocols and diplomatic things,
And all the wondering payroll fleet their public duties shirk,
And murmur, "Gee! just go and see! Bill Bryan's gone to work!"

The people hereabouts discussed their little own affairs;
But now the state department's filled with many a curious throng,
Who say, "Yes, sir, he's right in there," the while they pass along.
"I saw him sign a note," says one; another says, "Just now
I saw him dictate letters, and the sweat poured from his brow.
Too bad he's got no time to talk; the dear old days are past."
Alack a-day! old William J. has got a job at last.

DULUTH IN BIG BUSINESS.

If anybody doubts that Duluth is to be ranked among the big business interests he should read the report of the water and light department, just made public for the year 1912. Then let him remember that the figures given in that report represent only one section of the city's activities, and he will get some comprehension of what it means to manage the government of such a municipality.

There are some interesting figures in the report. For instance, it shows that the gross earnings of the department for the last year totalled $583,816.14 and the net earnings $356,691.17. This is an excellent showing, and it contains assurance of increased extension of the service. It also shows the splendid growth of the service, for the earnings for 1912 are 23 per cent greater than in 1911.

The city now owns and operates 142,020 miles of water mains and 126,071 miles of gas mains. Think what this means, if you can realize it. If the Duluth water mains were stretched out around the earth they would make the complete circuit of the globe 5.7 times, and the gas mains, if laid out parallel to the water mains, would run side by side with them for all but the fraction of that distance.

In 1912 the city laid 13,537 miles of water mains and 14,095 miles of gas mains. The work done in this one year was equivalent to the laying of four such lines of gas and water mains from New York to San Francisco, and there would still be enough of the new gas mains left to cover two-thirds of the distance again.

In his report to the board, Manager Hatch makes two important recommendations—that a complete classified inventory and valuation of the property of the department be made, and that a change be made in the general accounting system, so as to make instant information available on various points instead of its being necessary to cull the information from various parts of the records. The manager gives good and sufficient reasons for his recommendations.

It will be worth while for every citizen to study the board's report. It will give an increased appreciation of the magnitude of the problems that enter into city government.

Those fractious persons who have been telling us that March has lost its old-time vigor will please stand up and apologize.

LOOK OUT FOR CHICAGO.

Chicago is "coming." The Windy City has had a way of doing that before, after a fashion. She couldn't help it. Her location is such as to insure the growth and greatness of any city with even ordinary enterprise and ambition. And Chicago never has been accused of having less than an extraordinary amount of those qualities.

But now Chicago promises to "come" more than ever, and to keep on "coming." She is getting a bit of inspiration from the Chicago Tribune, inspiration that ought to count for something.

In its edition for last Monday, March 17, the Tribune started a campaign for a united city. Not the sort of a campaign that is marked by flamboyant displays of black letters and urges somebody to "do something." It is a campaign that points the way to something to be done. The Tribune takes up the old Chicago slogan of "I Will" and amends it to read "We Will." The campaign is for co-operation, in which men and women are called upon to forget that they are individuals who may have selfish interests to serve, and to join in an all-together effort to see that the interests of all are made the paramount task of all.

A single paragraph will show the spirit of the Tribune's appeal. It reads:

> "I Will" has been too long the official motto of Chicago. It belongs on the rifle lock of the wilderness hunter; on the shield of the robber baron; on the letterhead of the pirate who sees in a great city only an opportunity to exploit a huge and helpless population. It is no fit device for the man who sleeps in the same municipal bed, breathes the same smoke-laden air, drinks the same water with two and a half million polyglot people. "We Will" is the better battle cry. It calls for leaders as able and more devoted. It makes a place in the line for every citizen.

It's a safe bet that the Tribune has started something. Look out for Chicago. And while you are about it, get a copy of that paper and read the Tribune's appeal. Then, while it is fresh in your mind, think how that same idea might be applied to Duluth.

Duluth is favorably situated, too. Duluth people have common interests, as well as Chicagoans. And Duluth needs united effort to go ahead, just as much as Chicago does. Recently there was a get-together meeting of the various civic clubs of this city. There ought to be another. And more to come.

Duluth people never before had such a chance to get together as they have right now. We are about to pass under a form of city government that will help us do so. Our demands for better transportation service are getting attention, and in view of the more united front the citizens are presenting there is ground for hope that these demands will be granted.

There never was a time when Duluthians had so much to inspire them to unified effort. If we will, we can make even the mighty Chicago's slogan capable of amendment by the addition of a phrase of comparison so that it will read:

"We Will—Duluth Does."

Efforts are being made to revive the Houn' Dawg song, but it's a safe bet that it never will achieve half the lasting popularity of "There was an old soldier and he had a wooden leg."

REAPPORTIONMENT AT LAST.

Reapportionment has at last been granted to Minnesota by the state legislature. It is not wholly a reapportionment that gives strict justice to all the people of the state. As far as it concerns the house it is equitable, but as to the senate it is really a kind of makeshift, forced on the state by the selfishness of some of the Southern Minnesota senators, and which the northern counties have seen fit to accept because it comes vastly nearer to giving them a square deal than anything they have had in the last score of years, during which time the legislative power of the people of the north has been ruthlessly curtailed and that of the people of the south multiplied.

The bill as passed also increases the membership of the legislature. This was nothing if not unnecessary. The larger the legislative body the more unwieldy it becomes. Minnesota is sadly out of harmony with the general spirit of the states in the comparative sizes of her population and legislature, as can be seen by a glance at the following figures from states larger in their number of inhabitants than Minnesota:

State—	Population.	Senate.	House.	Joint Ballot.
California	2,377,549	40	80	120
Illinois	5,638,591	51	153	204
Indiana	2,700,876	50	100	150

Under the new reapportionment Minnesota has more senators than any other state in the Union, including fourteen of greater population, and more than twice as many as four of these. It gives Minnesota a bigger joint ballot than any other of these states with the exception of Illinois, with a population more than double that of Minnesota, and Pennsylvania, with a population more than three times that of Minnesota. But neither of these states has a legislative record that is worth imitating. Wisconsin, with but 33 senators and 100 members of the second house, has a much more enviable record. Minnesota would better adopt the Wisconsin system of representation in her legislature than to increase the number of members.

But at any rate the reapportionment given us by the legislature is far and away in advance of what the state has been struggling under for the last dozen years or more. It has been a long, hard fight, and the members of the St. Louis county and other northern delegations have done themselves proud. They have had to overcome appeals to sectional prejudice, and also the claims of entrenched selfishness. And they have stood firmly for justice and nothing else.

They have won an almost complete victory, and they should be given recognition for their courage and firmness throughout the entire state, as they will be in their own home counties.

WISCONSIN AGAIN.

Wisconsin, which has taken the lead in so many movements that later became nation-wide in their scope, may take up something more intimately related to the daily life of the people than anything heretofore attempted. This is the proposal made by Governor McGovern in his special message to the legislature proposing the creation of a state market commission. The governor's proposal is not left in the air, but is accompanied by a draft of a bill which the governor believes would accomplish the things he suggests.

Many details enter into the scheme, but the principal object is the increase of prices the farmers get for their produce and the decreasing of the prices the consumers have to pay for those same products.

Co-operation is the keynote of the governor's message. He asks for some action that will establish co-operation among the producers and between the producers and consumers. His plan, if it succeeds, will eliminate the present system of making great payments to the middlemen.

It is pretty generally agreed that the middlemen are the ones who get the enormous profits out of the present arrangement, or lack of arrangement. How this works out is put plainly by Governor McGovern, when he says that the farmer sells his products to the first comer or at what amounts to public auction. These methods of sale are notoriously poor ways of getting the real value for anything, and their application to the articles that enter into trade in the daily necessities of life has helped bring about the present condition.

What the governor seeks to have done in Wisconsin is to secure co-operation among the farmers so that there shall be knowledge of the best markets and market conditions, and also a systematic way of getting articles to the markets. He believes that with such co-operation established, the prices of all such commodities will be raised, as far as the farmer is concerned, and lowered, as far as concerns the consumers.

Perhaps Governor McGovern has hit on a practical means of reducing the cost of living. It is apparent that unless he can provide some means of controlling the middlemen, who buy direct from the farmers and handle city distribution, his plan must fail. He hopes to accomplish this by strict regulation of contracts and combinations.

At least, his plan is worth trying out. If it succeeds it is sure to be copied in other states unless some better system is developed in the mean time. At any rate, it is a start, and if the legislature approves it Wisconsin will have added another movement to the many that she has started in the interests of the people of the nation.

If you have positive information that any five of those candidates are sure to get more than 5,000 first choice votes, it will be your own fault if you aren't able to retire on a competence after April 1.

KING GEORGE'S MURDER.

The assassination of King George of Greece has stirred the civilized world as few such acts have stirred it in the last decade. There have been instances in which political oppression has stirred up class hatred, and in such cases assassination has brought no great surprise to the world, however much it might be condemned. But the striking down of such a figure as that of the Greek king, whose rule has been recognized as humane and in the interests of his whole people, is another matter.

Cable dispatches from Saloniki, where the crime was committed, say the act was that of a degenerate. As such it is difficult to imagine any adequate protection that could have been given the monarch. His part in the war in which his country is now engaged necessitated his appearance in public more than would have been necessary under conditions of peace. The murder was not one that could have been foreseen and guarded against by special precautions.

That the madman's act will have any marked effect on the war with Turkey is not at all likely. The new Greek king, Constantine, has shown himself an able commander, and undoubtedly will be able to continue the work his father began. But the Greek nation has lost an able and conscientious ruler, and the sympathy of the whole civilized world will be extended to that nation.

Mexico had better hurry up and get order restored. Aguinaldo is coming to visit on this continent.

THE OPEN COURT

(Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas about the topics of general interest, but discussions of sectarian religious differences are barred. Letters must not exceed 300 words—the shorter the better. They must be written on one side of the paper only, and they must be accompanied in every case by the name and address of the writer, though these need not be published. A signed letter is always more effective, however.)

"SCOTCH-IRISH."

To the Editor of The Herald:

I am interested in your statement in the Open Court of last Friday's Herald that President Wilson is of Scotch-Irish descent. I have had an argument with a friend concerning the real meaning of "Scotch-Irish." Is a Scotch-Irishman the offspring of an Irish and Scotch marriage, a full-blood Scotchman living in Ireland, or is the term "Scotch-Irish" used to designate a Protestant of Northern Ireland?

Will you kindly explain the real meaning of the term and enlighten

A SUBSCRIBER.

Cloquet, Minn., March 18.

In the sense The Herald used the term it meant the offspring of Scotch and Irish parents.—The Editor.

The Excitement of Writing

Atlantic Monthly: I cannot help defending my own writing mood: and what I am sure must be the mood of many of the tribe, great and small. My blood does not run sluggish as I sit down to write. No matter whether what I produce has any merit or not, I only know that to write—to feel the pen in my fingers and the words leaping from my head or my heart, or wherever they abide, out upon the paper—is a joy to me almost as thrilling as the joy of great friendly talk and silence. I suppose this argues a smallness, a coldness, in me; but it is true.

There is something half physical about it, like the tingling glory of standing on an autumn hilltop or at the prow of a swift seagoing ship. It is a breathless speed and wonder. It does not feel like any slow deliberate process of heavy thought, or even of cunning, happy craftsmanship. There is freedom in it, like the freedom of seagulls, and of youth; abandon, audacity, shudderings and horror, splendors and mirth. I feel, when a good spirit of writing is upon me, expanded, powerful, infinitely alive. As Whitman has it:

"I am larger, better than I know,
I did not know I held so much goodness."

I drew deep breaths and am free to run where I will, over hill and dale, sea and city, dead icefields and lush, lazy tropics. I become a dweller in eternity, and am not at all afraid to die.

And yet, when I am not writing, none of this swift wonder is with me. I have no winds and flames. Even with my friends, I am aware often that my freest self is dumb. There is no loss to them in that, perhaps, for they might not like my winds and flames at all. But it makes me sad that I cannot share with them what seems, at least, to be the happiest of me.

And then it makes me sad—but whimsically, and I hope philosophically—when the flying windy wonder passed and my feet again on the solid roads, I know that, after all, my ecstasy and urge of seeming creation is to so small an end. For what have I said, when all is reckoned up? I have chirped like a cricket, and mourned like a dove, and laughed like a silly parrot; and there is nothing truly memorable and worthy in such chirping and mourning and laughter. I, too, shall go out into silence, and what I have tried to sing and say shall not stand by me then.

The Barber Business Abroad.

Consular Reports: With the exception of some cities in Canada, the elaborately furnished barber shops to which Americans are accustomed are practically unknown outside of the United States, according to reports received from consuls in all parts of the world regarding the market for barbers' supplies. Foreign barbers generally do not offer to their customers the extended list of services provided by American shops. In most cases confining their work to shaving and hairdressing. Face massage is unknown to the barbers of many European cities, and consequently the market for apparatus for this work is almost entirely undeveloped.

The ordinary equipment of an English barber shop is much less expensive and ornate than in the United States, and the shops in the city of London proper, where are located the stock exchange and many of the principal financial institutions, would, from the American point of view, be regarded as very simple establishments. Only a small proportion of the money which would be required to furnish an establishment in a corresponding locality in any large American city is spent in equipping one of these places. American barbers' chairs are found in London, Liverpool, Manchester and occasionally in some of the smaller cities, but the type in most common use is a four-legged wooden chair with a movable back and head rest.

In London the charges for services are 4 to 12 cents for a shave, 8 to 24 cents for a haircut or shampoo, and 60 cents for massage, varying according to the patronage of the different shops. In other cities the maximum rates are generally somewhat lower.

Correcting Family Speech.

Cleveland Plain Dealer: A Cleveland man who makes a practice of choosing his words with care, a practice which he has endeavored to instill into the family circle, made a memorandum of the misused words uttered by his son and daughter during a recent breakfast. Here is the result:

Elegant, nineteen times.
Awful, eleven times.
Dandy, six times.
Fierce, four times.
Great, two times.

When the meal was over the head of the household called the family around him in the library and gravely read the totals to them.

"Gee, that's fierce!" said the son.

"Isn't it awful!" said the daughter.

Statesmen, Real and Near

By Fred C. Kelly.

Washington, March 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—People are still wondering how Woodrow Wilson has such a knack at handling politicians and preventing them from placing him in the objective case. How is a man who has spent all his life in the halls of colleges able to see through political intrigues as through a glass windshield?

"Why, as the president once told me himself," says this man, "the average bunch of politicians are pygmies in the way of intrigues and hatching frameups yhen compared to the faculty of a big college. There is just as much politics and scheming to advance selfish interests in a faculty or a board of regents as there is in a state legislature. The difference is that the college faculty is made up of men having keener minds than the average politician possesses. There at Princeton, Wilson had a constant fight against being undermined by ambitious members of the faculty. One or two men, in particular, fought him with every conceivable kind of diabolical scheme that an educated man of resourceful mind could think of. But he was amply able to take care of himself. Do you suppose he didn't profit by such training? Why it made him a master."

There is one job that Postmaster General Burleson would like a whole lot better than being in the cabinet. It is said to have been his life-long ambition to become governor of Texas, just to square things up for his grandfather. This grandfather ran for president of the Texan republic, but lost out and was obliged to content himself with the vice presidency. From the moment Albert Sidney Burleson heard of all this, as a small boy, he wished to put the Burleson family on the right side of the ledger with destiny, by becoming governor. He will never feel that he has made good until he does.

The time had come to swear in William G. McAdoo as secretary of the treasury. A small group of persons had assembled in the secretary's room, including Justice Charles E. Hughes of the supreme court, who was to administer the oath, and everything seemed to be in readiness, when Retiring Secretary MacVeagh spoke up and said:

"I guess we'll have to wait."

"What's the trouble?" asked another department official.

"Mr. McAdoo doesn't seem to have arrived," said MacVeagh. And he was right.

In three or four minutes, McAdoo came hustling in. Justice Hughes asked for a Bible. Heretofore treasury officials have been sworn in with much informality, and no Bible has been used. Acting on Hughes' suggestion, Chief Clerk Wilmeth started to hunt a Bible. He said he was almost certain there was one in the building some place. In a comparatively short time he located the treasury Bible, but it was a large family size, too heavy for one to handle conveniently in taking an oath. So Wilmeth sent out and bought a new one of ordinary dimensions. This one will be kept for similar emergencies in the future.

Senator James Martine of New Jersey thinks he is the man who really put Woodrow Wilson on the political map. Martine was the head of a Democratic club in Plainfield, N. J., that was dying, as he says, of dry rot. He conceived the idea of having a lecturer come there under the auspices of the club, in the hope that the club might in that way acquire some slight prestige in the community. After trying to think of somebody for some time, Martine wrote a letter to Wilson, then president of Princeton university. As it happened, Wilson accepted. And when he introduced the speaker, referred to him as a man whom he hoped to see some day at the head of their state government. That was the first time such a thing had been suggested, and Martine did it just by way of being pleasant, never thinking anything would come of it.

The member of congress with the most unenviable job ahead of him is one Frank O. Smith of Maryland, now entering on his first term.

Smith's district lies all around the District of Columbia, and hundreds of his constituents can ride right to the capitol for a nickel. The average congressman has comparatively few face-to-face interviews with the home folks who want things done, and can hand out lovely generalities by letter, saying that "the matter will be one of the next things to claim his attention," and similar guff. But not so with Smith. He hasn't found it out yet, but he is destined to have the very life pestered out of him. A constituent sees by the morning papers that Smith voted a certain way on a certain bill. Within an hour that constituent may be in Washington to ascertain why. Smith will receive more calls than any ten other congressmen.

But Smith ought to get along well in the house at that. Here is the reason for thinking so: He says he got a whipping at school every day, as nearly as he can recall, clear up to the day he quit. His trouble was that he couldn't keep still. He wanted to talk all the time. Now he has his chance to make capital of that tendency. On looking over the files of the Congressional Record, one finds that the members with the most yards of talk have often been those who pulled down the biggest pluralities.

Antidotes.

Marguerite O. B. Wilkins in the Craftsman: Have you come close to a cynic and been in danger of shipwreck because of his doubts?

Seek you the young and struggling idealists who live around the corner?

Has a hypocrite infected your soul with nausea and weariness?

Go at once to the honest persons who live nearest you and visit with them.

Does Nero reign violently and cruelly in the world of your labor?

Go outside of that world, for once, seeking those who are of the kingdom of Christ.

Do you frequently meet the devil at the corner of the street on which you live?

Turn into another avenue and walk fast, hoping, and also expecting, that there you will meet God.

For when the body sinks into deep waters we reach out toward something that floats, something to which we may cling.

When flames take hold upon our clothing we seek water, or earth, wherewith to quench them.

When we have swallowed poison we hunt for an antidote while there is yet time.

We do what we can to save the body, and we do it quickly.

When the soul is drowning, burning, poisoned, in danger of life, shall we not do what we can to save the soul?

The State Legislature

Press Views on the Session.

Sees the Customary Ending.

St. Peter Free Press: Over 1,500 bills are pending before the legislature and but a little over a month is left for their consideration. The final outcome is easily surmised. There will be all sorts of scheming, log-rolling and compromising, resulting in the passage of lily-digested bills, while bills of merit go to the waste basket. To partly overcome this evil the legislature should not permit the introduction of any bills a month before adjournment except by consent of a two-thirds vote of its members, or at the special request of the governor.

Improvement Expected.

Red Wing Republican: The Dunn road bill puts a stop to the old way of working out a poll tax on the public roads and makes it payable only in cash. This is what should have been done long ago. It means that there will result an immeasurable improvement in the care of the highways.

Would Be Step Backward.

Cass Lake Times: We rejoice to know that the attempt to restore capital punishment is defeated. Two wrongs never made a right. A murder committed is not avenged by committing another. Minnesota would have gone a long way back into the night of Time had the death penalty been reestablished.

Wants a Commission.

Albert Lea Standard: The legislature is now in its tenth week and while much of importance has been given a good start, but little has been achieved that has been expected and hoped for. A commission form of state government would do business better than this.

Good Measure.

Red Wing Eagle: The mothers' pension bill which passed the house yesterday is a good measure. A widow, left with children on her hands to support, instead of seeing them scattered to be cared for by the state, the pension law will enable her to keep them at home and to be brought up under such care as only a mother can give them.

Park Rapids Enterprise: The Minnesota legislature is doing mighty good business this session. Two thousand bills have been introduced, but only a dozen have been passed.

Shorter Voting Day.

Warren Register: The present legislature may, and should, shorten the voting day in all precincts of the state, except, perhaps, those of the big cities. Cutting off four hours, two at each end, would work no hardship on anyone, nor do we believe that it would diminish the size of the vote cast a particle. From 8 a. m. to 7 p. m. is certainly long enough for the polls to be kept open, at both primary and general elections.

Where Is It?

Breckenridge Gazette: With all the reform legislation that the senators and representatives are endeavoring to place upon our statute books this winter, we are surprised that thus far no anti-treating measure has been introduced.

Why Are We Afraid of 13?

Chicago Tribune: What is the foundation of the "thirteen" superstition? Why is it, now that we are fully started in the year 1913, that the superstitious are becoming more and more weighted down with the burden of their inexplicable fears? For they are unexplainable—no one can tell you just why they are in such dread of the number if you press them for a reason.

Neither is it in English-speaking countries that the date is a fateful one. You can trace it in France, where the minister postpones the publication of the names of a new cabinet, that the list may not appear on the thirteenth of the month.

You meet with it in Germany, too, where even Bismarck would rather sacrifice a dinner than make one of thirteen at a table. Again you can come across the same superstitious terror in Switzerland, in Italy, and in the Scandinavian countries. You find it on the stock exchange, and even in gay, cynical Paris it creeps out, when a holiday starts on the thirteenth and half the people stay shamefacedly at home.

An English expert along statistical lines has recently compiled some valuable information on this queer but interesting subject. The superstition, traced back to antiquity, is thought to have its foundation in all Scandinavian countries in mythology. Their ancient gods and goddesses apparently loathed the number, but back of that none can go.

As for the reason in England two explanations are offered, though probably not one person in 1,000 who cherishes the delusion can really tell them. One authority ascribes the whole tradition to the ill luck thought to be associated from the fact that 13 sat down to the Last Supper. But why any blighting or pernicious influence should result in mankind from that solemn gathering no man or woman of any sane mind has ever been able to say. Though there are scholars who explain the terror by pointing out that since Judas, who was the first to quit the table, hanged himself, the superstition has come down through the ages since then.

But there is another and more definite reason for its origin which was only reached after a long and laborious search on the part of a number of learned men. "The superstition," they say, "that where a company of persons amount to thirteen one of them will die within the twelvemonth afterward, seems to be founded on the calculations adhered to by the insurance offices which presume that out of thirteen persons taken indiscriminately one will die within the year."

So, apparently, the superstition comes from a ridiculous deduction from Biblical history or from the chance calculations of some forgotten insurance man's computation, whose theory would probably be upset in five minutes by a modern authority upon life averages of healthy individuals.

Regard to Humanity.

Epictetus: A person once brought clothes to a pirate who had been cast ashore and almost killed by the severity of the weather; then carried him to his house, and furnished him with all necessaries. Being reproached by someone for doing good to the evil, "I have paid this regard," answered he, "not to the man, but to humanity."

Sign Language.

London Globe: Constable: "The prisoner used very threatening language, your worship."

The Magistrate: "What was the language?"

Constable: "Took off his coat to fight."

Bill Bryan's Gone to Work.

Don't talk about your thunderbolt that drops from clear blue skies,
That's quite a tawdry commonplace, an everyday surprise;
Just wait and gather breath to gasp for here's a piece of news
That's jolted half the whiskers off of Justice Charles E. Hughes:
That's staggered C. F. Murphy; that has turned Joe Bailey pale,
And made a lot of senators forget their Archbold mail;
That's stopped Bill Sulzer's talking with a short and shuddery jerk
You've heard it—what? You ain't? Great Scott! Bill Bryan's gone to work.

That's right, he sure has gone to work, the capital's a-throb
With shouts that sound through every street; Bill Bryan's got a job.
No more he flits from stump to stump and hands out vibrant chat
About the way they run things on the dear old yellow Platte;
But with his fountain pen in hand he writes to foreign kings
All sorts of notes and protocols and diplomatic things,
And all the wondering payroll fleet their public duties shirk,
And murmur, "Geo! just go and see! Bill Bryan's gone to work!"

The people hereabouts discussed their little own affairs;
But now the state department's filled with many a curious throng,
Who say, "Yes, sir, he's right in there," the while they pass along.
"I saw him sign a note," says one; another says, "Just now
I saw him dictate letters, and the sweat poured from his brow.
Too bad he's got no time to talk; the dear old days are past."
Alack a-day! old William J. has got a job at last.

SAYS GRAY HAIR VANISHES AFTER APPLYING SAGE TEA

A Mixture of Sage and Sulphur Prevents Dandruff and Falling Hair.

When you darken your hair with Sage Tea and Sulphur no one can tell, because it's done so naturally; so evenly. It is also splendid to remove dandruff, cure itching scalp and stop falling hair.

Preparing this mixture, though, at home is a mussy and troublesome task. For about 50 cents a bottle you can buy at any drug store the ready-to-use tonic called, "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy." Some druggists put this mixture up themselves but make it too sticky, so insist you want "Wyeth's" then there will be no disappointment.

You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur" and draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. Do this at night and by morning all gray hair disappears and after another application or two becomes beautifully darkened and more glossy and luxuriant than ever. You will also discover dandruff is gone and hair has stopped falling.

Gray, faded hair, though no disgrace, is a sign of old age and as we all desire a youthful and attractive appearance, get busy at once with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur and you'll look years younger. Inquiry shows all pharmacists in town here sell lots of it. Max Wirth.

Overdoing Humidity.

Everything that at times is decidedly beneficial to man, and every really good thing is likely to be occasionally overworked, and this is apt to bring upon it some discredit. The Southern gentleman who argued that whisky must be a good thing, because so frequently abused in the taking, was not so very far wrong; the trouble was not in the whisky, but in the mental makeup of those who drank it to excess.

Prof. Ingersoll of the University of Wisconsin has made some recent observations on relative humidity, the experiments being carried out in his own house, heated with a hot air furnace. The results of his investigations are published in a recent number of Science, and are interesting from the physical as well as medical viewpoint. He concluded that 70 per cent relative humidity, as recommended by some writers, was most difficult to obtain and maintain, as well as being decidedly uncomfortable to the occupants of the house during cold weather. He had found that the air in his house, when comfortably warm, had a relative humidity of less than 25 per cent (a condition extremely common in houses heated with hot air furnaces and determined to improve matters radically). A shallow tank was placed inside the air chamber on the dome of the furnace, and this was connected with the water supply so that it was constantly kept half full. In very cold weather he evaporated as much as twenty-five gallons per day, but was rarely able to get relative humidity much above 60. It goes without saying that he kept the air temperature much too high, or it would have been easy to maintain a relative humidity of 50 with the evaporation of only a few gallons of water. While he admits the singular freedom from colds enjoyed by his family, the investigation was undertaken from purely scientific motives, and the point of view was that of physics, not medicine. The disagreeable features of too high humidity were all condensation effects. Windows became frosted, and and cold walls were constantly damp; but he found that these disadvantages were not prominent when the humidity ranged above 40, and at this point the house felt entirely comfortable. It has been repeatedly stated in this column that the relative humidity should be between 40 and 70, 50 as a desirable mean. It was only in cases of dry bronchitis or dry pharyngitis, that humidity as high as 70 was recommended, and then for curative purposes only.

The annoying condensation effects mentioned by Prof. Ingersoll are, however, not detrimental to health, and my point of view was entirely that of health. So far as the maintenance of health is concerned, 40 per cent humidity as a minimum would appear to be quite sufficient, although when 50 per cent is easily obtained, it is certainly not too much. Condensation of water on cold surfaces cannot be avoided whenever there is an approach at sufficient moisture in the air; but a slight frosting of the windows is not very annoying, and damp walls should be blamed, against the construction of the houses, rather than a too high inside humidity.

The point to remember is that healthy inside air, besides being fresh, should carry 40 to 50 per cent of water vapor and not be much above 65 deg. Fahrenheit in temperature; and slight annoyances from condensation of water must be remedied without reducing humidity. The amount of water necessary to properly moisten air brought in from the outside during freezing weather, is poorly understood, and an example will not be amiss.

It requires a little over 2 grains of water to saturate a foot of air at 32 deg., and at 70 deg. 8 grains are required. On a day when the outside temperature is at 32 with relative humidity about 90, each foot contains about 2 grains of water, and when this air is brought into the house and heated to 70 deg. its relative humidity would be only 22, provided it had received no addition of water; but the hygrometer probably shows a relative humidity of 30, and this means that the air has picked up 8 points of moisture from the furniture, walls and occupants, or from leaks around the radiators, potted plants, fish bowls, etc. If 2,000 cubic feet of air comes into the room every hour, and this is about the right amount for an ordinary living room, this would mean that in twenty-four hours the air would absorb just a little less than a gallon of water and still be only about 30 per cent relative humidity. The occupants will supply a little of this, say enough to bring the humidity up to 30, but to increase this to 50, a proper percentage, it will require about a gallon more water a day for each 2,000 feet of air space.

So it will be seen that the little pots holding a pint or so of water, which are frequently seen on the top of heating stoves, are entirely inadequate, and any benefit derived from their presence is more imaginary than real.

Questions and Answers.

Oil of Wintergreen for Rheumatism.

B. S. writes: Is oil of wintergreen, taken internally, good for one suffering with rheumatism and what is the correct dose?

REPLY.

Oil of wintergreen is composed principally of salicylate of methyl, and it is the salicylic acid part which benefits cases of rheumatism. It is better for external use than internal. There are several other salicylic acid compounds which have better effect and disturb digestion less. The dose is put at five to ten drops, but if taken frequently enough to do much good, it will knock out your digestion, even in these doses.

Nervousness.

W. N. writes: Is there any simple remedy that will relieve extreme nervousness, with frequent headache and sleeplessness?

REPLY.

No, don't dose yourself with headache powders and like remedies, however, for they will in the long run make matters worse. Consult a reliable physician who understands these nervous conditions: take him thoroughly into your confidence, and he is likely to find the cause of all the trouble and put you in the way of cure with little or no drugging.

Offensive Perspiration.

E. W. writes: Why is the perspiration of some people much more offensive than others? 2. Will frequent scrubbing of the arm-pits with ammonia in the water help to relieve the condition? 3. What is the best treatment?

REPLY.

The offensive odor from perspiration is caused by the changes taking place through the action of air and body heat in organic substances eliminated from the blood with the sweat. These substances vary greatly in character, but this difference is always directly related to the diet of the individual. Thus those eating much meat and what is known as strong food will eliminate substances producing the most offensive odors.

2. Only for the immediate time; in the long run, if persisted in, it will act in the reverse way by stimulating the sebaceous glands to greater excretion.

3. Frequent bathing of the whole body, thus keeping the entire skin acting well. Also use freely on arm-pits and other parts given to excessive sweating a salicylated talcum powder made in the strength of 20 grains salicylic acid to each ounce of a good talcum. Of course, besides the above, in stubborn or bad cases it will be necessary to make changes in the diet, making it more simple and taking plenty of outdoor exercise.

apportionment went into effect a larger share of the representation than it was entitled to.

It has kept that over-representation ever since and the disparity has grown greater year by year, with Northern Minnesota and the cities growing apace and Southern Minnesota increasing in population only slightly.

Now, however, a bill has been passed that makes a complete readjustment of legislative representation, and makes it on a basis that is pretty near as fair as it could be made—in a bill that would stand any show whatever of passage. At the elections in 1914 this state will elect sixty-seven senators and 130 representatives, and these senators and representatives will be divided more or less equally between the several sections of the state.

For instance, St. Louis, Lake and Cook counties, which have three senators and six representatives now, will have five senators and ten representatives in the next legislature. The counties west of St. Louis county, which now share a paltry handful of senators and representatives, will have as many as their population calls for.

And Southern Minnesota, though it still has slightly better than the representation it would be entitled to on a population basis, has had to yield a considerable share of the unjust representation it has had so many years.

That it used this over-representation to delay and defeat reapportionment is not unnatural, perhaps; and now that the fight is all over all hard feelings and sectional bitterness have vanished—it is to be hoped forever.

The fact to rejoice in is that Northern Minnesota has at last come into its own.

Many Entitled to Credit.

There is vast credit to be accorded for this victory of the right; and there are many to share it. Led by Representative C. H. Warner of Aitkin and Senator Victor L. Johnson of Center City, the chairmen of the two reapportionment committees, the Northern Minnesota forces have made a hard and a consistent and a winning fight. Every member from the North has done his full share.

But there have been just men from Southern Minnesota who have helped, too, and without whose help victory would have been impossible. Such men as Senator Jullus A. Coller of Shakopee and Senator A. J. Rockne of Zumbrota will long be remembered for the share they had in working this triumph of justice over injustice.

Nor should those who participated in the losing fight of two years ago be forgotten, for they laid the foundation. Chester A. Congdon of Duluth, as chairman of the house reapportionment committee in 1911, when the fight had to be made against the stubborn fact that the passage of a reapportionment bill meant cutting in two the terms of all the members of the senate, did a great work which smoothed the pathway for the leaders of the winning fight of 1913. A sentiment was created that made victory certain at this session.

In beginning the work of reapportment after sixteen years a vast amount of figuring had to be done, and a vast array of facts had to be gathered and marshaled in suitable array. This work Mr. Congdon did most ably, and the first move in the reapportionment fight at this session was when he laid before the legislature, through the chairman of the reapportionment committee, the results of his labors in 1911 in the form of a pamphlet full of eloquent maps, charts and tables of figures. This pamphlet has been the handbook of this year's reapportionment fight, and it has been referred to constantly by everybody who has been connected with the battle just ended.

Congressional Reapportionment.

With legislative reapportionment out of the way, congressional reapportionment, which has been held up pending the outcome of the Warner-Johnson bill, will be taken up immediately.

The readjustment of representation made by congress following the census of 1910 gave Minnesota an additional member of the house, and no congressional reapportionment having been made in 1911; this member was elected "at large" in the 1912 election. What the reapportionment committee has now to do is to readjust the present nine congressional districts into ten. This will be no such task as legislative reapportionment, either to prepare a bill or to pass it.

Senator Victor L. Johnson, chairman of the senate reapportionment committee, has prepared a rough draft of a reapportionment bill which he introduced this morning in the senate. It was referred to the reapportionment committee, which will make it the basis of its discussions.

It provides the following ten districts:

First—Huston, Fillmore, Winona, Wabasha, Olmstead, Mower, Dodge, Steele, Wascca and Freeborn counties.

Second—Blue Earth, Faribault, Martin, Watonwan, Brown, Cottonwood, Jackson, Nobles, Rock, Pipestone, Murray, Redwood and Lincoln counties.

Third—Wright, McLeod, Sibley, Nicollet, LeSueuer, Carver, Scott, Rice, Goodhue and Dakota counties.

Fourth—Grant, Douglas, Traverse, Stevens, Pope, Bigstone, Swift, Lac Qui Parle, Chippewa, Yellow Medicine, Renville, Kandiyohi, Lyon and Meeker counties.

Fifth—Ramsey county.

Sixth—The Third, Fourth, Fifth, Sixth, Seventh, Eighth, Eleventh, Twelfth and Thirteenth wards of Minneapolis.

Seventh—Sherburne, Chisago, Washington, Isanti, Kanabec, Mille Lacs, and Anoka counties, and all of Hennepin county outside the city of Minneapolis, with the First, Second, Ninth and Tenth wards of Minneapolis.

Ninth—Benton, Stearns, Morrison, Crow Wing, Todd, Wadena, Cass, Hubbard, Itasca, Koochiching, Beltrami and Clearwater counties.

Tenth—Ottertail, Wilkin, Clay, Becker, Mahnomen, Norman, Polk, Marshall, Red Lake, Pennington, Kittson and Roseau counties.

The house reapportionment committee has given the subject some study, but it has not yet reduced its ideas to the form of a bill. So far as it has gone, however, the present idea in that committee is to confine the Duluth district to St. Louis, Lake, Cook, Kochiching and Itasca counties.

Nearly Through Probe.

The senate grain investigation committee came to an agreement yesterday afternoon that it would work only three or four days more, long enough to clean up matters now pending and to get in several important statements that have been called for, including a statement from the railroad and warehouse commission on the subject of grain inspection. Chairman Works asked the senate to grant enough additional expense money to do this, and the senate granted it.

By Senator Denegre—Prohibiting the fraudulent use of street car transfers.

By Senator Boyle—Appropriating $50,000 for a state mines building at Hibbing; a duplicate of the Healy-Knapp bill now pending before the house committee on appropriations.

By Senator Swanson—Creating a state board of public domain to consist of the state auditor and two members appointed by the governor.

By Senator L'Herault—Exempting undertakers from grand jury duty.

ANNUAL REPORT OF STEEL CORPORATION

Total Earnings for Year 1912 Given at $117,926,402.

New York, March 19.—A noteworthy feature of the eleventh annual report of the United States Steel corporation, covering the operations for the year 1912, issued yesterday, is the change in the corporation's system of bookkeeping. The total earnings are given as $117,926,402, this being "exclusive of charges for interest on bonds and mortgages of subsidiary companies."

In previous yearss total earning were stated, after this deduction was made, and compare with this year's balance of earnings which are given as $108,174,673.

These latter figures compare with $104,305,465 in 1911. Net income for 1912 was $77,075,217, a decrease of $1,250,222 from 1911. Depreciation and replacement funds amounted to $22,-734,365, an increase of $4,505,336. Surplus net income for 1912 was $3,605,247, a decrease of $1,060,247.

Expenditures totaled $48,748,437, an increase of $3,788,172. These were paid from funds provided from earnings to cover requirements. Capital expenditures include $1,725,052 for the Gary plant, $2,676,086 for the Minnesota Steel plant, $1,830,094, for the Tennessee Coal & Iron company and $9,152,864 on other properties aggregating a total of $15,387,708 compared with similar disbursements of about $48,000,000 in 1911.

In 1912, the corporation mined 26,-428,449 tons of Iron ore against 19,-933,631 in 1911. Its output of coke also was much larger, likewise its blast furnace production and output of steel ingots. Total production of rolled and finished steel for sale was 12,506,619 tons against 9,476,248 tons in 1911.

The average number of employes in the service of the corporation for 1912 was 221,025 as against 196,888 in 1911. Total annual salaries and wages in 1912 aggregated $139,351,602 an increase of $27,993,751 over 1911.

LAWLER AND DOTY HURRAH FOR LYNCH

His Designation as Plum Tree Shaker in Minnesota Indorsed.

St. Paul, Minn., March 19.—The Pioneer Press says: If Daniel W. Lawler, late candidate for United States senator, has any doubts as to the political wisdom of the selection of Fred B. Lynch, national committeeman, as Federal patronage judge for Minnesota, he is keeping them strictly within the four walls of his own consciousness.

Although Washington dispatches yesterday implied that Mr. Lawler, who has never been friendly toward Mr. Lynch, would not be pleased to learn of the selection of Lynch as official dispenser of Federal appointments in this state, and that he in fact wanted to have something to say himself, Mr. Lawler last night declared he was entirely satisfied. He denied that he had made protest against Mr. Lynch's dominance at Washington.

A Feather for Lynch.

"I shall be entirely satisfied with anything the president does," said Lawler. "It is much to Mr. Lynch's credit if he cares to take the responsibility, and it must be a great relief to the president to have Mr. Lynch here to take care of his appointments. I should like to see the same system worked out in every state in the Union giving the national committeemen instead of congressmen the right to recommend appointments. It would simplify matters a great deal and give the president more time to attend to public business."

Doty Hits Lawler's Stride.

That the selection of Mr. Lynch to be the sole distributor of appointments in this district will be pleasing generally to the Democrats here, is the opinion of many other prominent party leaders. Paul Doty, who was a delegate to the national convention in Baltimore last summer, declared that any man who could not get along with Mr. Lynch could not get along with his own mother.

"President Wilson was wise in his choice of Mr. Lynch as an adviser in the matter of appointments here," said Mr. Doty. "No man has done more for Democracy in the state than has Mr. Lynch. I believe the Democrats throughout the state will approve whatever he does."

Willis, Too.

John W. Willis, former district judge and a candidate for appointment in the office of attorney general, said he believed that Mr. Lynch is the proper man to name the appointees in Minnesota, and that not one Democrat in a thousand would oppose him. He declared that Mr. Lynch had done much for Democratic harmony in Minnesota.

Linseed Oil Workers Strike.

Minneapolis, Minn., March 19.—Workers in the linseed oil mills of Spencer, Kellogg & Co., and the Midland Linseed company, went out on a strike Tuesday. Only a part of the men are so far affected, and the mill owners say their places will be filled today. The men are not organized. The men say that they did not go out because of dissatisfaction in wages, but because of a demand for better working conditions, which, they say, was not granted. They ask for shorter and more frequent shifts.

Do you know, my friend, that there is a wonderful new way to apply a certain, great, natural FORCE to your body and by which you may, without effort, trouble or inconvenience, treat your own self in the privacy of your home for debility and lost vitality, without using a single drug or medicine? This great FORCE, as a restorer of vitality is today being used all over the civilized world, and I give it as my honest opinion, based upon a vast observation and study, that any man anywhere, who leads a decent, manly life and who applies this marvellous FORCE in a scientific and rational way, can without employing a single drug, be restored again to a state of perfect, rugged health and vigor, without a remaining ache, pain or weakness.

As we all know, these various debilitating weaknesses handicap a man in every condition of life, while, on the other hand, a perfect specimen of vigorous, robust manhood is ever admired by both women and men alike, while, of course, it is certainly only such a man who can attain the really great successes of life. Therefore, I say to you, no matter what your size, whether you are small or large, no matter what your occupation, no matter whether you are a college graduate or working on the farm or in the factory, no matter whether you are young or elderly, it is all a question of your vigor and your vitality, and if I can give you a good, abundant supply of this same great power of VITAL FORCE, then it is easy to believe that I can completely restore your vigorous health, can overcome the evil effects of past indiscretions so you will be exactly the same in your influence over people, exactly the same in your manly bearing as other manly, strong-nerved, warm-blooded fellows of your acquaintance.

This little VITALIZER is very light, weighing only several ounces, and can be worn without any one suspecting that you are wearing it. You buckle it on your body upon going to bed and take it off mornings. Thus while you sleep it sends its wonderful power, which I call VITALITY or VITAL FORCE, into your blood, nerves and organs. Users say it takes pain and weakness out of the back upon one application, and further say 60 to 90 days' time is sufficient to restore a state of health, strength and vigor. I am not offering this VITALIZER here for sale, but want you to first send for my book that you may learn all about the whole wonderful subject, and why I get such quantities of testimonials from users everywhere telling of results after drugs completely and utterly fail.

SURE SIGN OF A FOOL

Says Tragedy of Evil Is Subject for Tears, Not Laughter.

Rev. M. S. Rice, pastor of the First M. E. church, took "Fools Make a Mock of Sin," Prov. xiv, 9, for the text of his sermon last evening at the Lyceum theater. Among other things, he said:

"If this text is true I am justified in making a reverse conclusion and declaring that any man who makes a mock of sin is a fool. I doubt not that the reason for so much inactivity and lack of genuine Christian endeavor today lies in the fact that sin is not properly recognized. Mock anything else, but don't mock sin. And yet I know with what utter carelessness men go their way today casting up the lightest jesting mockery at sin of every type, and making sin the constant burden of their jokes.

"Many of the cartoons in the funny papers are founded on the sorrow of sin and stand in foolish laughter upon the tragedy of evil. I sometimes wonder at the reason for all this, and think there likely lies blame on the preachers that we have not done our work well. I cannot but believe that if Jesus Christ in the infinite sacrifice He made, is set properly before the world, men must lose the idea of sin as a joke and behold it an eternal tragedy, and cease to mock it. It is time the pulpit was turning its power against this one great root of trouble on earth.

"Sin is no matter for metaphysics. It is not business for psychologists to build new theories about, a very common practice these days. Prof. James of Harvard, one of the greatest of them all, said shortly before he died that we are in danger today of evaporating our religion in psychological terms. How true his diagnosis. Men seem today to imagine they have cattered to the world's need if they conduct a psychological clinic around some of the vital facts of religion. They remind me of the man who, with the nerve of a scientific searcher, cuts open his mother's heart to seek for the evidence of love. We need today a shock of the appreciation of the significance of sin.

Sin Is Concrete.

"Sin is not to be handled as a mere psychological evolution. It is a hideously concrete matter. It is visible in its results. It brings darkness and shame and ruin among men. It is a shadow across the earth. It makes enemies of men and crushes affection before the heartstone. The man who mocks sin is a fool.

"I will not soon forget the word of a young man in a street car in our city not long ago. An intoxicated man staggered into the car and was with drunken foolishness making merriment to those who sat near him. The whole aspect of the case seemed funny to them. Every word he uttered seemed cause for more laughter. The young man had done nothing but sit in silent contemplation and without a sign of a smile listened in pain to it all, turned to me and said: 'If whisky had done for those who laugh what it has done for me in my home they would see little at which to laugh in the foolish tragedy of that man.' The door into which he soon stepped, a father shorn of his worth to his home, a husband made a terror and a sorrow to an early affection, that door led into no place for laughter.

"Sin is a matter for tears, not laughter. It has broken the fairest things on earth. It has ruined its hopes, blasted its purity, crushed its loves, trampled down its virtues, wrecked its ambitions, quenched its joys. Sin, I tell you, is not a thing to be mocked, but rather is an enemy to be hated and fought, and I call to you tonight that you shall be sure and get a correct view of sin in its workings among us. There is no more needed thing in the society of today than a clear appreciation of the meaning of sin.

"A man said proudly to me one day: 'Mr. Rice, my religion is taking good care of my family. That's enough religion for me.' And he confessed that what he meant by taking care of his family was feeding and clothing and amusing them. Religion was classed as a fancy, a fashion, a luxury. A thing to be left out with impunity. I know a home where all these things of provision for the family abundantly prevail. That man's religion is supreme. But they mocked sin there. 'Sin! Ha! Ha! 'Tis the least of concern to us.' I cannot begin to tell you the havoc of that home. But today the hearth is cold. The music is stilled. The laughter is silent. They were fed, clothed, amused. But the sin at which they mocked has utterly destroyed that home. That man's word to me was a fool's logic. There are things which cannot be left out of life."

This is the big week of Scotish Rite Masonry throughout the southern jurisdiction, and Duluth members of the rite are spending most of their time at the Masonic temple either taking part in the work of the twenty-nine degrees being conferred or communicated, or looking on. A large class is being shown the mysteries of the fourth to the thirty-second degrees inclusive. PRISONERS ARE ACQUITTED

Juries Bring in Verdicts of Not Guilty Against Two.

Phinneas L. Gayton, colored, charged with assault in the second degree, and John Aalto, accused of grand larceny, first degree, were acquitted by juries in district court before Judge Cant yesterday afternoon.

Gayton was charged with having struck one W. J. Webb, white, with intent to do bodily harm. Gayton had a grievance against Webb, and on the stand admitted that he had struck Webb. He claimed that his action was justified, and the jury took his view of the matter.

Aalto, who was charged with having stolen $32 and a watch from Settl Beckman at the Ormond hotel, Lake avenue south, on Feb. 19, denied the story. He claimed that he had purchased the watch from a man with whom he had stayed at the hotel. The "stranger" has since disappeared. The jury accepted the story in preference to the claims of the state.

E. J. Kenny appeared as attorney for Gayton, and Donald Holmes represented the defendant Aalto.

Do you know, my friend that there is a wonderful new way to apply electric power, or nature, POWER to your body and by which you may without effort, trouble or inconvenience, treat your own self in the privacy of your home for debility and lost vitality, without using a single drug or medicine? This great FORCE, as a restorer of vigor, is today being used all over the civilized world, and I give it as my honest opinion, based upon a vast observation and study, that any man anywhere, who leads a decent, manly life and who applies this marvellous FORCE in a scientific and rational way, can without employing a single drug, be restored again to a state of perfect, rugged health and vigor, without a remaining ache, pain or weakness.

As we all know these various debilitating weaknesses handicap a man in every condition of life, while on the other hand, a perfect specimen of vigorous, robust manhood is ever admired by both women and men alike, while, of course it is certainly only such a man who can attain the really great successes of life. Therefore I say to you, no matter what your size, whether you are small or large, no matter what your occupation, no matter whether you are a college graduate or working on the farm or in the factory, no matter whether you are young or elderly, it is all a question of your vigor and your vitality, and if I can give you a good, abundant supply of this same great power of vigor and vitality, and if I can show you how easy it is to believe that I can completely restore your vigorous health, can overcome the evil effects of past indiscretions so you will be exactly the same in your influence over people exactly the same in your manly bearing as other manly, strong-nerved, warm-blooded fellows of your acquaintance.

With an idea of attaining all this for you, I recommend you to investigate a simple little VITALIZING APPLIANCE of my own invention, which, I am now sending out in great numbers for use by men everywhere who need new manly strength. This little VITALIZER is very light, weighing only several ounces and can be worn without any one suspecting that you are wearing it. You buckle it on your body upon going to bed, and take it off mornings. Thus while you sleep it sends its wonderful power, which, I call VITALITY or VITAL FORCE, into your blood, nerves and organs. Users say it takes right hold and weakness out of the back upon one application, and further say so in 90 days' time is sufficient to restore a state of health, strength and vigor. I am not offering this VITALIZER here for sale, but want you to first send for my book that you may learn all about the whole wonderful subject, and when I get your quantities of testimonials from users everywhere telling of results after drugs completely and utterly fail.

SURE SIGN OF A FOOL

Says Tragedy of Evil Is Subject for Tears, Not Laughter.

Rev. M. S. Rice, pastor of the First M. E. church, took "Fools Make a Mock of Sin," Prov. xiv, 9, for the text of his sermon last evening at the Lyceum theater. Among other things, he said:

"If this text is true I am justified in making a reverse conclusion and declaring that any man who makes a mock of sin is a fool. I doubt not that the reason for so much inactivity and lack of genuine Christian endeavor today lies in the fact that sin is not properly recognized. Mock anything else, but don't mock sin. And yet I know with what utter carelessness men go their way today casting up the lightest jesting mockery at sin of every type, and making sin the constant burden of their jokes.

"Many of the cartoons in the funny papers are founded on the sorrow of sin and stand in foolish laughter upon the tragedy of evil. I sometimes wonder at the reason for all this, and think there likely lies blame on the preachers that we have not done our work well. I cannot but believe that if Jesus Christ in the infinite sacrifice He made, is set properly before the world, men must lose the idea of sin as a joke and behold it as an eternal tragedy, and cease to mock it. It is time the pulpit was turning its power against this one great root of trouble on earth.

"Sin is no matter for metaphysics. It is not business for psychologists to build new theories about, a very common practice these days. Prof. James of Harvard, one of the greatest of them all, said shortly before he died that we are in danger today of evaporating our religion in psychological terms. How true his diagnosis. Men seem today to imagine they have centered to the world's need if they conduct a psychological clinic around some of the vital facts of religion. They remind me of the man who, with the nerve of a scientific scatter, sits down his mother's heart to seek for the evidence of love. We need today a shock of the appreciation of the significance of sin.

Sin Is Concrete.

"Sin is not to be handled as a mere psychological evolution. It is a hideously concrete matter. It is visible in its results. It brings darkness and shame and ruin among men. It is a shadow across the earth. It makes enemies of man and crushes affection before the heartstone. The man who mocks sin is a fool.

"I will not soon forget the word of a young man in a street car in our city not long ago. An intoxicated man staggered into the car and was with drunken foolishness making merriment to those who sat near him. The whole aspect of the case seemed funny to them. Every word he uttered seemed cause for more laughter. The young man had done nothing but sit in silent contemplation and without a sign of a smile listened in pain to it all, turned to me and said: 'If whisky had done for those who laugh what it has done for me in my home they would see little at which to laugh in the foolish tragedy of that man.' The door into which he soon stepped, a father shorn of his worth to his home, a husband made a terror and a sorrow to an early affection, that door led into no place for laughter.

"Sin is a matter for tears, not laughter. It has broken the fairest things on earth. It has ruined its hopes, blasted its purity, crushed its loves, trampled down its virtues, wrecked its ambitions, quenched its joys. Sin, I tell you, is not a thing to be mocked, but rather is an enemy to be hated and fought, and I call to you tonight that you shall be sure and get a correct view of sin in its workings among us. There is no more needed thing in the society of today than a clear appreciation of the meaning of sin.

"A man said proudly to me one day: 'Mr. Rice, my religion is taking good care of my family. That's enough religion for me.' And he confessed that what he meant by taking care of his family was feeding and clothing and amusing them. Religion was classed as a fancy, a fashion, a luxury. A thing to be left out with impunity. I know a home where all these things of provision for the family abundantly prevail. That man's religion is supreme. But they mocked sin there. 'Sin! Ha! Ha! 'Tis the least of concern to us.' I cannot begin to tell you the havoc of that home. But today the hearth is cold. The music is stilled. The laughter is silent. They were fed, clothed, amused. But the sin at which they mocked has utterly destroyed that home. That man's word to me was a fool's logic. There are things which cannot be left out of life."

LATEST SPORTING NEWS OF THE DAY

HERDING THE SPORTING SHEEP AND GOATS INTO THE DOPE CORRAL, AS SEEN BY BRUCE

LOTS of you remember Charley Mitchell. Well, it's reported he's dying. And let us hasten to chronicle here that with the passing of Mitchell will go the last great heavyweight fighter the little island has produced during the past twenty years or more—and this, too, is placing Mitchell in the heavyweight division simply through virtue of his greatness, for he was ever able to make the middleweight limit.

If ever a man lived able to put the fear of mortals into the breast of John L. Sullivan, it was this dying pugilist. First Mitchell met the great John L. in the garden. Here it was that the Boston strong boy experienced the first knockdown of his career.

True, as George pipes up, Sullivan knocked Mitchell through the ropes and the police stopped the fight—and it is also true that upon another occasion the great John Lawrence Sullivan got fearfully drunk upon the afternoon he was to meet the much smaller Briton, and there were some unkind enough to state that the Boston boy did not hanker overmuch after the battle.

If Charley Mitchell had ever met Jack Dempsey it is probable that the Nonpariel would have been surely beaten. In the dear days of his prime it is exceedingly doubtful if the man lived who could have held his own with this courageous, clever and chesty little Englishman.

Among the very greatest in all the world, a hitter and a rare boxer, a man who dared the mighty John L. to come and battle rough and tumble with him, death will remove in the person of Charley Mitchell one of the great old ring characters—one of the greatest fighters who ever threw up his hands.

WISE followers of wrestling are wondering if Mike Yokel hasn't been neatly trapped in entering the match with Walter Willoughby. Mike Gibbons was handed a lesson in match making by the astute Marty Forkins. McGoorty wore lead in his shoes and appeared in several public weighings heavier than his actual poundage.

For two years Willoughby has been on the trail of Henry Gehring. But the great Cleveland mat star who was recently defeated by the great Mike Yokel could not see the Mellen marvel. Shortly after the Yokel defeat of Gehring came rumors from Mellen that Willoughby was unable to make the middleweight limit; in fact, that he was unable to do any ringside weight under the 170 mark. Then came the statement from Yokel that he would meet Willoughby, in case the latter made a ringside weight of 162 pounds.

Yesterday the writer received a letter from the Mellen wrestler in which he declared that he would meet the conditions imposed by Yokel—"Now that the match is closed I want to tell you that this guy is going to get the surprise of his life. I am right at my best at 162 pounds, and believe me I have been waiting for this chance for something like two years. They thought that I couldn't make the weight and be strong—wait and see; you will sge the right man wearing the title after the match in your city."

If Willoughby can really make the weight and be strong, as he says, then the fans here are going to witness just such another battle as the fans of Salt Lake City saw the evening Yokel pinned the shoulders of Gehring to the canvas—and it required the Rocky Mountain bear something like three hours to win undisputed possession of the title.

Walter Willoughby is really a wonderful wrestler. The citizens of Mellen will stand by him to the very end, and a large delegation is coming here to cheer the Wisconsin boy on.

Should Willoughby win he says he will be open to wrestle Fred Beell or Theodore Peter a finish match.

NOW this is loyalty, boys. Friends of Joe Mandot went down in the French market district of New Orleans after the defeat at the hands of Leach Cross and readily raised $10,000 to bet on the former petite garcon in a return battle with the Bowery dentist.

Lucifer, and others who have hit the toboggan more or less precipitously, have deep and gnashing cause of envy in this exhibition of renewed hope and wholesome offer of gladsome kale to make come back easy.

AMID the din of battle in the training camps; amidst the roar of the bat against the horsehide as wielded in the hands of the usual band of spring phenoms, Chubby Charles Murphy rises to the remark that baseball these days is faster than in the halcyon afternoons of the past.

This declaration prompts one to wonder if Mr. Murphy will hold to the same opinion after the close of the race in the National league.

AREN'T they having the dickens of a time in Chicago? First there came the civil war anent the discharging of Chance. Now the cits of the city are getting up petitions to have friend Murphy give Jimmy Archer the salary he demands. Said salary is placed at the multitudinous figure of $7,500 by the star receiver of the league—and he will be the star receiver if he receives the increase—while the highst figure that Murphy has been able to see as yet is the more or less paltry sum of some 3,500 simoleons.

The disparity, the hiatus, or the yawning gap, just as you will, is deep and wide, even as it was in the poem about the bright youth and the mountain height, and the grave question is whether diplomacy, arbitration or the grim power of the press will be able to bring the boss and his prize pupil together.

STRANGE as it may seem, the fight clubs of New York are literally starving to death. This may be disputed in some qnarters, but it is nevertheless true. The same goes for Milwaukee. In commenting upon this fact Otto Floto of the Denver Post rises to the solution of the problem with the remark that while the limited round bout is interesting, it does not as a rule bring the result. Perhaps that is the reason why the cities where the twenty round bout is permitted are coining the dough—the houses at Los Angeles, for instance.

LEACH TO BE TRADED

TOMMY LEACH.

The famous player of the Cubs is to be traded to the St. Louis Cardinals, according to the telegraphic reports from the South. Leach is one of the most famous baseball players in the world. Formerly stationed at third base for the Pittsburg team, he was shifted to the outfield and instantly became one of the greatest fly chasers in the game. Last season he proved a timely pinch hitter for the Cubs.

ATHLETICS HAVE THE BEST INFIELD

Connie Mack Will Have It on Other Teams on First Defense Line.

Philadelphia, March 19.—In remodeling the various big league baseball outfits for the 1913 campaigns, every manager excepting one will have to devote at least part of his attention to the inner breastworks. The Athletes alone possess an infield that looms up as near the perfect combination as ever graced a diamond.

There are those intimately connected with the past who say this statement goes for all time past and present. However that may be, there is not the shadow of a doubt that Connie Mack today has a quartet of stars head and shoulders above any string of infielders taken collectively on one team.

An attempt to improve the combination would indeed be like trying to "paint the lilly." The fact, too, that the other managers will have to tinker with their first line of defense makes them stand out all the more prominently. Delving into the dust laden records for comparisons, I fail to uncover another quartet of this mould. And there have been any number of sterling collections.

Speed, agility, consistency and strategy are all to be found in the number. In defense every man of the lot is there able to uphold his end with the best in his class. Collectively they bat far above the .300 mark, only one of the numbers having an average below the coveted figure that is a sign of par excellence. Barry, the weakest batter finished last season with an average of .261, all the others being rated above the three century point. In fielding, too, these men have percentages that compare well with their batting prowess. Two of them, Barry and Baker—led the league last season in their respective positions.

He picked up three stars that now form part of the present set, all but Stuffy McInnis. Two of these had not even played in the major leagues, while the others never had a regular job. But in the short space of a season with the aid of Veteran Harry Davis, the so-called bushers flashed into the front ranks and were acclaimed stars. Every one of them won the praise of the experts, many of whom had predicted nothing but disaster for them at the start of the race.

The following season these players were the leading factors in bringing a world's title to the Quaker City, which they duplicated the next year. It was one of the mysteries of the last season, why the team should have been beaten with such great players as McInnis, Collins, Barry and Baker in the lineup.

When the Giants were humbled by them in the fall of 1911 the news went out that Mack had an outfit that would stand the test of time for years to come. Last spring the critics were almost unanimous in picking them to repeat. In fact there are many fans who cannot figure out to this day how the Red Sox and Senators managed to beat them out in the race.

McInnis, who supplanted the veteran Harry Davis at first in 1911, finished the season with a batting average of .327. Next to Hal Chase, there is no better first baseman. His fielding is sensational.

Collins is the real speed king of the bunch. The former Columbia student, who surprised the fans by stealing eighty-one sacks in 1909, this being the greatest number stolen by any player since the days of Bill Lange, got away with sixty-three cushions in 1912, twice stealing six bases in a single game. To show, too, that he is not going back, Eddie banged the horse hide at a .348 clip. Baker was just one point below him.

WORKING HARD FOR BIG MEET

Duluth Athletes Training for Sport Carnival That Y. M. C. A. Is to Stage.

Anticipating that the carnival of sports at the Y. M. C. A. will be the greatest athletic event ever put on at the association gymnasium, great efforts are being made in preparation for the three evenings of sport.

Those who are to take part in the track meet are at the present time in hard training. Matt Brown of the high school is expected to be one of the stars of the meet, and "Scotty" is at the present time in good condition.

The boat club, winner of the banner last season, expects to put a strong team in this contest, and some of the men are already hard at work training.

Instructor Wegener is bending every effort to win the field and track meet for the association this season. There is an unusually large number of athletes in training for the various events and it is believed that the Y. M. C. A. will have the strongest team in its history.

The following captains were appointed by the physical department of the Y. M. C. A. yesterday:

Team No. 1—Berkleman, captain; Coning, Friedman, Wolean, Dock, Erickson and F. Johnson.

Team No. 3—Palmstein, captain; A. Anderson, A. Olson, Bjorlin, Kempinski, Gamble and McDougall.

Team No. 4—Hillman, captain; Busselman, Akerstrom, C. Anderson, Norske, H. Hokanson and J. Moore.

Last night team No. 1 defeated team No. 2 in basket ball 16 to 2 and also won the relay race. Team No. 3 defeated team No. 4 at basket ball 12 to 6, and No. 4 won the relay.

NO CHANCE TO DISPUTE THIS DECISION

By an odd coincidence, the only man in Duluth who could decide a bet that was in controversy in a Superior street cigar store today dropped into the store at the height of the debate. The man was David Cone.

"Here comes the judge," said one of the disputants. "I have bet this man a box of cigars that Frank Hayes was at one time the lightweight champion of Wyoming. Is that right?"

"Yes, he was," said Mr. Cone.

"Where is your authority?" asked the other better.

"I will soon fetch it," replied Mr. Cone. He then went to a bank, where he opened his safety deposit box and took therefrom a gold medal. With this he returned to the cigar store after a few minutes.

"Here it is," said he. "This medal bears the name of Frank Hayes as lightweight champion boxer of Wyoming in 1835."

The authority was too strong to be disputed and the bet was paid forthwith.

"Twenty-three years ago," said Mr. Cone, "I lent Frank Hayes $25 and took that medal as security. That is why I still have it."

Frank Hayes lived in Duluth for about thirty years. At one time he was justice of the peace at Pike Lake. He is believed now to be residing at Grand Forks.

NORTHERN LEAGUE TEAMS PREPARING FOR SEASON

Within a Short Time the Various Clubs Will Leave for Spring Training Camps---"Lefty" Davis May Pilot Winona.

"Bill" Carney may not after all be the manager of the Winona club in the new Northern league. Though signed by the Port Arthur team as manager for the present season, it is stated that his contract is not to be honored by the stockholders of the city beautiful club. The dope has it that "Lefty" Davis is to hold to the managerial reins of the Winona team.

Just what decision is to be made by the Winona club will most likely be known today or tomorrow, for the work of signing the players must be taken up some time in the near future.

It has already been decided that the Winnipeg club is to train at Excelsior Springs, Mo. The St. Paul club of the American association is doing its spring training there at the present time and Tim Flood, the manager of the Peggers, figures that the early work with the large leaguers will be greatly beneficial to his men.

Superior is to train at Sterling, Ill., according to the news that comes from the other side of the bay, while Darby O'Brien has written Harry Blume that he expects to have all of his men report at Cleveland shortly after the first of the coming month.

Duluth, Superior, Grand Forks, St. Paul and Minneapolis have practically signed the majority of the players that will make up these teams. Tim Flood is hard at work completing the roster of the Maroons, while it is also announced Spike Shannon has a number of players up his sleeve for Virginia. With the signing of the manager of the Winona Pirates, work will immediately be started on the assembling of the team.

St. Paul's Prospects.

News from the Apostle City is encouraging and lends belief that Charley Jones, the former star outfielder of the Washington team, is going to have a fast and scrappy aggregation in the fold. Third Baseman Beal of Redfield, S. D., rated as the fastest guardian of the difficult corner in all of Northern South Dakota, has been signed by the little Saints. According to the statement of H. P. Conrad, head of the Northern league St. Paul team, his roster is nearly complete at the present time, and he further declares that he is satisfied with the team as it stands at the present time.

Ted Finch of Virginia, accompanied by Manager Spike Shannon, passed through here yesterday. The pair called at the baseball office of Harry Blume and spent two hours fanning.

Both Finch and his royal spikelets are enthusiastic over the future of the league. Virginia has already some players signed up, but Shannon informed Mr. Blume that he has some fast men in sight and that he will send out a number of contracts during the present week.

The training spot of the Queen City bunch has not been decided upon at the present time. President Finch of the Virginia club brought Shannon up to the hilltop with him in order that he might confer further regarding the plans for the immediate future.

Minneapolis dope credits Oscar Nelson, a former umpire in the Wisconsin-Illinois league, with having signed as an indicator holder in the new league. It is said Nelson secured his release from the W.-I. and immediately signed a contract proffered by President G. A. Barton.

BOXING CLUBS LOSING MONEY

Game Proves Losing One in New York City and Milwaukee.

Chicago, March 19.—Indications are that almost everybody in Chicago is prepared for the passage of the boxing bill in Springfield, for almost everybody is said to have secured a lease on some building or hall or to be interested in some newly formed club or have "cut in" in some similar manner.

Which brings up the present situation in New York, to say nothing of the past situation here in Chicago regarding financial returns of boxing contests. New York hasn't made a nickel in the boxing game and Chicago never made a whole lot. Milwaukee has had about two big winners in the last six or seven years.

The outsider doesn't know much about the real inside workings of the boxing game. To see big crowds at boxing shows would indicate to the lay mind that enormous mcions are constantly being cut up and that the profits must necessarily run up into the Rockefellerian proportions. Hence the desire of everybody outside the game to "cut in" and get a piece of it.

Nothing could have looked rosier than boxing in New York after the passage of the present Frawley law permitting ten-round contests and instituting a commission for the proper and safe handling of the bouts. Yet when one looks at the facts one is impressed with the gameness of promoters who stick to a game that at the best can give them but a poor financial return for the tremendous amount of work and worry entalled.

One writer in New York comes out with the remarkable discovery that close to forty athletic clubs have been forced to close their doors because of financial distress since the passage of the bill and the letting down of the bars. This is in New York city alone and no account is taken of the number that fell by the wayside outside of the metropolis and up through the state.

This writer believes that he is making a safe estimate when he says that promoters in New York have dropped $100,000 since the law went into effect despite the fact that well over a million dollars was paid by the public to see the shows, as shown by the state's return of 5 per cent of the gross receipts. This $100,000 is thoroughly "burnt up" and there isn't a chance in the world to get it back, for the simple reason that most of the backers of these clubs "stood a tap" only up to a certain amount and then quit the game in disgust.

Even Billy Gibson, who runs one of the biggest boxing clubs in New York city, has been running constantly at a loss, the profits of some of his star bouts like McGoorty and Gibbons and some of the McFarland bouts being eaten up by the "bloomers" that he had to face.

LOCAL SPORT NOTES

There will be a meeting of the officers of the Lakeside Athletic association at the Quayle-Larsen store this evening. There are a number of important matters to come before the consideration of the officers and directors. One of the important details is the purchasing of additional equipment for the gymnasium that is almost completed, and another is the further consideration of the plans for the construction of the clubhouse, work upon which it is confidently expected will start by Sept. 1.

Steve Gardner has accepted the challenge of Billy Trenholm and it is expected that the boys will get together some time in the near future.

* * *

Jmmy Brady is training steadily at the present time. The clever featherweight has a fight on with Jimmy Welch for the near future and will be in the best of condition when he hooks up with him.

Heavy Purses Announced.

Kalamazoo, Mich., March 19.—Twenty-six thousand dollars in early closing purses were announced yesterday for the sixth renewal of Kalamazoo's grand circuit races, Aug. 4 to 9 inclusive. The two features on the card are the Paper Mills purse, valued at $12,000 for 2:14 trotters and the Burdick hotel purse, valued at $6,000, for 2:12 pacers.

INTERMEDIATES ARE DEFEATED

Nationals Down League Leaders at Hockey By 2 to 1 Score.

At the curling club rink last evening the Nationals defeated the Intermediates at hockey by the score of 2 to 1 in one of the very best contests that has been witnessed in this league during the present season. The result of the contest of last evening ties the two teams for the championship of the Intermediate league, and a third contest will be necessary to decide the title-holder.

Neither of the teams scored in the first half. Stillman scored the first goal for the Intermediates after seventeen minutes of strenuous play. In one minute after this Blais for the Nationals, tied up the score. The half closed with the score even. In the last few minutes of the extra ten minute period Dykins scored a goal on a long shot to one side of the net.

VIRGINIA TO PLAY DULUTH

The Virginia Hockey team is coming here for the final game of the season. The contest will be played at the curling club's rink on Saturday evening and will be the final game of the present season.

Virginia held Duluth to a very close score earlier in the year and the range team is coming here with the idea of beating the locals, though this is hardly possible, much less probable.

Duluth will have its strongest team in the field and this contest will afford the fans the final opportunity of seeing the seven in action. Hard work has been done since the final game with Houghton and Linder has his bunch in fine condition.

WILL CHALLENGE AGAIN.

Lipton Reported to Have Another Letter on the Way.

New York, March 19.—New York Yacht club members heard last night that Sir Thomas Lipton had in preparation a letter with reference to still another challenge for the America's cup and probably would dispatch the missive within a day or two to the Royal Ulster Yacht club to be forwarded to the local club if the Irish yachting organization approved.

No details were given, but the belief was expressed that the challenge, if one were forthcoming, would not impose conditions such as caused the rejection of the last two challenges he had submitted, the supposition being that the British baronet would this time conform with the stipulations in the deed of gift.

IOWA MEN LEAD.

Minneapolis, Minn., March 19.—H. Paul and O. E. Jackman of Waterloo, Iowa, rolling in the doubles yesterday afternoon in the international bowling tournament, went into fifth place, making a total of 1,100.

The leaders in the five-men teams last night were as follows: Fleck, Faribault, Minn., 2,601; Centrals, St. Paul, 2,578; Arnes, Minneapolis, 2,574.

Detroit Beats New Orleans.

New Orleans, La., March 19.—The practice game between the Detroit Americans and the New Orleans team of the Southern league yesterday went twelve innings, the visitors winning, 4 to 3.

With the winning of the Universal event by Ralph Bradley and the Manley-McLennan by E. R. Jacobi last evening the curling season of the Duluth Curling club is officially at an end, though several more unofficial games are to be played before the ides of March soften the ice to the extent where play will be made impossible.

The contest between Walsh and Bradley was one of the most exciting of the season. There are invariably "ifs" scattered through the sporting calendar; and yet "if Walsh hadn't missed with his first rock on the last head it might have transpired that he would have won the game." But the thing is tersely put when it is stated that James did miss.

Up to the seventh end it sure did look as if Walsh was going to be returned the winner. He had seven points to Bradley's four and was going strong. But in the eighth end Ralph piled up four points and in the tenth secured three more. Even at that Walsh got one point in the ninth and eleventh heads and Bradley was compelled to get a point in the final end to win out.

While Dinham had been generallp picked as the winner of the Manley-McLennan following the form he has showed in the last few games, Jacobi played a fine game all the way through, was steady all the time, displayed coolness to the very end of the thirteenth head and won on his merits.

Great is the anticipation of the games that are to be played in the president's and vice president's event, Saturday evening. The losing rinks by the rules of play will be compelled to pay for the suppers of the winning rinks, and there is some quiet scouting being done upon the parts of the skips that are to take part in the play.

One of the features of the waning season will be the games between the rinks of the board of trade, challengers of the world, and any rinks chosen from the outside.

Elmer Whyte has already organized a rink and has challenged Billy Dinham. Elmer has copped most of the old players of the Dinham crowd and is chuckling over the anticipated result of the encounter.

Ron McLeod, Harry Hurdon and Charley West are others of the curlers who have declared their intention of getting up rinks for the purpose of playing against the chesty traders. These games are to be played Friday afternoon and are expected to provide about the most fun of any contests of the present season.

Following will be found the detailed scores of the final trophy event games of the season and the line-up of the rinks organized from the members of the Duluth Board of Trade:

WOULD PUT BAN ON PLAYERS AS SCRIBES.

New York, March 19.—Resolutions condemning the practice of baseball players writing for newspapers, were adopted yesterday at the meeting of the New York and Brooklyn chapters of the Baseball Writers' association. Chairman James R. Price also read letters from August Hermann, Ban B. Johnson, and Thomas J. Lynch, offering co-operation to the baseball writers in combating the practice.

The resolutions declare the practice should be wiped out as tending "to deceive the baseball reading public," as the articles never are written by the players, but are fakes.

Eveleth Officials Entertain Virginia Mayor and Aldermen at Banquet.

Speakers for Both Cities Felicitate on Get-Together Spirit.

Eveleth, Minn., March 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—The mayor and city council of Virginia were guests here last night at a banquet at the Hotel Glode given by Mayor Saari and the members of the Eveleth council. Those present from Virginia were Mayor M. A. Murphy, Mike Boylan, president; aldermen A. D. Heritage, R. J. McGhee, Adolph Keller, Fred Mollan, Conrad Mateen and C. W. Sandstrom.

Mayor Saari acted as toastmaster. Short addresses were made by several of the visiting and local councilmen on topics connected with city government, and the spirit of good will and desire to pull together with other range cities for mutual benefit, was very strong.

Want County Tax Books.

Matters agreed upon were that the county tax books should be in the hands of the city clerks of the range cities instead of at the banks as is the present custom, also that the interurban discontinue taking on and letting off passengers at the road house between Eveleth and Virginia.

The following letter from the presidents of the Commercial clubs of Eveleth and Virginia was read:

Praised By Commercial Clubs.

"To the honorable mayors of the Virginia and Eveleth councils.

"Gentlemen—Allow us to congratulate you for the co-operation and get together spirit manifested on this occasion. The result of this closer tie between the chief executives of the two star cities of the Mesaba range should and will in the future be of great benefit in many ways, creating as it will a closer friendly relationship not only on the part of the executives of both cities but also start the ball rolling and will result in a more friendly feeling on the part of the people and the commercial interests of both cities. You have set an example that the Commercial clubs of the two cities may use to good advantage. We congratulate you.

S. McCormick, and the high standard established in that office since Mr. McCormick became the incumbent.

The letter follows:

"Duluth, March 1, 1913.

"Editor News Tribune:

"A new standard of public service has been established in this city, and it will continue to be the standard by which candidates will be judged. The people of Duluth are not particularly interested in what a candidate can promise; they are deeply interested in what a man has done. It is generally known that Mr. McCormick has rendered the city of Duluth a genuine service in bringing the business affairs of the comptroller's office from a very unsatisfactory condition to their present high standard. Ask any business man in the city of the condition of affairs when Mr. McCormick took office.

"A personal experience of mine will cover the point. During the year 1902 a man came to me and said he had a tax assignment on my home, that the period of redemption had expired, and he wanted to settle with me for $500. I took the matter up with Mr. McCormick, and he told me not to make settlement with holder of certificate until he had completed checking the books of his office; that he had found a number of payments not entered on the books, and a number of duplicate payments. Some weeks after Mr. McCormick notified me that he had found receipt covering the assessment on which the assignment had been issued and that the city would settle with the holder of the certificate.

"This is the kind of service a taxpayer should have from a public servant. There is one important question in connection with our selection of a man for commissioner. We wish to be assured that he will make our tax money bring us as much value as we demand from the employes of our private businesses.

"Progress in city government is not essentially different from progress in business. All of which means that the best asset a candidate can have is a record of genuine service to the city of Duluth, and I therefore heartily indorse the candidacy of Mr. McCormick for commissioner.

"Yours respectfully,

"ALEXANDER McDOUGALL."

D. H., 3-19-'13.

WILL ERECT $75,000 PLANT IN DULUTH FOR SCIENTIFIC BAKING AND HANDLING OF BREAD

THE NEW $75,000 WHOLESALE BREAD PLANT TO BE ERECTED IN THE WEST END.

Duluth is to have a $75,000 wholesale bread plant.

Construction of the building will be begun at once and it is expected that baking will be commenced by July 1. Worcester, Mass., Bridgeport, Conn., Hartford, Conn., Youngstown, Ohio, Los Angeles, Cal., Dallas, Tex., Wichita, Kan., were all under consideration as other possible locations, but Duluth was decided upon as offering greater advantages to such an enterprise.

Announcement was made by the Duluth Commercial club this morning that a large and up-to-date wholesale bread plant will be erected immediately at the northeast corner of Twenty-ninth avenue west and Superior street. This plant will serve the territory including Upper Michigan, Upper Wisconsin and Northern Minnesota. Many of the towns in this territory are now supplied with bread from the Twin Cities and other points. The men behind the enterprise are Harry W. Zinsmaster, at present connected with the Des Moines Baking company of Des Moines, Iowa, and Raymond F. Smith, New York. Mr. Smith has had considerable experience as sales manager for large Eastern manufacturing concerns. The initial investment in real estate, building and equipment, will be at least $75,000. The initial capacity of the plant will be 30,000 loaves a day.

The industrial commission of the Duluth Commercial club is responsible for bringing this concern to Duluth. It became known through friends in Duluth that these gentlemen were looking for a location and no time was lost by the Commercial club in getting in touch with them. The matter has been under consideration for several weeks, but announcement was delayed until all preliminary arrangements could be closed.

The New Plant.

The new bread plant will occupy a two story building, especially designed for the purpose. The first story will contain immense ovens, of most improved pattern, also the shipping department. The second story will include offices, flour storage, mixing rooms, shower baths and recreation rooms for employes. The outside of the building on the first floor will be of plate glass from floor to ceiling to afford maximum light. The floor covering will be white enamel tile and the interior walls and all machinery will also be white enamel. The building will be one of the most up-to-date bread plants in the United States.

Human hands will not touch the bread or any of its ingredients from the time the flour is sifted till the housewife removes the wax paper wrapper in which the bread is delivered. A reception room will be provided for visitors, from which the entire process of bread-making can be viewed through plate glass windows. The aim will be to make a bread of such purity, taste, texture and nutritive value, that it will be welcomed in the most fastidious homes.

Mr. Zinsmaster and Mr. Smith have formerly been associated together. Since their former association, Mr. Smith has been in important positions as sales manager for Eastern manufacturing establishments, and Mr. Zinsmaster has been first in the advertising business and later in the bread business at Des Moine.

Mr. Zinsmaster this morning expressed himself as highly pleased with the assistance given him by the Commercial club.

"I am most favorably impressed with the organization of your Commercial club, which could handle a matter like this so readily and give me all the information so completely and so promptly," he said. "It was a pleasure to be met with facts instead of generalizations. Every possible line of inquiry, which could be raised by a prospective comer to your city, had already been worked out to the most complete detail. With this knowledge of Duluth conditions, I went East with a report to Mr. Smith that made us decide on Duluth in preference to a number of other locations we had been considering."

BRIEF INTERVIEWS WITH ZENITH CITY VISITORS

Prohibition in the South.

"There is a delicate sense of humor in the way the liquor laws of the South are broken," said Ralph McKenzie at the Spalding today. "Birmingham is in the dry belt, as you perhaps are aware. I struck Birmingham thirsty, as the southern clime is one well calculated to parch the throat. I met a friend and invited him to come with me and stand against the mahogany for a brief spell. Immediately he informed me of the conditions the legislature of Alabama had brought about. I have never held a high opinion of the state legislatures as a rule; and my opinion of the one that sat in Alabama became even lower.

"However my friend informed me that he believed he could get me something to drink. First get his name—it was O'Hara, and he looked the part. Remember the name, I repeat—O'Hara.

"Gently he lead me into one of the large and majestic buildings that adorn the streets of that growing Southern metropolis. The elevator descended and we entered and were whirled to floors above.

"Then we came to a door and entered. Men—many of them—were seated around small tables, as for instance at picnics and progressive euchre games. O'Hara—get the name—led me to a table and whilst I wondered gave the order. Then he turned to me and began:

"This is the Turnverein and I am a charter member—"

He got no further just then. I started to laugh. O'Hara, the charter member of the Turnverein! I stretched two weary legs under the table and laughed until the waiter returned with the drinks.

"But that was nothing. There were O'Briens, Flannagans, Clays, Tolliveras, Lees and others belonging to this Turnverein, and it seemed to me that they were all charter members.

"As I was parting with my friend O'Hara on the street, after the delicious refreshment, I drew him aside for a brief moment and queried into his ear:

"Tell me, O'Hara—are the Germans barred from this particular Turnverein?"

Boosts for Virginia.

The simplicity of our hats is charming, the effect of just the right touch is noted in the models on display. Frequently very little trimming is used, but whatever is used is of quality and has the masterly touch of "milliners who know how." As a result, the becomingness of our hats brought us the sincerest possible compliments—"sales"—to many of this city's most discriminating dressers.

You will think our prices reasonable, every one seems to agree on that.

Our opening assortments are so large and so choice that you'll find what you want—in a size that will fit so well that alterations may not be necessary—and if slight touches are needed, we can attend to them promptly and properly!

To be well dressed is largely a matter of taste. It is not so much a matter of money. What counts is what you buy, not what you pay for it. Every woman knows this.

But, to exercise taste, you must have room for choice among tasteful things; you must have opportunity to express your individuality.

And that is exactly what we give our customers, whatever amount they have to spend.

The collection of coats, suits, dresses and waists in readiness here for the Easter demand is large—but better than that, it is choice. It holds no experiments and no freaks.

As usual, the superb creations of the Wooltex designers in coats, suits and skirts set the standard in the tailor-made division. The woman who wears a Wooltex garment can join the Easter parade in any city—even New York or Paris itself—with the assurance that she is as well dressed as any woman in it.

The new spring styles are ready. Come and make your choice!

Webb is alleged to have killed Detective Peter Hart, but State's Attorney Hoyne was disinclined to press this charge. He said that Webb never had a chance. The bandit's mother went insane and his father was a dipsomaniac.

For the last ten years the number of days worked a week by the miners of the United Kingdom averaged 5.19.

The Eagles had no connection whatever with the affair. Worthy President V. M. WANTS MORE SHIPS FOR MEXICAN COAST

Navy Department Will Send Two Down Pacific at Admiral's Request.

Washington, March 19.—At the instance of Admiral Southerland, commanding the Pacific fleet, who has been watching from Guayamas conditions on the west coast of Mexico, the navy department has approved his recommendation that the cruisers California and Maryland be sent to that coast. They now are at San Francisco.

Admiral Southerland, who is aboard the flagship Colorado, found that a number of American citizens who have been disturbed by the revolutionary troubles in Sonora, are drifting down to the coast towns, especially to Guayamas. For this reason the presence of warships is desired.

Lower California today is reported tranquil, the new governor, Brig.-Gen. Miguel Gomez, having arrived Monday at Ensenada and assumed office. Telegraph connections have been reestablished between Monterey and the United States via Laredo.

CHARGED WITH GIGANTIC FRAUDS

Importer of Human Hair Goods Indicted By Grand Jury.

New York, March 19.—Antonio Musica, wealthy importer of human hair goods, charged by a score of banks with invoice frauds estimated at $1,000,000, was arrested today in New Orleans with his three sons, Philip, George and Arthur. All fled the city last week, when "cases of "extra fine" hair on which they had negotiated money advances were found to contain "scraps."

The father and his son Philip, already have been indicted and will be brought to New York at once. The firm was thrown into bankruptcy today.

Word of their arrest was received here in a brief message to a detective agency, acting for the American Bankers' association.

Notice of the dissolution of the stock exchange firm of Mitchell & Co., was posted today on the exchange. Quickest Relief Known For All Sore Feet

The following is absolutely the surest and quickest cure known to science for all foot ailments: "Dissolve two tablespoonfuls of Calocide compound in a basin of warm water. Soak the feet in this for full fifteen minutes, gently rubbing the sore parts." The effect is really wonderful. All soreness goes instantly; the feet feel so good you could sing for joy. Corns and callouses can be peeled right off. It gives immediate relief for sore bunions, sweaty, smelly and aching feet. A twenty-five cent box of Calocide is said to be sufficient to cure the worst feet. It works through the pores and removes the cause of the trouble. Don't waste time on uncertain remedies. Any druggist has Calocide compound in stock or he can get it in a few hours from his wholesale house. It is not a patent medicine but is an ethical preparation.

OLD MISSTEP IS RECALLED

After Twenty Years Mother Hears From Her Nameless Son.

Letter Contains Word That Youth Is Held a Prisoner.

Revelations which may cause consternation in a family circle in a little town in New York have been made here in connection with a case investigated by Immigrant Inspector Brown McDonald. It is a rather striking example of the old adage:

"Be sure your sin will find you out."

About two months ago a 20-year-old youth who gave his name as Earl Day was arrested near Carlton for buying whisky and reselling it to Indians, getting a small margin for his pains. Day, who had arrived a short time before from Nova Scotia, where he claimed he was born, was arrested and turned over to the immigrant inspector for deportation.

Inquiry was made of Day's supposed parents in Nova Scotia, and information was later received to the effect that Day was born out of wedlock to a young woman at Houghton, Me., twenty years ago, she having come to Houghton from somewhere in the South, for the purpose of bearing the child and that the Day family had, in pity, taken charge of the youngster.

They furnished the immigration inspector with the address of the mother, who is now happily and prosperously married in a small town in New York, and this, Mr. Brown turned over the young man. Day expressed doubt of the story, but today wrote to the woman who is claimed to be his mother and wants to know from her what she is going to do about it. The name and address of the mother are withheld by The Herald.

In the meantime, it being established that the young man is a citizen of the United States by birth, he cannot be deported. If his mother comes to his aid some arrangement may be made in connection with the prosecution of his violation of the Federal laws, namely, furnishing liquor to Indians.

Railroads

BUYS LUMBER FOR NEW SNOW SHEDS.

St. Paul, Minn., March 19.—The Great Northern road will purchase 15,000,000 feet of heavy lumber for the construction of several additional snowsheds in the Cascade mountains. The cost of the work will be more than $250,000. The sheds will be erected as soon as the snow melts on the mountain sides.

The Great Northern is planning to build four concrete sheds. They will be built at points where disastrous slides have occurred.

Experts employed in the engineering department have studied the mountain formation along the overland tracks and report that various points between Scenic and Tyee should be protected.

BUT THREE MORE STATES NEEDED

Washington, March 19.—With the ratification of only three states necessary to insure the adoption of the proposed constitutional amendment for direct election of senators, speculation was heard at the capitol today in regard to the effect of the adoption of the amendment upon the senatorial contest in Illinois. At present two senatorial vacancies exist in that state, but the legislature has been deadlocked many weeks.

The consensus of opinion was that the ratification of the amendment by three more states and the subsequent proclamation by the secretary of state that the amendment had been adopted, would deprive the Illinois legislature of power to elect senators. The section then would be made under the terms of the new amendment. This requires that when vacancies occur, such as exist in Illinois, the governor of the state shall call special elections to fill such vacancies. It is provided, however, that the legislature may empower the governor to make temporary appointments until the people fill the vacancies by election.

MAN ON TRIAL ON BURGLARY CHARGE

August Klar is on trial in district court today charged with burglary, third degree. It is claimed that he broke into a building at 1724 West Superior street, belonging to Jacobson Bros., contractors, and stole carpenter tools worth $200. The offense is alleged to have taken place about the first of March.

Klar, testimony this morning showed, had sold to one William Strand, a carpenter, six chisels for $2. The tools were identified as being among those stolen from the shop of Jacobson Bros.

While the grand jury, which indicted Klar was in session, Klar was serving time for petit larceny having been found guilty in police court of stealing a pair of shoes.

N. H. Wilson appeared in court this morning as Klar's attorney. Mason M. Forbes, first assistant county attorney, conducted the case for the state.

WILL EXTEND RAILROAD TO CANADIAN TWINS

The Herald received today the following dispatch from Fort William, Ont., by the Associated Press:

"It was announced here today by President Millen of the Duluth & Northern Minnesota railway that construction gangs will be put to work next week completing the air line between Fort William and Duluth."

John W. Bayly of Alger, Smith & Co. was asked concerning the validity of the dispatch and had this to say:

"As soon as the season makes work practicable we will put construction gangs on for extending the line, but that is utterly impossible for next week because of the heavy snow. In the next place, Mr. Millen did not make the announcement, for he is in Florida; and we do not know yet whether or not the line will be completed during the present year. We now have iron laid on the line to about sixty miles northeast of Two Harbors and have graded about ten miles further, up to Temperance river. Just how far we will build this year is a problem as yet. We will have to build about seventy miles to complete the line to the Canadian Head of the Lakes and may do so this year. Whether we will or not I am not as yet prepared to say."

TWO CANDIDATES HAVE WITHDRAWN

Chan Smith and George W. Power Are Out of Race.

The field of candidates for the city commission has been narrowed to fifty-six by the withdrawal of Chan Smith, candidate for the long term, and George W. Power, candidate for the short term.

Mr. Smith filed his withdrawal yesterday afternoon and Mr. Power withdrew this morning. Neither gave any reason for the action.

Under the charter any candidate may withdraw up to five days before election, and his name will not appear on the ballot. March 26 will be the last day for the filing of withdrawals, and it is said several others will pull out before that date. Among them are said to be included one candidate for mayor and two or three short term candidates.

PRINCE WILL MAKE HIS FIRST SPEECH

Abandons Personal Campaign and Will Hold Public Meetings.

W. I. Prince will make his first appearance on the platform as a candidate for mayor at the meeting of the French Naturalization club at the West end Friday evening.

Thus far in the campaign, Mr. Prince and the members of his committee have contented themselves with personal work, but beginning with Friday evening, Mr. Prince will make a number of public appearances, speaking in behalf of his candidacy. He has invitations from various organizations that will require his making at least one speech every evening next week, according to Oscar J. Larson, his campaign manager.

POLITICAL FREE-FOR-ALL

Candidates Are Invited to Talk Before the French Club.

The meeting of the French Naturalization club at St. Jean Baptiste hall, Twenty-fifth avenue west and Third street, Friday evening will be turned into a political free-for-all.

A general invitation has been extended to candidates to address the meeting, and many of them are expected to respond. Among the candidates for mayor who will speak are: W. I. Prince, P. E. Dowling, W. E. McEwen, Dr. D. H. Day and M. B. Cullum. Many of the candidates for the other places will also speak.

Dowling Will Speak.

P. E. Dowling, candidate for mayor, will speak tomorrow evening at Dormedy hall, West Duluth. The meeting originally scheduled for the Polish hall tonight has been postponed to a later date. Mr. Dowling expects to speak almost every evening from now until the close of the campaign.

Marcus L. Fay will speak at Dormedy hall in West Duluth tonight. He promises to read the record on other candidates and to reveal political conditions that demand the attention of the voters.

Betting Is Lively.

Although election is nearly two weeks old and late "dope" may change the outlook, betting is quite brisk and some large sums have been wagered on the result. A large number of bets, some of them of the freak variety, are being made between individuals, but the book in the cigar stores is attracting the most money. It was reported that one bet of $500 to $1,000 on M. L. Fay was made this morning, that being the heaviest wager of the campaign to date.

Invite Candidates.

The Afro-American league of Duluth will hold a meeting at the Knights of Pythias hall, 118 West Superior street, tomorrow evening and the various candidates have been invited to attend and explain their stand on public questions. The league has a large membership and the members have always taken a deep interest in polities.

Day Plans Meetings.

Dr. D. H. Day has arranged a list of speaking dates for the remainder of the campaign. At each meeting he will explain the preferential system of voting in addition to speaking on municipal ownership and on his own campaign. The dates arranged thus far are: Thursday, March 20, Park Point mission; Friday, March 21, Jackson school and French Naturalization club, Twenty-fifth avenue west and Third street; Saturday, March 22, Lakeside town hall; Thursday, March 27, Maccabee hall, New Duluth; Friday, March 28, Dormedy hall, West Duluth; Saturday, March 29, the Armory.

EXPEDITION INTO SOUTH AMERICA

Philadelphia, Pa., March 19.—Tears and cheers sent the yacht Pennsylvania on her way today when she steamed down the Delaware river for one of the most adventurous voyages of modern times.

The yacht is the property of the university of Pennsylvania and is bound for Brazil with a daring party of explorers, who purpose penetrating to the far reaches of the Amazon and to the headwaters of many of its mighty tributaries in the interest of science and humanity. They seek what is known as the "Lost World" in the basin of the Amazon. The expedition has been organized and equipped by the university museum. It will be gone about three years and is expected to penetrate to regions never before visited by white men.

The yacht is in command of Capt. J. C. Rowen, U. S. N., retired, and the expedition is headed by Dr. William C. Larrabee, curator of the American section of the museum. His chief associates are Dr. Franklin B. Church, an authority on tropical medicine, and Sandy McNab, a traveler of wide experience and a dentist.

The Pennsylvania is only 184 tons burden, but is said by government inspectors to perfectly answer the requirements of the expedition. She carries a crew of eleven men.

BRYAN GREETED BY HOME PEOPLE

Lincoln, Neb., March 19.—Secretary of State Bryan arrived here this morning and was met at the station by reception committees from the state legislature and the local Bryan club, under whose auspices the annual birthday dinner is to be given tonight.

Mr. Bryan was accompanied by Mrs. Bryan, his daughter, Mrs. Ruth Bryan-Owen and Governor Dunne of Illinois. They were taken in automobiles to a local hotel, where Mr. Bryan held an informal reception.

Governor Hodges of Kansas, who had arrived on an earlier train, already was at the hotel and greeted Mr. Bryan on his arrival. With Governor Hodges was a party of state officials, who will attend the banquet tonight.

Relative to President Wilson's statement on the Chinese loan, Mr. Bryan said:

"The president's statement on the Chinese loan situation covers the whole ground and I am sure it will be approved by the country. It is not merely a negative refusal to renew the request made by the last administration, but a positive declaration of the president's desire to assist China and our own business interests in every legitimate way.

"It hardly can be doubted that China will be pleased with the president's attitude and the business men of the United States will be benefited by the friendly feeling which the president's statement is sure to arouse among the Chinese."

WANTS BIG SUM FOR BOY'S INJURY

Anna Nelson, as guardian for her 5-year-old son, Lawrence Nelson, asks $10,000 damages for alleged injuries to the boy as a result of having been run over, it is claimed, by one of the delivery wagons of the M. M. Gasser company, which is made a defendant to the action.

The Nelsons reside at the West end. It is claimed that one of the delivery wagons, on which Elnar Jensen was employed as driver, backed onto the boy while he was playing in a neighbor's yard last November. The lad is claimed to have sustained a fracture of his left leg between the hip and the knee. It is alleged that the injuries are of such a nature as to leave the boy a cripple for life.

The case was brought to trial at the last term of court but was dismissed by the plaintiff during the progress of the trial. The same action was renewed at this term of court. W. H. Gurnee is attorney for plaintiff and J. B. Richards represents the defendant.

He is said to have been taken ill after returning to the hotel.

EUROPE BUYS; WHEAT RISES

Better Demand on Other Side of Atlantic Bulls the Markets.

Flaxseed Trading Is Very Narrow---Changes in Price Slight.

Duluth Board of Trade, March 19.—Wheat was bulled considerably on the markets of North America today on account of the improved foreign demand. Duluth May worked ¾c higher as a result of the day's trading. Cash wheat closed 1⅛@2c under May. Durum closed ⅝c up, oats ¾c up, rye unchanged and barley 2c up to unchanged. Duluth May and July flax closed ⅛c higher.

The wheat markets of North America were boosted considerably early in the session today by the covering of shorts. This covering was due in large measure to the bullish influence of the higher Liverpool cables. The export demand for Manitoba wheat was greatly improved and there was also a good foreign demand for American hurum.

The export situation is stronger largely on account of disappointment in the movement from Argentina. While the wheat crop of that country is very large, the holders of wheat in that country have not been at all eager to rush it upon the market. A few years ago, Argentine wheat owners as a rule were so poor that they had to turn their wheat into money as fast as they could, but the situation is different now. Many Argentine owners now speculate by holding their wheat when they find prices unsatisfactory.

Another bullish influence that affected the markets of North America today was the news of drying winds and dust storms in the hard winter wheat region of the Southwest.

Late in the morning, however, the markets were beared considerably by large offers, due to the fact that most of the exchanges were going to close not only over Good Friday, but also over Saturday.

Duluth May wheat, which closed yesterday at 85⅛c asked, opened today at 85⅛c bid, and then had quite a bullish movement, but there was a considerable decline before noon, when the quotations stood at 85¼c. Minneapolis May at noon was a shade off, Chicago unchanged and Winnipeg considerably higher, that market being directly influenced by the situation at Liverpool.

Liverpool wheat today closed unchanged to ⅛d higher. The market was quite strong during most of the session on account of confirmed sales of Plata steamers to the continent over night, the firmness of Plata offers, a better inquiry for Manitobas and steady holding of cargoes.

Flax Is Dull.

Trading in flaxseed on the Duluth market today was very narrow. Business was lifeless and small influences quickly affected the values as quoted. At noon Duluth May seed was ¼c higher and July ⅛c higher. Minneapolis cash seed at noon was 2½c below Duluth May, showing little buying disposition on the part of the crushers of that city. Winnipeg May seed at noon today was ⅜c higher at $1.11½ asked, this being 16¼c under the Duluth market. Buenos Ayres May seed last night closed unchanged at $1.21½. London Calcutta March seed today closed unchanged at $1.56⅜c.

MARKET GOSSIP.

Bartlett-Frazier wired from Chicago: "The reports of a large export business, which came at the close yesterday and caused strength at that time, were not confirmed, total sales for export in all positions finally being figured at about 1¼ loads. We do not believe that the volume of business is great enough to prove a bullish factor, when the amount available is of such comparatively large proportions."

The Chicago Paint and Varnish Record says: "The linseed oil market during the past two weeks has been steady with only one change reported. The carload price for strictly pure raw linseed oil in cooperage, f. o. b. Chicago, is 43c per gallon and boiled 44c. There are very few inquiries for new contracts but deliveries on old contracts are keeping the mills busy and shipments are being made freely to consumers in the paint and varnish manufacturing field. It is said in some directions that an offer of 42c would be accepted.

"Buyers for summer contracts have concluded it is best to wait until the seed market becomes more settled and there will probably be very little new business booked until after navigation opens, when it will offer some basis for figuring summer quotations. Judging from the present prices for summer options of flaxseed, the market will not change materially; still, there is nothing certain about what conditions will be after another thirty days.

"In Chicago jobbers are quoting pure raw linseed oil in single barrel lots at 48c per gallon and 49c for boiled.

"The linseed cake market is just about the same as was last reported. Quotation f. o. b. Chicago are nominally $23.50@24.00 per ton. There is no demand and large supplies are reported to be on hand in Europe and there is a heavy accumulation at the linseed oil mills in this country."

Salina, Larned and Great Bend, Kan., report heavy winds that are rapidly drying out the ground and raising great clouds of dust. This is delaying farm work and in some parts hindering the train service. Farmers in the vicinity of Larned fear great damage to wheat.

There is a high wind today, but the soil is too wet to blow. It is much warmer."

"A report recently issued by the British board of agriculture and fisheries contains a review, comparing the extension of the wheat area and the growth of population from about 1901 to 1911 in various countries of the world. The statement shows that in ten years the total wheat area had increased 22.9 per cent, whereas the population had increased only 13 per cent. The figures include the greater part of the wheat-growing territories and most of the wheat-eating peoples of the world, and there is no reason to think that the inclusion of the countries for which figures are not forthcoming would substantially affect the general conclusion to be drawn from the table, viz., that the supply of wheat is at present keeping pace with the increasing demand for it."

CHICAGO MARKET.

Buying By Large Local Interests Sends Wheat Prices Up.

Chicago, March 19.—Buying of wheat today by large local interests sent the market up. The advance was aided by reports of severe wind and dust storms in Kansas which interfered with farm work and train service. Opening prices were a sixteenth lower to ⅛c up. Offerings were unusually light. May opened a shade lower at 88¾c and quickly advanced to 89⅛c.

Export business helped the market to go still higher. The close was strong with May ¾@⅞c higher at 89⅝c.

Unsettled weather tended to make corn firm. At the start May was unchanged to a shade higher at 52⅛@52¼c to ¾c and advanced to 58½c.

Afterward the market advanced with wheat. The close was firm with May at 52⅞c, a net gain of ½@⅝c.

Oats showed firmness of moderate buying, May advancing to 33c, after opening unchanged to ⅛o higher at 32½c to 32⅝c.

Lower hog prices weakened provisions. The opening varied from 7½c decline to 2½c advance with May prices for pork $20.65; lard, $10.70; ribs, $10.77½.

LOSSES ARE RECOVERED

Alarmist Reports And Calling of Loans Cause Lower Prices.

Better Tone Develops Later and Rallies, and Declines Regained.

New York, March 19.—Representative stocks fluctuated irregularly in the early hours, but ultimately grew strong and at noon the market showed good gains, Union Pacific, after selling at 146¾ pulled up to 147¼.

Reports that the government would bring suit against the American Smelting resulted in selling of the Guggenheim stocks. Smelting lost 2½ and National Lead and Guggenheim Exploration 2. Bonds were steady.

Prices of stocks were little changed at the opening today. The only fluctuations of more than a small fraction were among a few industrials. Mexican Petrolcum rose 1½ and Sears-Roebuck declined 2.

The market had a brief spell of weakness, with important issues falling back about half a point.

Declines were more extensive in a handful of specialties. Sears-Roebuck yielded 5 points, Westinghouse Electric 2¼ and American Telephone, Interborough preferred and Tennessee Copper 1.

Completion of the buying flurry which amounted to 10,000 shares deprived the market of a sustaining source and it gave way when another wide break occurred in the specialties.

Copper stocks were liquidated heavily and there was pressure against other industrials on rumors of the dividends. Sears-Roebuck lost 6¼, Underwood 5, Westinghouse 4¾, and Smelting 3⅜.

Calling of loans in the afternoon when money rates went to 5 per cent increased pessimism in financial circles, and prices went lower. Union Pacific fell to 145⅞, a new low, and losses ranged to 1@1½ were registered for other important issues. A reported denial by the attorney general that proceedings were about to be taken against Smelting caused that stock to rally 3 points, then developed a heavy tone, Union Pacific recovering to yesterday's closing.

The market closed firm. Shorts covered heavily during the latter part of the session when some of the alarmist reports were denied. Rallies followed of 1@3 points in the standard stocks and liquidation in the specialties was checked. Union Pacific sold a point above yesterday's final figure and Reading, Steel and Southern Pacific a fraction.

THREE PENS ARE USED BY GOVERNOR TO SIGN REAPPORTIONMENT BILL

Made Necessary to Carry Out His Promises to Three Men.

Distance Tariff Bill Has Been Signed By the Governor.

No Chance of Boyle's County Division Bill Being Passed.

(By a Staff Correspondent.)

St. Paul, Minn., March 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—The legislative reapportionment bill will reach Governor Eberhart this afternoon and it will be promptly signed. Three men have asked the governor for the pen with which he signs the bill extending a long-delayed justice to Northern Minnesota and the governor has said "yes" to each. He has found a way out of this apparent difficulty by buying three fountain pens. With one he will sign his initials, with another he will sign the first half of his name, and with the third he will sign the last half. The fountain pens will go to W. B. Mackenzie, secretary of the Northern Minnesota Development association and a faithful and untiring worker for reapportionment in the last two sessions; to Cyrus M. King of Deer River, president of the association, and to Representative Cleon T. Knapp of Chisholm.

Distance Tariff a Law.

Governor Eberhart signed the distance tariff bill this morning, as expected. It does not go into effect, however, until Jan. 1.

The house spent a dull session this morning in routine work of little interest. Much time was spent suspending the rules to pass bills of local interest.

On motion of Representative A. L. Warner the house passed the Cheadle senate bill making the law governing the Duluth municipal court conform to the provisions of the new city charter, which it was desired to have become a law before the city election.

The senate this afternoon will accede to the request of the house for a conference on the initiative and referendum bill, and Lieutenant Governor Burnquist will appoint a committee of five to confer with the following house

POSTMASTERS ARE RESIGNING FAST

About 2,000 of the Fourth Class Want to Quit Service.

Washington, March 20.—As a result of the extension of the classified civil service to include fourth-class postmasters and the announcement that postmasters of that class would be asked to qualify in a competitive examination the postoffice department has been flooded with resignations from the service. At present resignations are reaching the department at the rate of about twenty a day and officials declare that about 2,000 fourth-class postmasters have resigned since the executive order was issued.

Practically all of the resignations are in postoffices where the postmasters' salary is merely nominal and where at times the expense of conducting the office equals the postmaster's compensation. In many of the cases it will be exceedingly difficult to obtain applicants who will take the prescribed examination. While the department is endeavoring to procure new postmasters, the incumbents although they have resigned will be forced to discharge the duties of the office.

NEW STATE CONSTITUTION

Bill for Calling Convention to Revise Constitution Introduced.

Elective Office of State Land Commissioner Is Proposed.

(By a Staff Correspondent.)

St. Paul, Minn., March 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—Representative Gunnar B. Bjornson of Minneota, N. J. Holmberg of Renville and W. I. Nolan of Minneapolis yesterday afternoon introduced in the house the long-expected bill proposing a constitutional convention to revise the ancient and much-patched Constitution of the state of Minnesota.

This was one of the issues that discussion before the session indicated would be to the front this winter, but the bill did not make its appearance until yesterday.

It provides that the people at the general election in November, 1914, shall vote on the question whether or not there shall be a convention to revise the Constitution. To pass, this bill must have two-thirds of the votes in each branch of the legislature.

The bill was referred to the committee on judiciary.

Its timeliness is emphasized by the

CHARLES L. SAWYER,
Representative From Minneapolis, Whose Criticism of State Auditor's Office Riled Bob Dunn.

FIREWORKS IN THE HOUSE

Old Report on the State Auditor's Office Riles Bob Dunn.

Says Former Public Examiner Samuel T. Johnson Is a Liar.

(By a Staff Correspondent.)

St. Paul, Minn., March 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—The public domain bill was supposed to be a special order in the house yesterday afternoon, and that body spent the afternoon talking about and around it.

But at times the issue seemed to be the integrity of the state auditor's office, with particular reference to the time when Representative Robert C. Dunn was the state auditor, and there were hot words and other reminders of the campaign of 1904.

As to the public domain bill, at the end of the discussion the house re-referred it to the committee to have it amended so as to leave all control of public lands and the mineral contents thereof and the timber upon them in the hands of the state auditor; and as the bill lost the advantage of being a special order by this action, it is gen-

MANAHAN WANTS THE GOVERNORSHIP

Present Congressman Has Eye on Senate for the Future.

(From The Herald Washington Bureau.)

Washington, March 20.—Information reaching Washington is to the effect that James A. Manahan, present congressman-at-large, is making plans to get the Republican nomination for governor of Minnesota next year, with the senatorship in view two years later.

Manahan, it is said here, feels certain that he can land the nomination for governor and that he will be elected. The campaign for senator will follow. Should Manahan's plans go through there is a prospect that there will be a three-cornered fight between him and Governor Eberhart and Clapp, as the latter probably will want a re-election.

WISCONSIN WOMAN VICTIM OF GRAFTERS.

La Crosse, Wis., March 20.—Induced to turn over $15,500 to a Chicago company known as the Big Four, for what was understood to be an investment in Great Northern railway stock, Mrs. Hope McEldowney, widow of a West Salem, Wis., banker and daughter of the late Leonard Lottridge, a prominent Wisconsin politician, has obtained neither stock nor the return of her money, and when the palatial offices of the firm at Chicago were visited by the police on her complaint they were found to be closed, the furniture removed and no trace left of the members of the company. No clew of the whereabouts of the fugitives has been found and Mrs. McEldowney returned from Chicago today convinced that she had been victimized. The matter is now in the hands of the Chicago police and the United States postal authorities.

REFUSES TO ALLOW POPE TO SEE DIAZ.

Rome, March 20.—Prof. Marchiafava, consulting physician to Pope Pius, refused today to allow the pontiff to receive Gen. Porfirio Diaz, former president of Mexico. He considered that the audience would be a dangerous strain on the pope in his weakened condition.

WIDOW OF LATE ADMIRAL UNDER ARREST

Mrs. Eaton Is Charged With Murder of Naval Veteran.

Officer Died Suddenly on March 8 Under Suspicious Circumstances.

Woman Arrested Second Wife and Many Years His Junior.

Hingham, Mass., March 20.—Mrs. Eaton, widow of Rear Admiral Joseph G. Eaton, was arrested here today charged with the murder of her husband.

District Attorney A. F. Barker announced the arrest in the following statement:

"Mrs. Eaton is under arrest charged with the murder of her husband, Rear Admiral Joseph Giles Eaton. Rear Admiral Eaton did not die a natural death. This fact was communicated to me on March 10 by Prof. Whitney in a preliminary report and has been known to the officers working on the case since that time. Death was due to poisoning, but peculiar features involved have prevented the authorities from communicating them to the public.

"We have been unable thus far to ascertain where the poison was procured. Mrs. Eaton was arrested at her home at Assinnipi this morning."

Pleads Not Guilty.

Mrs. Eaton later was arraigned before Judge Pratt, who conducted the inquest into the admiral's death. She pleaded not guilty and was committed

MAY ASK ELIOT TO RECONSIDER

President Wilson Would Like Him to Have Foreign Post.

Washington, March 20.—At the White House today it was said that the reported declaration of Charles W. Eliot, president emeritus of Harvard, that he would decline a diplomatic appointment if one were offered, might not deter President Wilson from urging Dr. Eliot to reconsider and take under advisement an offer of a foreign post. The appointment to London was thought to be the most likely offer, if one were made. It has been reported that Dr. Eliot declined a similar offer from Mr. Taft.

John R. Mott of Montclair, N. J., it was said today, has declined an offer of appointment to be minister to China. Mr. Mott is a Y. M. C. A. official, who has been identified with the missionary movement, especially in the Far East. It was said Mr. Mott had been asked to reconsider his declination.

It also was intimated at the White House today that with the selection of a minister to China, formal recognition of the republic might be announced by the United States. The subject now is under consideration by President Wilson.

Often Called the Most Famous Police Chief in the World, Who Has Resigned After Twenty Years' Service.

BIG DIRIGIBLE BROKEN IN TWO

"Substitute Z. L.," 460 Feet Long, Wrecked While Trying to Land.

Karlsruhe, Germany, March 20.—Two months after her trial flight, the German military dirigible of the Zeppelin type known as "Substitute Z. L." is a wreck. She was broken in two places while attempting a landing after twenty-four hours flight. The start was made from Oos, a village of Baden, where the balloon was stationed.

The pilots intended to return to Oos, but finally decided on account of the gusty wind which reached a velocity of forty-five miles, to anchor at Karlsruhe.

They had not yet finished the work of anchoring when a terrific gust buckled the forward half of the dirigible. Another gust lifted the airship and a detachment of soldiers who were clinging to the ropes were forced to release their hold. The aluminum frames began to break away, and the whole structure collapsed, the nose of the dirigible breaking off.

The "Substitute Z. L." made a trial flight on Jan. 16, and on two occasions afterward made very satisfactory endurance flights. The dirigible was accepted by the war department Feb. 15. Her length was 70 meters (approximately 460 feet) and her speed exceeded fifty miles per hour.

CIVIL OFFENDERS FOR ALCATRAZ ISLAND.

San Francisco, Cal., March 20.—Alcatraz island, known as "The Rock" throughout the army, is to be abandoned as a military prison and turned over to the department of justice as a place of incarceration for civil offenders against the government. The San Francisco Chronicle makes this declaration today, but gives no authority for the statement.

Alcatraz has been a military prison ever since its usefulness as a station of the coast defenses passed with the coming of high-power cannon. No prisoner, it is said, ever has escaped from "The Rock." It is situated in the channel one mile inside the Golden Gate and swept by fierce currents which makes it almost impossible for a swimmer to reach the mainland.

ARSON SQUADS CAUSE LOSSES OF $100,000

Two Gangs of Militant Suffragettes Destroy Much Valuable Property.

Country Residence of Lady White and Golf Houses Are Burned.

Placards Scattered Around Inscribed With Suffrage Literature.

London, March 20. — Two "arson squads" of militant suffragettes succeeded in destroying $100,000 worth of property early today.

One squad burned down the country residence of Lady Amy White at Englefield Green near the Thames. The other squad fired the buildings of the golf club at Weston-Super-Mare, a fashionable summer watering place in Somersetshire.

Lady White is the widow of Field Marshal Sir George White, the hero of Ladysmith in the Transvaal war. Her house was a big mansion standing in spacious grounds. The flames were discovered at 1 o'clock this morning and at that time had such a start that the efforts of the local fire brigade were hopeless.

Traces of oils and inflammable materials were found scattered about the house, while around the grounds were papers inscribed "Stop torturing our comrades in prison," "Votes for women!" "By kind permission of Charles Hobhouse!" The last being a reference to the recent taunt of Chancellor Hobhouse that "women lack the real revolutionary spirit of men who burn and sack in support of their cause."

Two women on bicycles were seen in the neighborhood half an hour before the fire was discovered. The house was unoccupied.

The incendiaries of the golf pavilions also escaped. There are many suffragettes now in that neighborhood

FIVE ARE DEAD AND TEN BADLY INJURED

Result of Explosion of Gas in Packing Plant at Medicine Hat.

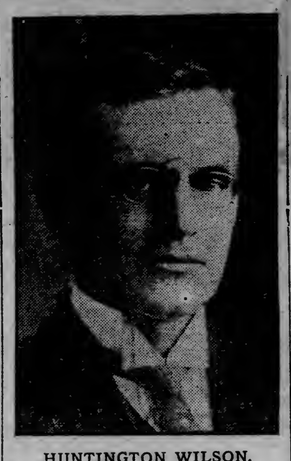
Medicine Hat, Alta., March 20.—Five are dead and ten badly injured as the result of the explosion of gas generated in the burning three-story building of the Western Canada Cold Storage & Packing plant here last night. The property loss exceeds $100,000.

Fear that many more were buried in the ruins of the plant practically was set at rest early today when searching parties failed to find bodies. It is thought that all of the injured will recover. Early today the body of the fifth victim, unidentified when taken from the wreckage last night, was found to be that of Charles Behannon, who recently came here from Boston, Mass.

Many of the injured were spectators, who watching the fire, were crushed when three walls were forced outward by the explosion.

ASSISTANT SECRETARY OF STATE IS PEEVED BY ACTION OF PRESIDENT

RESIGNS AS ASSISTANT SECRETARY OF STATE



HUNTINGTON WILSON.

Huntington Wilson Refuses to Promulgate Change of Policy Regarding China.

Resigns at Once and Resignation Is Promptly Accepted By President.

Criticisms By Former Secretary Made Public at the White House.

Washington, March 20.—Huntington Wilson, assistant and acting secretary of state, has resigned that office and insisted upon immediate acceptance of the resignation because of his radical difference of opinion with the administration regarding its Chinese policies.

President Wilson immediately accepted the resignation.

Mr. Wilson, like all assistant secretaries of the various departments, tendered his resignation as a matter of form to President Wilson directly upon the latter's assumption of office. Mr. Wilson was requested to continue in his place until it should be convenient for the president to name his successor and consented to do so to accommodate Secretary Bryan in his desire to make his present visit to Lincoln, Neb., so that involved the abandonment of reservation which he had made on a steamship sailing for Europe last Tuesday.

Cause to Resign.

The issue of the statement from the White House defining the administration's attitude regarding the Chinese loan negotiations is believed to have been regarded by Assistant Secretary Wilson as sufficient to justify him in requesting to be relieved from duty at once.

After telegraphic notice to Secretary Bryan of his intentions Mr. Wilson late yesterday afternoon dispatched a note to the White House terminating his own service, and President Wilson immediately designated Second Assistant Secretary Adee to act as secretary of state during Secretary Bryan's present absence.

A probable result of the resignation

TO DECIDE ON PLACE FOR DAY

Matter Will Be Taken Up By Congressman W. S. Hammond.

Several Positions Which Would Be Satisfactory to Fairmont Man.

(From The Herald Washington Bureau.)

Washington, March 20.—Just what job Frank A. Day is to get may be determined tomorrow when Representative W. S. Hammond is to have a conference with the president, to be devoted to a discussion of placing the Minnesota man in Washington. When Fred B. Lynch, national committeeman, was in Washington early this week, he indorsed Day for commissioner of the general land office. Later Mr. Day called on Secretary Franklin K. Lane, who is said to have been favorably impressed and to have said that he would like to have Day on his official staff. There was a doubt, however, that the secretary would select Day for the position of commissioner of the general land office, but the Minnesota man was not turned down.

List of Places.

Mr. Hammond, it is understood, will take with him a list of perhaps a dozen offices, any one of which Day will accept. The places most favored by him and his friends are auditor of the postoffice department, a place formerly held by Capt. Henry A. Castle of St. Paul, and the presidency of the civil service commission. The auditorship pays $5,000 and the civil service commission place is worth $4,500 a year.

The talk here is that Gen. W. A. Black, the president of the civil service commission, could be transferred to his old place as commissioner of pensions which pays $5,000 a year, thus making room for Day as head of the civil service commission.

It seems to be settled that President Wilson wants to give Day a fairly good place, owing to the backing of National Committeeman Fred B. Lynch. The latter stands high with every member of the Democratic administration because of his work in Wilson's behalf at Baltimore and his advice in the campaign, and as Day is the only man he wants to place in Washington, the Fairmont editor is regarded as being on easy street as regards a government position.

TWO WELL DEFINED STORMS ARE ABOUT

One in Lake Region and Other Hovers Over Plateau.

Washington, March 20.—Two well-defined storms causing widespread precipitation, exist in the country today, the weather bureau reporting one centered in the lake region and another over the plateau.

In the West decided falls in temperature have occurred on this, the last day of the winter season, the thermometer at Havre, Mont., registering 22 deg. below zero. Zero temperatures prevail generally in the Dakotas, Northern Wyoming and Western Minnesota.

Cold wave warnings have been issued for Kansas, Oklahoma, Texas panhandle, Arkansas, Missouri, east Iowa, east Wisconsin, Illinois, Indiana, Kentucky, Michigan, Ohio, West Pennsylvania and Western New York. Decidedly lower temperatures in the Atlantic states are predicted for tomorrow.

FIVE PERSONS KILLED BY ILLUMINATING GAS.

Chicago, March 20.—A family of five persons was found dead from illuminating gas in a cottage at 2635 North Lawndale avenue today. Circumstances indicated that an accident caused the tragedy. In the kitchen a rubber hose was attached to an open gas jet.

The victims were Engbert Cornelson, 55 years old, a machinist, his wife and two sons and a daughter.

A VERY BECOMING EASTER HAT.

BURKE ON WAY TO WASHINGTON

Appearance of Former Governor Eagerly Awaited at Treasury.

Washington, March 20.—John Burke, former governor of North Dakota, the new treasurer of the United States, is lost, so far as the treasury department is concerned. He was expected in Washington last night to take oath of office today but had failed to appear at the appointed time.

The department is anxious to receive the new official because his entry into office means the necessity of counting the nation's wealth. To verify the accounts of Carmi Thompson, retiring treasurer, the gold, silver, currency and securities in the treasury vaults actually will be counted by a committee which Secretary McAdoo is prepared to appoint as soon as Mr. Burke takes the oath.

The transfer of funds from Thompson to Burke will be the greatest single financial transaction from man to man in the history of the world, exceeding the $1,400,000,000 received by Mr. Thompson three months ago from his predecessor, Lee McClung.

Chicago, March 20.—John Burke, former governor of North Dakota, the new treasurer of the United States, arrived in Chicago from Fargo, N. D., and is visiting friends here. He expects to leave for Washington either tonight or tomorrow.

SCRUTINIZED BY EXPERTS

Tariff Revision Agreed Upon Is Under Close Examination.

Plan to Retain Most of Administrative Features of Law.

Washington, March 20.—The tariff revision agreed upon in the house committee on ways and means has been carefully analyzed by a corps of statistical and customs experts temporarily quartered in the committee offices.

Representative Hull of Tennessee, who will frame the income tax feature bill and Representative Peters of Massachusetts, have been conferring over the administrative features for reports to the full committee. The committee plan is to retain most of the administrative sections of the present tariff law and the income tax has yet to be formally voted upon, hinging upon the analysis of probable returns from the fourteen schedules of dutiable articles.

Whether the appropriations committee will be named at the outset of the session depends largely upon a coming conference between Chairman Underwood of the ways and means, and Chairman Fitzgerald of the appropriations committee. Democratic leaders point out that with the overwhelming Democratic majority it would be easy to suspend rules and act on the failed sundry civil and Indian appropriation bill.

ONE-THIRD OF VOTES VOID

A Large Percentage of Wrongly Marked Ballots Among Straw Votes.

Many Will Be Disenfranchised Unless They Study Instructions.

Unless the voters of Duluth study up on the ballot to be used in the election April 1, one-third of the ballots cast will probably be void.

That is the estimate of a man who has seen the ballots taken in a number of straw votes in different parts of the city.

Out of ninety-one votes cast at the postoffice today thirty were so marked that the votes would not count on all or some of the offices. At another place, three out of thirteen ballots were void. The percentage of spoiled ballots runs from 20 to 30 per cent all through the city where straw votes are taken.

Ample opportunity has been given everybody to study the ballots and learn the method of voting. There is time enough yet for those who do not understand. City Clerk C. S. Palmer has a large supply of sample ballots and instructions for voting are printed on them.

The voters must study up the ballots or the total vote counted for candidates will fall far short of the total vote cast.

FIRST MEETING OF BOAT CLUB

Members Get Together and Plan for the Coming Season.

Despite the disagreeable weather many of the members were present and all brought highly optimistic reports of the prospects for the coming season.

The meeting was in the nature of a get-together gathering, being the first of the season. Several of the committees which were appointed last fall when the club was organized stated that they would get busy at once and be prepared to report at the annual meeting of the club, which comes the first Monday in April. Preliminary plans for getting new members were discussed. The club hopes to erect an attractive club house on the water front this summer and to equip it with a number of row boats and canoes as well as to make provision for caring for launches.

The initial dance of the boat club will be given Thursday night, April 3. Commodore F. H. Wade appointed a committee of five which was empowered to make all arrangements. The committee held its first meeting at the adjournment of the regular meeting and started the ball to rolling without loss of time. It will be an invitation affair and the decorations and appointments will be strictly nautical in character.

FOUND HE HAD ANOTHER WIFE

Anna Vollen Wants Marriage With Chris Walhood Annulled.

Says She Found Skeleton in "Husband's" Family Closet.

When Chris Walhood, aged 45, swore to love, honor and cherish Anna Vollen until death did them part, his blushing bride of 24 little suspected that two years had barely elapsed since Chris had declared the same allegiance to another, who has prior claims upon him.

Yesterday in district court, Miss Vollen—she refuses to trespass on the rights of Wife No. 1 in the matter of names—started suit to have the little wedding ceremony she rehearsed with Walhood at Bessemer, Mich., on Jan. 3, 1912, declared null and void.

Miss Vollen is a hat trimmer and until recently was employed in the millinery establishment of Pauline Johnstone. In the city directory her residence address is given as 207 North Nineteenth avenue west. She has not lived with Walhood since she discovered that he was leading a double life.

In her complaint, Miss Vollen states that she was married to Walhood in due form at Bessemer and that at the time she supposed that Walhood was acting in good faith. However, since she has unearthed her alleged husband's family skeleton, she calls attention to the Michigan laws which make null and void a second marriage where either a wife or husband of either of the contributing parties is living and is not divorced.

Miss Vollen claims that Walhood was married at Hudson, Wis., to one Clara Kittelson on Dec. 27, 1910. When word came to her that Mrs. Clara Walhood was the Chris' actual and bonafida spouse, she left him.

Walhood is now a resident of North Dakota. Ross & McKnight are attorneys for Miss. Vollen in the action for annulment of the marriage.

On its way back the toboggan collided with another one coming down the slide and as a result several of the young people were badly shaken up. Ora, who was in the rear of the front toboggan, sustained a number of severe cuts and bruises. A boy in the party was also hurt.

You'll Want It All the Time

Once you have tasted the delicious nut-like flavor of "Minnesota" Macaroni, you will want to eat it every day. There has never been any macaroni like it before—none so firm, so nutritious and so flavory.

"Minnesota" Macaroni is one of the best and most nourishing foods known—yet it costs only about one cent a dish. Serve it at least twice a week in place of meat. You will save money and your family will enjoy better health.

"Minnesota" Macaroni is especially fine for children—it builds strong bodies and does not overload the stomach.

Try the handy "Minnesota" Cut Macaroni, which is cut into uniform pieces—it cooks more evenly and is quicker to prepare. Adv.

Knapp of the Forty-ninth district will be one of the principal speakers at the eleventh annual banquet of the West Duluth Commercial club to be held Thursday evening, April 10, at the Dorneuiz hall, Central avenue and Ramsey street. Mr. Knapp's acceptance was received by the local banquet committee yesterday afternoon.

With Representative Knapp's acceptance the list of speakers is completed, according to L. A. Barnes, chairman of the sub-committee in charge of the program. The other speakers, who have already accepted invitations are: Howard Elliott, president of the Northern Pacific; Edmund Pennington, president of the Soo road; Adolph O. Eberhart, governor of Minnesota; Francis E. McGovern, governor of Wisconsin; Clarence B. Miller, congressman from the Eighth Minnesota district, and Julius H. Barnes, chairman of the traffic commission of the Duluth Commercial club.

Among the other speakers and guests will be the members of the new city commission, who will be invited immediately after the election April 1. This is expected to be the first public appearance of the commission.

The banquet committee will hold a special meeting Saturday evening, when the complete program and arrangements for the evening will be announced. Reports will then be made by the various sub-committees to Andrew Myles, chairman of the general committee.

FIRST MEETING OF BOAT CLUB

Members Get Together and Plan for the Coming Season.

Despite the disagreeable weather many of the members were present and all brought highly optimistic reports of the prospects for the coming season.

The meeting was in the nature of a get-together gathering, being the first of the season. Several of the committees which were appointed last fall when the club was organized stated that they would get busy at once and be prepared to report at the annual meeting of the club, which comes the first Monday in April. Preliminary plans for getting new members were discussed. The club hopes to erect an attractive club house on the water front this summer and to equip it with a number of row boats and canoes as well as to make provision for caring for launches.

The initial dance of the boat club will be given Thursday night, April 3. Commodore F. H. Wade appointed a committee of five which was empowered to make all arrangements. The committee held its first meeting at the adjournment of the regular meeting and started the ball to rolling without loss of time. It will be an invitation affair and the decorations and appointments will be strictly nautical in character.

FOUND HE HAD ANOTHER WIFE

Anna Vollen Wants Marriage With Chris Walhood Annulled.

Says She Found Skeleton in "Husband's" Family Closet.

When Chris Walhood, aged 45, swore to love, honor and cherish Anna Vollen until death did them part, his blushing bride of 24 little suspected that two years had barely elapsed since Chris had declared the same allegiance to another, who has prior claims upon him.

Yesterday in district court, Miss Vollen—she refuses to trespass on the rights of Wife No. 1 in the matter of names—started suit to have the little wedding ceremony she rehearsed with Walhood at Bessemer, Mich., on Jan. 3, 1912, declared null and void.

Miss Vollen is a hat trimmer and until recently was employed in the millinery establishment of Pauline Johnstone. In the city directory her residence address is given as 207 North Nineteenth avenue west. She has not lived with Walhood since she discovered that he was leading a double life.

In her complaint, Miss Vollen states that she was married to Walhood in due form at Bessemer and that at the time she supposed that Walhood was acting in good faith. However, since she has unearthed her alleged husband's family skeleton, she calls attention to the Michigan laws which make null and void a second marriage where either a wife or husband of either of the contributing parties is living and is not divorced.

Miss Vollen claims that Walhood was married at Hudson, Wis., to one Clara Kittelson on Dec. 27, 1910. When word came to her that Mrs. Clara Walhood was the Chris' actual and bona-fide spouse, she left him.

Walhood is now a resident of North Dakota. Ross & McKnight are attorneys for Miss Vollen in the action for annulment of the marriage.

On her return trip to Duluth last evening, she was a passenger on the Soo line train, which ran down and killed an aged man while pulling out of the St. Paul yards.

You'll Want It All the Time

Once you have tasted the delicious nut-like flavor of "Minnesota" Macaroni, you will want to eat it every day. There has never been any macaroni like it before—none so firm, so nutritious and so flavory.

"Minnesota" Macaroni is one of the best and most nourishing foods known—yet it costs only about one cent a dish. Serve it at least twice a week in place of meat. You will save money and your family will enjoy better health.

"Minnesota" Macaroni is especially fine for children—it builds strong bodies and does not overload the stomach.

Try the handy "Minnesota" Cut Macaroni, which is cut into uniform pieces—it cooks more evenly and is quicker to prepare. Adv.

GLEANED ALONG THE POLICE RUN

If you had $350 or $360 in cash, the good and lawful coin of the realm, what would you do with it? Not the "come-easy-go-easy" mazuma, but the kind that is earned by the sweat of your brow.

Would you stack it away in a bank, or a safe deposit vault, or buy a lot or a mortgage, or do one of a dozen safe things with it in the interests of conservation?

Or would you lug it about in your trousers—if you wear 'em—and tell everybody how rich you are?

Would you retire at night in a rooming house, tossing your trousers and the roll on a handy chair? Would you leave the door unlocked so that anybody could walk in without any trouble? Would you go to the place at all if you knew that it had a "sporty" reputation; that booze sometimes flowed freely within its walls; that men and women might carouse there until the wee, small hours of the morning, and that the person in charge might be liable to have callers whom she didn't know much about?

Bert Smith, a teamster, is pondering some such questions today, but just a day or two too late. Smith didn't cross-examine himself before, and if he did his actions answered most of the queries in the affirmative. Wherefore he is out his hard-earned roll and doesn't know where it went. Experience sure is one expensive article.

Smith worked in the woods most of the winter and came to the city several days ago with about $350 in bills tucked away in his jeans. He went to the establishment at 16 North Second avenue west, conducted by Ida Devlin. Anyhow, that is the name Ida gave at the station this morning. When she used to be on Superior street the tall end of Ida's monaker was Richards or Richardson. Smith has stopped at Ida's boarding house before; in fact, it is stated that he had roomed there for a year or two. So he must have had more than a faint idea about the manner in which Ida conducted the place.

This morning Smith came to the police. He said that he went to bed last night in his room at 16 Second avenue west, upstairs, and didn't lock the door. He left his accumulation of greenbacks in his pocket and didn't even take the trouble to tuck the trousers under his pillow. When he woke up this morning he found himself as poor as he was before he went to the woods.

The police went to the place this morning to make an investigation. They roused Ida and told her that they wanted to examine the premises. Incidentally, the only stairway leading to the place is in the back, and before you can get inside the newcomer or prospective customer is looked over through a peep-hole in the door.

The officers did not find anything that looked like a wad worth $350. But they found a lot of other things. The things looked suspicious and smelled suspicious. Among them were numerous empty beer bottles and an abundance of full beer bottles. They found some empty whisky bottles and some not so empty. They found glasses which looked as though they had contained some liquid which foamed at the top, said evidence being in the nature of a dried, whitish substance around the rim. Other smaller glasses are claimed to have had a few drops of a brownish and pungent fluid in the bottom. Here and there they noticed stubs of cigarettes and cigar butts. Looking further they came across a little book which had writing in it. The writing wasn't exactly a cipher, in the meaning that it was a code, and they managed to gather from it that Ida had been a good patron of a brewery. Looking through the book they reached the conclusion that said brewery has been delivering an average of one or two cases of beer a day to Ida for a period of six months or more.

Taking all in all, they concluded that Ida has been conducting what is sometimes called a blind pig. They went away and got out a warrant for Ida. Then they arrested her on a charge of conducting a refreshment parlor which is not recognized by the law.

Although she is not so very large, Ida told the police that she drank about half the beer delivered to her place herself and that the balance was consumed by friends entertained by her from time to time. When brought into police court she pleaded not guilty to keeping an unlicensed drinking place. Her trial was set for next Tuesday morning and bail was fixed at $100.

Albert Q. Lee, manager of the Tuxedo chop suey, and Kin Sue, a waiter, the two Chinamen arrested yesterday morning on white slavery charges, were arraigned in police court yesterday afternoon. Both asked for examinations and they were set for Monday afternoon. In the meantime they will sojourn in the county jail, as the offense is not one for which bail can be fixed in the police court.

John Moody, the negro arrested the night before on the same charge, will also have his hearing Monday afternoon.

Henry Miller, clerk at the St. James hotel, where the Chinamen were arrested after they went there to keep their "dates" with the two women, was arrested yesterday afternoon on a charge of keeping a house of ill fame. He pleaded not guilty and his trial was set for Monday morning. He was released on $150 bail.

The police state that there is more to the cases than just sending out two women to "land" the Chinamen and the negro. It is claimed that at various times complaints have reached them that the Chinamen and the negro endeavored to make appointments with women with whom they came in contact, the Chinese in the chop suey and the negro in the shoe store where he worked as a bootblack. It is alleged that on several occasions the negro and the Chinese made advances to the two women who were instrumental in securing the evidence on which the arrests were made.

The case of the negro was taken up first. A reputable woman is asserted to have learned of his actions and to have taken the matter up with the authorities. She brought the two women to Chief Troyer and he took the matter in hand, with the result that the negro was arrested in his room with the two women. Through a misunderstanding the officers made the raid before a second negro had reached the scene.

The women then spoke of the Chinamen. As their claims were in keeping with what he had previously heard, he had them go to the chop suey house. In the previous instances the women had turned the Chinese down. Tuesday night they made a "date" with them with the knowledge of the police. The Chinamen sent the girls to the St. James hotel with cards. They are said to have shown these cards to the clerk, who showed them to rooms. When Albert Lee and Kin Sue arrived the clerk is said to have taken them at once to the same rooms. When they were inside the arrests were made.

As explained by the police the situation is not one in which they sent out women to trap men. It is recognized that many men might fall into a net of that kind. But as set forth by the police it would appear that evidence could not be secured against the prisoners in any other manner. Many women are willing to make complaints but it is extremely difficult to induce them to appear in court against the persons of whom they complain.

Gust Ferman, one time "King of the Bowery," was arrested last night on a charge of having grievously assaulted Gus Thompson, a woodsman. It is claimed that Ferman struck Thompson over the head with a beer bottle, inflicting an ugly gash. Thompson was taken to St. Luke's hospital by the police. He will not be able to be about for several days. Ferman was arrested later on the Bowery. He asked for an examination when he was arraigned in police court this morning on a charge of assault in the second degree. He will have his hearing next Thursday.

Walter Skandel, a musician, was arrested last night on a charge of disorderly conduct. It is claimed that he struck a man in a hotel on the Bowery. He pleaded not guilty and his trial was set for this afternoon.

DEATH ENDS DAMAGE SUIT

Victim of Murderous Assault Had Case Pending in Court.

By the recent death of Frank Rossi, victim of a murderous assault alleged to have been made by Joe Strafaccia, who has been a fugitive from justice since March 2, Charles Holder has been spared from being a defendant in a civil action which Rossi had threatened on the grounds of false imprisonment. Jack Dine, a companion of Rossi's, who had the same grievance against Holder, has made good his threat to sue Holder, because the latter, he claims, failed to substantiate a case against him in police court after having had him arrested and kept in jail for four hours waiting trial.

The affair on which Dine's claim for damages is based, took place on Jan. 9 last. Holder, acting under the impression that on New Year's eve, Rossi and Dine had been shooting firearms in the vicinity of his place causing a bullet to pass through his window, swore out warrants for their arrest. Holder lives in the vicinity of Eleventh avenue west and Third street.

In police court, both Rossi and Dine proved alibis on the night of the alleged shooting and the case against them was dismissed and the men acquitted. Both men immediately threatened to hold Holder liable for damages in the civil courts. Rossi's action died with him, but Dine will push his to trial. His attorney is William Marx.

Dine claims that he was kept in jail for four hours, and that the daily newspapers published accounts of his arrest, all of which he claims subjected him to considerable annoyance and humiliation. He also states that he lost a good job as assistant cook in one of the hotels. He asks for $1,000 to square matters.

MAKES DEMANDS ON MONTENEGRINS

Austrian Government Now Brings Situation Close to a Crisis.

Vienna, Austria, March 20.—The Austrian government brought the Balkan situation close to a crisis today by making several peremptory demands on Montenegro.

The Austrian minister at Cettinje, the Montenegrin capital, was instructed to inform the Montenegrin government that it must comply with the following:

"The free exit from the fortress of Scutari of all non-combatants.

"Explanations of the death of a Catholic priest named Palle, who is said to have been killed because he opposed the violent conversions of prisoners.

"Violent conversions must cease instantly.

"Full satisfaction must be given for the violence shown by the Montenegrins and Servians at San Giovanni di Medua, on the Adriatic coast, toward the crew of the Austrian merchant vessel, Skodra."

Three Austrian battleships and three smaller warships left Pola, the chief Austrian naval station yesterday for an unknown destination. It is supposed they are to support today's demands.

All of the Famous Milliners of Paris Are Represented Here

Our French Salon is just bubbling over with the most exquisite and quaint Hats. The "atmosphere" of the present modes is what, vaguely, we mean when we say, "THE STYLE OF OUR GRANDMOTHERS." A quaintness that assumes Prim Bonnet and Frill, Demme Little Coat, and seemingly Kerchief, perhaps to offest a too great daring of slit skirt, scant drapery, transparent Bodice, or extreme decollete.

It is the tilt of the Hat that gives the requisite chic quite as often as the shape and trimmings; it takes an artistic milliner who studies the face and then makes the Hat becoming just by a turn or twist. This explains why the Silberstein & Bondy Co.'s Millinery Department is so enthusiastically talked about.

M'EWEN HAS ORGANIZATION

Will Have Committee of Three in Each Precinct.

Labor Leader Gives Views on Vice and Public Ownership.

W. E. McEwen, candidate for mayor, will conduct a systematic speaking campaign next week and will have a complete organization working for his election.

At a meeting of McEwen supporters, held at Kalamazoo hall last night, preliminary organization steps were taken and the organization will be completed at a meeting to be held tomorrow evening at the same place. S. S. McDonald was chairman and A. G. Catlin was secretary of the meeting last evening and about fifty men were present. Every ward in the city was represented and names were suggested for a committee of three in each precinct to work for the election of McEwen for mayor and Alex Kennedy for the short term.

Mr. McEwen made a talk in which he declared public ownership of the electric lighting plant to be the main issue. He also touched upon the social evil and other subjects.

In regard to the social evil, Mr. McEwen said that the problem involves three things, the improvement of social conditions to cut off the supply of women, the suppression of the evil itself and remedial measures for the redemption of the women.

"Driving the women out of town and closing up the red light district is not the solution of the problem," said Mr. McEwen. "It goes only a small part of the way that must be traveled to completely eliminate the evil from our social life. We must improve social conditions so as to make a virtuous life more attractive than a life of shame; we must enforce the law so as to prevent the existence of evil and we must have houses of refuge and means of helping the women when they give up their immoral lives. I have no sympathy with those who would pack the women on trains to take them to some other city where they may go on in their former lives. It may solve the local problem for a time, but it is of no lasting good to society."

Public Ownership.

In regard to public ownership, Mr. McEwen said:

"There is only one issue in this contest upon which every other issue hangs. If a candidate is right on municipal ownership he can be depended upon to be right on every other question before the people.

"The knowing champion of public ownership has become an advocate of the principle through his studies of municipal problems. Local governments are the fountain heads of all governments. Out of them radiate all that is good and bad in politics. We cannot expect the ideal in the management of our state and national affairs until we first cleanse and purify our municipal governments.

"In the study of municipal problems it does not require very much research to ascertain that all evil in local politics emanates either from the owners of public service corporations, or the other special interests who expect favors from local governing bodies.

"It is folly to talk about reaching the highest point of efficiency in the management of any city, so long as men are elected to office who have been selected because of their peculiar leaning to those interests which seek favors from the people. The true friend of municipal ownership is an efficiency man from the outset, but he recognizes his handicap in bringing about efficiency under the present order of things.

"In the science of local government the people's control of the things they are obliged to use in common goes hand in hand with the promotion of efficiency in the administration of municipal affairs.

"It is not only popular to stand for economy and efficiency, but it is perfectly safe. A declaration of this kind attacks no vested interest. The rich corporation likes it because it means lower taxes and hence more profit; the average man likes it because it sounds good, but do not be misled by any such subtle declaration. A candidate who expects to do things as commissioner must stand for more than economy and efficiency, which, at the best, are but glittering generalities. Something more specific is demanded."

NO SCARCITY OF SPEECHES

Much Oratory Scheduled for Remaining Days of the Campaign.

Candidates for Mayor's Job Are Taking to the Platform.

If any voter in the city of Duluth wants to hear a political speech any night before April 1, he can be accommodated.

It was thought at the beginning of the campaign that the candidates would not go in much for speaking. There were so many candidates that it was thought they would only get all tangled up if all attempted to take the stump. They may get tangled up but they are going to take the stump. Some have held back until now, but all are gradually being drawn in and before election, everybody in the field will have tossed a few verbal pearls to the voters.

Tonight P. E. Dowling will hold forth at Dormedy hall in West Duluth, the Socialists will hold a meeting at Victor hall in West Duluth, Dr. Day will speak at the Park Point mission and there will be a free-for-all debate before the Afro-American club at the Knights of Pythias hall, 118 West Superior street.

Tomorrow evening, two free-for-all discussions are scheduled. The biggest one will be at the French Naturalization club in the West end, where nearly all the candidates will gather and as many will speak as are given a chance. Another will be at the meeting of the Central Hillside Improvement club at the Franklin school. A number of the candidates have promised to attend the meeting and outline their stand on public questions.

The meeting of the Municipal Ownership league at Kalamazoo nail Saturday night should be an interesting session. The candidates will be the under-dogs, however, for they will be compelled to listen to campaign oratory instead of doing the orating themselves. The members of the league will have the floor.

W. I. Prince, P. E. Dowling, W. E. McEwen, M. L. Fay, Dr. Day, M. B. Cullum and other candidates who are partial to the public speaking method of campaigning will be busy almost every night next week. Some are arranging meetings for themselves, and others will appear before various clubs and district organizations. Next week will be one joyful round of campaign oratory.

The candidates for the offices other than that of mayor have done little speaking thus far, but some of them are getting the fever. One of the attractions next week is a speech by Chris D. O'Brien, former mayor of St. Paul, who will speak at the Knights of Pythias hall Tuesday evening in behalf of the candidacy of Leonidas Merritt, candidate for the long term.

Bert N. Wheeler is the first short term candidate to get into the speaking class. He is arranging a series of meetings that will open Saturday evening with an address at Bricklayers' hall, Nineteenth avenue west and First street. Tomorrow evening he will be at the French Naturalization club, Thursday, March 27, Mr. Wheeler will speak at the Park Point mission, and meetings are being arranged for other parts of the city. Watson S. Moore will make several talks in behalf of the candidacy of Mr. Wheeler.

LARSON REPLIES TO FAY ATTACK

Says Mr. Prince Was Asked to Run By 500 Decent Citizens.

O. J. Larson, chairman of the committee which is assisting W. I. Prince in his candidacy for mayor, took cognizance this morning of the attack made on Mr. Prince by M. L. Fay at the meeting of the municipal ownership league Tuesday night.

"Mr. Prince is practically elected," he said. "That fact is conceded by all unbiased men who are at all familiar with the campaign. The people regardless of party affiliations recognize in Mr. Prince a man who will make an honest, able and efficient mayor. They are paying no attention to the uncomplimentary remarks which certain candidates have seen fit to make regarding Mr. Prince's backing. It is generally conceded that American politics has not as yet arrived to that high standard of ethics where any man, however upright and decent he may be, when he enters political life is beyond the reach of malice or immune from poisonous attacks of envious political opponents.

"It is quite inexplicable that there should be in our midst any so gullible as to believe that Mr. Prince was induced to become a candidate for the honorable position of mayor of Duluth by thugs, pickpockets or corrupt corporate interests. The truth of the matter is that the letter which was addressed to Mr. Prince urging him to become a candidate is signed by about 500 of the most respectable and decent men in this city. It was only after much persuasion that Mr. Prince consented to become a candidate, and should he be elected mayor, as the indications are that he will be, he will go into that office absolutely a free man to do for the people what his judgment and conscience dictate."

Mr. Larson declared Mr. Prince would not retaliate by indulging in personalities. He said: "No unkind word will fall from his lips regarding any candidate. If it should be necessary for him to indulge in any unseemly scramble to become mayor of Duluth, he doesn't want the office. Mr. Prince is making a vigorous but clean and dignified campaign, which is appealing to a large and ever increasing number of the citizens of Duluth, whose paramount object in this campaign is to elect a first class man.

"Of course, no candidate for public office has any right to claim exemption from legitimate criticism of his private or public record, and Mr. Prince invites such criticism. He has nothing to conceal from his fellow citizens. No question can be propounded to him in this campaign that will in the slightest degree embarrass him in answering it."

DOWLING THINKS CITY IS EXTRAVAGANT

P. E. Dowling, candidate for mayor, will continue his speaking campaign until the close of the campaign. He will appear tonight at Dormedy hall in West Duluth. Saturday evening he will speak at the West end, and he is now arranging meetings for every night next week.

He will touch in some of his future speeches on the question of municipal expenses and the problem of obtaining efficiency under the new plan of government.

"The expenses of the city in 1910 were $1,923,560.31, in 1911 they were $2,034,358.91 and in 1912, $2,192,791.24," said Mr. Dowling this morning. "During Dr. Cullum's last term in office, the expenses of the city for all purposes approximated $2,000,000 a year and the taxpayers contributed that money. I believe the figure is too high. I do not want to get into any controversy with any candidate, but I believe that ten years' of public office should enable a man to institute economies in a term within that time if he is ever to have that ability."

Advertising serves the double purpose of creating a demand and telling where it may be supplied.

NEW ROUNDHOUSES FOR SOUTH SHORE.

Marquette and Thomaston, Mich., will have a new roundhouse soon and work will be started on them within a month. These houses will replace old ones, the larger type of engines making the change necessary. The Marquette house, which will cost $50,000, will have fifteen stalls and that at Thomaston, which will cost $35,000, will have eleven stalls.

KAPLAN HANDS ONE TO DOWLING

Socialist Candidate Will "Fight Steel Trust Tooth and Nail."

At a campaign meeting Wednesday night at 8 o'clock at the Park Point mission, Morris Kaplan, candidate for mayor, hotly attacked P. E. Dowling for calling the steel trust a fair corporation.

Kaplan asserted that the Socialist candidates would not help the steel trust but would assist the employes "We are not so much interested in making Duluth a big city as we are determined to make Duluth a good city for the working class to live in," he said. "We would do all we can to prevent the trust from working their men seven days a week and twelve hours a day, as Mr. Gary of the steel trust admitted before the senate investigating committee, 62 per cent of their employes are working at the present time.

"We want to state publicly," exclaimed Kaplan, "that we will fight the steel trust tooth and nail should it attempt to impose such inhumane conditions in this city. We shall use our prestige and influence to help the men in perfecting an organization so that humane labor conditions could be forced from the steel trust monster. The working class first, last and all the time."

Thursday, Socialist candidates will meet at Victor hall, 5528 Grand avenue, West Duluth; Friday, at Lakeside town hall; Sunday, at New Duluth Maccabee hall in the afternoon.

Expense Accounts.

John A. MacDonell, candidate for the short term, was the only one to file an expense account with the city clerk this morning. Mr. MacDonell's statement gave his expenses to date as $25.25. Nine candidates filed statements yesterday. M. B. Cullum is the only candidate to report contributions to his campaign fund, he having received $75. Following are the expenses of candidates who filed yesterday: M. B. Cullum, $54.50; Bernard Silberstein, $75.31; W. A. Hicken, $44.56; H. J. Mullin, $81.20; Olof G. Olson, $30.59; J. C. Wesenberg, $29.25; Frederick Tischer, $12.30; James A. Farrell, $88.12; William H. Smallwood, $61.03.

TURNS HIS GUNS ON DR. CULLUM

Fay Attacks His Record During Three Terms in Office.

Marcus L. Fay, candidate for mayor, turned his guns on M. B. Cullum at a meeting at Dormedy hall in West Duluth last evening. He said that Mr. Cullum had been elected to the office of mayor three times and he had never succeeded in enforcing the law.

"When a man has held an office six years and has failed to make good, he should not against ask the suffrage of the voters," he said.

Mr. Fay also questioned the soundness of W. E. McEwen's position on the "red light" district. He said Mr. McEwen's contention that provision should be made for giving employment to those girls who want to leave their immoral life, cannot be supported.

"We cannot turn the working girls out in order to make provision for these people in our homes," he said. "It is a preposterous scheme."

Mr. Fay repeated his allegation that the electric lighting company, the breweries, the saloon keepers, the thugs and the pickpockets are in combination to elect men to office who will not have the people's interests at heart.

CULLUM REPLIES TO MARCUS FAY

Says Public Is Weary of Bargaining With Liquor Interests.

Dr. M. B. Cullum today replied to the attack of Marcus L. Fay, as follows:

"Mr. Fay is perfectly correct in saying that I have not enforced the laws. I told him so myself. I have practically shouted this statement from the housetops; and I have told the reason why; and I have told the people that if they would adopt the commission form of government the people's wishes in this matter could be carried out. The liquor dealers knew this was true, and they opposed it. Isn't it a little singular that all these people are now opposing me? Put Troyer on oath, and ask him what orders I gave him: put Walter Dacey on oath, and ask him what orders were given.

"The real penalty for violation of the liquor law was in the hands of the council. Whatever privileges the saloon men got were stolen; and some of them were in better position to steal it than others. In justice to those in business these laws should be enforced on all alike; in justice to the public demand they ought to be enforced strictly; and in justice to themselves, the commissioners will see that it is done.

"The public is getting tired of being obliged to bargain with the men in the business of selling liquor every time we have an election. There are other very important matters to attend to; and neither the liquor interests, nor the lighting interests, nor any other special interest should be allowed for a moment to dictate to this public just what men should be chosen.

"We have got the best system in America, and we ought to have a chance to get the greatest benefit from it for the thousands of taxpayers that want their money spent wisely, and their business attended to promptly; and if we are going to make a mess of this commission form, then it is just as well not to have adopted it, and go back to the old system.

"I should like to see this commission form succeed. If I can help in making it a success I shall be proud to do so; but in any case choose men that have no strings on them. Yours,

"M. B. CULLUM."

HILLSIDE CLUB WILL HEAR CANDIDATES.

The Central Hillside club will meet Friday evening at the Franklin school. A representative of the city building inspector's office will explain the housing ordinance and in particular that part that applies to the building of a house on a 25-foot frontage. There seems to be a general misunderstanding of this ordinance. Candidates for commissioners and mayor will be given an opportunity to explain where they stand on the live issues that interest the people.

The meeting will be an open one.

Strange New Drug Stops Scalp Itching

(From Advanced Science.)

"Ever since this paper published the discovery of that eminent London specialist, Prof. J. B. Hobbes-Curtin, that the drug quintone could be used for the successful treatment of eczema on the scalp, it has been growing in popularity.

"The treatment is simple and is used as a household remedy by many. Get two ounces of quintone from the druggist, dissolve it in one-half pint of hot water, and apply the solution twice daily to the affected surfaces.

"Not only has quintone proven invaluable for treatment of eczema on the scalp, but it has been successfully used for salt rheum, eczema, tetter, ringworm and other itching skin eruptions."

Prince Will Speak.

W. I. Prince will be one of the speakers at the meeting of the Central Hillside Improvement club at the Franklin school tomorrow evening. Mr. Prince will elaborate on his platform declaration in regard to municipal ownership and will speak on other issues of the campaign.

CANDIDATES WILL LISTEN FOR ONCE

Public Ownership Workers Will Talk to Them Saturday.

The candidates had the floor at the meeting of the Municipal Ownership league at the city hall Tuesday evening and they told the members of the league where they stand.

At the next meeting of the league Saturday evening at Kalamazoo hall, the league members will have the floor and they will tell the candidates where they stand.

Saturday the Stirrup club will hold a meeting, at which the replies to letters sent out will be analyzed and recommendations will be dealt with at the meeting of the Municipal Ownership league, and some of the candidates are expected to be the objects of attack from both organizations.

The Municipal Ownership league will probably have no meetings after Saturday night, but the officers and prominent members will take the stump next week, it is expected, in an endeavor to bring about the defeat of some candidates who are particularly obnoxious to them.

Prescription That Soom Knocks Rheumatism

This simple and harmless formula has worked wonders for all who have tried it, quickly curing chronic and acute rheumatism and backache. "From your druggist get one ounce of Toris compound (in original sealed package) and one ounce of syrup of Sarsaparilla compound. Take these two ingredients home and put them in a half pint of good whiskey. Shake the bottle and take a tablespoonful before each meal and at bedtime." Good results come after the first few doses. If your druggist does not have Toris compound in stock he will get it for you in a few hours from his wholesale house. Don't be influenced to take a patent medicine instead of this. Insist on having the genuine Toris compound in the original, one-ounce, sealed, yellow package. Hundreds of the worst cases here have been cured by this in a short time.

"But I am from Iowa."

"Iowa, indeed! How very interesting! I am sure the other gentleman called it Ohio."

SUFFRAGETTES PLAN ANOTHER PARADE.

Washington, March 20.—Another parade in this city is being planned by the executive committee of the National American Women's Suffrage association for April 7, when the extra session of congress convenes. This time the parade will be neither so long nor so elaborate as the one marred by disorder in the streets March 3. Five hundred and thirty-one women, including representatives from each congressional district and from each state at large will form and march to the capitol, where they will present to the members of congress their arguments and petitions in favor of equal suffrage. The parade will begin immediately after a mass meeting in one of the local theaters.

EX-PRESIDENT TAFT WANTS TEDDY'S PICTURE

Washington, March 20. — Former President Taft has missed one personal belonging which he left when he quit the White House, a picture of Theodore Roosevelt, which hung on the east wall of his private office. Several days before he started for Augusta, the president took down the only other picture in his sanctum, that of his father, Alphonse Taft, but the Roosevelt picture has been hanging there alone since President Wilson assumed office. Yesterday a letter came to the White House office requesting that the picture be taken down and sent to the New Haven hotel, where Mr. Taft expects to live for several months after he takes up his duties as a Yale professor.

PAY HONOR TO LIVINGSTONE

Scotchmen Observe One Hundredth Anniversary of Explorer's Birth.

Henry Taylor Reads Paper on Livingstone's Life and Works.

Clan Stewart, Order of Scottish Clans, celebrated the hundredth anniversary of the birth of Dr. David Livingstone, the noted African explorer and Christian missionary, at a meeting held last evening in Foresters' hall. This celebration occurred on the exact anniversary, as David Livingstone was born on March 19, 1813. Addresses were made by several members. The principal feature of the evening was a paper by Henry Taylor, British consul at Duluth, who was once a personal acquaintance of Dr. Livingstone.

Speaking of the movements of Livingstone after he lost his wife by death in Africa in 1862, Mr. Taylor said:

"Again he returned to England, but his heart was in Africa, and in 1864 he set out on his third journey and he landed at the mouth of the Ravenna river. Everywhere he was shocked with the horrors of the slave trade. For years he remained in the center of Africa fighting the slave trade and all connected with it. At last, on Oct. 23, 1871, a mere skeleton, he again reached Ujiji. Once more he found that all his goods had been sold or destroyed. He was in the direst extremity but relief was near at hand.

"Five days afterwards, when nothing would seem more impossible, his faithful servants, Susi and Chuma, brought the news that a white man was coming. It was none other than Henry M. Stanley, who had been sent out by James Gordon Bennett of the New York Herald. Stanley was greatly surprised at being addressed in English by these two faithful servants of Livingstone. A little later he caught sight of the pale face, bent form and heavy step of Livingstone, as he appeared, wearing his bluish cap with the faded gold band upon it, that was the symbol of his authority as an English consul.

Stanley's Impressions.

"The following are the impressions of Livingstone from Stanley's own words: 'Oh, reader, had you been at my side on this day in Ujiji, how eloquently could be told the nature of this man's work! Had you been there but to see and hear! His lips gave me the details, lips that never lie. I cannot repeat what he said. I was too much engrossed to take my note book out and begin to stenograph his story. He had too much to say, but began at the end, seemingly oblivious of the fact that five or six years had to be accounted for. But his account was oozing out—it was growing fast into grand proportions—into a most marvelous history of deeds.'

"After saying good-by to Livingstone, Stanley wrote 'For four months and four days I lived with him in the same hut, or the same boat or the same tent, and I never found a fault in him. I went to Africa as prejudiced against religion as the worst infidel in London. To a reporter like myself, who had only to deal with wars, mass meetings and political gatherings, sentimental matters were quite out of my province. But there came to me a long time for reflection. I was out there away from a worldly world. I saw this solitary old man there and I asked myself, 'Why does he stop here? What is it that inspires him?' For months after we met I found myself listening to him, wondering at the old man carrying out the words, 'Leave all and follow me.' But little by little, seeing his piety, his gentleness, his zeal, his earnestness and how quietly he went about his business, I was converted by him, although he had not tried to do it.'

"At last the time came for Stanley to return. He used every effort to induce Livingstone to go back with him. But the indomitable soul of the great missionary explorer had not yet seen the result of its own travail. He felt that he must stay. Stanley urged. 'Come with me,' he said, 'and I will carry you to the coast.' But Livingstone only shook his head. Stanley divided his goods and left half with Livingstone.

Last Sight of White Man.

"They walked side by side till at last the time came for parting. They took each other's hands and in the quiet way of great souls in great crises, said their farewells and David Livingstone had looked for the last time on a white man's face and listened for the last time to the music of a white man's voice.

"He started out again on his last journey, but was faint and weak. After a time they had to carry him. His sufferings were terrible. April 29, 1873, saw the last of his travels. They brought him at last to Chitambas village in Ilala. Here they tenderly put him under the eaves of a house in a drizzling rain until the hut they were building should be ready. They laid him on his rough bed. The next day he lay undisturbed. He asked a few wandering questions. At 4 o'clock the next morning the boy who lay at the door called Susi, exclaiming, 'It's so still. I'm afraid; I'm afraid.' Susi called Chuma, and together they entered the hut, for there was Livingstone, not tossing in the delirium fever, not calling for his Scottish Highland, nor for ministry to his pain, but kneeling by his bedside with his head buried in his hands, and so praying for that Africa for which he had given his life.

Carry Body to England.

"There remains the most wonderful incident of all. Two black boys in the heart of Africa determined to carry back to England the body of Livingstone. Tenderly Susi and Chuma removed the heart of Livingstone and buried it beneath the great tree found and identified some time ago. They persevered on the nine months' journey that involved dangers and sufferings too great to be recounted. But the black boys did not abandon their charge, and at last, bearing their precious burden, they reached the coast and sailed for England. Then through the streets, lined with the reverent populace, they bore that honored body.

"The black slab that in the center of the nave in Westminster marks the resting place of Livingstone bears this inscription, and let us read it by the light of that nine months' journey to the coast: 'Brought by faithful hands over land and sea, here rests David Livingstone, missionary, traveler, philanthropist; born March 9, 1813, at Blantyre, Lanarkshire; died May 4, 1873, at Chitambas village, Ilala.'

"For thirty years his life was spent in an unwearied effort to evangelize the native races, to explore the undiscovered secrets and to abolish the desolating slave trade of Central Africa, and where, with his last words, he wrote: 'All I can say in my solitude is: May heaven's rich blessing come down on everyone, American, English, Turk, who will help to heal this open sore of the world.'"

ASHAMED OF JESUS CHRIST

Many Men Are in This Mental State, Says Pastor.

Dr. M. S. Rice took the topic, "Ashamed of Jesus" for the text of the sermon which he delivered last evening before another large audience at the Lyceum theater. The text was taken from Luke: "Whosoever shall be ashamed of Me and My words, of him shall the Son of Man be ashamed."

Among other things, the pastor said: "A man ashamed of Jesus Christ, the Son of God.

"The very idea of it when looked at squarely seems impossible, and yet the glaring truth of it compels our attention. Men and women are ashamed of Jesus. There are doubtless men and women here now of whom this accusation is shamefully true.

"Who is a man, any man to dare to stand before the Son of God? But the fact that confronts me is that Jesus Christ is ashamed of no man. There were those little narrow, bigoted men in the days of His human presence who tried to pick a criticism of Him at this point. They said that they, with their exclusive interpretations of men, should set the manners for God, and they didn't like it because He ate with publicans and sinners. But He went right on calling fishermen and publicans to follow Him, sitting to talk with sinful women, and lifting them to holiness.

"The Son of God is not ashamed to be found with men and women. The humblest have known Him, and because they have known Him they have had that which the cheap yet coveted portions of earth have not been able to supply."

FARMER TO TESTIFY.

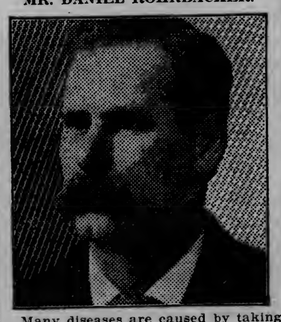
Going to Give Evidence Against Woman Accused of Misuse of Mails.

Ashland, Wis., March 20.—Fred Beecher, a farmer, who is a widower and has several children, has been called to St. Louis by the government to testify in the prosecution of Stella Green, on trial in the Federal court there on the charge of misuse of the mails, it being alleged she ran a matrimonial agency and by means of letters lured credulous men to send her money to join them. Among her letters are said to have been found one from Beecher.

CATARRH OF THE THROAT

Requires Prompt Treatment to Avoid Deafness

MR. DANIEL ROHRBACKER.



Many diseases are caused by taking cold. A cold is very likely to settle in the nose, causing nasal catarrh. It may settle in the upper part of the throat, called the nasal pharyngeal space. In this space are two little tubes called eustachian tubes, that lead to the middle ear.

If catarrh settles in the pharyngeal space it may follow the mucous membrane through the eustachian tubes into the middle ear. If it does it will cause noises in the ear, and later on be sure to cause deafness.

Catarrh of the throat may follow the eustachian tubes up into the middle ear without causing much concern on the part of the patient. The partial loss of hearing is apt to be overlooked. A person may lose half his hearing before he knows it.

For instance, suppose a man can hear his watch four feet from the ear. If he loses his hearing to the extent that he can only hear the tick of his watch two feet from the ear he may not suspect it at all. His hearing is good enough for ordinary purposes. He goes on without the slightest suspicion that he is losing his hearing. He may have ringing in the ear, or cracking and snapping sounds in the ear, or a feeling of pressure in the ear, but he is not aware that he is losing his hearing.

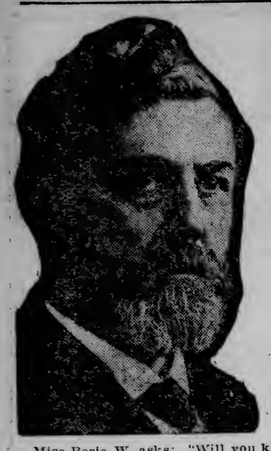
It is a good thing to test your hearing with a watch. First hold the watch against your ear, then move it gradually away from the ear and see how far away from the watch you can actually hear it tick. Try it on the other side and see if both ears are alike. If you find that you are unable to hear the watch on both sides alike and at a distance of four feet from the ear, you may know that deafness has already begun. You should begin taking Peruna at once. Gargle the throat with cold, strong salt water, as directed on page four of the "Ills of Life," sent free. Persist in this treatment until a cure is effected.

Sometimes catarrh of the nasal pharyngeal space will cause an accumulation of secretions in the throat, that completely fill the space. Unless these secretions are promptly removed by frequent gargling polypi may be formed. Once formed the polypi or adenoids, as they are sometimes called, will require a long time with the gargling to remove. Gargling according to the proper method will even remove polypi or adenoids, and no surgical operation is required.

In order to understand exactly what is meant by proper gargling send for a free copy of the "Ills of Life."

During the whole course of gargling Peruna must be taken according to directions on the bottle.

Mr. Daniel Rohrbacker, R. R. 2, Castalia, Ohio, whose portrait appears above, writes: "I want to say a word for Peruna. I used it for catarrh of stomach, and it relieved me in a short time. The four or five bottles I used was worth more than all other remedies I ever used."



The Doctor's Advice
by Dr. Lewis Baker

The questions answered below are general in character, the symptoms or diseases are given and the answers will apply to any case of similar nature.

Those wishing further advice, free, may address Dr. Lewis Baker, College Bldg., College-Ellwood Sts., Dayton, O., enclosing self-addressed stamped envelope for reply. Full name and address must be given but only initials or fictitious name will be used in my answers. The prescriptions can be filled at any well-stocked drug store. And druggist can order of wholesaler.

Miss Berle W. asks: "Will you kindly prescribe a safe remedy to reduce my weight? I prefer a tablet, as I cannot take liquid medicine."

Answer: Obtain of any well-stocked druggist a tube of 5-grain arbolene tablets and take as per the directions which accompany the packages. You will reduce at the rate of a pound a day after the first few days of treatment. This remedy reduces goitre also.

"Howard" writes: "What can I take for headache, dark spots before my eyes, dizzy spells and also constipation?"

Answer: Constipation is the cause of all your trouble, but I can cure you if you will follow my directions. Get at the drug store three grain sulpherb tablets (not sulphur). These are packed in sealed tubes and contain full directions. These little tablets purify the blood, the bowels and liver are stimulated into healthy action and will gradually cure your trouble.

"Little Girl"—To cure your child of bed-wetting get tincture cubebs, 1 dram; comp. fluid balmwort, 1 oz., and tincture rhusaromatic, 2 drams. Give 10 to 15 drops in water about one hour before meals.

Doctor: "I have been a sufferer of catarrh of the head for many years. It has also affected my stomach, bowels and blood. I suffer greatly and would appreciate an immediate answer."

Louise: I should recommend the following local treatment for you: Get two ounces of Vilane powder and to a pint of warm water add one-half teaspoonful and snuff from the palm of the hand through the nostrils two or three times daily. In connection with this make a catarrh balm of one ounce of vaseline or lard and a level teaspoonful of Vilane powder, apply this balm to the nostrils as far up as possible. Also obtain the following ingredients, mix, shake well and take a teaspoonful four times daily: Syrup sarsaparilla comp., 4 ozs.; comp. fluid balmwort, 1 oz.; fluid extract buchu, 1 oz.

"Kathryn" writes: "If you know of anything that will stop premature baldness, cure dandruff and itching scalp, I should appreciate a reply."

Answer: The following simple remedy will cure dandruff and promote a luxurious growth of hair. Ask for plain yellow minyol which can be had in 4 oz. jars and use regularly according to directions. I have seen the most astonishing results from its use that I heartily recommend it to all who suffer with any disease of the scalp.

"Mrs. A. F." writes: "Really if I could find a true remedy to increase my weight, I should be the happiest woman alive. I am so thin and scrawney, it is a shame. Why can not I be like other women? I do not work hard and have pretty good health."

Answer: You can "be like other women" if you will follow my advice, which is to use three-grain hypo-nuclane tablets packed in sealed cartons with directions, and most widely prescribed by intelligent physicians everywhere. They improve the nutrition, add red corpuscles to the blood, improve the complexion, but thorough and regular use must follow to get these good results.

"Mr. Ben" writes: "My joints are becoming so stiff from rheumatism that I can scarcely walk. Is there any help for me?"

Answer: Of course there is help for you and for all others who suffer from rheumatism. Take the following and you will be entirely cured. Iodide of potassium, 2 drams; sodium salicylate 4 drams; wine of colchicum, ½ oz.; comp. essence cardiol, 1 oz.; comp. fluid balmwort, 1 oz.; and syrup sarsaparilla, 5 ozs. Mix and take a teaspoonful at meal time and again at bed time.

"Mary J." says: "Every winter I have a cold which lasts till spring. I have tried several doctors' prescriptions but they do no good so I ask you what to do."

Answer: The best medicine to relieve colds and coughs is made by mixing the contents of a 2½ oz. bottle of essence mentho laxene with honey or home made sugar syrup. Full directions for making are given on the bottle and also how to take. You will find this will cure your cough in a very few days and it is perfectly harmless and pleasant to take.

"Miss A." writes: "I have a very bad case of dyspepsia. I am afraid to eat a hearty meal. My breath is bad and I am cross and irritable most of the time."

Answer: If you will get the following tablets and take according to directions which accompany the package, you will soon be rid of all distress in your stomach. It will also help your constipation. They are called tablets triopeptine and are packed in sealed cartons. If this trouble is allowed to stand it will cause appendicitis, so begin taking at once.

"Helen" writes: "Please tell me what to do to gain an appetite. I cannot eat and am thin and nervous."

Answer: You need a good system tonic and the best one that I could tell you of is: Syrup of hypophosphites comp, 5 ozs., tincture cadomene comp. 1 oz. Mix and always shake well before using. Take a teaspoonful before meals for several weeks and you will gain an appetite and your whole nervous system will be restored to its natural state.

FOR DANDRUFF, FALLING HAIR OR ITCHY SCALP--25 CENT "DANDERINE"

Save Your Hair! Danderine Destroys Dandruff and Stops Falling Hair at Once—Grows Hair, We Prove It.

If you care for heavy hair, that glistens with beauty and is radiant with life; has an incomparable softness and is fluffy and lustrous you must use Danderine, because nothing else accomplishes so much for the hair.

Just one application of Knowlton's Danderine will double the beauty of your hair, besides it immediately dissolves every particle of dandruff; you cannot have nice, heavy, healthy hair if you have dandruff. This destructive scurf robs the hair of its lustre, its strength and its very life, and if not overcome it produces a feverishness and itching of the scalp; the hair roots famish, loosen and die; then the hair falls out fast.

If your hair has been neglected and is thin, faded, dry, scraggy or too oily, don't hesitate, but get a 25 cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine at any drug store or toilet counter; apply a little as directed and ten minutes after you will say this was the best investment you ever made.

We sincerely believe, regardless of everything else advertised that if you desire soft, lustrous, beautiful hair and lots of it—no dandruff—no itching scalp and no more falling hair—you must use Knowlton's Danderine. If eventually—why not now? A 25 cent bottle will truly amaze you.

ACCESSIBLE TO CONGRESSMEN

President Wilson Will Be at Capitol Very Frequently.

Washington, March 20. — President Wilson will confer frequently with members of the house and senate in the president's room in the capitol during the extra session of congress. This was announced at the White House late yesterday.

The president intends to make himself as accessible as possible to members of congress on those days when tariff legislation will have reached its most important development. He found, while governor of New Jersey, that legislation was often expedited by his close communication with the New Jersey legislature. He made it a practice to be in his own office whenever the legislature was in session, day or night, and gave precedence in his engagements to the legislators.

The president will go to the capitol, it was said at the White House, in a spirit of friendly co-operation, there to consult with Democrats and Republicans alike on the progress of legislation. He believes, however, that he should go to the capitol as party leader. He has always said that the president of the United States was the elected leader of his party, and that he particularly was charged by the people with the carrying out of party pledges. Mr. Wilson believes the tariff bill should be treated as a party measure.

Slugged and Robbed.

Minneapolis, Minn., March 20.—John Snyder of Fergus Falls was found lying in a street early yesterday. He was unconscious and when he recovered, told the police he was returning to his hotel when he was hit in the back of the head. He can remember no more. Search of his pockets revealed that he had been robbed of $55. He will recover.

TO INVESTIGATE POSTAL SERVICE

Postmaster General Appoints Commission to Look Into Rumors.

Washington, March 20.—A special commission to inquire into "the actual financial, physical and working conditions" throughout the postal service, was created yesterday by Postmaster General Burleson. It was announced that there have been many conflicting reports as to the general conditions of the department and that Mr. Burleson decided to have a special investigation to get the facts.

The commission is composed of Daniel C. Roper, Joseph Stewart, A. M. Dockery and James I. Blakeslee, first, second, third and fourth assistant postmasters general, respectively and Merritt O. Chancem, chief clerk of the department. They conferred with the postmaster general today regarding the various features of the service to be investigated.

"YOUNG MEN" BELOW 60 HAVE GOOD CHANCE.

Washington, March 20. — Attorney General McReynolds, who is weighing the qualifications of many applicants for vacant Federal judgeships informed callers yesterday that an applicant more than 60 years old had a serious mishap to overcome. While this is not a hard and fast rule, the age question, it is said, will receive consideration in connection with applications to such an extent that "young men below 60" have a much better chance. The rule was followed by President Taft and Attorney General Wickersham in the applications of the previous administration.

Comparative Digestibility of Food

Made with different Baking Powders

From a Series of Elaborate Chemical Tests:

An equal quantity of bread (biscuit) was made with each of three different kinds of baking powder—cream of tartar, phosphate, and alum—and submitted separately to the action of the digestive fluid, each for the same length of time.

100 Per Cent. Digested

Bread made with phosphate powder:

68¼ Per Cent. Digested

Bread made with alum powder:

67¾ Per Cent. Digested

These tests, which are absolutely reliable and unprejudiced, make plain a fact of great importance to everyone: Food raised with Royal, a cream of tartar Baking Powder, is shown to be entirely digestible, while the alum and phosphate powders are found to largely retard the digestion of the food made from them.

Undigested food is not only wasted food, but it is the source of very many bodily ailments.

GREAT FEAST OF MASONS

Scottish Rite Members Will Hold Maundy Thursday Banquet.

Ceremony of Extinguishing the Lights to Be Carried Out.

The great feast of all Scottish Rite Masons will take place this evening at the temple, when the Maundy Thursday banquet will be held. This, to Scottish Riters, is a feast obligatory. If a Scottish Rite Mason is somewhere where he cannot attend a consistory meeting on this day, he is expected to hunt up another Scottish Riter if possible and eat of the paseal lamb and observe the ceremonies as best he can.

It is expected that the 675 places provided at the tables will be filled this evening, and complete preparation for taking care of an immense crowd has been made.

Following the feast will take place the beautiful ceremony of the extinguishing of the lights, signifying the crucifixion of righteousness. At 3 o'clock on Sunday afternoon the Masons will again gather and relight the lights, signifying that righteousness was not slain but sleeping. Carl F. Wiberg, wise master of the Chapter of Rose Croix, under the auspices of which these services will be held, will preside and will be assisted by J. S. Matteson, Hugh J. McClearn, D. E. Woodbridge, Harry Nesbitt and J. P. Johnson.

The thirtieth degree was conferred last night and this morning Commander R. B. Knox of the consistory conferred the thirty-first degree. This afternoon he and his assistants are conferring the thirty-second degree.

The musical program accompanying the conferring of degrees is conducted by A. F. M. Custance, and is said to be one of the most beautiful with which the degrees have been graced.

SHORT COURSE FOR FARMERS ENDS

Much Interest in First of Series—Seed Potatoes Studied.

The three-day short course at the church near the Jackson school on the Swan Lake road came to a close yesterday, and a similar course opened today at the Canosia town hall.

The attendance at the meeting yesterday showed the interest taken in the course by the farmers and their families. Fully 125 men, women and children attended yesterday's meetings.

A. B. Hostetter, superintendent of agriculture of the Duluth Commercial club, gave a talk on the selection of seed potatoes. He had men and boys from the audience go through a pile of potatoes and pick out what they considered good seed specimens. They brought them to Mr. Hostetter and he passed on their quality, pointing out defects.

W. A. Dickinson, superintendent of the D. & I. R. demonstration farm at Meadowlands, spoke on silos. He urged their adoption by farmers in this part of the state, as ten to twelve tons of fodder corn can be grown to the acre. He recommended Minnesota No. 13 and Northwestern dent.

A. J. McGuire, superintendent of the Northeast Experiment station at Grand Rapids, talked on the feeding of dairy cattle and the clearing of land.

Fred Ward, county agricultural agent, made tests of butter fat in cream.

The short course at Canosia will run today, tomorrow and Saturday.

GOVERNOR BURKE WAS IN DEMAND

McAdoo and Bryan in Race to Get His Services.

Washington, March 20.—The friends of Secretary McAdoo, who has given notice that he will not receive in person any more officeseekers, but all applications must be made in writing and mailed to the secretary of the treasury, are citing the case of ex-Governor Burke of North Dakota as evidence that it will be better for those who want jobs under the treasury department to wait for McAdoo to call them. There were about a dozen applicants for the United States treasurership, all well indorsed. Governor Burke had not applied for anything and was off on a holiday when Mr. McAdoo decided he wanted him.

William J. Bryan, secretary of state, apparently decided about the same time that he wanted ex-Governor Burke in the diplomatic service and there was a race between the two to locate the modest political leader of the Northwest. Mr. Bryan is said to have had ex-Governor Burke in mind for ambassador to Mexico and is understood to have broached the subject to Mr. Burke when the treasurer's job loomed on the horizon. Mr. Burke accepted the $8,000 a year job and turned down the proposition to enter the foreign service.

SENT BACK TO HIS OLD HOME IN SOUTH

County poor authorities yesterday figured that it would be cheaper to send Walter D. Neuhardt, a penniless stranger, back to his home at Wheeling, W. Va., than it would be to take care of him the rest of his natural life at the poor farm.

Neuhardt, although but 29 years old, is afflicted with heart trouble and is in poor physical condition. Since he came to Duluth six weeks ago from Frazee, Minn., he has been doing odd jobs for the Salvation Army. At Frazee he claims to have lost all of his earthly possessions in a fire which burned out a restaurant in which he was employed.

Neuhardt said that he had never left his home at Wheeling until last December, when his mother died. He came to the Northwest to get a new start, but misfortune followed him and the cold climate brought on disabilities, he said.

Neuhardt was anxious for the chance to return. He was furnished a ticket by Charles Shogran, clerk of the poor board, and left last evening for Wheeling.

Health and Beauty Hints

BY MRS. MAE MARTYN.

Margaret: You can overcome the lifeless, "stringy," brittle condition of your hair and make it soft, brilliant and luxurious again by the use of this simple quinine tonic: Get one ounce of quinzoin from your druggist, dissolve in half-pint alcohol, add ½ pint water. Vigorous scalp massage with this tonic will stimulate roots and tissues to healthy action, overcome dandruff, oiliness and irritation and the hair will regain former color, gloss and life.

Maid: Get a small, original package of pyroxin and apply some occasionally at lash-roots with thumb and forefinger. This makes short, straight eyelashes grow long and curly. Rubbing pyroxin on eyebrows with forefinger will cause them to come in thick and beautiful. Be careful and don't get any pyroxin where no hair is wanted.

Grace M.: I know you will like delatone for removing superfluous hairs. With a little water make enough paste to cover the hairs; let remain two or three minutes, then rub off, wash the skin and every trace of hair will have vanished. This is an inexpensive, painless way to remove hair or fuzz and no harm results from its use.

Irene: Impurities in the blood cause the condition of which you speak and until this is corrected you can hope for no relief. An economical, old-fashioned tonic and system regulator can be made at home by dissolving one ounce of kardene in a half-pint alcohol, then adding a half-cup sugar and enough hot water to make a quart. A tablespoonful before each meal soon rids the blood of poisonous accumulations and gives you strength and energy. When the blood is cleansed of impurities the skin becomes clear and the complexion takes on a healthy tint.

Miss G.: No, I would not use paint of any make. Rouge and powder only cover defect—a spurmax lotion removes them, tones the skin, permits the pores to breathe, removes impurities and replaces the sallow, "muddy" appearance with the pink and white bloom of health. Four ounces of spurmax (which you can get from your druggist) put into half-pint of hot water to which are added two teaspoonfuls of glycerine makes the lotion which has helped many society leaders to win their reputation for perennial beauty. Try it today and you will never again spend money for powders.

Mother: Use the same shampoo for your little girl's hair that you do for your own. The only perfect shampoo is composed of a teaspoonful of canthrox dissolved in a cup of hot water. When this mixture, which contains no "free" alkali, as do so many advertised shampoos, is poured on the head and rubbed up into a lather, it not only cleanses the hair and scalp, but invigorates the roots. I have never used a shampoo which leaves the hair as clean and fluffy as does this simple home-made wash.

Ethel: You can overcome your eye troubles, the weakness, redness and burning accompanied by a dull, lifeless appearance which you describe, and make them bright, strong and clear by the use of a few drops of this mixture daily: One ounce of crystos dissolved in ½ pint of clearest water. It is soothing to weak, tired eyes and a dependable tonic, in that it strengthens the muscles and tones the nerves of the eye.

Dorothy: Do not worry about your flesh. Reduction is no longer the result of painful dieting and tiring exercise. The sufferer from too much flesh now uses this simple, home-made and positively harmless fat-dissolver, which leaves the flesh firm and the skin free from wrinkles. Dissolve four ounces of parnotis in 1½ pints of hot water and take a tablespoonful before meals. This results in reduction without discomfort and the action is permanent.

Woman's Realm

With spring comes the thought of the planting of the apple trees, and the agricultural committee of the Twentieth Century club, which sees to the distribution of hundreds of these trees yearly, has sent out cards to the principals of the schools, asking them to find out from the pupils the number wanted this year. This department of the club each year arranges for the sale of apple trees to the school children at a very low cost, getting them through some large firm, and this year small fruit bushes and shrubs will also be added to the fruit trees.

The members of this committee of the club are: Mrs. H. H. Phelps, Mrs. I. T. Burnside, Mrs. L. Q. Greeley, Mrs. James E. Rockwell, Mrs. J. H. Jern, Mrs. I. P. Swangle, Mrs. Odin Halden, Mrs. J. D. Stryker, Mrs. W. B. Brinkman, Mrs. George Jewell, Mrs. John Carson, Mrs. E. H Hayes, Mrs. Ida Merritt, Mrs. David Adams, Miss Lucy Jaques, Miss Kilchli, Mrs. F. R. Kennedy and Mrs. A. A. Fider.

AT POOR FARM.

C. E. Society Will Hold Special Easter Service.

Members of the Christian Endeavor union of the city will hold a special service on Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the county poor farm and the regular Sunday evening service of the union will not be held on this account. The Christian Endeavor societies of the various churches have been holding services at the poor farm all year on Sunday afternoons and they have proved a source of interest to the inmates.

Members of the Woman's Council planned some time ago to have a series of entertainments out at the poor farm once a month but nothing has been done owing to the difficulty of getting out there during the winter and the absence from the city of several members of the committee in charge of that work.

JURY SYSTEM.

Attorney Says it Promotes Justice and Equity.

"The jury system is a wise provision," said G. W. C. Ross last evening in a talk on the revision of the jury system before the members of the Women's Suffrage association held in the council chamber. "The ordinary citizen," he said, "is closer to the social and economic issues of the day than the professional lawyer or judge and usually renders decisions that are based on an inherent desire to promote justice and equity."

He spoke of the old time court procedure and the change to the present trial by jury and he explained that the recent passage of the five-sixths jury bill by the legislature is an excellent measure doing away with the injustice that sometimes appears where one or two men hold out for special reasons against the large majority of the jurymen.

A discussion of the effect of women jurors followed Mr. Ross' talk, citations being given from the states where equal suffrage prevails and where women serve on juries, the concensus of opinion favoring the belief that women are prone to take jury duty seriously and consider cases from the humanitarian standpoint.

Preliminary arrangements were discussed in regard to bringing Miss Grace Isabel Colborn here during April to speak before the club on the single land tax question. Miss Colborn is a writer and speaker of note on land reform measures in Germany and kindred topics of German politics.

Under the heading, transportation, Miss Wright spoke of Mr. Windom's report on commerce and transportation given in 1874 when he was in the senate. She referred to him particularly as a man of character, mentioning especially the fact that during his long public career there had never once been an attempt to cast a slur of any kind on his career.

TELLS HOW CORSETS SHOULD BE FITTED

Dr. Maude Dunn of New York city gave a most interesting talk on "Scientific Fitting of Corsets and Hygiene," yesterday afternoon at the corset department of the I. Freimuth store before a large number of women guests.

"Put on your corsets in bed," she advised, "as that is the only correct method of adjusting the corset." She demonstrated on living models some correct and incorrect methods of corseting.

"Corsets are not injurious," said Dr. Dunn; "the injury is not in the corsets, but in the manner of wearing them. There is only one right method of wearing corsets. They must be properly adjusted to the figure. Unless the laces are opened as well as the front clasps when the corset is removed, and unless the corsets are wide apart when they are put on and then drawn together and correctly adjusted, liver trouble, stomach trouble, shortness of breath, disease of the heart and other organs are likely, or almost sure to result.

"Small waists are out of date. It is impossible to have them with the straight line corsets of the present day.

"Corsets should be worn for a definite purpose, to aid the person to stand correctly and to correct the imperfections in the figure.

"Ninety per cent of the operations women undergo are due to incorrect corseting, according to the best medical authorities. Pressure causes discomfort and consequently unhappiness. The woman who has her corsets on right can smile all the time."

DULUTH'S FLOWER STORE

A new and growing firm, having built up a reputation for square deal to all, by reliable goods at honest prices conforming to safe business policies, not by ruinous or underhanded price-cutting.

Many people know of the Duluth Floral company either by name or reputation and to those who do not is extended a cordial invitation to call and let us at least be friends. The latch string is always out at 121 West Superior street.

Out-of-town visitors are especially welcome, no formal introduction at all necessary, just say where you hail from and our best efforts are at your service.

In conjunction with the retailing of cut flowers and plants, a ten-acre acclimating nursery is conducted near the county poor farm, stocked with a full line of the most hardy shrubbery and perennials suitable for this rigorous climate.

Our stock of plants and cut flowers is grown for us under contract by the following growers: William Jaap at Lakeside, L. C. Merritt at West end, Ben Decker at Hermantown, W. S. Austin, Duluth Heights, and G. Tjenvald of Superior, and might add they keep pretty busy supplying this popular store.

This year's Easter business promises to be phenomenal on account of the fine line of plants grown especially for an early Easter. Now if the weather man will only be good and our patrons come early, while the selection is complete, we will get along fine.

Ladies looking for new ideas or novelties for decorative effects will surely find something different among the many dainty and new things that are continually being added to an already large line of merchandise.

To those not familiar with the personnel of the firm, an informal introduction to Edw. P. Kreimer and Oliver Eischen might not be out of place.

STYLE WEEK IN DULUTH

"Mother and the Girls" Are "Doing It for Father."

All for Hubby.

("Do women dress to please the world or their husbands?" asks a fashion editor.)

Like a painter at his easel
Stands she at her mirror preening;
I am crosser than a weasel,
Cursing woman's vain-ward leaning.
"We are late already, Pet,"
I remark, my nerves askew,
"Dear," she answers, "don't you fret—
I am doing this for you."

Such a mile of corset lacing;
Holy Jerry, did you ever?
Now she's carefully replacing
All her hairpins—tush, we'll never Get to Blunderson's tonight—
Got to stop and fix her shoe.
Hear her woman's reason light,
"George, I'm doing this for you."

Now with slow and careful fingers,
On her ears she screws her bangles—
Seems an hour or two she lingers
Sizing up those costly dangles.
Then she asks: "What shall I wear?
That light Paris thing of blue
Or my satin—George, don't swear—
I am doing this for you."

Next I madly fall to hooking
Up the back, a thousand places.
Knees and neck are sore with crooking—
D—n, they catch so in the laces.
"Love," I grunt, "why should you be Feathered like a cockatoo?"
In the mirror smiling she
Answers, "Darling, all for you."

Rather late we make an entry
Up to Blunderson's to dine there.
All the ladyships and gentry
Seem to form a double line there.
Someone whispers, "She's a queen."
I reflect her glory, too,
In a line of smiles which mean,
"Oh, you lucky devil you."

Riding homeward in the carriage
I have lost all peevish traces,
And I bless the state of marriage
As my arm entwines her laces.
And I murmur, "Dear, your dress,
Just as far as I can see,
Has achieved a great success—
And you did it all for me."
—Wallace Irwin in Life.

Now is a good time for "father" to realize that "mother and the girls" are "doing it for him" and be generous in his gifts for the Easter wardrobe.

OBSERVATIONS

By PEGGY PEABODY

Wholesome Club Life Is Beneficial to Women.

Women's clubs have become a fixture in almost every community in the United States, but there are still some carping critics who can see no good in them. I believe, if I remember aright, that no less a person than ex-President Grover Cleveland, a few years before his death, criticized the women's clubs severely in a magazine article, and brought down upon his head the wrath of countless women. And, if I remember correctly further, no more was heard from the ex-presidents on the subject.

Of course, clubs, like everything else, can be overdone. There are doubtless many women who run it into the ground—the matter of membership and activity. Like many men, they become "jiners," and enter every organization they possibly can, and take an active interest in them all. Of course, such a woman soon loses her domestic bearings, and perhaps gets out of touch with her family and home. But if she did not find recourse in club life, she probably would find it elsewhere.

I believe that the great body of women who belong to clubs, excepting a small minority of the foolish ones, are sensible in their club affiliations, and do not let them disturb their domestic relations or upset their mental balance. No thoroughly good wife and mother would let any such activity interfere in the least with her domestic duties. Tho average woman's life, however, is rather monotonous, and membership in a good literary or social club gives her a form of inspiring and helpful recreation which she could find nowhere else.

The literary club helps the average woman improve her mind, and keep in wholesome touch with things outside the sphere of home. And contrary to the professed belief of some of the other sex, it serves, not as an aid, but as a deterrent to the practice of gossiping. As I said a day or two ago, the improvement of one's mind is almost certain to put an end to the tendency of gossip, and the literary club provides the channel for that improvement.

Few sensible men now find fault with women's clubs, if they are kept within their proper sphere. There is nothing inconsistent with womanliness in them, and there is much in them to be commended. No sensible woman denies her husband the privilege or pleasure of belonging to clubs and lodges, and attending them, in reason, and men should grant to their wives the same privilege. I believe that nowadays most broad-minded men do.

FOR SEVEN SENATORS

Bill Once Rejected By the People Has Been Revived.

Repeal of All the Standing Appropriations Is Proposed.

(By a Staff Correspondent.)

St. Paul, Minn., March 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—Quickly on the heels of the final passage of the legislative reapportionment bill the so-called "seven-senators" bill, which was conceived two years ago in a spirit of hostility to equal legislative representation and which was rejected by the people at the polls last November, made its reappearance in the senate and house yesterday afternoon.

It was introduced in the senate by Senators John Moonan of Waseca, C. S. Marden of Barnesville, F. E. Putnam of Blue Earth City, F. A. Duxbury of Caledonia, H. F. Weis of Le Sueur and J. E. Hayecraft of Madelia. The house bill was introduced by Representatives Thomas Frankson of Spring Valley, W. W. Brown of St. James, Miles Porter of Mankato and F. E. Minette of Sauk Center.

The bill proposes an amendment to the Constitution, which would have to be ratified by the people at the polls in November, 1914, to be effective, providing that legislative representation shall be on a basis of population except that no county in the state shall ever have more than seven senators out of a total of sixty-three, the limit fixed in the bill on the senate membership.

Under the new reapportionment bill Hennepin county has nine senators, though on a strictly equal division it would have had ten. Ramsey county has seven senators and St. Louis county has five.

The bill was referred to the reapportionment committee in each body.

Repeal Standing Appropriations.

On motion of Senator Frank Clague, chairman of the senate finance committee, the senate yesterday afternoon passed under suspension of the rules a bill repealing all standing appropriations after the end of the present fiscal year.

The purpose is to have a complete budget made up by the legislature at each session. Senator Clague said that many large items of expense escape scrutiny because they are covered by standing appropriations and that the new rule, provided in this bill, will save the state hundreds of thousannds of dollars in the next ten years. He said also that some standing appropriations continue to stand, because they escape notice under the old system, after the need for them has diminished or altogether disappeared.

Under a new bill introduced in the senate yesterday afternoon by Senator W. S. Dwinnell of Minneapolis, it would be a misdemeanor and punishable as such, for a tenant to leave a building, without proper notice to owner or agent, in such a way as to leave the plumbing or heating apparatus subject to damage by frost or otherwise. The punishment is also applied to any tenant "who in any manner shall allow the premises to become liable to any other damage or injury whatsoever."

The Walker Sanitarium.

Senator Froshaug yesterday afternoon introduced in the senate a bill abolishing the present board of five physicians which has charge of the state tuberculosis sanitarium at Walker, and putting that institution under a tuborcular commission composed of the five physicians and two others, appointed by the governor, one of them to be a woman and both to be persons who have given study to the subject of tuberculosis.

Municipally owned telephone systems are exempted from the state gross earnings tax by a bill introduced in the senate yesterday afternoon by Senator Marden.

Senator Cheadle of Duluth introduced a bill in the senate yesterday afternoon requiring the railroad and warehouse commission to fix the terms for connecting railroad lines with docks, wharves and coal yards where the parties fail to agree. Representative A. L. Warner introduced a similar bill in the house.

The removal of members of charter commissions who do not attend to their duties is provided for in a bill introduced in the senate yesterday afternoon by Senator L'Hereault of Minneapolis. The district court may, on the request of the commission, remove any member of the commission who has failed to perform his duties or who has failed to attend four consecutive meetings of the commission without being excused.

• • •

Senator Lende yesterday afternoon introduced in the senate a bill appropriating $15,000 for George K. Johnson of Marshall, a student at the state university who lost an eye through the explosion of a test tube in the chemical laboratory March 25, 1912. Senator Fosseen introduced a bill appropriating $7,500 for the parents of Ruth Burns, a stenographer at the state university who is said to have lost her life in the performance of her duties there.

erally considered that the result amounts to a defeat of the bill, and therefore of the proposal to reorganize the state's departments relating to the public domain in the interest of efficiency and progressive state development.

Something may be done in the way of putting order where there is now chaos, but the prospect of anything really effective along this line coming out of the present session of the legislature is very slender indeed.

Started the Fireworks.

What started the fireworks was the speech of Representative Charles L. Sawyer of Minneapolis, who, in supporting the bill and showing the need that the land business be taken out of the state auditor's office and put in a department by itself where it can be properly managed and connected up with other related functions of government, took occasion to charge that the auditor's office hadn't handled the land business with noticeable efficiency.

In support of his claims he quoted extensively from the report of Samuel T. Johnson, ex-Governor Van Sant's public examiner, who made a report on the state auditor's office in Bob Dunn's time which included some very sharp strictures on the conduct of the office.

This brought Mr. Dunn to his feet. "Is Mr. Dunn under investigation here this afternoon," he inquired, "or are we considering this bill?"

"I am showing how the land department has been handled by the state auditor's office," said Mr. Sawyer.

"From what authority are you quoting?" demanded Mr. Dunn.

"From the report of a state public examiner," replied Mr. Sawyer.

"Liar," Says Dunn.

"From the damndest liar in the state of Minnesota," shouted Mr. Dunn. "That man Johnson is a public scavenger retained by a Minneapolis timber thief whom I compelled to pay for stolen timber. The timber thieves combined to beat me in 1904, and Sam T. Johnson was one of their instruments. Every charge he made has been refuted time and time again. It was all threshed out in that criminal lying campaign of 1904.

"Any man who charges that I ever took a stick of timber or a foot of state land or had any interest in any mining lease is an unmitigated liar."

Mr. Dunn attacked the bill vigorously, saying that the state of Minnesota is better off, in its natural wealth, owned by the state, than any other. He said that when he was state auditor he was kept busy a good deal of the time protecting the state's possessions from the constituents of the gentleman from Hennepin (Mr. Kneeland). He contended that the state auditor has plenty of time to handle the land business, and that he is competent to do so.

Mr. Kneeland, chairman of the public domain committee, interposed an objection at one point to a statement of Mr. Dunn's.

"You keep your mouth shut," said Mr. Dunn.

Mr. Kneeland continuing to protest, Mr. Dunn added: "You keep still or I'll hand you something."

The bill was supported by Representatives Kneeland, Sawyer, Spooner and Hopkins, and opposed by C. H. Warner of Aitkin, formerly a deputy state auditor under Mr. Dunn and others.

Efficiency Demanded.

Mr. Hopkins, in a vigorous speech, said that the people of the state are demanding efficiency, and that it is the duty of the legislature to provide it.

Representative Spooner said that 10,000 acres of timber lands were sold to fifteen or twenty bidders, and within a short time the lands all turned up in the ownership of a certain large timber concern.

To show the importance of the measure, and the need of effective and business-like management of the public domain, Representative Sawyer quoted statistics showing that the state owns nearly 3,000,000 acres of land, that there was 190 mineral leases in force, that forty-nine mines owned by the state are being operated, that the assessed ore in these mines amounts to 140,000,000 tons, and that the state's possessions are visibly worth $250,000,000 and probably much more.

Representative Kerry Conley offered an amendment leaving all the land business in the state auditor's office, and providing for consolidating all the other departments, but his amendment was defeated, 53 to 36.

A number of holders of positions that would be abolished by this bill, or rather absorbed into the new department it proposes to create, have been busy working against the bill for some time past.

The enemies of this bill will probably push bills providing for an elective land commissioner. Representative C. H. Warner of Aitkin, who said in yesterday's debate that the control of the state's lands ought to be left in the state auditor's hands, introduced a proposed constitutional amendment yesterday taking the land department out of the state auditor's office and putting it under an elective land commissioner's, but providing no reorganization of departments.

fact that in no previous session have so many measures proposing amendments to the constitution been proposed. By no means all of these proposed amendments will be submitted, but enough of them have been introduced to indicate, if there were any need of indicating, that the Constitution of Minnesota needs to be revised and brought up to date.

Many New Measures.

Yesterday was the last day for introducing bills in the house under its rules, and a flood of new measures poured in. An unusually large number of new measures for this stage of the proceedings came into the senate also, and between the two houses about 125 new bills were poured into the hopper.

The new bills are of all classes and calibers, from bills of first importance to bills of possibly no importance at all, and from bills that seem sensible to bills that seem utterly freakish.

Some advertising of a highly undesirable type is proposed for those inclined to dissipation in a bill introduced in the house by Representative Walther Anderson. It provides that whenever a person is convicted of violating any law relating to the sale of liquor or the keeping of gambling joints, opium joints, houses of prostitution and the like, or being in such places, the full name and address of that person, together with the name of the owner of the building in which the offense occurred, shall be published in a conspicuous place in the three successive issues of a daily paper if there is one handy, and if not in a weekly.

Recall of Decisions.

Col. Theodore Roosevelt's proposal of the popular recall of judicial decisions, in a bill that has had the scrutiny and the sanction of the chief bull moose himself, came in the house yesterday afternoon with Representative J. W. Wilson of Minneapolis as its author. The bill provides that whenever the supreme court holds a law unconstitutional the matter can be referred to the voters by petitions signed by 20,000 voters or by 7 per cent of the voters. If the voters overrulo the decision of the supreme court, the law regarding which the issue of constitutionality was raised, is to continue in force and effect.

Representative Crane introduced a bill prohibiting the sale of liquor to persons receiving public charity.

Representative Walther Anderson introduced a bill proposing a constitutional amendment authorizing the legislature to create a state executive board of nine members, to be elected from nine districts equally divided according to population, and to share the governor's executive work.

Extending Probation Limit.

Representative G. W. Brown offered a bill authorizing district courts to put on probation all offenders except those convicted of homicide, whatever the length of sentence. At present this provision is limited to offenders where the maximum penalty would be five years, and a bill is pending in the senate increasing this limit to seven. Mr. Brown's bill takes the limit off entirely.

Representative T. J. Greene of St. Paul introduced a bill providing for the sale of the old state capitol grounds for $75,000.

Representative W. I. Nolan and others introduced a bill appropriating $25,000 for a Minnesota exhibit at the Norwegian exposition at Christiania in 1914, the money to be spent by a commission of three members to be appointed by the governor.

Representative Osthun presented a bill providing for a tax of 5 per cent on the gross earnings of trust companies in lieu of all taxes and assessments on their capital stock and personal property, the proceeds to be apportioned between the state and municipalities as other taxes are apportioned.

A bill by Representatives Morken and Holmberg forbids saloons to have screens or other obstructions to the public view, so that the passers-by may witness the operation when thirsty souls go in to slake their thirst.

Every building used for purposes of prostitution, and the ground beneath it and around it as far as the title runs, would be forfeited to the state if a bill introduced in the house yesterday afternoon by Representative Williams becomes a law. The property is to be sold, after the district court has adjudged it to be used for improper purposes and the proceeds, less expenses and payments to informers who bring the suits, are to go into the state school fund.

State Land Commission.

Representatives C. H. Warner and W. A. Campbell yesterday afternoon introduced in the house a bill proposing a constitutional amendment creating the elective office of state land commissioner. The effect of the bill is simply to separate the land commissioner's duties from the state auditor's office, without providing any reorganization of public domain matters.

Mr. Warner also introduced a bill creating a commission consisting of two representatives and a senator, to investigate everything relating to state lands, drainage, forestry and fire protection, game and fish and immigration, and report the facts it finds to the next legislature.

Representative W. A. Campbell of Minneapolis, a former street car conductor, introduced in the house yesterday afternoon a bill limiting the hours of labor of street railway employes to ten hours daily, to be performed within twelve consecutive hours. It is provided that in cases of accident or emergency, with the consent of the employes extra work can be done for extra compensation. It is made a gross misdemeanor for any street railway officer to exact longer hours than the bill provides.

The manufacture or sale of furs dyed with poisonous drugs is prohibited by a bill introduced in the house yesterday afternoon by Representative Ernest Lundeen of Minneapolis.

Temperance Measures.

Representatives Klemer and Larson yesterday afternoon introduced in the house a bill prohibiting the issuance of liquor licenses for buildings owned or leased by wholesale liquor dealers, and providing that if after a license is granted any wholesaler acquires the building in which the saloon so licensed is located, the license shall become void.

Another temperance measure, offered by Representative Osthun of Glenwood, is aimed to supplement the Federal law recently passed prohibiting the shipment of liquor into dry states. The Ofsthun bill requires that every shipment of liquor into or in the state must be plainly labeled with a statement of its contents, the aim apparently being to prevent the smuggling of liquor into dry territory. Incidentally, such a law would work serious annoyance to those who have liquor shipped to themselves labeled "books."

Representatives Bendixen and Schwartz of the house grain investigating committee yesterday afternoon introduced a bill in the house separating the state boards of grain appeals entirely from the railroad and warehouse commission, and giving them independent and final jurisdiction over grain grading.

The following other bills came into the house yesterday afternoon:

By Representative Burrows—Requiring notarial seals to show the names of the notaries.

By Representative Bjornson—Repealing the provision of a law of 1911 allowing publication of legal notices in newspapers printed in foreign languages.

Representative G. W. Brown—Providing that after Jan. 1, 1915, no sleigh shall be used with a tread either more or less than fifty-six inches.

By Representative Williams—Creating a state board of censorship for moving picture shows and prohibiting films with criminal or immoral tendencies.

By Representative Osthun—Requiring county treasurers to mail statements of unpaid taxes to the owners within sixty days after the taxes are payable.

By Representatives Bouck and Vasaly—Appropriating $1,000 for the bass ponds at the Deerwood fish hatchery.

By Representative Vollmer—Appropriating $250,000 for an agricultural building on the state fair grounds.

For Poor Students.

A way to allow young people of scanty means to attend the state university is provided for in a bill introduced in the house yesterday afternoon by Representative S. R. Child of Minneapolis. The university authorities are given power, in deserving cases, to admit students to the colleges of science, literature and the arts, or agriculture, or education, and to accept in lieu of tuition fees the notes of the students, at 5 per cent, payable on demand after two years from the time the students sever their connection with the university.

A commission to investigate the state departments and to make recommendations to the next legislature with reference to the reorganization and consolidation of the several departments, is created in a bill introduced in the house yesterday afternoon by Representative Knud Wefald of Hawley. One of the three commissioners is to be appointed by the lieutenant governor, another by the speaker of the house, and the two thus appointed are to select the third man. The commissioners are to receive $3,000 a year, are to have the fullest powers in securing evidence, and they are to be equipped—if the bill passes—by an appropriation of $20,000.

Representative Albert Pfaender of New Ulm yesterday afternoon introduced in the house, a bill giving the bureau of women and children power to enforce by complaint in any court or otherwise, all laws or local ordinances relating to the health, morals, comfort and general welfare of women and children.

As expected, the house yesterday refused to concur in the senate amendments to the initiative and referendum bill, and conference committees will be appointed. The principal points of dispute will be the senate's requirement that petitions invoking the initiative or referendum must be circulated in a third of the counties, and the provisions that constitutional amendments initiated by the people must be ratified by a majority of those voting at an election. The chief object is to the first named provision, and it is not likely to stand. The senate probably will be pretty insistent on the provision as to constitutional amendments, and it may stand.

STILLMAN H. BINGHAM.

TELEPHONE AND TELEGRAPH LINES ARE PROFITABLE

The revenue, gross, of the American Telephone & Telegraph company—the Bell—during the year 1912 amounted to $199,200,000, a gain of $20,000,000 over 1911. This does not include the revenue of the connecting independent lines, according to the annual statement just issued. Assets showed an increase for the year of $92,300,000, of which $75,600,000 showed as current additions to the plant. It is claimed in the statement that a majority of the shares of stock in the company are held by women and less than 7 per cent is held in the name of brokerage houses. The average number of shares to each stockholder was sixty-six last year. Seventy thousand towns in the United States can send telephone messages, which is 5,000 more than have postoffices, 10,000 more than have railway stations and nearly three times the number that have telegraph stations.

"THE TRAGEDY OF TIME AND ETERNITY"

Last night's service at the First Christian church was largely attended and Evangelist Whiston preached on "The Tragedy of Time and Eternity," based upon the story of Dives and Lazarus. He discussed the gulfs that divide the churches and society, closing with a word painting of the eternal gulf that separates heaven and hell.

He said: "The test of fellowship in the church is not money, nor culture nor position in society, but that of Christian character. The test is not what a man has but what he is. To have standing with God is better than to have standing with men. Jesus said to the rich ruler: 'One thing thou lackest,' yet the average church would accept so influential an aristocrat with open arms. Christ himself put up the bars and no man has the right to tear them down.

"Dives was probably buried in some beautiful cemetery, where the birds sang and the flowers grew. Lazarus was put away in the potter's field. It doesn't make any difference where a man is buried, if he belongs to God, God will find him out. If he belongs to Satan, Satan will find him. If the devil has a mortgage on your soul here, he will foreclose in the judgment, and God won't interfere with Satan's rights."

Tonight he will speak on "Can a Good or Moral Man Be Lost." Friday night he will give his great baseball night sermon on "Heroes." This meeting will be for both sexes, though seats will be reserevd for men.

CASTRO AND MYLIUS CASES TO HIGHER COURT.

Washington, March 20.—United States District Attorney Wise was instructed by the department of justice to take the question of right of Cripiano Castro, former president of Venezuela, and Edward F. Mylius, the English journalist, to enter and remain in the United States as visitors, to the United States circuit court of appeals at New York on an appeal from the dicision of the last court reversing Former Secretary Nagel's orders of deportation. Castro was ordered executed by Mr. Nagel, because he refused to answer certain questions propounded by the immigration authorities and Mylius because he had been convicted in London of libelling King George. At first the government intended taking the cases directly to the supreme court, but this plan was changed.

NEW OFFICERS CHOSEN.

Robert K. Lee, first lieutenant of Company A, Third regiment, M. N. G., was last night elected captain to succeed Capt. K. A. Franklin, resigned.

Second Lieutenant R. A. Westberg was chosen first lieutenant and Musician Julius Quade was elected second lieutenant.

Company C was inspected last night at the Armory by Maj. Arthur Johnson, U. S. A. All equipment was examined and the men went through their drills with colors flying.

WHY DINING CAR CHEFS PREFER

KC BAKING POWDER

Those who have had cakes ruined by jarring the stove, slamming the oven door or a heavy footstep, may have wondered how the dining car chef can turn out such marvelous biscuits, hot breads and pastry when his oven is being incessantly jarred and jolted and shaken by the motion of the train.

To get pastry to raise and stay raised under these conditions, a baking powder must be used that continues to give off its leavening gas—that sustains the raise—until the dough is baked through.

Dining Car Chefs have found a baking powder exactly suited to their needs in K C and you will find it just as well suited to your requirements. K C is really a blend of two baking powders, one active as soon as moistened, the other requiring both moisture and heat to start the generation of leavening gas. No matter how moist and rich you make your cake, K C Baking Powder will sustain the raise until a crust is formed and all danger of falling is past.

K C Baking Powder is pure and healthful. It is guaranteed under all pure food laws, and is guaranteed to please you. And it is sold at a reasonable price—no baking powder should sell for more.

This Week's Sunday School Lesson

WRITTEN FOR THE HERALD BY REV. J. S. KIRTLEY, D. D.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON, MARCH 23.

Mark xvi, 1-11: The Empty Tomb.

The day of our Lord's resurrection just about coincides with the old spring festival observed among the Germanic races. We know it took place about April 9, A. D. 30, figuring it in our time. We celebrate it just after the first full moon following the spring equinox. This year it comes almost as early as it ever could. The recovery of Isaac was like a resurrection, that being our last Sunday's lesson in the Old Testament. This lesson from Mark brings the resurrection of Jesus before us in a very vivid way. This was the earliest gospel to be written and embodies the recollection of Peter, it seems. Paul's account in I Cor., xv, is earlier still.

THE LESSON.

I.

The Resurrection of Human Hope. 1-5.

"And when the Sabbath was past, Mary Magdalene, and Mary the mother of James, and Salome, bought spices, that they might come and anoint him. And very early on the first day of the week they come to the tomb when the sun was risen. And they were saying among themselves, Who shall roll us away the stone from the door of the tomb? And looking up, they see that the stone is rolled back: for it was exceeding great. And entering into the tomb, they saw a young man sitting on the right side, arrayed in a white robe; and they were amazed."

1. REALITY.—That He was really dead is made clear by the belief of the soldiers and priests and Pilate and Joseph and Nicodemus and all the disciples. The prophecies about Him, the Jewish ritualistic worship, baptism and the Lord's Supper, Christian experience and Christian history are correlated to that event. Friends, enemies and soldiers united to bury Him and make the grave secure. Friends did it because they feared His enemies would visit their vindictive violence on His body; enemies, lest His friends should steal the body and claim He had risen; Roman guards who knew that for His escape their lives would be the forfeit. All the theories of those whose folly or evil prompt them to deny the reality of His death or resurrection are either sinister or stupid.

The reality of His death and burial was not more clear than that of His resurrection. The truth of His resurrection has been assailed in every age and new arguments have had to meet them constantly. We can thank skepticism and infidelity for calling out such complete defense of the truth, yet we cannot enjoy the plight in which opponents put themselves.

The first attack was made by very desperate men who charged imposture by the disciples. But the sufficient answer is that no lie could ever have made such glorious characters of those who practiced it and of those who have been repeating it and have been ennobled by it ever since. The disciples could not have told it, for they didn't believe He would rise till after He had risen and then they refused to believe till He simply overpowered them with proofs. The theory that Jesus swooned on the cross and afterwards revived and appeared to the disciples forgets the thrust of the sword to His heart and the fact that a collusion between Him and His disciples to invent and teach a lie in order to save people from lying and every other form of sin was impossible. The vision theory claims that Mary Magdalene's mind was so filled with thoughts of Him she imagined she saw Him and talked to the others about it till they thought they saw Him also. Then they explained it as a resurrection. In other words the haunting vision of a half-crazed woman originates a movement to lift men to the skies and destroy all hypocrisy and evil! A modern form of this theory is that the disciples actually saw Jesus, not in His physical person but in His spiritual reality, and saw Him with the eye of their spirits. On that theory the New Testament could never have been written and Christianity, which in its written stages was built on the fact of the resurrection, would have died at once. The story about the empty tomb would have been a lie, cold and calculating. Those who hold this view lay much emphasis on the doctrine of immortality, thinking they may thereby gain what they have thrown away or make their position seem more religious to ed the relief and could be most useful. the non-technical Christian.

2. REASONS.—As the representative man He realizes humanity's latent possibilities and longings for continued existence in His complete form as body and soul. As Captain of our salvation He can lead because He has won the utmost victory—with death. He completes His own nature, finishes His earthly task potentially and carries humanity back to heaven with Him in His glorified body.

3. APPEARANCES.—Put the accounts in the four gospels and Paul's account in I Corinthians xv together and you will find as many as eleven appearances to the disciples after His resurrection and seemingly in this order—to Mary Magdalene; to the other women who had lingered near while she went to tell the other disciples; to Peter alone; to the two going to Emmaus; to the Apostles except Thomas; to the same including Thomas, a week later; to the seven at the sea of Galilee; to above 500 at once; to James; to all the Apostles; to Saul some years later, whom the Master came back to earth to call to be an Apostle.

4. WOMEN.—They were last at the cross and first at the tomb. More affectionate and more appreciative of what He had done for them they come as soon after the passing of the Sabbath as possible to do what they had already purposed to do. Devotion dared to hope that the great stone would someway be removed.

5. ANGELS.—Do not fail to note their presence all His life, that they formed an escort when He went to heaven and will return with Him to gather His loved ones home. The hopes of the disciples have a wonderful resurrection.

Messengers of Good News. 6-11.

"And he saith unto them, Be not amazed: ye seek Jesus, the Nazarene, who hath been crucified: He is risen; He is not here; behold, the place where they laid Him! But go, tell His disciples and Peter, He goeth before you into Galilee; there shall ye see Him, as He said unto you. And they went out, and fled from the tomb; for trembling and astonishment had come upon them; and they said nothing to any one; for they were afraid. Now when He was risen early on the first day of the week, He appeared first to Mary Magdalene, from whom He had cast out seven demons. She went and told them that had been with Him, as they mourned and wept. And they, when they heard that He was alive, and had been seen of her, disbelieved."

1. HOLY ERRAND.—It heartened them to take this message to the other and would unite them all the closer. Not to the rulers or the Gentiles, but to the heart-broken disciples are they sent first. Mary was the first to whom He revealed Himself because she need-

2. "AND PETER."—He is the only one whom Jesus mentions by name. Poor fellow! Even the angel knew how he felt and he said "get the word to Peter first of all." They did not believe her at first, but John saw and believed.

WHAT THE MASTERS SAY.

The remarkable thing is that when they resumed their faith in Him they were found to be no longer pursuing worldly ends, but intensely spiritual ones; they were no longer expecting thrones, but persecution and death; yet they addressed themselves to their new work with a breadth of intelligence, an ardor of devotion and a faith in results which they had never shown before. As Christ rose from the dead in a transfigured body, so did Christianity. It had put off its carnality.—Stalker.

The risen Lord comes to us not only to give us comfort and strength, to fill our souls with peace, but to send us forth on the same mission for which He came to earth, and in which He went down to the grave. It would have been joy to the heart of the disciples to have Jesus remain with them, as the three on the lonely mountain felt when they wished to abide there in the heavenly glory; but Jesus did not come simply that we might have the joy of salvation and of being with Him, but that we might take up His work and go forth on His mission.—Cowan.

Taking all the evidence together, it is not too much to say that there is no single historic incident better or more variously supported than the resurrection of Christ.—Westcott.

EQUITY MEN ARE ROASTED

Minot, N. D., Newspaper Makes Scathing Attack on Organization.

Revelations in Minnesota Investigation Are Basis of Article.

A scorching condemnation of the American Society of Equity, appearing in the Ward County Independent of Minot, N. D., has been greeted with enthusiastic approbation on the part of members of the Duluth board of trade and the Minneapolis chamber of commerce, as it supports the contentions long made by the members of these two organizations. The article reads in part as follows:

"The promoters fend out broadcast the most alluring advertisements—about how they could obtain higher prices for grain than the regular commission men; how they could store the farmers' grain in 'our own' terminal elevators; that the chamber of commerce, Minneapolis, and the board of trade, Duluth, were gambling institutions which Farmers' Elevator companies should steer clear of and ship to 'our own exchange,' thereby inferring that the Equity fakirs had their own market prices, an exchange where buyer and seller could meet and where higher prices were obtained than at the regularly established markets; in fact, on some of their fake advertisements appeared a large picture of a building purporting to be the 'exchange,' or the great market place of the Equity organization.

"In their official paper and in speeches at farmers' gatherings these same promoters charged that all managers of farmers' elevators who failed to ship to this myth, the Equity terminal, were being bribed by regular commission men, thereby libeling honest and competent men.

Adding a Middleman.

"When we now read reports from the investigations in the Minnesota legislature, it is a wonder to us how these Equity promoters can escape prosecution for having sent fraudulent advertising matter through the mails. These same men have had to admit on the witness stand that the so-called Equity exchange exists only in name; that they have no terminal elevator; that they sell some of the grain shipped to them outside of the regular exchanges without having the benefit of competition; and by sworn testimony of country shippers and buyers at the terminals it now appears that grain shipped to the so-called Equity exchange has been sold for from 1 cent to 3 cents below the regular market price; that in many instances cars shipped to the Equity exchange were turned over to regular commission men and were sold by them at full market price all right, but in such cases the shipper had to pay two commissions, one to the regular commission man and another commission to the Equity exchange; but on report to the country shippers the Equity people reported sales as being 1 cent less than was actually obtained, to cover up the extra commission charged.

"It is thus shown that instead of 'eliminating the middleman' as has been the cry of the Equity boosters, they have added an extra middleman and paid an extra commission to get their grain sold through their 'own exchange;' and while they have been preaching against buying and selling of futures, it developed at the hearing before the legislative committee last week that the Equity men themselves have been hedging in futures, which was brought out plainly during the testimony of the Farmers' Elevator men from our own neighboring town of Voltaire, when these men had failed to get returns and payment for shipments to 'our own exchange' and had to go down to Minneapolis and fight for it. The Voltaire people had sent the Equity exchange ten cars of wheat and ordered it stored in 'our own terminal elevator.' The Equity men explained to the shippers and said they had stored the wheat, but had, nevertheless, sent no warehouse receipt to show for it. At the hearing it was brought out, however, that the Equity people, instead of following instructions and storing the wheat, had sold it on arrival and had had the free use of the money."

MANY CONVERSATIONS.

New York, March 19.—Eight billion, four hundred and twenty-seven million conversations were held in this country last year over the wires of the American Telephone and Telegraph company, according to its annual report issued today. The daily average was 26,300,000.

Altogether there were 7,456,000 telephone stations of the company at the end of 1912.

The net earnings of the company last year were $37,900,000, an increase of $4,606,000.

ALL EVIDENCE IS INTRODUCED

Government Attorneys Rest Case Against Steel Corporation.

New York, March 20.—The government attorneys in the dissolution suit against the United States Steel corporation rested their case yesterday with the introduction of evidence in support of the charge that the corporation has suppressed competition by means of "interlocking directorates" among the great railroads, industrial corporations and financial institutions of the country. The hearings were adjourned without date, and attorneys for the corporation will prepare their defense.

S. D. Simmons, a statistician in the department of justice, presented tables showing the directorships in other concerns held by those who have been directors of the corporation or its constituent companies between the years 1898 and 1911.

Among them George F. Baker, according to the tables, was, during the period, a director in 87 corporations; J. P. Morgan in 78; J. P. Morgan, Jr., in 11; Charles Steele, 52; E. C. Converse, 65; Norman B. Ream, 42; C. M. Schwab, 75; Daniel G. Reid, 30; E. H. Gary, 72; P. A. B. Widener, 32; Robert Winsor, 34; and the late H. H. Rogers, 34.

The government in its complaint says in reference to interlocking directorates that "the power and control that have been exerted by the corporation, largely through the grasp of its tentacles thus thrown out upon the consumer, competitor and capital, is incompatible with the healthy commercial life of the nation."

There have been fifty-two hearings of the case at which the government has examined witnesses and submitted evidence. Seven thousand pages of testimony have been taken and 450 exhibits introduced. Compared, however, to the Standard Oil dissolution suit, the case against the Steel corporation has taken but little time and labor.

MUST WIND UP AFFAIRS.

Court Orders Peruvian Amazon Company to Close Up Business.

London, March 19.—The chancery court today ordered the compulsory winding up of the Peruvian Amazon company, the investigation of which parliament recently revealed sensational outrages in the treatment of the natives employed on the fields. In this connection Sir Roger Casement, British consul general of Rio Janeiro, gave evidence as to the outrages for which he said the Arana brothers were responsible.

The action taken by the court today removes J. C. Arana from the position as liquidator of the company.

In an affidavit contesting an application to remove, Arana was in court and declared that the Indians of the Putumayo district were cannibals who resisted the advance of civilization. Neither he nor any members of the firm, he declared, had any suspicions of the real character of the agents who collected the rubber. He denied that the Indians in their employ had ever been valued as assets.

YOUNG GIRL CANNOT GET ALONG ON $12,000 A YEAR

New York, March 20.—On the showing of Josiah Dewitt, that his 15-year-old niece and ward, Helen Dewitt, cannot get along comfortably on the $12,000 a year which has been allowed for her expenses out of her $50,000 income, Surrogate Fowler yesterday increased the allowance to $20,000 a year. Miss Dewitt's expenses are increasing rapidly, her guardian alleged, especially for clothing. Her spring outfit this year will cost $1,800, he declared and as she attends a school for girls patronized by wealthy families, she must have funds sufficient to keep up her social position.

ANOTHER STEP FORWARD.

Another step toward the adoption of direct legislation in Minnesota was taken when the senate passed, without a dissenting vote, the bill looking to a constitutional amendment giving the people the rights of the initiative and referendum. The senate did itself proud in that vote. Some doubt had been expressed in various quarters as to whether the senate would pass any such bill, but by doing so unanimously that body proved its right to the name progressive.

Two amendments made in the senate are especially important and are being threshed out in conference committee. These are the one requiring that initiative and referendum petitions must be signed in one-third of the counties, and the one that reiterates the present constitutional provision that proposed amendments must get a majority of the vote cast at the election at which they are submitted.

It is probable, and to be hoped, that the provision for the signing of petitions in one-third of the counties will be modified, if not eliminated. Its requirement would be a serious restriction on the operation of the initiative and referendum, especially of the former. The object of direct legislation is to make popular action obtainable, not difficult of attainment. But whatever may be the outcome of the conference, it seems assured that the state is to have a system of direct legislation. It should be made as practicable as possible.

A NAME GONE WRONG.

We in this country pay little—perhaps too little—attention to the value of a name. Nevertheless we are not insensible to the power that lies in a family attachment, and it was this fact that led to the tempting of the son of one of our greatest and best loved writers to lend the name of Hawthorne to a business that now stands branded as a gigantic swindle. Today that name is entered on the court records as that of one of the principals in that swindle, and its possessor is liable to be sent to prison for his action.

It is unfortunate that this man should be the one to come under such disgrace, but there is a modicum of benefit even in that. There is no other element in the case that could have attracted the widespread interest in it that it actually commanded. This interest has served to insure general knowledge of the falsity of the claims regarding the properties boomed by the men who secured Julian Hawthorne's assistance.

But the case has served a yet better purpose in that it has called general attention to the fact that the victims of swindles of this character are not without redress. It constitutes formal and forcible notice to promoters of fake mining schemes that they are making themselves liable to severe penalties by their acts. In that respect it is doing a good work, and may operate to clear the investment atmosphere of the country of a lot of fraudulent schemes to get the money out of the pockets of the credulous.

How about the theory that Madero is the Mexican word for Smith?

WHILE THE GIRLS LOOKED ON.

Several young girls saw something on Fourth avenue west, yesterday, that attracted their attention. It also attracted the attention of some two or three score other persons. The incident lasted some twenty minutes, and though there was not much comment, a considerable crowd gathered, and showed a morbid interest in the affair.

It wasn't much of a sight. In fact, from the standpoint of enjoyment, it was a mighty miserable sight. Yet these young girls, perhaps a dozen of them, stood in the crowd and watched it. They made no comments that those about them could hear. It would have been interesting if one could have read their thoughts.

It was just a woman, apparently slightly past middle age and nothing more than ordinarily clad, who had fallen, not once, but three or four times. Finally, with the assistance of a man who was nearby, she reached a place where she could lean against a window sill for support, and there she stood, stared at by the constantly growing crowd, until the patrol auto came and she was placed inside it and taken away. A group of boys stood about the rear of the wagon and stared at the occupant until the vehicle moved off.

It wasn't a case of accident, such as will draw a crowd in any city. It wasn't a case of sickness. It was just a plain case of drunkenness. The woman was so drunk that she couldn't stand alone. It was a disgusting sight, so much so that the crowd about her was constantly changing. People took one look and went away to make room for others, who came to see what was the trouble.

How did the woman come to be there? Why did she get drunk? Who knows?

But this much is certain. Some time—it may have been years ago when she was young and attractive looking—she took up the habit of drinking. Yesterday, with youth and good looks gone, she appeared on the street in such a state of intoxication that she became a spectacle for the curious, a spectacle of disgust for all about her. And the scene only ended with her removal by the police.

What did those young girls think as they watched her? Once she was the same as themselves. But she "played with fire," and yesterday's scene was one of the minor results. Did the girls take the lesson to heart?

Henry Watterson thinks the lid at the White House will inspire more drinking in certain circles in Washington. Which is but a manner of saying that the process of elimination will be hurried to a climax.

"REASONABLE TIME."

An interesting question as to the relation between court time and "reasonable time" was raised in the recent controversy at Washington over the enforcement of the newspaper law passed by the Sixty-second congress. It was urged by opponents of such enforcement that the department of justice had agreed not to enforce the law pending decision by the supreme court as to its constitutionality. The department of justice officials retorted that they had made no such promise; that in fact they had agreed to suspend enforcement "for a reasonable time" so as to give the court opportunity to pass on the question.

Thus the issue was immediately raised, what is a reasonable time as far as court procedure is concerned? The supreme court enjoined the enforcement of the newspaper law, which had been before it for some six months. Therefore it seems fair to assume that the term "reasonable time" when it is applied to the courts is more than six months.

Minnesota would like very much to know the other limit on "reasonable time" in the courts, so that some notion could be had as to when a decision is to be expected in the railroad rate cases. Those have been before the supreme court for more than a year, and yet there is no decision, though further legislation, both in this and other states, depends on what that decision may be. Meanwhile the people of Minnesota are being made to pay what they believe to be unreasonable rates both for passenger and freight service.

There is nothing that the states can do. Arguments have been made and briefs filed, and the matter now rests entirely in the hands of the justices. It will be a decided relief and benefit to every state in the Union to have the points raised in the Minnesota case decided, so it is greatly to be hoped that the reasonable time will soon expire and a decision, one way or another, be rendered.

Here in Duluth we lost track of the Ides of March in the interest felt in the coming First of April.

The Leaders of Men.

Le Bon in his book upon "The Crowd:" As soon as a certain number of living beings are gathered together, whether they be animals or men, they place themselves instinctively under the authority of a chief.

As enthusiasm becomes inflamed, it happens most often that the then leader is he who started as one of the led.

He has himself been hypnotized by the idea whose apostle he has since become. It has taken possession of him to such a degree that everything outside it vanishes, and every contrary opinion appears to him an error or a superstition. In time by affirmation, repetition and contagion great power is given to his ideas, and he acquires that mysterious force known as prestige. Every successful man, every idea that forces itself into recognition, ceases ipso facto to be called in question.

The proof that success is one of the principal stepping stones to prestige is that the disappearance of one is almost always followed by the disappearance of the other. The hero whom the crowd acclaimed yesterday is insulted today should he be overtaken by failure. The reaction indeed will be the stronger in proportion as the prestige has been great.

The Price of a Son.

Detroit Free Press: Prof. Allen Hoben of the university of Chicago—formerly a Detroit peacher, by the way—says that one boy, reared from babyhood to the age of 18 years, costs his parents $4,000, even if they are so poor that they must live in the slums. Wealthy parents, he says, pay more, and he adds: "A son is truly a costly luxury." Yes, according to Dr. Hoben's figures, even the slum father could in 18 years own a fine touring automobile for the sum he expends in rearing a son. And if he rears six sons—that's $24,000—on a salary of $1,000—that's $18,000 in 18 years—think of the art gems he could buy for his little cottage. Wonderful what the science of statistics can put into our heads, isn't it?

TOO MUCH STRESS ON MAYOR'S OFFICE.

To the Editor of The Herald:

I would respectfully suggest to the voters of Duluth that too much stress is being put on the office of mayor in this campaign for the commission.

The mayor will be only a figurehead, so far as that office goes. He will be the visible head of the government, but the real executive and legislative power will be vested in a commission of five men, all of equal power in legislation and each supreme in his own department.

It is fully as important that we elect four good commissioners as it is that we elect one good mayor. In fact it is more important, for the four commissioners will have four votes to the mayor's one.

Let us take a look at the candidates for the long term and the short term, and not give all our attention to the ten men who aspire to the mayor's office.

Went Home Honest

Brand Whitlock in the American Magazine.

He was a member, sent there from some rural district far down in the Southern end of the state, and all through the session he had been silent, taking no part except to vote, and to vote, on most occasions, with his party, which, in those days, was the whole duty of man. This night would see the end of his political career, if his brief experience in an obscure position could be called a career, and he stood there, silently looking on, plucking now and then at his chin, his long wrinkled face brown and solemn and inscrutable.

The old man stood there while the long roll was being called, and the crisis approached, and the nervous tension was a keen pain. And suddenly one of the gas lobbyists went up to him, there on the verge of the house, and began to talk with him. I had the story a good while afterwards from one of the whips, who, it seemed, knew all that had gone on that night.

The lobbyist of course knew about the man, knew especially about his necessities, as lobbyists do; and he began to talk to the old fellow about them—about his poverty and his children, and he used the old argument which has been employed so long and so successfully with the rural members of all our legislatures, and has been the source of so much evil in our city governments, that is the argument that the bill concerned only Chicago, and that the folks down home would neither know nor care how he voted on it, and then—how much $2,000 would mean to him. As the lobbyist talked there were various eyes that looked at him, waiting for a sign; they needed only a few votes then, and the roll call was being delayed by one pretense and another, and the clock was turned back. The old fellow listened and stroked his chin, and then presently, when the lobbyist had done he turned his old blue eyes on him and said:

"I reckon you're right; I'm poor and I've got a big family. And you're right, too, when you say my people won't know nor care; they won't; they don't know nor care a damn; they won't send me back here, of course. And God knows what's to come of my wife and my children: I am going home to them tomorrow, and on Monday I'm going to hunt me a job in the harvest field; I reckon I'll die in the poorhouse. Yes, I'm going home—but—" he stopped and looked the lobbyist in the eye—"I'm going home an honest man."

Feeling Prosperous

Orison Swett Marden in the Nautilus: The mental attitude determines the tendency of the life. According to this law, there is everything in feeling rich, rich in everything that is good for us, everything that will help us to become what we intend to become.

Many people have so long felt poor and imagined that their lives must necessarily be dry and barren of comforts and luxuries which others enjoy, that they have encouraged such conditions. The habit of feeling that you are poor and unfortunate, that good things of life are for others but not for you, that there is something in the universe which permits such conditions, is deadening to all that makes character, all that makes life beautiful.

The way to make the ideal the real, is persistently to hold the thought of their identity. The way to demonstrate abundance is to hold it constantly in the mind, frequently to say to yourself, "All that my Father hath is mine." "The Lord is my shepherd; I shall not want." If all this is true (and you know that it is), any want or lack in your life is abnormal.

If you would use the same effort and energy to see prosperity and to picture plenty as you do poverty, you would not long be poor. You would very soon get away from these distressing conditions. But somehow the whole human race has such a horror of poverty, that they concentrate upon it and attract it. The man who thinks he is going to be unlucky in everything he attempts, is infinitely more likely to be so than the man who is filled with confidence, assurance, and expectancy of success, because a failure atmosphere creates a negative, unproducing mentality, while a hopeful, expectant assurance, confidence, creates a productive mentality which does things, achieves.

The earth is fairly overflowing with abundance; the universe is loaded with marvelous resources of supply of which we have not yet dreamed. Nature has no preference for the giving of her secrets, she does not give up her wealth any easier to a Rockefeller, or a Carnegie, than to you or me.

Royalty Gets Tattooed.

New York Press: Prince George of Greece has a flying dragon of many colors that he carries everywhere he goes. It's worked into his arm with indelible inks. The Grand Duke Alexis of Russia, who is in class AA of the tattooed noblemen, has a rather elaborate set of interior decorations, and the Queen of Greece isn't white all over. Prince Francis of Teck likes action, so every time he looks at his right forearm he sees a cute little frog leaping for a small beetle.

Tattooed blue bloods have nothing on an engineer on a White Star liner, whose body down to the waist looks like a picture gallery. A wonderful reproduction of Da Vinci's "The Last Supper," is on his chest, and neatly lettered on his back is the Lord's Prayer. The hymn, "Nearer, My God, to Thee," also is on his skin.

From House to Senate, No. 7

By Sacobard.

Washington, March 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—When the Fifty-second congress convened in first regular session the first Monday in December, 1891, the Democrats had the largest majority any party ever had in the American house of representatives. The total Republican membership was eighty-eight, which was subsequently reduced by the insatiate majority that awarded several contested seats to Democrats. But that minority was led by Thomas B. Reed. There have been abler men in American public life than this man—a few, a very few; but he was the most formidable, the most magnificent parliamentary leader of them all—above Henry Clay, above Thaddeus Stevens, above James G. Blaine.

But Tom Reed was not the only strong man on the Republican side of the Fifty-second congress. There were many others, and seven of them afterward members of the United States senate—Hopkins of Illinois, Dolliver of Iowa, Burrows of Michigan, Johnson of North Dakota, Wilson of Washington, Clark of Wyoming and Lodge of Massachusetts.

If the G. O. P. could have seen Reed in action from 1891 till 1896 it would never have preferred a hopeless and helpless mediocrity like McKinley to him. Reed was a good hater—Charles A. Dana not surpassing him in that sort of thing. Great man that he was, at the age of 38, when he entered the Forty-fifth congress and made that bitterly sectional and corrodingly sarcastic speech against the appropriation to reimburse William and Mary college for vandalism visited on that historic institution by Federal military forces during the war—and by the way, Mr. Loving, a Republican member from Massachusetts, was the man he most cruelly blistered in that classic invective—Tom Reed was a much greater man in the closing hours of his career when he penned that beautiful and touching tribute to William L. Wilson, a Confederate soldier and long-time political adversary, then recently deceased. There is nowhere else that a great man can expand in character as he does in our congress. Reed came to national public life a wonderful genius; he left it twenty-two years later, a colossal demigod. What a great president he would have been!

As I remarked the other day, Reed hated Ben Harrison; yet he respected him even when he formulated that blistering sarcasm about the "Ice-Wagon." But he hated Mark Hanna with ten times the virulence he had in store for Harrison; for he had no respect for the Ohio boss. He knew himself to be the greatest living Republican in 1896. He realized that he was fit for the presidency. He felt that he would add lustre to that lofty station, and so he would, and his great heart broke down when Hanna, with vulgar and filthy boodle, bought the honor away from him that should have been his—the spontaneous tribute of a great party and a mighty people to a splendid character.

The day Tom Reed was chosen speaker of congress the second time—December, 1895—he knew men as well as anybody then living, but the day McKinley was first nominated for president the following summer, Tom Reed knew men a great deal better than he ever had before; and it is but truth to say that his opinion of mankind after the campaign of 1896 coincided with Dean Swift's when that stupendous genius conceived the last book of "Gulliver's Travels."

Balzac makes his immortal miserean, Jacques Vautrin, utter this truism: "A man must propel himself through this life like a cannon ball, or glide through like a pestilence." Reed was the cannon ball; McKinley the pestilence. Reed was positive; McKinley negative. Reed was adamant; McKinley was wax. Reed was the oak; McKinley the vine.

The G. O. P.—and sometimes a patriot feels like changing that "G." to a "D." so as to substitute anathema for admiration—the G. O. P. claims a monopoly of intelligence, patriotism, manhood, and some other virtues. But a miserable old hag was at the christening and laid on it this curse. "It shall have no sense of justice," and that is why the Republican party died last year.

But to get back to the text. Henry Cabot Lodge was one of the Republican members of the Fifty-second congress who, later, was chosen senator. Now, Lodge is senatorial timber. He has the intellect, the culture, the character, the temperament to be a worthy successor to Webster, Choate and Sumner. He ranked the equal of his colleague, Hoar, and that is eulogy enough for any senator.

Lodge was not fitted for the house, though he was the author of about as important a piece of proposed legislation in the Fifty-first congress as even that congress considered—the Force bill, that made it illegal for Mississippi to send a white man to congress. Mr. Lodge is perhaps the most scholarly man now in public life. I doubt if Woodrow Wilson has read as much, certainly he has not written as much. It was my intention to write something about that wonderful production—the eulogy Lodge pronounced on the life, character and public services of George F. Hoar, but I gave it up in despair, the speech being so far superior to any of my poor stuff.

Politically Lodge is all wrong, but as in the case of Reed, congressional life has greatly broadened him. At first he was inclined to narrowness of mind; but his intellect would not be denied, and while he is yet a regular Republican, he has come to see that somebody else, possibly, may be as patriotic as himself. It was a strange fellowship that sprang up between Lodge and Carmack. Catherine Sedley, discussing the passion James II entertained for herself, wittily remarked: "It cannot be for my beauty he loves me, for he must see that I have none; and it cannot be for my wit, for he has not enough to know that I have any."

Lodge is as Northern as a doughnut; Carmack was as Southern as a cotton plant. But somehow these two, so far apart politically, temperamentally, in training, in prejudices, came together in personal amity, and each had not only respect for the other, but admiration as well. And in many of the facts and judgments of history they came to accord.

And the North and the South are a heap closer together and nearer kin than some folks think. A fellow from Pennsylvania, named Focht, to the contrary notwithstanding. I shall try him on next Sunday.

His Change of Residence.

Charleston Evening Post: Dr. Woodrow Wilson and his family are visiting friends in Washington, D. C. Professor Wilson contemplates making that smart little town his home for some years, we are glad to state. A very comfortable residence has been leased by the doctor. It is understood that Professor Wilson will accept a government position.

Statesmen, Real and Near

By Fred C. Kelly.

Washington, March 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—Pierpont Morgan can cause more commotion about a hotel than even a president-elect. Woodrow Wilson's one-night stay at a Washington hotel was marked by much less fussing and kow-towing on the part of the hotel folk than was accorded Morgan when he came down here several weeks ago to testify regarding the money trust.

As soon as Morgan engaged his rooms at the big hotel where he stayed when here, the management equipped a whole squad of bellboys with white kid gloves to wear when handling the man's grips. These boys did not take any other calls during the time the Mazooma chief was in the hotel, but stayed on his floor all coiled and ready to spring at his slightest wish. Morgan occupied what is known as the presidential suite, and several other rooms besides, taking up practically the entire second floor of the building. One might have noticed a "not running" sign on one of the elevators while he was in town. That elevator was being saved for his private use. All these things were carefully jotted down—white kid gloves and all—before his bill was presented.

And here is the funny thing about Pierpont Morgan: He carries almost no money around with him. If one were to sneak into his bedroom at night and go through his trousers pockets, the chances are that one would not find more than 30 or 40 cents there. The man has no need of money. When he gets ready to leave a hotel he doesn't bother about his bill—doesn't even have his secretary see it. He simply picks up and goes on his way, and the hotel bill is paid by check a few weeks or months later. It is probable that Morgan spent scarcely 15 cents in actual cash while in Washington. Not a nickel in tips did he hand out during his stay here. The tips are all taken care of in the check that he has sent later on. When the check is cashed, the amount designated for tips is turned over to the superintendent of service, who apportions the money among the bellboys, waiters and others who waited on Morgan when he was at the hotel. By this system, Morgan and his trustees are entirely relieved of touching or handling or even seeing the vulgar stuff that he controls.

Vice President Marshall qualifies readily as an off-hand wit, with a knack at epigrammatic talk. And he has a habit of kidding himself and his Democratic associates about being "poor." For instance: On the day he was inaugurated, Indiana Democrats sent a wonderful big bouquet of American beauty roses to the vice president's room.

"Yes," agreed the vice president, with a funny little twinkle; "I can't figure out where they ever got the money."

A few moments later an Indiana man, who was introduced to Marshall, remarked:

"Do you know, Mr. Vice President, you are getting younger all the time?"

"Well, I ought to be getting something," replied Marshall quickly; "the Lord knows I haven't been getting much money out of all this."

Marshall is going to occupy the rooms reserved for the vice president over in the senate office building, thereby making an innovation, as those rooms have not been used since the building was erected. Vice President Sherman did all his office work in the ornate room set apart for the vice president, across the private lobby from the senate chamber. In the forenoon, before the senate convenes, when the vice president is dictating letters and performing his office chores, guides are permitted to take visitors by this room, and people from all parts of the country stand in the doorway staring at the vice president, as if he were a menagerie or a moving picture.

Marshall can sit and be stared at and try vainly to look unconcerned, like a girl in her first hobble skirt, or he can keep his door closed and be thought "stuck-up." Rather than do either of these, he will clean up his office work in the other building and stay in his fine, big, gold-trimmed office only in the afternoons between times of presiding over the senate.

Senator John Weeks of Massachusetts declares that he never had an ambition in his life. When he was a youngster he had not the remotest idea what he wanted to be when he grew up, and he hasn't yet. When he was about through prep school, Weeks took an examination for Annapolis and put in his four years at the naval academy. But he had no particular desire to go there when he went. He simply went because the chance came along. It matters not to him what he does. He would just as soon be a doctor, lawyer, preacher, seed merchant—any old thing, he says.

True, he made a fight for the senatorship, because he wanted the job, but 'twas not so much the job he wanted as just to land the job. He insists that he doesn't care a continental about any one good job more than another. For the life of him he can't get any thrill out of being a statesman. About the only fun he ever has, he says, is playing auction bridge.

Motorisms.

Life: Some chauffeurs divide the public into the quick and the dead.

It is a long lane that has no puncture.

It is an ill windshield that does nobody any good.

In speaking of frictionless bearings, truth is sometimes stranger than friction.

The three speeds of some cars are slow, slower and stop.

Never look a gift motor in the cylinder.

A pint in your tank is worth two in the shop.

Self-starters are often self-willed starters.

A soft cushion turneth away wrath.

In some runabouts two is company, three are dangerous.

The motto of some makes of tires might be "A short life and a merry one."

In quoting prices of motor cars, some salesmen seem to think that their customers carry shock-absorbers.

Every little motor has a fragrance all its own.

Minnesota Opinions

Comments of the State Press.

Unnecessary in Country.

Frazee Free Press: The movement in many quarters to establish playgrounds for country boys is hardly one of the most important of the age. Where is the country boy who would not scorn to be hemmed in within such narrow limits? No field is too large, no wood too extensive, no swimming hole too distant to dismay his spirit.

A Great Booster.

Hibbing Mesaba Ore: Up in Koochiching county there is a woman superintendent of schools that is just as big, if not a little bigger, booster than any man in the county. Her name is Annie E. Shelland, and her work in behalf of Koochiching and other northern counties in an effort to have the state pay part of the cost of building roads and schools in counties where its land holdings are in the majority, has won a statewide reputation for her and Koochiching county.

Magnificent Address.

Owatonna Journal-Chronicle: President Wilson's inaugural address was a magnificent one—magnificent not in oratorical flourish and resounding phrases, but in its earnestness, its noble simplicity and directness. Flashes of the spirit of Lincoln illumine it, and if this address shall prove truly prophetic of the tone of President Wilson's administration, then it will go down in history as one of the great administrations even though it may be ungilded by the pomp and circumstance of war and victory.

Good Roads Advocates.

Madison Western Guard: Say what you will against the automobile, it is doing more to give us good roads than all the talking that has been done along those lines. As soon as a farmer gets an automobile he at once becomes a good roads enthusiast and gets right out and does things.

Touching the Spot.

Pine River Sentinel: There is too much talk of the high cost of living and not enough talk of the beautiful art of saving. If the latter had more attention there would be much less for a lot of us to grumble about.

Wise Precaution.

Walker Pilot: While the lamb has been designated to symbolize warm weather in March, we notice that the prophet who framed up the deal had the good sense to select an animal with a good coat of wool on it's back, just the same.

People Are Powerful.

Fairmont Sentinel: The bill providing for a physical valuation of railroads passed the recent congress by a practically unanimous vote. Several years ago when Senator La Follette proposed this measure a majority of his Republican colleagues gave him the horse laugh and scooted into the cloak room. Most of that bunch have passed into private life, unwept, unhonored and unsung, while the originator of the idea is a powerful factor in the nation, with the presidency constantly nearing his grasp. All of which proves that the people, when they understand, are for the right thing and all powerful.

Coming to Minnesota.

Brainerd Tribune: As an indication of what may be expected during the season, it is said that the immigration into Minnesota is already greater this year than it has ever been before, a fact that is evidenced not only by the figures that are being compiled by the state officials but by the difficulty that is being experienced by shippers in getting their freight, eastbound, through the Minnesota transfer in the Twin Cities. The railroad officials bear out the statement of local shippers that there are so many cars being shipped in by emigrants that it is almost impossible to get the eastbound freight through. Minnesota will have a big year in 1913, all right.

Where the Shoe Pinches.

New York Tribune: Cosmo Hamilton, the young English writer, was talking in New York about eugenics.

"The eugenist," he said, "is no foe to properly regulated divorce. Some eugenists even think that the reasons for divorce need not be given.

"Such eugenists are like the old Roman who invented the phrase, 'where the shoe pinches.'

"This old Roman was reproached by his friends for divorcing his wife. They could see no fault in her, they said.

"The old Roman, by way of answer, smiled and took off his shoe.

"'Look at it,' he said, holding it up and turning it about. 'It seems a good shoe, doesn't it? You can't find anything wrong with it, can you? And yet——'

"The old Roman here frowned impressively.

"'And yet,' he said, 'none of you can tell where it pinches me.'"

"Literary Styles."

Spokane Spokesman-Review: Exchange editors are usually well repaid for their work by the entertainment they are afforded from the various literary styles used by writers in newspapers.

In a Dublin paper we find this: "It looks to me as if she had saddled herself with a veritable white elephant."

In South Dakota the literary style is only fairly well developed. A paper of that state announces: "The bride is a refined young lady of culture, as also is Mr. Smith."

That Car.

He owned a handsome touring car,
To ride in it was heaven,
He ran across a piece of glass—
Bill—$14.97.

He took his friends out for a ride,
'Twas good to be alive,
The carburetor sprang a leak,
Bill—$40.95.

He started on a little tour,
The finest sort of fun;
He stopped too quick and stripped his gears,
Bill—$90.51.

He took his wife downtown to shop,
To save carfare was great,
He jammed into a hitching post,
Bill—$278.

He spent his little pile of cash,
And then in anguish cried;
"I'll put a mortgage on the house,
And take just one more ride."

ANOTHER STEP FORWARD.

Another step toward the adoption of direct legislation in Minnesota was taken when the senate passed, without a dissenting vote, the bill looking to a constitutional amendment giving the people the rights of the initiative and referendum. The senate did itself proud in that vote. Some doubt had been expressed in various quarters as to whether the senate would pass any such bill, but by doing so unanimously that body proved its right to the name progressive.

Two amendments made in the senate are especially important and are being threshed out in conference committee. These are the one requiring that initiative and referendum petitions must be signed in one-third of the counties, and the one that reiterates the present constitutional provision that proposed amendments must get a majority of the vote cast at the election at which they are submitted.

It is probable, and to be hoped, that the provision for the signing of petitions in one-third of the counties will be modified, if not eliminated. Its requirement would be a serious restriction on the operation of the initiative and referendum, especially of the former. The object of direct legislation is to make popular action obtainable, not difficult of attainment. But whatever may be the outcome of the conference, it seems assured that the state is to have a system of direct legislation. It should be made as practicable as possible.

Bryan in the cabinet and sixteen precedents gone glimmering in just one week of the new administration. Two old ruts still pursued.

A NAME GONE WRONG.

We in this country pay little—perhaps too little—attention to the value of a name. Nevertheless we are not insensible to the power that lies in a family attachment, and it was this fact that led to the tempting of the son of one of our greatest and best loved writers to lend the name of Hawthorne to a business that now stands branded as a gigantic swindle. Today that name is entered on the court records as that of one of the principals in that swindle, and its possessor is liable to be sent to prison for his action.

It is unfortunate that this man should be the one to come under such disgrace, but there is a modicum of benefit even in that. There is no other element in the case that could have attracted the widespread interest in it that it actually commanded. This interest has served to insure general knowledge of the falsity of the claims regarding the properties boomed by the men who secured Julian Hawthorne's assistance.

But the case has served a yet better purpose in that it has called general attention to the fact that the victims of swindles of this character are not without redress. It constitutes formal and forcible notice to promoters of fake mining schemes that they are making themselves liable to severe penalties by their acts. In that respect it is long a good work, and may operate to clear the investment atmosphere of the country of a lot of fraudulent schemes to get the money out of the pockets of the credulous.

How about the theory that Madero is the Mexican word for Smith?

WHILE THE GIRLS LOOKED ON.

Several young girls saw something on Fourth avenue west, yesterday, that attracted their attention. It also attracted the attention of some two or three score other persons. The incident lasted some twenty minutes, and though there was not much comment, a considerable crowd gathered and showed a morbid interest in the affair.

It wasn't much of a sight. In fact, from the standpoint of enjoyment, it was a mighty miserable sight. Yet these young girls, perhaps a dozen of them, stood in the crowd and watched it. They made no comments that those about them could hear. It would have been interesting if one could have read their thoughts.

It was just a woman, apparently slightly past middle age and nothing more than ordinarily clad, who had fallen, not once, but three or four times. Finally, with the assistance of a man who was nearby, she reached a place where she could lean against a window sill for support, and there she stood, stared at by the constantly growing crowd, until the patrol auto came and she was placed inside it and taken away. A group of boys stood about the rear of the wagon and stared at the occupant until the vehicle moved off.

It wasn't a case of accident, such as will draw a crowd in any city. It wasn't a case of sickness. It was just a plain case of drunkenness. The woman was so drunk that she couldn't stand alone. It was a disgusting sight, so much so that the crowd about her was constantly changing. People took one look and went away to make room for others, who came to see what was the trouble.

How did the woman come to be there? Why did she get drunk? Who knows?

But this much is certain. Some time—it may have been years ago when she was young and attractive looking—she took up the habit of drinking. Yesterday, with youth and good looks gone, she appeared on the street in such a state of intoxication that she became a spectacle for the curious, a spectacle of disgust for all about her. And the scene only ended with her removal by the police.

What did those young girls think as they watched her? Once she was the same as themselves. But she "played with fire," and yesterday's scene was one of the minor results. Did the girls take the lesson to heart?

Harry Watterson thinks the fit at the White House will inspire more debating in certain circles in Washington. Which is out a manner of saying that the process of elimination will be hurried to a climax.

"REASONABLE TIME."

An interesting question as to the relation between court time and "reasonable time" was raised in the recent controversy at Washington over the enforcement of the newspaper law passed by the Sixty-second congress. It was urged by opponents of such enforcement that the department of justice had agreed not to enforce the law pending decision by the supreme court as to its constitutionality. The department of justice officials asserted that they had made no such promise; that in fact they had agreed to suspend enforcement "for a reasonable time" so as to give the court opportunity to pass on the question.

Thus the issue was immediately raised, what is a reasonable time as far as court procedure is concerned? The supreme court enjoined the enforcement of the newspaper law, which had been before it for some six months. Therefore it seems fair to assume that the term "reasonable time" when it is applied to the courts is more than six months.

Minnesota would like very much to know the other limit on "reasonable time" in the courts, so that some motion could be had as to when a decision is to be expected in the railroad rate cases. Those have been before the supreme court for more than a year, and yet there is no decision, though further legislation, both in this and other states, depends on what that decision may be. Meanwhile the people of Minnesota are being made to pay what they believe to be unreasonable rates both for passenger and freight service.

There is nothing that the states can do. Arguments have been made and briefs filed, and the matter now rests entirely in the hands of the justices. It will be a decided relief and benefit to every state in the Union to have the points raised in the Minnesota case decided, so it is greatly to be hoped that the reasonable time will soon expire and a decision, one way or an other, be rendered.

Here in Duluth we lost track of the 15th of March in the interest felt in the coming First of April.

The Leaders of Men.

Jo Ben in his book upon "The Crowd": As soon as a certain number of living beings are gathered together, whether they be animals or men, they place themselves instinctively under the authority of a chief.

As enthusiasm becomes inflamed, it happens most often that the true leader is he who started as one of the led.

He has himself been hypnotized by the idea whose apostle he has since become. It has taken possession of him to such a degree that everything outside it vanishes, and every contrary opinion appears to him an error or a superstition. In time by affirmation, repetition and contagion great power is given to his ideas, and he acquires that mysterious force known as prestige. Every successful man, every idea that forces itself into recognition, ceases ipso facto to be called in question.

The proof that success is one of the principal stepping stones to prestige is that the disappearance of one is almost always followed by the disappearance of the other. The hero whom the crowd acclaimed yesterday is insulted today should he be overtaken by failure. The reaction indeed will be the stronger in proportion as the prestige has been great.

The Price of a Son.

Detroit Free Press: Prof. Allen Hoben of the university of Chicago—formerly a Detroit preacher, by the way—says that one boy, reared from babyhood to the age of 18 years, costs his parents $4,000, even if they are so poor that they must live in the slums. Wealthy parents, he says, pay more, and he adds: "A son is truly a costly luxury." Yes, according to Dr. Hoben's figures, even the slum father could in 18 years own a fine touring automobile for the sum he expends in rearing a son. And if he rears six sons—that's $24,000—on a salary of $1,000—that's $18,000 in 18 years—think of the art gems he could buy for his little cottage. Wonderful what the science of statistics can put into our heads, isn't it?

TOO MUCH STRESS ON MAYOR'S OFFICE.

To the Editor of The Herald:

I would respectfully suggest to the voters of Duluth that too much stress is being put on the office of mayor in this campaign for the commission.

The mayor will be only a figurehead, so far as that office goes. He will be the visible head of the government, but the real executive and legislative power will be vested in a commission of five men, all of equal power in legislation and each supreme in his own department.

It is fully as important that we have four good commissioners as it is that we elect one good mayor. In fact, it is more important, for the four commissioners will have four votes to the mayor's one.

Let us take a look at the candidates for the long term and the short term, and not give all our attention to the ten men who aspire to the mayor's office.

Went Home Honest

Henry Whitbeck in the American Magazine.

He was a member, sent there from some rural district far down in the Southern end of the state, and all through the session he had been silent, taking no part except to vote, and to vote, on most occasions, with his party, which, in those days, was the whole party of men. This night would see the end of his political career, if his brief experience in an obscure position could be called a career, and he stood there solemnly looking on, plucking now and then at his chin, his long, wrinkled face brown and solemn and inscrutable.

The old man stood there while the long roll was being called, and the crisis approached, and the nervous tension was a keen pain. And suddenly one of the gas lobbyists went up to him, close on the verge of the house, and began to talk with him. I had the story a good while afterwards from one of the whips, who, it seemed, knew all that had gone on that night.

The lobbyist, of course knew about the vote. He knew especially about his necessity, as lobbyists do; and he began to talk to the old fellow about them—about his poverty and his children, and he used the old argument which has been employed so long and so successfully with the rural members of all our legislatures, and has been the source of so much evil in our city government, that is the argument that the bill concerned only Chicago, and that the folks down home would neither know nor care how he voted on it, and then—how much $2,000 would mean to him. As the lobbyist talked there were various eyes that looked at him, waiting for a sign; they needed only a few votes then, and the roll call was being delayed by one pretense and another, and the clock was turned back. The old fellow listened and stroked his chin, and then presently, when the lobbyist had done he turned his old blue eyes on him and said:

"I reckon you're right; I'm poor and I've got a big family. And you're right, too, when you say my people won't know nor care; they won't; they don't know nor care a damn; they won't send me back here, of course. And God knows what's to come of my wife and my children; I am going home to them tomorrow, and on Monday I'm going to hunt me a job in the harvest field. I reckon I'll be in the poorhouse by fall. Yes, I'm going home—but"—he stopped and looked the lobbyist in the eye—"I'm going home an honest man."

Feeling Prosperous

Orison Swett Marden in the Nautilus: The mental attitude determines the tendency of the life. According to this law, there is everything in feeling rich, for in it is everything that is good for us, everything that will help us to become what we intend to become.

Many people have so long felt poor and imagined that their lives must necessarily be dry and barren of comforts and luxuries which others enjoy, that they have encouraged such conditions. The habit of feeling that you are poor and unfortunate, that the good things of life are for others but not for you, that there is something in the universe which permits such conditions, is deadening to all that makes character, all that makes life beautiful.

The way to make the ideal the real, is persistently to hold the thought of their reality. The way to demonstrate abundance is to hold it constantly in the mind, frequently to say to yourself, "All that my Father hath is mine." "The Lord is my shepherd; I shall not want." If all this is true I shall not want, if you do, any want or lack in your life is abnormal.

If you would use the same effort and energy to see prosperity and to picture plenty as you do poverty, you would not long be poor. You would very soon get away from these distressing conditions. But somehow the whole human race has such a horror of poverty, that they concentrate upon it and attract it. The man who thinks he is going to be unlucky in everything he attempts, is infinitely more likely to be so than the man who is filled with confidence, assurance, and expectancy of success, because a failure atmosphere creates a negative, unproducing mentality, while a hopeful, expectant assurance, confidence, creates a productive mentality which does things, achieves.

The earth is fairly overflowing with abundance; the universe is loaded with marvelous resources of supply of which we have not yet dreamed. Nature has no preference for the giving of her secrets; she does not give up her wealth any easier to a Rockefeller, or a Carnegie, than to you or me.

Royalty Gets Tattooed.

New York Press: Prince George of Greece has a flying dragon of many colors that he carries everywhere he goes. It's worked into his arm with indelible inks. The Grand Duke Alexis of Russia, who is in class AA of the tattooed noblemen, has a rather elaborate set of interior decorations, and the queen of Greece isn't white all over. Prince Francis of Teck likes action, so every time he looks at his right forearm he sees a cute little frog leaping for a small beetle.

Tattooed blue bloods have nothing on an engineer on a White Star liner, whose body down to the waist looks like a picture gallery. A wonderful reproduction of Da Vinci's "The Last Supper," is on his chest, and neatly lettered on his back is the Lord's Prayer. The hymn, "Nearer, My God, to Thee," also is on his skin.

From House to Senate, No. 7

By Sacford.

Washington, March 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—When the Fifty-second congress convened in first regular session the first Monday in December, 1891, the Democrats had the largest majority any party ever had in the American house of representatives. The total Republican membership was eighty-eight, which was subsequently reduced by the insatiate majority that awarded several contested seats to Democrats. But that minority was led by Thomas B. Reed. There have been abler men in American public life than this man—a few, a very few; but he was the most formidable, the most magnificent parliamentary leader of them all—above Henry Clay, above Thaddeus Stevens, above James G. Blaine.

But Tom Reed was not the only strong man on the Republican side of the Fifty-second congress. There were many others, and seven of them afterward members of the United States senate—Hopkins of Illinois, Dolliver of Iowa, Burrows of Michigan, Johnson of North Dakota, Wilson of Washington, Clark of Wyoming and Lodge of Massachusetts.

If the G. O. P. could have seen Reed in action from 1891 till 1895 it would never have preferred a hopeless and helpless mediocrity like McKinley to him. Reed was a good hater—Charles A. Dana not surpassing him in that sort of thing. Great man that he was, at the age of 38, when he entered the Forty-fifth congress and made that bitterly sectional and corrodingly sarcastic speech against the appropriation to reimburse William and Mary college for vandalism visited on that historic institution by Federal military forces during the war—and by the way, Mr. Loving, a Republican member from Massachusetts, was the man he most crucify blistered in that classic invective—Tom Reed was a much greater man in the closing hours of his career when he penned that beautiful and touching tribute to William L. Wilson, a Confederate soldier and long-time political adversary, then recently deceased. There is nowhere else that a great man can expand in character as he does in our congress. Reed came to national public life a wonderful genius; he left it, twenty-two years later, a colossal demigod. What a great president he would have been!

As I remarked the other day, Reed hated Ben Harrison; yet he respected him even when he formulated that blistering sarcasm about the "Ice-Wagon." But he hated Mark Hanna with ten times the virulence he had in store for Harrison; for he had no respect for the Ohio boss. He knew himself to be the greatest living Republican in 1896. He realized that he was fit for the presidency. He felt that he would add lustre to that lofty station, and so he would, and his great heart broke down when Hanna, with vulgar and filthy boodle, bought the honor away from him that should have been his—the spontaneous tribute of a great party and a mighty people to a splendid character.

The day Tom Reed was chosen speaker of congress the second time—December, 1895—he knew men as well as anybody then living, but the day McKinley was first nominated for president the following summer, Tom Reed knew men a great deal better than he ever had before; and it is but truth to say that his opinion of mankind after the campaign of 1896 coincided with Dean Swift's when that stupendous genius conceived the last book of "Gulliver's Travels."

Balzac makes his immortal miscreant, Jacques Vautrin, utter this truism: "A man must propel himself through this life like a cannon ball, or glide through like a pestilence." Reed was the cannon ball; McKinley the pestilence. Reed was positive; McKinley negative. Reed was adamant; McKinley was wax. Reed was the oak; McKinley the vine.

The G. O. P.—and sometimes a patriot feels like changing that "G." to a "D." so as to substitute anathema for adulation—the G. O. P. claims a monopoly of intelligence, patriotism, manhood, and some other virtues. But a miserable old hag was at the christening and laid on it this curse. "It shall have no sense of justice," and that is why the Republican party died last year.

But to get back to the text. Henry Cabot Lodge was one of the Republican members of the Fifty-second congress and he was chosen senator. Now, who, later, was chosen senator. Now, Lodge is senatorial timber. He has the intellect, the culture, the characthe intellect, the temperament to be a worthy successor to Webster, Choate and Sumner. He ranked the equal of his colleague, Hoar, and that is eulogy enough for any senator.

Lodge was not fitted for the house, though he was the author of about as important a piece of proposed legislation in the Fifty-first congress as ever that congress considered—the Force bill, that made it illegal for Mississippi to send a white man to congress. Mr. Lodge is perhaps the most scholarly man now in public life. I doubt if Woodrow Wilson has read as much, certainly he has not written as much. It was my intention to write something about that wonderful production—the eulogy Lodge pronounced on the life, character and public services of George F. Hoar, but I gave it up in despair, the speech being so far superior to any of my poor stuff.

Politically Lodge is all wrong, but as in the case of Reed, congressional life has greatly broadened him. At first he was inclined to narrowness of mind; but his intellect would not be denied, and while he is yet a regular Republican, he has come to see that somebody else, possibly, may be as patriotic as himself. It was a strange fellowship that sprang up between Lodge and Carmack. Catherine Sedley, discussing the passion James II entertained for herself, wittily remarked: "It cannot be for my beauty he loves me, for he must see that I have none; and it cannot be for my wit, for he has not enough to know that I have any." Lodge is as Northern as a doughnut; Carmack was as Southern as a cotton plant. But somehow these two, so far apart politically, temperamentally, in training, in prejudices, came together in personal amity, and each had not only respect for the other, but admiration as well. And in many of the facts and judgments of history they came to accord.

And the North and the South are a heap closer together and nearer kin than some folks think, a fellow from Pennsylvania, named Focht, to the contrary notwithstanding. I shall try him on next Sunday.

His Change of Residence.

Charleston Evening Post: Dr. Woodrow Wilson and his family are visiting friends in Washington, D. C. Professor Wilson contemplates making that smart little town his home for some years, we are glad to state. A very comfortable residence has been leased by the doctor. It is understood that Professor Wilson will accept a government position.

Statesmen, Real and Near

By Fred C. Kelly.

Washington, March 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—Pierpont Morgan can cause more commotion about a hotel than even a president-elect. Woodrow Wilson's one-night stay at a Washington hotel was marked by much less fussing and kow-towing on the part of the hotel folk than was accorded Morgan when he came down here several weeks ago to testify regarding the money trust.

As soon as Morgan engaged his rooms at the big hotel where he stayed when here, the management equipped a whole squad of bellboys with white kid gloves to wear when handling the man's grips. These boys did not take any other calls during the time the Mazooma chief was in the hotel, but stayed on his floor all coiled and ready to spring at his slightest wish. Morgan occupied what is known as the presidential suite, and several other rooms besides, taking up practically the entire second floor of the building. One might have noticed a "not running" sign on one of the elevators while he was in town. That elevator was being saved for his private use. All these things were carefully jotted down—white kid gloves and all—before his bill was presented.

And here is the funny thing about Pierpont Morgan: He carries almost no money around with him. If one were to sneak into his bedroom at night and go through his trousers pockets, the chances are that one would not find more than 39 or 40 cents there. The man has no need of money. When he gets ready to leave a hotel he doesn't bother about his bill—doesn't even have his secretary see it. He simply picks up and goes on his way, and the hotel bill is paid by check a few weeks or months later. It is probable that Morgan spent scarcely 15 cents in actual cash while in Washington. Not a nickel in tips did he hand out during his stay here. The tips are all taken care of in the check that he has sent later on. When the check is cashed, the amount designated for tips is turned over to the superintendent of service, who apportions the money among the bellboys, waiters and others who waited on Morgan when he was at the hotel. By this system, Morgan and his trustees are entirely relieved of touching or handling or even seeing the vulgar stuff that he controls.

Vice President Marshall qualifies readily as an off-hand wit, with a knack at epigrammatic talk. And he has a habit of kidding himself and his Democratic associates about being "poor." For instance: On the day he was inaugurated, Indiana Democrats sent a wonderful big bouquet of American beauty roses to the vice president's room.

"Yes," agreed the vice president, with a funny little twinkle: "I can't figure out where they ever got the money."

A few moments later an Indiana man, who was introduced to Marshall, remarked:

"Do you know, Mr. Vice President, you are getting younger all the time?"

"Well, I ought to be getting something," replied Marshall quickly: "the Lord knows I haven't been getting much money out of all this."

Marshall is going to occupy the rooms reserved for the vice president over in the senate office building, thereby making an innovation, as those rooms have not been used since the building was erected. Vice President Sherman did all his office work in the ornate room set apart for the vice president, across the private lobby from the senate chamber. In the forenoon, before the senate convenes, when the vice president is dictating letters and performing his office duties, guides are permitted to take visitors by this room, and people from all parts of the country stand in the doorway staring at the vice president, as if he were a menagerie or a moving picture.

Marshall can sit and be stared at and try vainly to look unconcerned, like a girl in her first bobbie skirt, or he can keep his door closed and be thought "stuck-up." Rather than do either of these, he will clean up his office work in the other building and stay in his fine, big, gold-trimmed office only in the afternoons between times of presiding over the senate.

Senator John Weeks of Massachusetts declares that he never had an ambition in his life. When he was a youngster he had not the remotest idea what he wanted to be when he grew up, and he hasn't yet. When he was about through prep school, Weeks took an examination for Annapolis and put in his four years at the naval academy. But he had no particular desire to go there when he went. He simply went because the chance came along. It matters not to him what he does. He would just as soon be a doctor, lawyer, preacher, seed merchant—any old thing, he says.

True, he made a fight for the senatorship, because he wanted the job, but 'twas not so much the job he wanted as just to land the job. He insists that he doesn't care a continental about any one good job more than another. For the life of him he can't get any thrill out of being a statesman. About the only fun he ever has, he says, is playing auction bridge.

Motorisms.

Life: Some chauffeurs divide the public into the quick and the dead.

It is a long lane that has no puncture.

It is an ill windshield that does nobody any good.

In speaking of frictionless bearings, truth is sometimes stranger than friction.

The three speeds of some cars are slow, slower and stop.

Never look a gift motor in the cylinder.

A pint in your tank is worth two in the shop.

Self-starters are often self-willed starters.

A soft cushion turneth away wrath.

In some runabouts two is company, three are dangerous.

The motto of some makes of tires might be "A short life and a merry one."

In quoting prices of motor cars, some salesmen seem to think that their customers carry shock-absorbers.

Every little motor has a fragrance all its own.

Took the Catalogue Course.

Hamilton—In what way, John?

Janaway—Can talk automobile perfectly, although he's never owned a car.

Minnesota Opinions

Comments of the State Press.

Unnecessary in Country.

Frazee Free Press: The movement in many quarters to establish playgrounds for country boys is hardly one of the most important of the age. Where is the country boy who would not scorn to be hemmed in within such narrow limits? No field is too large, no wood too extensive, no swimming hole too distant to dismay his spirit.

A Great Booster.

Hibbing Mesaba Ore: Up in Koochiching county there is a woman superintendent of schools that is just as big, if not a little bigger, booster than any man in the county. Her name is Annie E. Shelland, and her work in behalf of Koochiching and other northern counties in an effort to have the state pay part of the cost of building roads and schools in counties where its land holdings are in the majority, has won a statewide reputation for her and Koochiching county.

Magnificent Address.

Owatonna Journal-Chronicle: President Wilson's inaugural address was a magnificent one—magnificent not in oratorical flourish and resounding phrases, but in its earnestness, its noble simplicity and directness. Flashes of the spirit of Lincoln illumine it, and if this address shall prove truly prophetic of the tone of President Wilson's administration, then it will go down in history as one of the great administrations even though it may be ungilded by the pomp and circumstance of war and victory.

Good Roads Advocates.

Madison Western Guard: Say what you will against the automobile, it is doing more to give us good roads than all the talking that has been done along those lines. As soon as a farmer gets an automobile he at once becomes a good roads enthusiast and gets right out and does things.

Touching the Spot.

Pine River Sentinel: There is too much talk of the high cost of living and not enough talk of the beautiful art of saving. If the latter had more attention there would be much less for a lot of us to grumble about.

Wise Precaution.

Walker Pilot: While the lamb has been designated to symbolize warm weather in March, we notice that the prophet who framed up the deal had the good sense to select an animal with a good coat of wool on it's back, just the same.

People Are Powerful.

Fairmont Sentinel: The bill providing for a physical valuation of railroads passed the recent congress by a practically unanimous vote. Several years ago when Senator La Follette proposed this measure a majority of his Republican colleagues gave him the horse laugh and scooted into the cloak room. Most of that bunch have passed into private life, unwept, unhonored and unsung, while the originator of the idea is a powerful factor in the nation, with the presidency constantly nearing his grasp. All of which proves that the people, when they understand, are for the right thing and all powerful.

Coming to Minnesota.

Brainerd Tribune: As an indication of what may be expected during the season, it is said that the immigration into Minnesota is already greater this year than it has ever been before, a fact that is evidenced not only by the figures that are being compiled by the state officials but by the difficulty that is being experienced by shippers in getting their freight, eastbound, through the Minnesota transfer in the Twin Cities. The railroad officials bear out the statement of local shippers that there are so many cars being shipped in by emigrants that it is almost impossible to get the eastbound freight through. Minnesota will have a big year in 1913, all right.

Where the Shoe Pinches.

New York Tribune: Cosmo Hamilton, the young English writer, was talking in New York about eugenics.

"The eugenist," he said, "is no foe to properly regulated divorce. Some eugenists even think that the reasons for divorce need not be given.

"Such eugenists are like the old Roman who invented the phrase, 'where the shoe pinches.'

"This old Roman was reproached by his friends for divorcing his wife. They could see no fault in her, they said.

"The old Roman, by way of answer, smiled and took off his shoe.

"'Look at it,' he said, holding it up and turning it about. 'It seems a good shoe, doesn't it? You can't find anything wrong with it, can you? And yet—'

"The old Roman here frowned impressively.

"'And yet,' he said, 'none of you can tell where it pinches me.'"

"Literary Styles."

Spokane Spokesman-Review: Exchange editors are usually well repaid for their work by the entertainment they are afforded from the various literary styles used by writers in newspapers.

In a Dublin paper we find this: "It looks to me as if she had saddled herself with a veritable white elephant."

In South Dakota the literary style is only fairly well developed. A paper of that state announces: "The bride is a refined young lady of culture, as also is Mr. Smith."

That Car.

He owned a handsome touring car.
To ride in it was heaven.
He ran across a piece of glass—
Bill—$14.97.

He took his friends out for a ride,
'Twas good to be alive,
The carburetor sprang a leak.
Bill—$40.95.

He started on a little tour,
The finest sort of fun;
He stopped too quick and stripped his gears.
Bill—$90.51.

He took his wife downtown to shop,
To save carfare was great,
He jammed into a hitching post,
Bill—$278.

He spent his little pile of cash,
And then in anguish cried;
"I'll put a mortgage on the house,
And take just one more ride."

Friendly Germs.

Micro-organisms, commonly called germs, belong both to the animal and vegetable kingdoms. The bacteria, however, include most of the germs which are responsible for disease in man, as well as the ones which are of some advantage. The animal germs affecting man are known as protozoa, the most important being the malaria germ, the amoebea of dysentery and the germ of relapsing fever. That this latter class of germs has not been as carefully studied as the bacteria, may be the reason that so few are known to be injurious to man; and that some of the baffling diseases, such as infantile paralysis and cancer, may be due to such germs would seem at present to be quite probable.

Among the bacteria, moulds, fungi and yeasts are a number of germs which should be looked upon as friends; and the lactic acid group, including the cocci and the baccillus, may be mentioned as a few which directly contribute to the health and longevity of humans. Metchnekoff has pretty clearly shown that the causes underlying the development of senility are largely to be found in poisons assorted from the large intestine. Also that these poisons, formed by the action of unfriendly germs on the contents of the bowel, may be prevented in forming by encouraging a vigorous growth of friendly germs belonging to the lactic acid group. And it is on account of these findings that the buttermilk diet has become so popular during the last few years.

Buttermilk is mainly beneficial on account of the lactic acid germs it contains; and their introduction to the intestinal tract along with the food on which they thrive best, makes good buttermilk the ideal method of administering these germs to people. So, if you would delay old age, remember to drink lots of buttermilk during your young life and prime. The germs causing putrefaction of animal and vegetable refuse are also friends of man in disguise; for the process of disintegration and oxidization which is necessary to the fertilization of soil, is almost entirely due to the action of these germs. It is true that the housewife, when she discovers food spoiled by these germs, can see no good in their action; but nevertheless, the warning of germ presence given by the putrefaction may save the household from an epidemic of typhoid or other serious infection.

It was in 1857 that Pasteur showed that the lactic acid, butyric acid and acetic acid germs cause fermentation, and that fermentation and putrefaction were necessary to the life of both plants and animals. Since that time the growth of bacteriology has been rapid and extensive, and the useful or friendly germs have been studied for commercial purposes, while the disease germs have been constantly investigated by an army of scientific physicians and laboratory workers. Yet the science of bacteriology is considered to be still in its infancy, and still greater achievements in this science are expected to unravel mysteries still surrounding such diseases as cancer, infantile paralysis and pellagra.

Questions and Answers.

Middle Ear and Mastoid Infection.

Miss V. M. S. writes: Please inform me of the seriousness of tuberculosis of the mastoid cells, and how they become infected. Do the germs gain entrance through the external ear?

REPLY.

Tubular infection of the mastoid cells is probably always an extension from the middle ear, and its seriousness lies in the fact that an opening may be made at any time into the brain cavity, allowing the entrance of both the bacillus tuberculosis and its accompanying pus germs, in large numbers, to the brain tissues. In the event of such brain infection there is little to be hoped for in either surgery or medicine, and death is the usually rapid conclusion.

Tuberculosis of the middle ear is, however, rarely if ever a primary tuberculosis; that is, there is generally a chronic lung or gland infection in some other part of the body. When it is primary, the germs gain access to the middle ear through the little tube leading from the back of the throat, and in that case it is generally found that the tonsils are infected, or else there are infected adenoids.

The process in the middle ear is continued with very little pain until the little ear bones are destroyed, as well as the tympanum or eardrum. Hearing is much impaired or entirely destroyed, but until the mastoid and inner ear are involved there is some hearing left, made possible through bone conduction.

Early operation is the only remedy, where the infection has spread to the mastoid; and although normal hearing can never be brought back, the life of the sufferer is removed from grave danger. The tubercular process gives very little pain, and on this account its danger is probably greater than ear infection coming on after scarlet fever or other infectious disease, which is always productive of sufficient pain to cause alarm; therefore, early treatment.

Contagious Diseases.

E. H. W. writes: I am anxious to know exactly what the danger of contagion is in regard to scarlet fever, diphtheria and similar diseases. 2—Is there danger of contagion by taking money from an infected person? 3—Is there danger in contact with clothes of a well person, who has come from an infected house?

REPLY.

1—In scarlet fever or diphtheria, if ten susceptible children are all exposed under similar circumstances in a closed room, there will be one-half, or five, come down with the disease. In measles or smallpox the number who will become infected would be nine out of ten. Contagiousness is greater in some diseases than others.

2. The danger of passing infection with money is very slight, except it be as to smallpox.

3. The answer is the same as No. 2, the danger is extremely slight, probably none in the open air.

Night Sweats.

F. B. inquires if night sweats are always a sure sign of tuberculosis.

REPLY.

No, not by any means. When night sweats persist, however, and are not caused from sleeping in a room that is too hot, or in a bed with too many clothes, they always suggest some chronic form of poisoning. Such poisoning is just as frequently from the intestinal tract as from anything else, and much more frequently than from the poisons of tuberculosis.

Effects of Typhoid.

E. V. F. inquires: Is not six months a sufficiently long time to elapse when one should expect to feel thoroughly recovered from a severe attack of typhoid fever? I took down with typhoid seven months ago and am not feeling quite like myself yet. Is it possible that I am still suffering from the effects of the typhoid or may there be something else the matter?

REPLY.

1. No, not after very severe cases. A year's time is not too long to wait for a perfect turn to health.

2. It is quite possible that the typhoid can be blamed for any slight indisposition occurring within a year after a severe case.

Amusement Notes.

New York theatergoers are still raving over George M. Cohan's latest success, "Broadway Jones," the play which will be seen at the Lyceum Friday and Saturday.

Never has a play come to this city so highly indorsed by press and public as this newest Cohan comedy. When "Broadway Jones" was first presented in New York city, the Tribune said: "Some people can live on Broadway all their lives, and never know what the place really is until they go and see 'Broadway Jones.'"

At the beginning of the play "Broadway" Jones has squandered an immense fortune in an endeavor to burn up Broadway. Just as he thinks he has accomplished his desire the inevitable smash comes, and the youth finds himself penniless and heavily in debt. In his desperation he consents to marry an heiress old enough to be his mother, but before the event can take place an obliging uncle dies and leaves him a chewing gum factory in Jonesville, Conn.

To further increase his good fortune the chewing gum trust offers to buy out his chewing gum factory for a handsome sum. Jones is about to accept their offer when the girl arrives on the scene, and through her influence he is not only induced to retain his property, but becomes the active head of his factory and a respected and honored man in his native city at Jonesville. Of course he marries the girl at the end of the play. This, in a nutshell, is the story around which Mr. Cohan has built his comedy, and the play is conceded to be one of the best ever seen in New York.

From living in a modest German inn, picking up scraps that fell from the table, to a room in a hotel with selected food, a walk every morning in the park and rides in taxicabs is a decided transition, yet that is what has happened to Don, the dog appearing at the Orpheum theater this week.

Don formerly lived on the edge of a wood near Hamburg. His owners are Mr. and Mrs. Carl Haberland. When young he was like other dogs, romping with children, chasing chickens, tearing up shoes, eating soup and licking up crumbs. He was a favorite with callers and finally some one noticed that he would elevate his head and say "kuchen," German for cake.

The animal soon learned other words and visitors to the inn wondered at his ability. When a cat was about the inn the dog ran to its mistress, who is Mrs. Haberland, and gave the cry, "haben, haben," which means "have, have." Don's owner enjoyed the fun, but finally the dog was discovered by a theatrical man and was brought to Berlin and finally to New York.

After twelve weeks in New York, Don started out for a tour of the Orpheum circuit and he is in Duluth this week. Loney Haskell, a veteran monologist, introduces him to the audiences with a clever "spiel."

Starting today another good vaudeville bill will be the offering at the Empress for three days. On the program are several well known and popular acts.

Carrie McManus, a very clever and funny comedienne, will sing. She has a happy way of putting over her numbers and her costumes are of the latest and best. She makes three changes during her appearance on the stage.

A feature act on any bill is Mysterious Hanella. He does various sleight of hand stunts. He has an original and mysterious act. His illusion, "Rosa," the singing head, is the big feature in his program. He has a beautiful woman's head floating in the air which does some classy singing.

Gilmore and Castle are eccentric singers and dancers. Their renditions of tuneful melodies and dances is of Broadway form. One of the men appears in blackface.

"Vaudeville's best bet," Dick Crollus and his company, will present a funny playlet, "Shorty." This is the first playlet to be seen at the Empress and the management promises a surprise in this attraction.

The program will be concluded by the Silent Actors, presenting many good, dramatic and funny pictures.

BRYAN LAUDED AT BIG BANQUET

More Than Thousand Persons Present in Honor of Secretary's Birthday.

Lincoln, Neb., March 20.—William J. Bryan last night heard himself lauded as the foremost exponent of the ideals of Democracy, as the man who, more than any other made the nomination and election of Woodrow Wilson possible, and as a leading factor in bringing about what was termed a "return to the government of the people."

In his reply Mr. Bryan disclaimed credit for doing more toward bringing about the triumph of his party than should be expected of one who had three times been honored by receiving the nomination for the presidency.

Mr. Bryan gave away no secrets of state, nor in his speech did he commit himself on any national policy which is not known to the reading public. He discussed the causes that have led to Democratic victory and in general promised that President Wilson and all Democrats will devote themselves the next four years to bringing the government closer to the people. As to the praise bestowed upon him, he said he was only one of 6,000,000 men who had aided in bringing about the result.

The banquet was in honor of the fifty-third birthday anniversary of Mr. Bryan. More than a thousand men sat at tables in the auditorium. The stage was filled with tables and the galleries were occupied by men and women who had been unable to find seats in the building.

Washington, March 20. — President Wilson last night sent the following telegram in connection with the celebration at Lincoln, Neb., of the birthday of W. J. Bryan, the secretary of state:

"Hon. Edgar Howard, Lincoln, Neb.

"Please accept my sincere good wishes on the occasion of the celebration of Mr. Bryan's birthday by the Lincoln-Bryan club. I cannot tell you what a comfort it is to me to know that I am to have the aid and counsel of your distinguished fellow townsman. It is a source of genuine pleasure, as well as great advantage to me to be associated with him. (Signed)

"WOODROW WILSON."

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

MINOT NORMAL BEING BUILT

New Educational Institution Most Pretentious in Flickertail State.

Many Students Already Enrolled for Work in New State Institution.

Minot, N. D., March 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—The main building of the Minot normal school, now under course of construction, will be the most modern educational building in North Dakota. It will be of reenforced concrete with exteriors of face brick, 250 feet front and 175 feet deep, and will, by reason of that fact, be the largest educational building owned by any Flickertail institution.

Already 125 students have been enrolled for the opening of the work and President A. G. Crane is confident that the Minot Normal will be one of the state's biggest institutions. Maintenance and new building funds for the coming two years total $145,000, and provision also has been made for permanent maintenance of approximately $40,000 annually through the educational mill tax. A fine model school for the normal work is also assured under an arrangement by which the Harlsom school is taken over by the normal school board of control.

The Main Building.

The main building will contain the usual recitation rooms, laboratories, library, assembly room and general administration offices. Special provision for agricultural and life sciences laboratories has been made. A feature of the buildings are teachers' office rooms in connection with the recitation rooms. A gymnasium also is provided under the main auditorium, having a 40 by 80 floor space. The auditorium proper will seat about 1,500 people with a large staff.

A dormitory for girls that will accommodate 104 roomers and 300 boarders is also being constructed.

ELEVATOR LINE IS EMBARRASSED

North Dakota Railroad Commission to Probe Dakota Grain Co.

Bismarck, N. D., March 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—The state board of railroad commissioners have received notice to the effect that the Dakota Grain company, having headquarters at Edgeley, and operating a number of houses on the Midland Continental and the Fargo Southwestern, is in financial difficulties and under the new law just signed by the governor, President Stutsman will go to Edgeley and see what can be done regarding a settlement of the affairs of the company.

This bill which was introduced by Senator Duncan also carries a clause providing for a uniform system of bookkeeping in all elevators operated in the state.

SNOW BLOCKADES BRANCH OF SOO

Government Orders Mail Carried to Points Affected By Messenger.

Egeland, N. D., March 20.—No trains have been run over the wheat line branch of the Soo railway between Overly and Egeland, a distance of fifty miles since the blizzard last Thursday.

As a result no mail has been received at points in the territory affected for an entire week. The postal authorities ordered yesterday that the mail be carried by messengers, starting each way from Egeland and Overly. There was a heavy fall of snow yesterday accompanied by a strong north wind, and it may be several days before the road is opened to traffic.

That Style? Your Figure? Impossible!

Fat women who are contemplating a new gown in the mode will have to contemplate a reduction of their flesh before they visit the dressmaker.

Fortunately this is nothing like the hard labor it was when one had nothing but exercising or dieting to get results with. Nowadays a short course of the Marmola Prescription Tablets should bring any woman, however fat, to the proportions necessary for her to wear a Directoire gown.

Let her take a Marmola Tablet (made in accordance with the famous prescription and, therefore, harmless) after each meal and at bedtime and she should very soon be losing a pound a day. This result, accomplished without disturbing one's table customs, forming wrinkles or distressing the stomach, astonishes everybody.

Even one large case, costing only 75 cents at any druggist's, or the same amount direct by mail from the Marmola Company, Farmer Bldg., Detroit, Mich., gives positive results. This constitutes the acme of economy.

HOLLANDERS COMING.

Settlers Coming to Bayfield, Wis., to Engage in Truck Farming.

Madison, Wis., March 20.—Fourteen families of Hollanders, now in New York, will come to Wisconsin to make their home, and become a nucleus about which it is expected will grow up a colony of sturdy Amsterdamers.

Immigration Commissioner Pocker was pleased with the news that the fourteen families had landed in New York and were ready to come to Wisconsin for the fact marks a decisive victory over Canadian influences, which have persistently "knocked" Northern Wisconsin.

These people will go to Bayfield county and devote themselves to truck farming and fruit growing.

Commissioner Pocker says that a large party in Lucerne, Switzerland, is expected to come soon to Wisconsin.

MAPLE SUGAR SEASON.

Indians and Others Around Couderay Are Gathering Sap.

Couderay, Wis., March 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—The last few days' mild weather has started the sap to run and the maple sugar season is now on through this section.

The first-made sugar was brought in yesterday by Chippewa Indians from the reservation, who are experts in the making of maple syrup and sugar.

The sugar season will be very short this year as all look for warm weather from now on, and it requires cold nights and warm days to make ideal sap weather.

MINISTER INDICTED.

Faribault County Man Charged With Burning His Waseca Store.

Waseca, Minn., March 20.—Rev. M. H. Frye, pastor of the United Brethren church at Kiester, Faribault county, was indicted yesterday by the grand jury here, charged with third degree arson. He is accused of setting fire to a furniture store which he had previously purchased here.

The arrest was made on complaint of L. V. Conley and Robert J. Martin, deputy state fire marshals. Frye was released under $3,000 bail bonds.

ANOKA COUNTY MAN ACCUSED OF ARSON.

Anoka, Minn., March 20.—Sheriff John Casey served a warrant on T. F. McCauley, a farmer living near Anoka, charging arson in the second degree.

On March 14 a farmhouse in Grow, owned by A. D. Trembley of Anoka, was burned. Trembley had moved $400 worth of household goods into the dwelling, preparatory to living on the farm.

McCauley was brought before Municipal Judge R. P. Chase yesterday and demanded a hearing, which was set for next Tuesday.

WAGERS ON ELECTION.

Results in Several Challenges at Little Falls Election.

Little Falls, Minn., March 20.—Mayor S. P. Brick was defeated here Tuesday for re-election by F. C. Johnson by a majority of twenty after a strenuous "gumshoe" campaign. Johnson entered the race on the last day for filing. The only issue was the personnel of the police force. Many voters were challenged for violating the corrupt practices act by making bets. The vote of Chief of Police William Tourtellotte was the first challenged, but he took an oath and was allowed to cast his ballot. All city officers except the mayor were re-elected.

LOCATES LOST MOTHER.

Farmer Near Mankato Finds Her Through the War Cry.

Mankato, Minn., March 20.—After having mourned his mother as dead for several years, Chris Hovland, who runs a farm near this city, has found her at Albert Lea, through an advertisement in the Salvation Army paper, The War Cry. Seven years ago he left Norway for this country, and soon afterwards heard that his mother had died. He ceased writing and she came to this country and advertised for her son. A happy reunion has just taken pace.

HANNA IS PRESIDENT.

North Dakota Governor Heads State Highway Improvement Association.

Fargo, N. D., March 20.—Governor Hanna was elected president of the State Highway Improvement association at the session here, and plans were made for the development of a system of state highways in North Dakota.

Governor Hanna was chosen because of his indorsement of good roads in his recent message to the legislature. Vice presidents were named in the three congressional districts, as follows: First, A. T. Hunter, Grand Forks; Second, Wesley C. McDowell, Marion; Third, John Bruegger, Williston.

State Engineer T. R. Atkinson was named as the association's engineer, and J. P. Hardy, secretary of the Fargo Commercial club, was chosen secretary-treasurer. Addresses were made by Governor Hanna and Mr. Atkinson.

MONTANA SHEEP ARE FROZEN NEAR STAPLES.

Staples, Minn., March 20.—A train load of sheep from Livingston, Mont., en route to St. Paul, ran into the cold snap a few days ago and during the run from Dilworth to Staples about 125 head of the sheep froze to death in the cars, the dead sheep being thrown out of the cars here. Local parties secured the sheep skins, as the owner had no time to skin them.

ST. PAUL MAN HAS A "GYM" FOR HENS.

St. Paul, Minn., March 20.—Hens should have a gymnasium, proper training and an occasional change of diet to break egg laying records, according to Samuel E. Maban, a local poultry dealer. Mr. Maban recently established in connection with his chicken coop a gymnasium where daily each hen is given two hours of exercise. He declares that as a result of this training the average production of each hen has been increased in nine days from 55 to 85 per cent.

FEARING POOR FARM. FARMER KILLS SELF.

Stillwater, Minn., March 20.—Though he had paid for his farm and had been able to make improvements last summer, Albert Springborn, a farmer, who lived two miles east of Wildwood, killed himself yesterday because, it is said, he had a delusion that he would be compelled to go to the poor farm. He blew off the top of his head with a shotgun. A widow survives.

GLYNDON MAN DIES.

Emery D. North, Once Resident of Duluth, Is Called.

Glyndon, Minn., March 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—Emery D. North, one of the pioneers of Clay county, a native of Milford, N. Y., died here Tuesday, aged 77. He is survived by his wife and three sons, Walter, residing at Glyndon; William, residing at Mitchell, S. D., and George, who lives in California.

Mr. North came West when a young man and resided at Cottage Grove and Duluth, Minn., for a number of years before coming here in 1872. He has resided here continuously for the past forty years, and was postmaster from 1900 until the fall of 1912. Prior to 1900 he had engaged in farming.

Mr. North enlisted in the army at the breaking out of the Civil war, but did not go South until 1863. His regiment, the Eighth Minnesota, was sent against the Indians in 1862 and for eight or nine months they were busy subduing the uprising in this state. After quelling the Indian outbreak his regiment went South, where they became a part of the Tennessee army.

PUTTING IN DEFENSE.

Northwestern Lumbermen Offering Their Side of the Proposition.

Minneapolis, Minn., March 20.—Counsel for the Northwestern Lumbermen's association put in the first defense against the government's charges of violation of the Sherman anti-trust act, at the hearing in the Federal building yesterday.

John C. Bryngelson of Calloway and Iver Boyum of Fergus Falls admitted the reason they were refused shipments of lumber was because their yards were too small. The defense of the association is that when a man opens a retail yard with only a few hundred dollars' worth of stock or when he enters the business purely for the purpose of getting lumber at wholesale prices for his own use, he is not entitled to shipments of lumber from the manufacturers.

Others who told of refusals to ship lumber to them were Michael Grans of Hastings and Fred Wolter of St. Paul. The defense again held it was solely because the yards in question were not up to the standard.

NEW MAHNOMEN SCHOOL.

People Vote to Build $25,000 Structure This Year.

Mahnomen, Minn., March 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—This place is now assured of a new modern schoolhouse. At a special election of the school district held Tuesday evening the proposition of bonding the district in the sum of $25,000 for the purpose of erecting a new building carried by a vote of more than 3 to 1. Work will be commenced as soon as plans can be adopted and the contract let. It is proposed to have the building ready for occupancy at the beginning of the next school year.

The spring influx of settlers has commenced. It will be greater this year than any year since Mahnomen county was organized.

Held For Missing Mail.

Minneapolis, Minn., March 20.—George E. Chisholm, aged 23 years, of Elgin, Ill., charged with sending obscene letters through the mails, was bound over here yesterday to the Federal grand jury. Bonds were placed at $1,000. Chisholm is alleged to have mailed a letter at the Minneapolis postoffice, addressed to W. R. McCormick of Detroit, Mich., which contained numerous violations of the Federal statute governing the mailing of obscene matter.

Dies at Backus, Minn.

Eau Claire, Wis., March 20.—Word has been received by Mrs. John Mahoney of the death at Backus, Minn., of Sam Graves on March 10. Mr. Graves was a former resident of Eau Claire, having lived on what is known as the Smith farm in Truax for over twenty years. He leaves to mourn his loss, one brother, Ben Graves, and one sister, Clara Tonkins of this city. Interment was made at Backus.

Akeley Man Kills Self.

Akeley, Minn., March 20.—In a fit of despondency, Almer Paulsrud, aged 34, killed himself here yesterday, using a large caliber rifle.

Imprisoned Firemen Released.

Minneapolis, Minn., March 20.—Hemmed in by a network of electric wires that shot sparks in every direction, two firemen were trapped in the attic of a dwelling house on fire here yesterday. Their cries for help took Capt. Philip Canterbury of the fire department to the attic. With rubber gloves he separated the tangled wires and freed the two men.

DANDRUFF SCALED AND SHOWED PLAINLY

Children's Heads Broke Out with Thick Yellow Scale. Would Bleed. Hair Came Out. Cuticura Soap and Ointment Cured In 2 Months.

1908 Kemper Lane, Cincinnati, Ohio.—"The children's heads broke out with a thick yellow scale and when I would wash their heads the scale came off and their heads would bleed. It would itch and the hair just seemed dead and did not grow and came out gradually. There was dandruff which scaled and showed plainly. I used on them and it did not do any good. I used another medicine and it was no good. I then tried Cuticura Soap and Ointment. I first washed their heads good with Cuticura Soap and when dry I used Cuticura Ointment two times a day. I noticed there was relief in just a short while. In two months their heads were completely cured. Their heads look fine and their hair is growing nicely now." (Signed) Mrs. Blanche Collins, June 22, 1912.

Not only are Cuticura Soap and Ointment most valuable in the treatment of eczemas and other distressing eruptions of skin and scalp, but no other emollients do so much for pimples, blackheads, red, rough and oily skins, itching, scaly scalps, dry, thin and falling hair, nor do it so economically. Sold throughout the world. Liberal sample of each mailed free, with 32-p. Skin Book. Address post-card "Cuticura, Dept. T, Boston."

Try This Home-Made Cough Remedy

Costs Little, But Does the Work Quickly, or Money Refunded.

Mix one pint of granulated sugar with ½ pint of warm water, and stir for 2 minutes. Put 2½ ounces of Pinex (fifty cents' worth) in a pint bottle; then add the Sugar Syrup. Take a teaspoonful every one, two or three hours.

You will find that this simple remedy takes hold of a cough more quickly than anything else you ever used. Usually ends a deep seated cough inside of 24 hours. Splendid, too, for whooping cough, croup, chest pains, bronchitis and other throat troubles. It stimulates the appetite and is slightly laxative, which helps end a cough.

This recipe makes more and better cough syrup than you could buy ready made for $2.50. It keeps perfectly and tastes pleasantly.

Pinex is the most valuable concentrated compound of Norway white pine extract, and is rich in guaiacol and all the natural pine elements which are so healing to the membranes. Other preparations will not work in this formula.

This plan of making cough syrup with Pinex and sugar syrup (or strained honey) has proven so popular throughout the United States and Canada that it is often imitated. But the old, successful formula has never been equaled.

A guaranty of absolute satisfaction, or money promptly refunded, goes with this recipe. Your druggist has Pinex or will get it for you. If not, send to The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

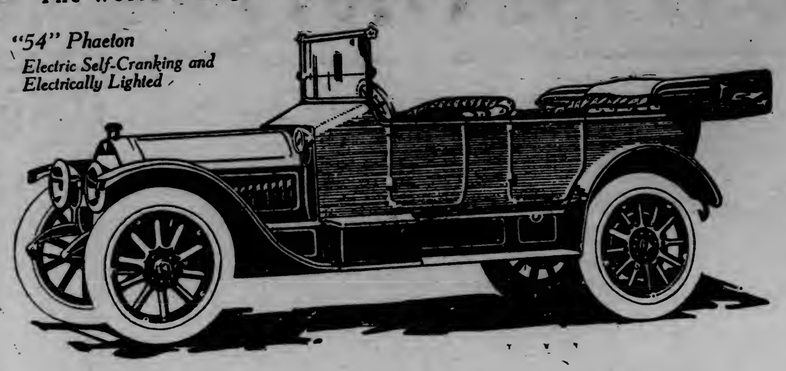
The World's Largest Builders of Six-Cylinder Automobiles

"54" Phaeton
Electric Self-Cranking and Electrically Lighted



These Only Are the Cars You Should Buy

While there are approximately 250 different makes of automobiles on the American market, it is not so difficult to choose a car that will prove satisfactory. Your neighbors tell you of their experiences. The dealers speak in highest terms of the cars they sell. You are appealed to from practically every angle to consider the advisability of this car and that car.

In all this there is apt to be much confusion as to what car can really be trusted. Just bear these facts in mind in considering each car. It will save you much worry.

Consider the Importance of the Dealer

The choice of which car is, of course, important. What it has done, who builds it, the manufacturer's position in the industry and the character of the car itself is not difficult to ascertain.

You probably have a pretty definite idea now as to which car.

Have you considered just how the dealer is to be figured in the transaction?

He is the point of contact between you and the maker, your relation with him is bound to be more or less personal.

The finest product of the best builders can not be as satisfactory a car for you to own, if its dealer does not display the spirit of interest after you have bought, as it would were the dealer all that he should be. From those who have had dealings with him you can get a pretty accurate line on the dealer.

All who buy HUDSON cars of us have our interest so long as they own a HUDSON. We are more interested in the performance of the car after it is sold, than in the sale itself.

That policy is established by the Hudson Motor Car Co. We thoroughly subscribe to its principles.

And Why a "54" HUDSON

Motorists who know see in it the qualities which only Howard E. Coffin and his associates—48 all told—were able to build into it.

They have not produced a Six by merely adding two cylinders to a good Four. A good Six can't be built that way.

These 48 specialists, experienced in all the details of motor car building, trained in 97 European and American factories, started out to build a Six without being hampered by old manufacturing equipment and old ideals.

Their reputation is staked on the "54" HUDSON.

That is a sufficient guarantee for most buyers.

HUDSONS don't disappoint.

The "54" HUDSON has electric lights. It is electrically self-cranked. The famous Delco system, patented, is used. Every motor car luxury is included, speedometer, clock, top, curtains, rain-vision windshield, demountable rims, twelve-inch upholstery, etc. Equipped with a five-passenger Phaeton body or a two-passenger Roadster the price is $2450. With a seven-passenger Touring body, $2600, f. o. b. Detroit.

At $1875 you can obtain the HUDSON "37."

It too, was designed by the same engineers that built the "54." Experts point to it as being the "Four-cylinder masterpiece."

LATEST SPORTING NEWS OF THE DAY

IT WILL be interesting to oarsmen here and to prospective oarsmen as well, to learn that the National regatta of the present season is to be held in the cultured city of Boston, which is in Massachusetts and on the bay front. Local interest puts its nose to the trail of this story from the proud fact that it is possible, nay probable, that the crews of the Duluth Boat club will assist in making the National a thorough and unqualified success.

At Syracuse and again at Peoria, which is in the corn fed district somewhere out from Chi, the home nurtured athletes figured in the headlines of the big art. Particularly was this trite and true of the Peoria pulling events. Duluth was a large part of the whole thing at the latter regatta; hence the hope that Boston is to have a glimpse of the performers who labor unceasingly and uncomplainingly through the blizzards and ice-chilled breezes of midwinter.

PAL BROWN has signed the papers and all is in readiness for his meeting with Mickey Sheridan, the fracas to be held at soft accented Memphis on the evening of the 31st of the present leaf of the calendar.

This Mickey individual does not believe his moniker in the leisurely least, according to some of the scraps he has put up in the past. Not so long ago he made Mandot gallop eight rounds with the necessity of self protection as the burr under the saddle. It will be interesting to compare the performance Pal horns in with against this sprightly product of the down town business district of Chicago.

FRANK CHANCE has has already heaved the brick of discipline at the haughty head of Hal Chase. It is rather safe to presume that there will be few infractions of the rules while the P. L. is in charge of things at the Yankee camp. Chase has been in the habit of doing as he very well pleased. He strolled in training hours the other night—or maybe morning—and was told promptly and emphatically where to alight by the new manager of the team.

A great player; perhaps the greatest first baseman in the game today, this pampered player has been a real handicap to his team. Somehow Chase has absorbed the idea that he can do just as he pleases. Chance told Prince Hal that he would let him off the first time, but that the next offense would cost him just $200.

It is very likely that with Chance in command the players of the New York Highlanders will speedily discover who rides the stern saddle of command.

PRACTICALLY all doubt regarding the ability of Walter Willoughby to make the weight for Mike Yokel was removed yesterday upon the receipt of a letter from the Mellen wonder in which he stated that he is at the 163 pound notch at the present time. Willoughby is training in the woods around Mellen and supplementing this by work in the gymnasium. He will come here early next week and complete his work at the new Lakeside Athletic association's gymnasium.

Willoughby writes that a large crowd of fans of Mellen are coming to Duluth to witness the contest. While Mike Yokel will have a host of followers in this contest, as the fans here believe him one of the greatest wrestlers who have ever pulled on a pair of tights, the Mellen boy will also have his supporters.

The Mellen delegation is planning to arrive on the morning of the match and take temporary possession of the town. Down in that section of the country they don't believe Willoughby can lose to a man of his own weight. Coming onto the mat at 162 pounds will bring both of the contenders for mat honors to about the same weight, and this being true the fans here are going to see one of the greatest struggles in the history of the game. Willoughby will fight with the desperate resolve of a man fighting for his life, while old Mike Yokel isn't going to let loose of that title without a struggle.

BAT NELSON is said to have entered training for the divorce proceedings his wife is about to institute. After hearing some of the remarks the fighter made in Winnipeg while acting in the role of announcer, we are of the opinion that Bat should put the needle-pointed curb bit on some of the "ain'ts," and "this here's," capture some of the superfluous "I's" and place them in temporary captivity and borrow a number of "G's" for the auspicious occasion when he appears before the jury and recites some of the wrongs he has encountered on the tortuous path of blighted love.

BELIEVE us there will be some rejoicing when J. Garland Stahl brings his Boston world's champions to the humble town of Champagne, Ill., and enters into baseball activities with the team of the institution that carefully curried the silken mane of the big collegian's fame, the University of Illinois.

She will be some day. One can almost picture it. The college cutups, with budding mustache that is learning to make a sound; the pipe and cuffed trouser brigade; those of wisdom who will tell of the days when Jake Stahl hit the longest home run in the history of the Illinois campus, or went through Fee and Flynn of Minnesota for ten yards. There will be the big-eyed sweet co-ed, gayly garbed in the college colors and leaning on the bicep of one of the who's who in collegiate circles. Some of the girls will herd in a bunch and will giggle and half whisper, "a-ain't he ju-st gra-nd."

Old and bewhiskered professors who each year shout the curse against football and the taint of professional sports, will don the Prince Albert, loosen up for a shine and just make that rheumatic knee twinge in getting down to the reception line to shake the hand of the chap who brought the name of his alma mater into the front page of the newspapers.

Take it from us, this will be one grand day in the history of Champagne, Ill.

Turning abruptly and briefly to the other side of the picture, can you imagine what some of the hardened members of the touring champions will say at the end of this day of festivities?

"Oh h——" is quite near enough, Bill.

THE Wisconsin faculty has placed the stern foot of the higher up pedagogues on the practice of the football team taking long trips. This is a reaction from the riotous past, when verdant freshmen and others rifled lunch stands, made Pullmans look like the successful candidate's election headquarters the day afterwards, and generally let everybody along the line know of the versatility acquired at college in the ways of raising cain to the 'steenth power.

MAMMOTH ATHLETIC CARNIVAL PLANNED

Chicago, March 20.—Plans for a mammoth athletic carnival for both amateur and professional athletes, to be held here from June 28 to July 6, next, inclusive, were announced last night by Harold F. McCormick, president of the American Olympic games committee.

Athletes from every part of the world will be invited to participate in the events. The lines of the Olympic games will be followed closely in the amateur events.

The rugby polo game, which has been barred by the Amateur Athletic union, was the bone of contention between Secretary Sullivan and the athletes. Participation in such a contest would be considered sufficient grounds for expelling the chairman of athletic association men from the organization, Sullivan warned them.

Members of the Chicago Athletic association were willing to disregard Sullivan's warning, but the Illinois Athletic club team made it known that if the rugby game was played, the contest set for today between the Princeton and the Illinois Athletic club swimmers would be cancelled. Then the game was called off and a straight swimming meet followed.

Officials of both clubs say Sullivan's ruling is arbitrary, as the Central Athletic union has not barred rugby polo. They say further that the game was thrown out of the national body only as a championship affair, and that no ban was placed on it. Much feeling is being shown over Sullivan's ruling, and threats of withdrawal by the Western body from the national organization are heard frequently.

DOUBLES AND FIVES.

Minneapolis Men Lead in Former in Bowling Tourney.

Johnson, Parthault, Minn., 1,022. Last night the West Side Bowling club of St. Paul took the lead in the five-men teams, rolling up a total score of 2,776. Other scores were:

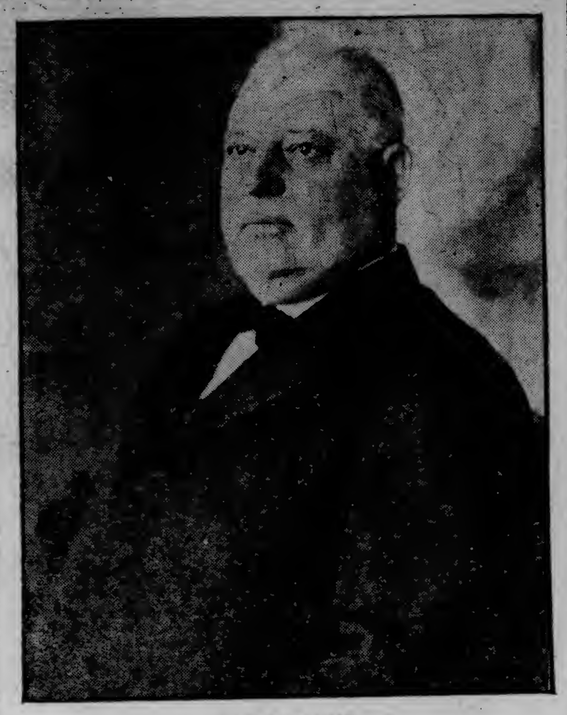
Closely Contested Match.

Albany, Ga., March 20.—The St. Louis Nationals again defeated the Albany South Atlantic league team in a closely contested game. The score was 3 to 1.

NEW BASEBALL HEAD



HARRY BLUME.

MILLER AND SOURS HAVE SIGNED THEIR CONTRACTS

The White Sox Will Have Two Fast and Hard-Hitting Players for Outfield Duty.

Elmer Miller and Lucey Sours have signed with the Duluth baseball team. This news came today in a wire from the Irish Orator, Darby O'Brien.

Two of the best men in the See-Eye last season, the news of the securing of the signatures of these two players will be happy tidings to the fans.

It is very likely that Sours will be played in the outfield during the coming season. Lucey never did play the infield until he came to this part of the country. Shortstop was no place for him, and he felt as uneasy there as a timid man would at a suffragist meeting where there was a brickpile contiguous.

At that Lucille is one of the best swatters in this section of the baseball map and the faithful recall the many games that were won through the trusty bludgeon of the demon hitter.

Miller got away to a bad start last season. He came here late and failed to hit. Suddenly he recovered his swatting orb and was getting his two and three a day when he met with the unfortunate accident that robbed the club of his services during the remainder of the year.

Without a doubt Elmer was the most finished fielder in the league last season and the season before that. Besides he possesses one of the greatest throwing arms in modern baseball. Miller is there both as to distance and accuracy and is a deadly foe to venturesome ginks on the paths.

With one more good man in the garden the White Sox will have one of the classiest outfields in the league. Darby has a number of fly chasers signed up at the present time, so that it is probable that he will garner a star out of the list of candidates to work alongside of Elmer and Lucile.

SCULLERS WILL BE VERY ACTIVE

Present Indications Point to Revival of Professional Shell Racing.

New York, March 20.—There will be a revival of professional sculling the coming season in England, Australia and America such as has not been seen for a quarter of a century, if plans do not miscarry. The fun will begin at Syracuse, in a match for the championship of America, and stakes of $1,000 a side between Eddie Durnan of Toronto, the American titleholder, and Frank B. Geer of Boston, who holds the championship of the United States. Through the efforts of the veteran oarsman, James A. Ten Eyck, coach of Syracuse university crews, a new backer has been secured for Greer, and stands ready to match him against Durnan. If Greer wins, he is willing to take the Bostonian across the water and challenge the winner of the Barry-Pearce match to be rowed on the Thames in July. This wealthy resident of Syracuse has never seen Greer perform, but he has implicit faith and confidence in the opinion of Ten Eyck to back his judgment, and is willing to post $2,500 to match the Boston sculler against the winner in the coming world's championship.

Last Columbus day the attention of George Lee was called to Greer in hope that the Bostonian would take up the local champion. Mr. Lee was greatly impressed with Greer's work in both of his races last season, but he also believed that Wray, the Harvard coach, is a sculler who has it in him to row a great race.

From close friends of the Harvard coach, it seems certain that he will get in condition early in the season, and that when his labors with the university crew are at an end will challenge Durnan and perhaps go after the winner of the Barry-Pearce match. From Australia comes word that Dick Arnst, who was beaten by Barry on the Thames last season, has been offered the chance of making a tour of the world next season, which includes several exhibition races in this country, the trip to finish up in England, where the ex-champion will be on hand ready to challenge the winner of the championship race.

LOCAL SPORT NOTES

There will be a meeting of the members of the junior baseball league at the Quayle-Larsen store next Monday evening, when plans for the organization of the league for the present season will be taken up. Last year was a most successful one for the youngsters and the same general lines will be followed during the coming season.

Those old rivals, Company A and Company C of the National Guard are to clash again at indoor baseball. A contest has been arranged for the evening of April 1 at the Armory. Both of the teams are about the strongest in the city and the game should be fast and interesting.

DAHLGREN JOINS THE CINCINNATI TEAM.

Birmingham, Ala., March 20.—Joe Tinker moved his Red brood here overnight and after a day's practice will engage the Birmingham team in a long series.

Cy Dahlgren of Minneapolis, Minn., "King of the Minors," heralded as a new Rube Waddell, has joined the Reds, but turns out to be a level-headed chap who went to the outlaws only because the salary offered him last year was not to his liking.

DAVIS TO MEET WINONA PEOPLE

Winona, Minn., March 20.—"Lefty" Davis, candidate for the position of manager of the Winona Northern league team, will be in this city on Friday evening to attend a mass meeting of the fans probably at the Union hall, when permanent organization will be perfected and the manager probably signed.

Tuesday afternoon, at a meeting of the directors of the provisional organization, it was decided to invite Davis to come here, and he will undoubtedly accept, for he is using his influence to land the managerial berth in this city. All of the fans and others interested in the launching of the team here will be urged to attend the gathering in order that the choice of a manager will be popular and meet with the fans' approval. In the plan arranged the fans will be given an opportunity to look over the prospective candidates at close range. It is not unlikely that the provisional directors will recommend to the new association that they appoint Davis. The latter is highly recommended by baseball men prominent in the Northwest. He is said to be so affiliated with the powers that be in baseball that he would have little difficulty in securing excellent players.

MILLER TO MEET GEORGE WHIPPS

Walter Miller, the great little wrestler who calls this city his home, is to meet George Whipps in a finish contest at St. Paul this evening. Whipps is one of the best of the middleweights and is regarded as a comer in the mat sport. Before leaving for St. Paul the little Pole stated that he felt simply great, following his long rest, and that he was ready for the toughest game they can bring him.

BOSTON THE REAL ISSUE

Coach Ten Eyck Will Prepare Crews With the National in View.

Junior Oarsmen Have Great Opportunity of Making Senior Eight.

At a meeting of the candidates of the Duluth Boat club's crews, held last evening, it was decided by the men and Coach Ten Eyck to make the National regatta, which will be held on the Charles river, Boston, on Aug. 8 and 9, the objective point of the preparation of the crews.

An eight, or possibly two eights, and two fours are being counted on at the present time. All of the races there, with the exception of the eights and the senior international four are rowed with a turn. Boston would not accept the regatta unless this provision was incorporated in the rules.

A new dam has been built at the Charles river and this makes the water there almost precisely of the same character as the water in the St. Louis bay.

The wash from the tugs and large boats in the bay here gives the water a peculiar rise and fall. The boom against the dam in the Charles river has practically the same results, so that the crews from here will enjoy at least even conditions on the Boston course.

The Northwestern International regatta comes on July 18 and 19, and will be held over the Mississippi river course at St. Paul. Naturally it is vitally important to make a good showing for this regatta, but both Coach Ten Eyck and the candidates trying for the crews are setting great store on the National.

At the present time there are but four of last year's junior eight, which was thoroughly seniorized at Winnipeg, trying for the senior boat.

Grant, Thorburn, Quimby and Beschenbossel are out each evening. Kent has given up rowing and it is not certain that Joe Lathrup will be out this season. Louie Thompson is up in the woods at the present time. It is thought that he will be back and take his place with the large list of crew candidates.

There is a great opportunity for the junior material, as the way it looks at the present time there will be several of the juniors occupying places in the senior boat.

GAMES PLANNED FOR THE COAST

New York, March 20.—In order to forward the plans of the managers of the Panama-Pacific International exposition to make athletics and sport generally features of the exposition to be held in San Francisco in 1915, James E. Sullivan, secretary-treasurer of the Amateur Athletic union, will leave for the coast Saturday, sailing on the steamer Momus for New Orleans. He will confer with the officials of the Southern association, A. A. U., in that city in relation to athletics, and expects to visit the Texas association and the clubs in Spokane and Seattle after he has finished his work at the Golden Gate.

Appointed director of athletics by the exposition officials, Mr. Sullivan plans to make the sports at the exposition equal any series of Olympic games ever held through the attendance and competition of the most skilled athletes of the world.

All these games will be decided the amateur championships of America for 1915, action in this regard having been taken at the A. A. U.'s annual meeting last November. The exposition has also been honored with the award by the international Olympic committee of the right to hold the modern pentathlon, a five-event series which will be for the championship of the world.

The modern pentathlon consists of ridding, cross-country running, swimming, fencing and shooting.

ATTELL STARTS TO "COME BACK"

New York, March 20.—Abe Attell, former featherweight champion, defeated Ollie Kirk of St. Louis in the third round of a scheduled ten-round bout here last night.

A terrific left hook to Kirk's chin sent the Westerner staggering to the ropes a nda right to the jaw, an instant later, floored him for nine seconds. Kirk regained his feet in time to suffer further punishment before Referee Sammy Kelly stepped in and stopped the bout.

Detroit Wins Again.

New Orleans, Ala., March 20.—The Detroit Americans yesterday defeated the New Orleans team of the Southern league in the fourth game of the series here by a score of 8 to 1.

Bobby Byrne Beaned.

Hot Springs, Ark., March 20.—Bobby Byrne, third baseman for the Pittsburg Nationals, was struuck on the head by a ball pitched by "Smoky" Joe Wood yesterday, knocked unconscious and last night his condition was regarded as serious. Physicians say it may be several days before they can determine whether he will play ball again. Boston won the game 7 to 2.

Willie Lewis Wins.

BLUME CHOSEN PRESIDENT OF DULUTH BASEBALL CLUB

J. A. McCuen and John Meining Also Named as Club Officers.

Large Sum Will Be Expended Upon Improvements at Park.

H. A. Blume was elected president of the Duluth Baseball association at the annual meeting at the Spalding hotel last evening, succeeding Dr. J. A. McCuen, who voluntarily withdrew from the head of the association because of lack of time to give his attention to the various details.

Dr. McCuen was prevailed upon however to accept the position of vice president. John Meining was elected to the position of secretary, O. F. Collier to that of assistant secretary, while it was decided to combine the office of treasurer with that of the president of the club.

H. A. Blume, J. A. McCuen, Edwin H. Lee, George Lucore and John Meining were elected as the board of directors of the association.

During the meeting it was definitely decided that extensive improvements will be made at the baseball park. The grandstand is to be enlarged and the left field bleachers moved back. The outfield is to be filled in and the diamond thoroughly gone over by the groundkeeper. Before the season opens it is expected that several thousands of dollars will have been expended upon the general improvement of the park.

Optimism was the keynote of the gathering. Realizing that Duluth is in a real league, one of the fastest leagues in the country to all present indications, the officers and directors of the association have made up their minds to give the fans of Duluth a taste of not only the best brand of baseball that has ever been played here, but to also surround the game with conditions looking to the comfort of its patrons.

It was the sense of the meeting that the Commercial club be called upon to subscribe toward the start of the baseball season. A proposition will be laid before the publicity committee of the club and it is expected that there will not be the least hesitation upon the part of the members of that body in responding with a liberal donation.

Baseball Books.

Baseball books are to be offered for sale within a few days and the officers of the club are of the opinion that now that this city is in a real live league and baseball promises to come into its own here, there will be little trouble in selling a large number of coupon tickets.

According to the report submitted to the directors last evening, the training trip of the team will start shortly after the first of the month. A. J. Hersey, as financial representative of the club, will accompany the team and will have direct charge of the business end of the team. The directors hope that part of the expenses of the spring training trip may be defrayed by the exhibition games O'Brien has arranged.

President Blume announced that under the ruling adopted at the Minneapolis meeting of the league, all of the teams will wear white uniforms while at home. Therefore the fans here will see their team garbed in natty white suiting with black trimmings. The Sox will brave the wrath of fans abroad in gray uniforms.

"We are in a real league at last," said President Blume, "and we are going to give the fans the best baseball they have ever had in this section of the country. I am convinced that O'Brien has the best team that he has ever signed, and with one of the best leagues in the country, from the viewpoint of population and compactness of the circuit, we want to give the fans all the advantages enjoyed by the large cities of the country. Within a few days the contract will be let for the construction of a new and more commodious ticket office, turnstiles will be placed on two of the gates of the park, there will most likely be an entrance through the grandstand, while additional seating capacity will be placed in both the stand bleachers. A number of new steel signs will be placed around the park and the fence will be painted. Fans attending the opening game here will hardly know the old park, for we intend to show the fans that we have a real live association in Duluth."

Another contemplated improvement is the construction of steps from the entrance of the grounds down to the street car line, also the erection of a platform by the side of the street cars. Every effort is going to be made to contribute to the comfort of the fans, while especial efforts are to be made to look after the comfort of the women.

SOUTH WITH THE MAJORS

Bakersfield, Cal., March 20.—The White Sox and the Portland Coast leaguers, who staged an exhibition Tuesday, came into town today to entertain local fans.

The Sox nosed out a 5 to 4 win at Visalaya after an exciting intermission. Ed. Walsh had been billed to pitch and when he failed to take the slab the county sheriff ordered him to get busy on the "no show, no pay" argument. Walsh twirled the last inning.

Rookies Please Griffith.

Charlottesville, Va., March 20.—Joe Boehling and "Tex" Gallia, two of "Fox" Griffith's rookie pitchers, are assured of places with the Nationals for a few weeks. They shut out the University of Virginia, 6 to 0, Tuesday afternoon. Walter Johnson was hammered for a 9 to 7 defeat by the scrubs, but only lobbed them over in his first appearance this season.

Chance O. K. Again.

Hamilton, Bermuda, March 20.—The field was muddy today following a rather heavy rainfall Tuesday night and the Highlanders were forced to do light work and indoor practice during the morning. If conditions permitted, it was planned to get Chance's crowd and the Jersey Skeeters of the International league together for a game this afternoon. Chance has almost recovered from his sprained ankle and expected to take part in the game.

Naps to New Orleans.

Pensacola, Fla., March 20.—The Naps' first string men leave here today for New Orleans to begin a series of exhibition games which will end when they reach Cleveland in April, ready for the opening of the season. The Naps defeated the Toledo Mudhens Tuesday by a score of 7 to 6.

Rain May Spoil Cubs' Game.

Jacksonville, Fla., March 20.—Manager Evers found a water soaked field when the Cubs, en route to the North, after breaking training camp in Tampa, stopped here today with the intention of edifying Jacksonville enthusiasts. However, the infield was declared by the local management to be a wonder at wringing itself dry under a hot sun. There was a bare possibility that the Cubs might work late in the day.

Giants Off to Waco.

Marlin, Tex., March 20.—It was a confident crew of Giants that took the train today for Waco. Before night they hoped to have another Texas league's scalp hanging at their belts, not to mention plenty of mazuma to defray all traveling expenses.

McGraw has shifted his men so continuously in practice that dopesters are busy figuring out just who will play on the regular team. Today, despite minor injuries and a few stiff muscles, the squad was in good shape.

Block Will Join Brewers.

Owensboro, Ky., March 20.—A blazing sun helped the Brewers Tuesday and Clark's squad went through nine innings of snappy baseball, defeating the Yannigans, 5 to 3. Jimmy Block wired Manager Clark today that he will report at Owensboro Friday.

Macon, Ga., March 20.—The St. Louis Browns today rushed through their early practice so as to take an afternoon off and witness the game here between the New York Giants and the local club. The Browns Tuesday blanked the Waco team, 4 to 0.

RUBE MARQUARD GETS FAT SALARY

Los Angeles, Cal., March 20.—"Rube" Marquard, one of the star pitchers of the New York Nationals last year, left yesterday for Houston, Tex., where he will join the team. He was accompanied by his wife, formerly Blossom Seeley, the actress, to whom he was married in San Francisco.

With the Marquards went Dick Kinsella, the New York Nationals scout, who has been acting as a cort of chaperon for the pitcher ever since he succeeded in having Rube sign a contract for the coming season on the day of his marriage.

It was reported on what was said to be reliable authority that the contract which Marquard signed in San Francisco provided for an annual salary of $8,500 for three years. In addition to that, Kinsella is said to have given him a bonus of $1,500 for signing, bringing "Rube's" annual compensation to $9,000.

TWO TRAINS HAVE CRASH

Logging and Snow Plow Trains on D. & N. M. Bump at York Transfer.

Conductor Ratford Is Badly Hurt and Two Engines Are Damaged.

Two Harbors, Minn., March 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—Dennis Ratford of Knife River, a conductor on the Duluth & Northern Minnesota railroad, was brought to the Two Harbors hospital yesterday with severe injuries received early yesterday morning when his train collided with another log train near York Transfer. No other members of the crew was injured having had time to jump before the collision. When the two trains collided Ratford was sitting in his caboose and was knocked against the end of the car. His collar bone is broken and he is suffering from contusion of the back. Besides it is thought that he received internal injuries.

Ran by Meeting Place.

Ratford was conductor on a snow plow north bound with orders to meet the log train at York Transfer, but owing to the fact that it was dark his train ran by the switch he was supposed to clear on and the log train hit him before he could get into clear. The front end of both the engines were badly damaged and other minor damages done.

The train which hit Ratford's train belonged to the Virginia Rainy Lake company and was hauling a train of logs from the Gooseberry to Knife River, and was in charge of Conductor Chamberlain.

FEAR HOWARD HAS DECAMPED

Alleged "Short Change" Artist Being Sought By Hibbing Police.

Hibbing, Minn., March 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—George Howard, the alleged "short change" artist, who was arrested here early in the week on the charge of swindling local people and was released on $40 cash bail, is believed by the police to have "jumped" his bail and hurried out of the state.

Wanted in Other Places.

Since he was released on bail here Chief Wring has learned that Howard is wanted at Virginia and Aurora on a similar charge. If this had been known when he was released on bail the bonds would have been made considerably larger. When Howard left here he claimed he was going to the Twin Cities to secure documentary evidence that he was what he claimed to be, bona fide solicitor for an agricultural paper and that he was innocent of a charge of grafting but it is now believed he gave this as a ruse to get outside of the jurisdiction of the court.

VIRGINIA FACES CIVIC UPHEAVAL

Revocation of Pat Sullivan's License Believed to Have Started Things.

Virginia, Minn., March 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—The city council last night voted by a large majority to revoke Pat Sullivan's saloon license because he sold liquor after hours and incidentally this action started something that may result in a civic upheaval as it is proposed to investigate other saloons.

M. H. McMahon, appearing for Sullivan, resisted the revocation of the license claiming the blame should be fastened on Al Tilford, Sullivan's bartender and intimating the affair was a frameup with Sullivan as the "goat." City Attorney Morgan resented the frameup allegation.

President Boylan in opposing the revocation of the license claimed the council should not take the police court finding but should make its own investigation. Alderman McGhee resented any imputation that any of the council had been a party to any frameup. In the final vote only President Boylan and Alderman Coffey opposed the revocation of the license. The vote being 7 to 2.

Wants Another Probe.

Mr. Boylan moved that there be an investigation in the case of Louis Cohen, another saloon keeper, to ascertain why his place should be operated under a license taken in the name of his brother who resides in Chicago. Alderman Kelley then moved that Landrigan & Darcy be investigated, they too having been some time ago convicted of a violation of the law. It is generally believed that a great civic rumpus has been started that may cause an upheaval and that one of the possibilities is removal of heads of departments including Chief of Police Ellis Walsh and Chief A. F. Thayer of the fire department. There are also rumors of the blocking of the water and light plant deal by injunction or other court procedure on the ground that the sale of the bonds does not come within the requirements of the city charter.

The council by a vote of 7 to 2, Aldermen Mattson and McGhee opposing, voted to grant $25 a month to City Clerk Bickford for office assistance.

The city engineer and the street committee have in hand the matter of making recommendations for improving the road between Virginia and Eveleth.

The mayor and Alderman Mollan and Heritage constitute a committee which will report to the council on a possible site for a new city hall and with recommendations as to what sort of building should be erected. It has been proposed to have in the next city hall an auditorium, gymnasium and swimming pool.

MORE SCARLET FEVER CASES

Chisholm Health Officer Has Secured Place for Detention Hospital.

Chisholm, Minn., March 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—Four cases of scarlet fever developed this week, the first new cases since Tuesday of last week. The disease has been no respecter of persons, attacking the old and the middle-aged as well as the young. No fatalities have occurred for almost two weeks and diagnoses by local men of the village proves that the disease is not malignant or necessarily fatal.

Stricken With Fever.

Violinist Hagan has been stricken with scarlet fever and is now in the detention hospital at Hibbing. Mrs. M. Hendry, while nursing a scarlet fever patient, caught the disease.

Health officer Dr. R. W. Schmidt has secured premises opposite the Greek church which will be used as a detention hospital and all cases will be isolated and treated there in the future.

Children will remain indoors or within their parents' premises as before, the intention of the health officer to liberate them before Easter being abandoned, owing to the fresh outbreak.

AURORA MAN IS VICTIM OF CARS

Boardinghouse-keeper Run Down Between Skibo and Allen Junction.

Aurora, Minn., March 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—Frank Hill of this place was killed along the Iron Range railroad tracks between Allen Junction and Skibo some time Monday night, the body having been found Tuesday morning by railroad men.

Hill left Aurora Monday afternoon for some lumber camps near Reno. He bought a ticket and boarded the passenger. Evidently he missed his train when he made the change at the junction and started to walk to the camps, about eight miles, as he had the ticket on his person when found.

Body Identified at Biwabik.

The body was taken to Biwabik and there was identified by the ticket and marks on the face. The ticket was the only one sold to Reno on that day. He was between 45 and 50 years of age and leaves a large family. He was a Finn. He has been a resident of Aurora for a number of years and has always run a boarding house here.

Everybody in town indorses the good work of the retiring council and all have expressed the opinion that its members should be honored. Bergeron's hall has been secured, that being the only public meeting place large enough to hold comfortably the large crowd that is expected. No invitations beyond these issued in the newspapers will be issued.

Kalm will make his fight for liberty on the plea of self defense.

To Build and Operate Iron River, Mich., Street Cars.

Bessemer, Mich., March 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—F. D. Sullivan, formerly interested in the local street railway and electric lighting system, was a recent visitor at Iron River, Mich., and when there submitted the question of a street railway system for that city and Stambaugh. The councils of both places looked favorably upon the proposition and the Iron River township board thinks well of the plan with the result that the three councils passed ordinances granting to A. D. Johnston of this city, F. D. Sullivan of Ashland, John Holland of Bessemer, and George W. Robertson, the right and authority to construct, operate and maintain a street railway. The ordinance stipulates that construction work shall begin within six months after the acceptance of the ordinance and that the road must be completed within one year from the date of starting work.

GOVERNOR'S VETO CHANGES MATTERS

North Dakota Tax Commission Now in Quandary How to Proceed.

Grand Forks, N. D., March 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—New obstacles in the way of increasing the assessed valuation of North Dakota, as proposed by the state tax commission, have been created as a result of Governor L. B. Hanna's veto of H. B. No. 258, passed by the legislature at the request of the tax experts to do away with the possibility of harmful results as affecting debt limits of cities, salaries of county officials, and levies for certain funds, by reason of the proposed increase in valuation.

The bill prohibited increasing debt limits of cities above a certain percentage during the coming two years; prohibited increases in salaries of officers based upon assessed valuation of counties more than a certain percentage, and reduced the various levies from their present point to such fractional part as would return the same revenue, plus 5 per cent this year and 10 per cent in 1913, these levies including the educational tax, glandered horse tax, bovine tubercular tax, etc.

Considered Bill Wise One.

Members of the tax commission were in Grand Forks yesterday when the veto by Governor Hanna was announced. During a conference held here with several Northwestern North Dakota county auditors, they had pointed to this bill as preventing the possibility of excessive salaries for county officers, excessive levies, and unwise expenditures by municipalities because of the increased debt limits that would be created by the greater valuation, debt limits being based on percentage.

The tax commission is undecided just what steps to take in view of the veto.

WHISKY SALESMAN FINDS SUITCASE.

East Grand Forks, Minn., March 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—Frank Vaight of Minneapolis yesterday found a suitcase in this city which had been stolen from him at Albert Lea, Minn., eleven months ago.

Vaight, who represents a wholesale liquor house, found the case in a local saloon where it had been left by a laborer last fall. The case was filled with liquor samples when stolen, but these had disappeared.

NORTH DAKOTA VETS GO TO GETTYSBURG.

Bismarck, N. D., March 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—Veterans of the Civil war, be they Confederates or Union men, will be assisted in making the trip to the Gettysburg reunion this summer by the bill, approved by Governor Hanna yesterday, under which the board of the old soldiers' home is authorized to expend $15,000 for that purpose. It is designed to use the $15,000 in paying the traveling and living expenses of the North Dakota veterans during the reunion.

LIFE SAVED BY STOMACH PUMP

Badger, Minn., Man Drinks Poison at Thief River Falls.

Thief River Falls, Minn., March 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—Jeff Moe of Badger, Minn., about 5 p. m. Tuesday, attempted to end his life by drinking one ounce of carbolic acid. Moe is about 28 years of age and has been working in the butcher shop in Badger for about eighteen months. He has been somewhat given to drink and when thrown out of work became despondent. For a few days prior to his attempt upon his life, he had frequented Goodwin's pool hall and it was there that the affair occurred. Mr. Goodwin went outside to carry in some wood and as he returned he saw Moe with a bottle in his hands and just at that time the would-be suicide said to him: "You are the last man I'll talk to on earth," with that he swallowed the poison. Dr. Davis was summoned and pumped the acid from the young man's stomach. At 2 o'clock Wednesday morning he came to and has been conscious ever since. The night before the affair he had been to see Miss Stella Peterson, with whom he has, for some time, been keeping company, and told her that he was going to kill himself.

The only reason, apparently, for his rash act was the fact that he became despondent over being out of work and was down on his luck.

Farm Land Investments.

Jamestown, N. D., March 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—North Dakota farm lands at from $60 to $100 an acre are a better investment and the returns are more certain than fruit land investments, according to Albert Monek of this city, who has returned from a Southern and Western tour during which he took occasion to make a study of the situation as affecting fruit growing.

REDUCED FREIGHT RATES ARE SOUGHT

North Dakota Federated Clubs Also Want Few Other Things.

Grand Forks, N. D., March 20.—(Special to The Herald.)—Bringing about of a concerted movement upon the part of all commercial clubs in North Dakota for reduced freight rates, for better roads, for better fire protection and for more state publicity, were considered at the opening session of the North Dakota Federation of Commercial clubs here last night. The question of freight rates was given most serious consideration. That reduced freight rates, or rates which would be more equitable than the delegates seemed to think the present rates were, would mean the greater industrial development of the state was the plea on which the combination of forces for lower rates was made.

President E. J. Lander of the Federation proposed a thorough study of the question. Hasty action was advised against by him, but he believes that good results can be obtained through investigation and basing whatever claims for changes on such facts as may be brought out by such probe.

To Increase Membership.

Plans also were considered for increasing the membership of the federation. That new clubs should take part in the work, and that there is a real field of work for the federation, was the contention of several speakers.

As to good roads it is expected that plans proposed by the good roads association at its meeting this week will be indorsed.

The resolutions committee is composed of W. E. Holbein of Lansford, C. A. Grow of Minot and W. P. Davies of Grand Forks.

On the committee to revise the by-laws are J. Dexter Pierce of Larimore, A. O. Wold of Langdon and C. R. Verry of Park River.

This afternoon Secretary Rastall of the industrial branch of the Duluth Commercial club spoke, dealing with community development. This evening he will speak at a banquet which will be tendered by the Grand Forks Commercial club to the federation delegates.

Miss Hocken on Trial.

Miss Olive Hocken, the militant suffragette who is charged with firing the pavilion of the Roehampton Golf club, was put on trial today.

Miss Hocken appeared to glory in the notoriety she has achieved. She stood in the prisoners' enclosure wearing a bright sash and smiled contentedly as the government lawyer detailed her activities in the field of arson and in the destruction of mail.

A large assortment of suffragette "weapons" was introduced as exhibits against Miss Hocken. Some of these were found in the militant suffragette "arsenal" in London. Others were from a gripsack alleged to have been dropped in her flight from the golf links. The list of exhibits included wire-cutting apparatus, bottles of acids and corrosive fluid, hammers, flints, tools for forcing windows, false identification plates for automobiles, ropes, cotton wool, fire lighters, candles, paraffin, a suit of workmen's overalls and a set of pole climbers.

"These women now have sunk to climbing telegraph poles," said the government counsel dryly as he called attention to leg irons.

At the conclusion of the opening address, the magistrate adjourned the case for a week.

to jail without bail for a further hearing March 28.

Admiral Eaton died suddenly on the morning of March 8. He was 66 years of age but according to his friends had been in good health. Two days later the body was buried at Dracut, his former home. There was no service at the grave and besides the undertakers and newspapermen, only the widow and her daughter by another marriage witnessed the interment.

Long Service in Navy.

The rear admiral had seen thirty-nine years' service in the navy. He commanded the transport Resolute at Santiago and received a medal of honor for his share in that battle. He was born at Greenville, Ala., and was twice married.

The present Mrs. Eaton was the admiral's second wife and formerly was the wife of D. A. Ainsworth, once a clerk in the United States senate. She is 40 years of age.

The investigation is said to have developed that her married life was not altogether happy. Her explanation that her husband died from an attack of indigestion did not satisfy the medical examiner and after conferring with the family physician he delayed the preparation of the body for burial until a post mortem had been made.

Mrs. Eaton has two daughters by her first marriage, Mrs. June Ainsworth Keyes of Boston and Dorothy Ainsworth, who lived with her.

ASSISTANT SECRETARY OF STATE IS PEEVED

will be the immediate appointment under a recess commission, of John Bassett Moore, as counselor of the department of state with authority to act as secretary.

In a 1,000-word letter to President Wilson the former acting secretary of state set forth that when he consented to continue for a time with the new administration he did not understand there were to be any radical changes of policy for which he would be called upon to act as spokesman. The letter continued in part:

Out of Harmony.

"It today becomes the duty of the acting secretary of state, in dispatching instructions to the representatives of this government abroad and as the channel of communication with the representatives of foreign governments at Washington, to be spokesman of the president in regard to a new Far Eastern policy which is apparently deducible from your statement issued to the press last night. Inasmuch as I find myself entirely out of harmony with this radical change of policy as I understand it, I trust that you will sympathize with the view that it was not appropriate that I should longer retain the responsibilities of the office which I have now relinquished.

"I had no reason to suppose that the officials on duty in the department of state would learn first from the newspapers of a declaration of policy which, I think, shows on its face the inadequacy of the consideration given to the facts and theories involved, and the failure clearly to apprehend the motives leading to and the purposes of the policy superseded. I had no reason to suppose that the fate of the negotiations which had so long had the studious attention of the foreign offices of six great powers would be abruptly determined with such quite unnecessary haste and in so unusual a manner.

Methods Extraordinary.

"These methods, against which I respectfully protest, are the very extraordinary circumstances which I feel vitiate my understanding with Mr. Bryan and completely relieve me of any further obligation in the premises.

"The repeated utterances of the last administration must have made it perfectly clear that the motive and purpose of the policy now abandoned were first and primarily the protection of China's integrity and sovereignty, the uplift of the Chinese people, morally, materially and governmentally, the development of China's resources and the maintenance of our traditional policy of the 'open door,' or equality of opportunity for American enterprise.

"Precisely because of the ultimate possibility of a measure of foreign control of China's finances, which may be inferred from a study of other countries which have bound themselves in a similar situation, it was deemed imperative that there should be American participation in the rehabilitation of China's finances, in order to make sure of the presence of the potent, friendly and disinterested influence of the United States. The only practicable method of such participation was by the use of reliable American bankers.

Far Eastern Policy.

"In the consideration of the Far Eastern policy, I have felt that so much should be promised and that the problem of the government's using American bankers, while still scrupulously avoiding any material monopolistic feature, might now, as before, be found one of the most difficult preoccupations.

"I have always thought that, in the work of advancing the national interests and promoting the welfare of other nations, the financial force of the United States could be marshalled in some manner to present a safely united front abroad, where it would be like the apex of a triangle, but would have at home at its base broad equality of opportunity for both for citizens desiring to invest and for bankers desiring to engage in these difficult and relatively risky ventures. It seems, however, that the conclusions reached are expressed upon other grounds."

President Wilson replied:

"My Dear Sir: Allow me to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of yesterday and to say that I accept your resignation as you suggest as of the present date."

The correspondence was given out at the White House today. Mr. Wilson's letter of resignation was dated yesterday. The president's acceptance was dated today.

The house committee on elections reported favorably the Cheadle senate bill allowing the Public Ownership party to change its name to the Socialist party.

Affect Form of Legislature.

Three constitutional amendments proposing changes in the form of the legislature were reported to the house without recommendation this morning. This has the effect of putting the bills on general orders for the consideration of the house. J. T. Johnson's amendment provides four-year terms for house members, the same as the senate, and also provides that half of each body shall be elected every two years. G. W. Brown's amendment limits the senate to fifty members and the house to 100. Frank Hopkins' bill bases legislative apportionment on votes instead of population, thus eliminating aliens and the floating population.

The house passed the Wallace senate bill authorizing first class cities to set apart restricted districts to be occupied only by homes.

The house reconsidered its defeat of the Frankson bill requiring chattel mortgages to be filed with registrars of deeds and restored it to the calendar.

Senate Grain Probe.

The senate grain investigating committee was hearing the railroad and warehouse commission and its employes on grain inspection this morning. The commission submitted elaborately detailed reports of the inspection work and methods, and answered a few charges that have been made against the grain inspection department during the investigations. The house committee will meet Saturday morning to consider the same matter.

Tomorrow being Good Friday and a legal holiday neither house will sit, and both may adjourn to Monday, though there may be committee meetings during the recess if enough members can be kept here.

The Boyle county division bill, which has been on the calendar in the senate several weeks, is expected to come up in that body in a day or two. There is no chance of its passage, and it will be defeated by a considerable margin. STILLMAN H. BINGHAM.

ICE IS SOLID IN LAKE SUPERIOR

Recent Warm Weather Has Little Effect on Wide Fields.

The weather bureau's ice report, just issued, says that ice at this end of Lake Superior extends out twenty miles, beyond which is open water. From Keweenaw point east to Whitefish bay the fields extend from the south shore out of the range of vision and are not moving at any point in the extreme east of the lake. The recent warm spell, it is claimed, had but little effect on the ice in this lake.

The ice is also solid in St. Mary's river, the fields are moving about in Michigan, but the ice is solid in the straits of Mackinaw, in Huron there is a lot of ice across the northern portion, but the ice is out of St. Clair and Detroit rivers and is now running freely out of Lake St. Clair. Lake Erie has but few fields of ice.

In conclusion the report says that in comparison with the same period last year there is less ice in all of the lakes. The details as to Lake Superior follow:

Duluth—Harbor ice averages 34 inches; the field ice in the lake extends beyond vision.

Ashland—Harbor ice averages 22 to 26 inches in thickness; no material change during the week.

Port Arthur, Ont.—Harbor ice averages 30 inches with 5-inch ice extending to Thunder cape.

Portage Canal—There is open water about one mile to west; to the northward the ice extends beyond vision.

Eagle Harbor—Harbor ice 20 inches in thickness and solid; the field ice extends beyond vision.

Houghton—Harbor ice 21 inches in thickness.

Portage Entry—There have been no material changes in the ice in Keweenaw bay; river ice ranges from 5 to 11 inches with some slush on top.

Marquette—Harbor ice 8.5 inches in thickness with a covering of slush and snow; bay and harbor ice began moving out March 17.

Munising—Harbor ice averages 20 inches in thickness; the ice field extends beyond vision.

Grand Marais, Mich.—Harbor ice 15 inches in thickness; the field in the lake extends beyond vision with many openings; the field is stationary.

Whitefish Point—The ice in bay is solid and snow covered; open water visible seven miles above Point.

Sault Ste. Marie—Harbor ice continues at 20 inches in thickness, with a heavy slush covering.

London Daily Mail: Several thousand bees and a store of honey weighing, it is estimated, at least a hundredweight, have been discovered among the rafters of Roxen Parish church, Harrow.

During the recent hot weather members of the congregation noticed honey trickling down a wall of the church, and this led to the discovery of the bees and their store. The honey was afterward removed in pailfuls and the bees were hived elsewhere.

UNSCRAMBLING THE TOWING EGG

Conference Held at Washington on Dissolution of the Trust.

Washington, March 20.—The terms of the decree which will terminate the alleged towing trust on the Great Lakes were considered at a conference here today of James A. Fowler, assistant to the attorney general, United States Attorney Denman of Cleveland, special assistant to the attorney general and representatives of the Great Lakes Towing company.

The Federal court at Cleveland recently held the towing company to be an illegal combination in violation of the Sherman law and ordered its dissolution unless a plan was presented to the court which otherwise would end its alleged monopoly of the towing business on the Great Lakes. No conclusion was reached at the first meeting and the conference will be resumed late today.

APRIL 15 IS LATEST GUESS

Not Believed That Navigation Will Open Before Then.

Thick Ice Blocks Soo—Ice in Harbor Still Solid.

Capt. Root at the Soo depot says that if the weather man does not let up soon there will be more ice than for many years in St. Mary's river, and it is generally believed that if this is not obviated by the action of King Sol navigation can not possibly open until April 15 at least. It has often been the case, it is recalled, that the Head of the Lakes has been ready for business long before the Soo was, and that identical conditions seem to be likely this spring.

According to ice reports, the western end of the lake is but little burdened with ice and that a few warm days will put it out of commission. The further east one goes on Lake Superior the more ice is found, and from Keweenaw Point, past Whitefish and clear down to the Soo the ice is thick and unwavering in its fealty to land.

Unless something happens to break this up, the opening of navigation is bound to be delayed, vesselmen agree, and at present nothing seems to be stepping in to help out Providence. Therefore, Capt. Root and others believe that April 15 will mark the opening of navigation. The Head of the Lakes will soon be ready for the ice is in a fair way to be dissolved with a good warm sun, owing to the heavy snow on it, but the ice is still firm.

It has often happened before that the American Head of the Lakes has opened up before the Canadian Head of the Lakes and it is believed that present conditions are favorable to a repetition of that occurrence. Fort William and Port Arthur are badly frozen in, if reports are correct, while the conditions here are different.

It is believed that long before the Soo opens the harbor conditions will be such here that boats will be moving about, taking on cargoes and generally maneuvering. After that occurs they will all be waiting for the Soo to open.

Will Not Dismiss Action.
Judge Dancer has refused to dismiss the divorce action which Minnie Gulbrandson of this city, has filed against her husband, Daniel A. Gulbrandson, a Freeborn county farmer, which was sought on the grounds of lack of jurisdiction. The court holds that the fact that the property involved in the action and the residence of the defendant are in another county is not sufficient excuse to remove the case to another court. Mrs. Gulbrandson is suing for a divorce on the grounds of cruelty. She also asks for a share in his property which she claims is worth about $30,000.

Proceedings Dismissed.
Habeas corpus proceedings which Ernest H. Shaleen brought in district court against Rose T. W. Shaleen, his wife, and David A. Cone and wife, in an attempt to secure the custody of his 6-year-old daughter, were dismissed today by Judge Dancer, pursuant to a stipulation entered into between the parties. The custody of the child will be made an issue in a divorce action which is now pending in which Mrs. Shaleen is plaintiff and he is defendant.

INVESTIGATING RANGE RESORTS

Humane Officer Finds Girls Under 18 Years of Age.

Reports which have reached the office of the humane society that immoral resorts in a number of range towns are being populated by girls under the age of 18, will be given a thorough investigation, according to R. D. McKercher, agent for the society.

Mr. McKercher this week, accompanied by his assistant at Hibbing, C. E. Everett, a probation officer, made an inspection of a number of the houses of ill fame, looking for girls under age. It is understood that in the vicinity of Buhl, Virginia and Eveleth young girls have been found in the immoral traffic.

As a result of the investigation, which has not yet been completed, it is thought that prosecutions will be started under the white slave law.

Walter Johnson Expects to Have More Speed This Season.

Charlottesville, Va., March 20.—Walter Johnson expects this to be the banner year of his profesional career. Great as have been the achievements of the Nationals' speed marvel, he believes that when the coming season's records are completed that they will outshine all his former efforts. Johnson bases his prediction on the fact that he finds himself in better health this spring then ever before. He is stronger and bigger than he ever was, and could get himself in perfect condition within the next ten days if it were necessary. Assured that he will have a good team behind him, Walter expects to be returned a loser but few times during the coming campaign. He believes that he is better fitted to go through a hard season of work than ever before, and this, together with the fact that his team must be figured to have a better chance in the flag race than it has ever had, he figures a combination which will force him to outdo all his past performances.

"Not once since I have been with Washington have I gone through a season without being handicapped by some sort of illness, and I usually did not feel right when I started in the spring," said Johnson this morning. "This spring it is all quite different. I never felt better in my life, and feel as strong as an ox.

"The improvement dates back to the time that I had my tonsils removed, and I believe that everything favors me to have the best season I have ever had in the American league."

"BOMB" SNEAKS FOR DEAR OLD 'OME

British Heavyweight Champion Doesn't Care for American Fighting Ways.

New York, March 20. — Bombardier Wells, the English heavyweight champion, has changed his mind about remaining in this country and meeting all the important big fellows in limited round bouts at the different clubs, and is now on his way back to England.

Wells, accompanied by his wife, his brother, Sydney, and his manager, Jem Maloney, sailed yesterday. Feeling all broken up over his quick defeat in two rounds by Gunboat Smith of California, Wells sent for his manager and asked that passage be engaged for the party at once.

Frank Klaus, who is now regarded as the legitimate middleweight champion of Europe, despite the fact that he is an American, is going to engage in another fight with George Carpentier, the ex-middleweight champion of France. Both signed articles of agreement a few days ago in Paris to battle for twenty rounds at the Cirque de Paris on April 19.

This will be the second time they have fought, Klaus having beaten the Frenchman by being awarded the decision on a foul in the nineteenth round at Dieppe, France, on June 24, 1912.

Twenty-three on Roster.

Frank Lohr of Chicago, director in charge of the team for M. Stanchfield of the local club, reached the city yesterday and announced the signing of the following men, twenty-three now being included in the Grand Forks collection of prospectives:

Pitchers—Jarnigan, Myers, Wilson, Morse, Bond, Henery, Stanley, Welks, Gardner and Bond.

Infielders—Bell, Foster, De Haven, Burke, Lyman and Deitrich.

Catchers—Edmunds, Brogan and Dodd.

Outfielders—Kuehn, Altman and Grogan.

Grand Forks fans are well pleased with the arrangement under which Winona has been made a member of the league.

EUROPE STILL BULLS WHEAT

Flaxseed Trade Is Dull But Values Work a Little Higher.

Duluth Board of Trade, March 20.—Continued strong European cables encouraged the bulls on the North American wheat markets today and there was a general gain. Duluth May seed closed at an advance of ⅝c to ¾c. Cash wheat closed 1½c to 2c under May. Durum closed ¾c up and oats, rye and barley unchanged. Duluth May flaxseed today closed ⅞c higher and July ½c up.

Higher European cables and a feeling that wheat on the North American exchanges ought to have some reaction from the bearish feeling that has been predominant so long had some effect in bulling that staple on the North American markets this morning, but the changes were very slight. The demand was still poor, both for domestic and foreign consumption. The American primary receipts, as usual, were away over those of a year ago. The reports of cold weather in the winter wheat region of the Southwest were something of a bullish factor.

Duluth May wheat, which closed yesterday at 85⅞c bid, opened at the same figure today, and at noon was quoted at 86c. Minneapolis wheat at noon was also a little higher. Chicago was a shade off and Winnipeg a shade higher.

Liverpool wheat today closed 1½d higher. That market was bulled by firmer Plata offers and an improved inquiry for Manitobas, but the rise was checked by the prospect of large world shipments this week and the hurrying of certain holders to sell today in view of the period of holidays just ahead.

Flax Trade Dull.

Very little trading took place this morning in the flaxseed market of Duluth. Offers and demand were both very small. Fluctuations amounted to little. At noon today May and July seed were both ¼c higher. Winnipeg at noon also showed a rise of ¼c, being at $1.11⅝ bid, or 1⅝c under Duluth May. Buenos Ayres May last night closed ½c higher at $1.22. London Calcutta March today closed unchanged at $1.56⅝.

Minneapolis cash seed at noon today was 3½c under Duluth May. This was a very low price and showed an extremely dull demand. The closing of the linseed oil mills of the Spencer-Kellogg company and the Midland Linseed company of that city, which occurred yesterday on account of a strike, had a very bearish effect on the Minneapolis cash price.

Dornbusch of London says:

"In spite of further heavy Argentine shipments, making a total within three weeks of 161,000 tons, the market has continued comparatively steady and on balance closes only partially 3d to 9d lower than at last writing. Indian shippers of late have been less pressing to sell, probably due to crop prospects being less satisfactory than expected, February rains and frosts with rust having impaired the outlook which can now be described as only fair, while from the second official memorandum returns thus far to hand by cable, the acreage is smaller than last year.

"In view of last season's official crop estimate being so much at variance with the actual exports and the computations by commercial authorities there, it would not be fair to compare present prospects with 1912, and from data to hand a production of 400,000 to 450,000 tons for the current season is considered a liberal estimate.

"Although Argentine offers have been put forward more freely by first hands, buyers have failed to secure any material advantage from last week's rates. Canada, however, has continued and is still a willing seller of seed for shipment after re-opening of navigation and latterly has extended its offers as far distant as July-August. In this connection it may be mentioned that

H. D. Gee of Minneapolis, of the grain firm of Randall, Gee & Mitchell, who was a visitor on the Duluth Board of Trade today, stated that the elevators of Minneapolis were well filled. "Room in the Minneapolis elevators is at a premium," said Mr. Gee. "The city has a great many old fashioned storage houses, which are used only when the modern ones cannot take care of the business. Yet even the old shacks are used to their capacity, in spite of the high-priced insurance that has to be carried on grain that is stored in such places. This condition is not due to heavy arrivals of grain in the city, for the arrivals are light. The trouble is that so very little is going to the mills for flour and cut. The orders for both flour and wheat are very slack. Millers have been obliged from time to time to shut down their plants, because more flour was being produced than was needed to meet the demand. Country mills have been very slow of late in ordering wheat supplies from Minneapolis. There are plenty of cars on hand for all kinds of shipments. The railroad accommodations are very good. To me the whole situation looks bearish in the extreme."

R. R. McAulay, connected with the Atwood-Stone company, is back from a trip over the Soo line, from Thief River Falls to Kenmare, from Kenmare to Fordville and from Fordville to Drake. He says the elevators along those lines are well filled. "I think this condition is due rather to want of equipment on the part of the Soo," he said today, "than to any unwonted activity on the part of the farmers. The Soo seems to have been extending its lines without increasing its equipment to keep up with those extensions and hence the service has suffered. On the other railroad lines of the Northwest, particularly the Northern lines and the St. Paul, the elevators of the country are as far as I have been able to learn, pretty well cleaned up and have ample room to receive more grain from the farmers."

The Minneapolis cash wheat market was reported firm with a good demand for the best milling wheat. No. 1 northern blue stem was at May price to ⅛c under. Soft Minnesota wheat was at 1c discount. Velvet chaff wheat was 1c to 1¼c under May. Flour sales were light. There was no change in millfeed, which was still very dull.

It is hoped by means of this drastic reduction of production to bring the price of the manufactured material on a more satisfactory parity with the raw product."

CHICAGO MARKET.

Predictions of Cold Weather Sends Wheat Up After Easy Opening.

Chicago, March 20. — Much cold weather in the West and Southwest, with predictions of still lower temperatures sent wheat up today, after an easy opening. Buying on the part of leading houses was strongly in evidence. May opened unchanged to ¼c lower at 89⅜c to 89⅝c and quickly advanced to 89¾@89¾c. The trade seemingly ignored prospects for liberal world's shipments.

The market went a little higher on covering by shorts in anticipation of tomorrow's holiday. The close was strong with May ⅝c net higher at 90¼c.

Rough weather, interfering with field operations, sent corn up. May started unchanged to ⅛c lower at 52¾@52⅞c and mounted to 53⅛c.

On profit-taking sales the market declined. The close was firm at 53⅛c, a net gain of ¼c.

Oats bulged with other grains. May began a shade lower to a shade higher at 33¼@33⅜c to 33⅜c, and rose to 33½@33⅝c.

Lower prices of hogs sent the provision list off at the opening, but grain strength brought about a rally. First prices were 12½@15c lower to 2½c advance. The earliest quotations on May were: Pork, $20.37½ to $20.42½; lard, $10.62½; ribs, $10.72½.

Cotton Market.

New York, March 20.—Cotton opened steady at an advance of 1 to 3 points but the market eased off after the call and prices soon showed net losses of from 3 to 4 points. General business was quiet. The large amount of linters included in the census figures 605,000 bales, which broke all previous records, attracted considerable attention, as suggesting a smaller proportion of spinnable cotton in the crop.

Spot closed steady; middling uplands, 12.60; middling gulf, 12.85; sales, 3,000 bales.

Futures closed steady. Closing bids: March, 12.23; April, 12.02; May, 11.07; June, 11.80; July, 11.79; August, 11.69; September, 11.39; October, 11.35; December, 11.36; January, 11.33.

BUSINESS IS PERFUNCTORY

Traders in Stocks Preparing for the Easter Holidays.

Prices Move Swiftly in the Last Five Minutes of Session.

New York, March 20.—A holiday atmosphere pervaded the principal markets here and abroad, where preparations were being made for suspension of business until after Easter.

Business throughout the morning here was perfunctory with only fractional variations among the leading stocks.

Much of the trading was of an evening up character on the part of speculators who did not wish to have open contracts over the three-day holiday. The demand from the shorts imparted firmness to the important stocks, which was impaired at times by resumption of liquidation in obscure issues.

Prospects of a poor bank statement were held out by the loss of the banks to the sub-treasury of $11,700,000 this week. Call money showed firmness, and there was a stiffening of other forms of accommodation.

Bonds were easier.

Further weakness developed among specialties at the opening of the stock market today. Rumely fell 2½ to 52½ and Snuff dropped 2 points. Changes among the leading speculative stocks were small and irregular.

When the stock market evinced an improving tendency during which Union Pacific, Reading and Amalgamated sold ⅛ point beyond yesterday's close, liquidation of inactive stocks became urgent and the advances stopped. Rumely slumped 7½ to 47½.

While general movements were unimportant, a few issues vibrated sufficiently to attract attention. New Haven displayed unwonted strength, rising nearly 3 points to 118¾. Chesapeake & Ohio, on the other hand, was fed out steadily and yielded 1¼ to 70¾.

Demand was insufficient to absorb light professional selling of the afternoon. Reading, Union Pacific and Amalgamated sold a point under their best prices, and other well known shares also were below yesterday's final figures. Railroad Steel Spring was marked up 2¼ on the resumption of dividends.

The market closed steady. Short selling weakened the list substantially, losses reaching a point in a half dozen favorites. In the last five minutes the market reversed its course abruptly and prices mounted swiftly to yesterday's close.

NORTHERN MINNESOTA MEN SATISFIED WITH THE REAPPORTIONMENT

Figures Which Show Gains Made By the Northern Districts.

As Good a Law as Possible to Produce at This Session.

Charges Against State Auditor Iverson By Former Deputy.

(By a Staff Correspondent.)

St. Paul, Minn., March 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—Those who have been fighting for reapportionment since the beginning this session—and long before that, indeed—feel that some of the criticisms of the reapportionment bill that have been made are somewhat unjust.

While it is true that Southern Minnesota, under this bill, retains slightly more than it would be entitled to under a population basis, it must not be overlooked that the change which the law just signed by the governor brings about is little short of revolutionary.

The statement has been made that the increase of four senators and ten house members represents the over-representation given to Southern Minnesota. This is not true.

The house bill increased the senate membership by two, and the house membership by five. This increase was absorbed in the general distribution. The senate added two more senators, both of which went to Southern Minnesota, and five more house members;

IVERSON WILL MAKE NO REPLY

At Service of Committee If It Desires to Investigate.

St. Paul, Minn., March 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—State Auditor Iverson said today that he will make no detailed reply to the charges made against him yesterday by his former deputy, A. W. Thompson.

Mr. Iverson pointed out that Mr. Thompson's assertion that a deal was made with Odin Halden to withdraw as a candidate for auditor at the 1906 convention is without foundation, as Mr. Halden was in the race until the votes were counted.

"If the committee desires to investigate any phase of the matter I am at its service," concluded Mr. Iverson.

LAST LEGAL HANGING IN NEBRASKA STATE

Death Warrant Read to Albert Prince Who Killed Deputy.

Lincoln, Neb., March 21.—The death warrant was read this morning to Albert Prince, who was scheduled to hang later in the day. His execution was to be the last legal hanging in Nebraska.

Prince's crime was the killing of Deputy Warden Davis, against whom he entertained a grudge. It was on Sunday morning of Feb. 11, 1912, just at the conclusion of religious services in the penitentiary chapel as the men were marching to their cells that Prince, a light-colored negro, stepped from the line as he neared the deputy, raised his hand as if to make a request and then several times stabbed Davis in the abdomen. The deputy died a few hours later.

SEEK FARM SITE.

Northern Pacific Wants Place for Demonstration Work Near Aitkin.

Aitkin, Minn., March 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—Two experts in the employ of the Northern Pacific Railway company arrived in Aitkin Monday to select a farm for demonstration work by the company, to aid in the growth and development of agriculture in the territory served by its line. They decided to wait until the snow disappears when they will return, lease a farm, use the most up-to-date methods for intensive farming, furnish fertilizer, pay rental but the farmer furnish the work and get all the crop. The plan is expected to stimulate all farmers.

TWIN CITY GREEKS TO HOLD SERVICES.

St. Paul, Minn., March 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—One week from Sunday the Greeks of Minneapolis and St. Paul will hold services in the Greek church in Minneapolis to commemorate the death and funeral of King George. The ceremonies will be the most impressive ever attempted by Greeks in the Northwest. It will be the second occasion on which the Greeks of the two cities have participated in a memorial service, the other instance being on the death of D. Marcosis, president of the Greek colony in the Twin Cities, who died June 11, 1911. The services will be held in St. Mary's Greek Orthodox church, Lake street and Tenth avenue south, Minneapolis.

Railroad Improvements

St. Paul, Minn., March 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—To provide facilities for moving the 1913 crop, which it is predicted will eclipse the bumper yield of 1912, the Great Northern, Northern Pacific, Omaha and St. Paul roads will expend approximately $65,000,000 for the construction and maintenance of increased trackage, terminal stations, block signals and rolling stock of all classes.

WANTS TENANTS UNDER STRICT REGULATIONS

SENATOR W. S. DWINNELL
Of Minneapolis, Who Has Introduced a Bill to Punish Tenants Who Allow Premises to Be Damaged.

TELLS STORY OF ATTACK

Letter Is Received From William Leslie Taylor in Venezuela.

Indians Shot at Him With Their Bows and Arrows.

P. W. Donovan of Brainerd, superintendent of the Longyear Exploration company and uncle of William Leslie Taylor, has received a letter referring to the experiences of Taylor and Guy Bjorge of Duluth in the jungles of the interior of Venezuela while on a prospecting tour for a New York corporation.

Under date of El Guyabo, Feb. 26, Mr. Taylor says: "That eventful Monday morning the guide, one man, Bjorge and I left camp, as usual, at 7:30 and started on a trail west on a two-day trip to the river Terra. The men had been working on a trail and had it cut about four kilos from the camp. When they got to the end of it they left our packs, containing blankets, grub, etc., and began cutting ahead. Guy and I worked along behind them looking for outcrops. I got to the packs first, as Guy was feeling sort of under the weather. I built a fire and started down a dry canyon looking for water. I had gone about 200 yards when I saw ahead of me a large heap of monkeys on the ground, some dead, and what first attracted my attention was one not quite dead, waving an arm in the air. Naturally I began to take notice, for monkeys do not die without some good cause, and about this time I saw ahead of me five Indians at a water hole in the canyon. They were about sixty feet away and saw me before I had a chance to hide, and immediately began shooting at me; but they had only bows and arrows so I had a bit of advantage and made good use of my heels. However, they soon got closer than was comfortable and when an arrow lifted my hat, I began using my Colt. I shot the nearest one—about fifteen feet away, and the others stopped long enough—don't know whether I had hit them or not—to enable me to get to the packs where I had left the Winchester. I began yelling for Guy and for Adolph and Manuel, who were cutting the trail ahead, unarmed, as I was afraid the rest of the band might get them. When the first Indians saw our fire and heard the yelling, they evidently thought there were a number of men in the vicinity and being much afraid of guns, especially repeaters, they stopped. Needless to say we didn't waste any time getting to camp, where we grabbed our maps, notes, etc., and beat it for town. We had to sleep (?) in the woods one night and arrived at El Guyabo Feb. 25 at 10:30, safe and sound. I am going to Encoutrados to send cablegrams today, but no more Indian country for either of us. We are both well and thankful that we escaped so well. Tomorrow an armed party will go in to get the rest of our stuff, if the Indians have not already gotten it."

EXHIBITS FOR GERMANY MUST BE READY SOON.

St. Paul, Min., March 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—Hans E. Grunow, German consul today announced that exhibits to be sent to Leipsig, Germany, for the international exhibition of the book industry and graphic arts must be prepared soon if they are to be entered for the exhibition, which will be held from May 1 to Oct. 1, 1914. The exhibition will be one of the largest in the history of the book industry.

The tentative plan of the exhibition provides for sixteen groups, with numerous sub-divisions. The groups include the free graphic arts, photography, paper manufacture, book binding and printing.

Swindled Ashland Benefactors.

Ashland, Wis., March 21—Fred Allen, who received medical treatment in a local hospital for two weeks, tendered a check for $40 to pay his bill of $22. The check was cashed and the balance, $18, given him. When the check was deposited at a bank it was found to be worthless.

BITTER IN HIS CRITICISM OF AMBASSADOR

Mexican Publisher Reaches Frisco After Close Call From Enemies.

Says Wilson Declined to Intercede to Save Madero From Death.

Nearly Betrayed Newspaper Man Into Hands of Huerta's Men.

San Francisco, Cal., March 21.—Col. Manuel Blanche Alcalde, publisher of the New Era, a Mexico City newspaper, who arrived here yesterday with the assertion that he "is in a position to prove" that Madero was shot to death, and that Vice President Saurez was strangled in the national palace on the night of Feb. 23, and their bodies taken to the prison in an automobile, makes some severe comment on Ambassador Wilson.

Knew There Was No Hope.

Col. Alcalde was positive in his assertion that Madame Madero had told him there was no hope for her husband, basing this fear on an interview she had with American Ambassador Wilson on the afternoon of Feb. 22. "Madame Madero and Madame Suarez went to the ambassador to implore aid for their husbands," he said. "I saw them when they left the embassy and they told him there was no hope. They said Ambassador Wilson had expressed to them his belief that the president and vice president would be executed, as the Huertistas regarded their deaths as necessary—for the good of the country."

Bitter in his criticism of Ambassador Wilson, Col. Alcalde declared that the American diplomat had declined to intercede to save him from death.

Protected Americans.

"I had protected fifteen American families in my school, the Internato Naelonal," said he, "where I commanded 300 soldiers, feeding the Americans and housing them during the fighting from Feb. 9 to 18. After the Huerta coup, fearing arrest and execution, I went to the ambassador and appealed for his aid, in return for my protection of his people. He told me at first he could do nothing. Finally, he asked

AIM BAD.

Bottle Intended for Enemy Hits and Nearly Kills Waiter.

New York, March 21.—A fight among a party of men and women diners, all in evening clothes, in the Hotel Rector on Broadway, may cost the life of Eugene Bozonizzi, a waiter.

The dining room, well filled with late supper parties, was the scene of intense excitement when two men were seen to engage in a fist fight, while their women companions tried to separate them. One of the men, however, received several blows in the face and was about to bolt for the door when he seized a heavy cut glass water bottle and with a long swing let it go at the man who had struck him. The bottle went wild and struck Bozonizzi, whose tray of dishes was upset as he dropped to the floor unconscious. At the hospital it was said his skull was broken and that he would probably die. The party in the fight had escaped without their identity becoming known.

INVITED BY POINCARE TO FORM A NEW CABINET

JEAN BARTHOU,
Minister of Justice in Briand Cabinet May Be Premier.

SAYS ELLIOTT WILL SUCCEED MELLEN

Rumored That Head of New Haven Road Will Soon Retire.

New York, March 21.—Voluntary retirement of Charles S. Mellen as president and chairman of the board of directors of the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad will take place immediately after some definite action results from the indictment against him in which he is charged with violating the Sherman anti-trust law, was a report current in banking circles today, which was given further strength by rumors that the services of Howard Elliott, now president of the Northern Pacific railroad, had been engaged by the New York, New Haven & Hartford people, and that Elliott is to succeed Mellen.

St. Paul, Minn., March 21.—Howard Elliott said that he has not been offered the presidency of the New Haven road.

"I was in New York a week ago and at that time no one talked to me about Mr. Mellen's retirement nor had I heard that he will retire," said Mr. Elliott. "I was not then offered nor have I since been offered the presidency, nor have I been approached in the matter."

Crazed By Nephew's Death.

Grafton, N. D., March 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—Brooding over the death of his favorite nephew caused J. E. Johnson of Vesta, this county, to become insane. He is 42 years old, and grieved constantly over the young man's death.

Unsatisfactory Reply to Note Concerning Scutari the Reason.

Bombardment Said to Be Directed Toward City Instead of Fortress.

Will Later Enforce Decision That Scutari Shall Remain as It Is.

Vienna, Austria, March 21.—The Austria-Hungary government is preparing an ultimatum to Montenegro, according to an unofficial statement today. The ultimatum was decided upon, it is said, owing to the unsatisfactory nature of the reply to the Austrian remonstrances regarding Scutari.

To Stop Bombardment.

London, March 2.—Austria, possibly with the assistance of Italy, is contemplating action to stop the bombardment of Scutari, which, it is now alleged, is being directed against the town instead of the fortress, and finally enforcing the powers' decision that Albania shall be an autonomous state and that Scutari shall remain part of it.

Of course, Montenegro and Servia first will be given the opportunity of withdrawing from the task of subduing the town, which, even after its capture, if that occurs, must, according to the powers, be given up to the allies.

Part of the Austrian fleet already has left for the Montenegrin and Albanian coasts, and while it is officially announced that the object of the warships is to carry out maneuvers, it is apparent that their presence is designed to impress Montenegro and Servia with the determination of Austria to prevent the further cannonading of the civilian section of Scutari and to obtain satisfaction for the alleged forcible conversion of Catholics and interference with the Austrian steamer Skodra.

According to dispatches received by the Vienna papers, 400 Albanian Catholics at Djakova, weeping and wailing, were forced to join the orthodox church, the soldiers ordering them to choose between orthodoxy and death. At six other villages the residents similarly were converted.

BUILDS COFFIN, LINING IT WITH ASBESTOS.

Perth Amboy, N. J., March 21.—Joseph Lakowski is preparing his own coffin. Joe, who is 51, is hearty—far, indeed, from being a dead one, but he says he wants to know that he is resting as comfortably in the hereafter as he has rested in the past. A year ago Joe started his task, and the building of the coffin has been his hobby.

The oblong box will be completed as soon as the gold handles arrive from Chicago. It is made of quartered oak imported from Poland, and rests on four metal lion heads. The wood is highly varnished and the sides are embellished. The coffin is 6 feet 8 inches in length, and Joe declares he has lain in it many times and that it is most comfortable.

Lakowski weighs 275 pounds and is a six-footer. The top of the coffin is all glass. The inside is heavily padded with asbestos, but Joe refutes the reason for this advanced by facetious folk.

SNOW AND WIND STORM OF UNUSUAL INTENSITY SWEEPS MIDDLE WEST

Wires Prostrated, Cutting Off Many Cities From Outside World.

Houses Blown Down and Trees Uprooted in Many Localities.

Regular Blizzard in Wisconsin Interfering Greatly With Traffic.

Chicago, March 21.—The first day of spring opened today with a snow and wind storm which extended over Illinois, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Missouri, Indiana, Michigan, Ohio, Northern Arkansas and Western Tennessee.

Telegraph and telephone wires were prostrated in many directions and railroad traffic was greatly delayed.

In Northern Arkansas a windstorm caused much damage in Hoxie, Ark., several buildings being unroofed.

Only Two Wires.

Only two telegraph wires connected Chicago with the outside world for several hours today. The only practical relief from this situation was by way of an underground telephone cable to Milwaukee.

Sleet, wet snow and occasional dashes of rain, driven by a forty mile wind from the west, struck the city and environs before daylight and within four hours had prostrated telegraph lines in all directions. All transportation lines were crippled.

One young woman was blown under the feet of a team of horses and severely hurt.

The first effects of the storm were felt south and east of Chicago. Wires routed around the south end of Lake Michigan went down within an hour of the time the storm struck. Then the territory west of the city was cut off and about two hours later the last of the above-ground wires along the north shore succumbed to the combined forces of ice and wind.

CLAIM STATISTICS ARE INCORRECT

Government Attorneys Object to Testimony of Harvester Company Agent.

Omaha, Neb., March 21.—W. J. Pliant, general agent of the International Harvester company at Omaha, was cross-examined today at the opening of the hearing in the government's anti-trust suit. The government's attorney tried to show that statistics submitted by the witness were incorrect.

In responses to a protest by the government, Attorney McHugh for the company, promised to arrange documents concerning the number of dealers handling the company's goods so as to facilitate checking them up.

OFFERED GERMAN POST.

Former Dean of Princeton May Be Ambassador to Berlin.

New York, March 21.—Prof. Henry Burchard Fine, former dean of Princeton university, has been offered and is expected to accept the post of ambassador to Germany, to succeed John G. A. Leishman of Pennsylvania, according to the World today. This information was obtained "from reliable sources," it is declared.

Prof. Fine is now in Europe. He was graduated from Princeton and throughout President Wilson's connection with the university was his closest friend. While the president was governor of New Jersey, Prof. Fine was a frequent caller at the "Little White House" at Seagirt.

RAILROADS WANT MEN WHO USE THEIR HEADS.

St. Paul, Minn., March 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—"Efficient men, who use their heads—these are the men who will be the history-makers of the Northern Pacific railroad," is the slogan adopted by the railroad in circulars sent out to all employes today, in connection with the "safety first" movement, which at present is one of the leading projects in the field of railway operation.

The circular by the bureau of efficiency is the first step taken along the lines recently inaugurated by the Omaha road. The Omaha road two weeks ago in connection with the movement, issued a circular adopting "100 per cent efficiency" as a motto.

DOCKERY WEARS REAL OLD-FASHIONED BOOTS.

Washington, March 21.—The new third assistant postmaster general, Alexander Monroe Dockery of Missouri, wears boots, real old fashioned boots, the kind that reach to the knees. He wears them winter and summer and he wears his trousers on the outside.

Mr. Dockery has two hobbies—high boots and holding office. It is said that he has never been without an office since he became of voting age. If he can get a remunerative position he takes it, but he often works for the public with no hope of reward. After serving as governor of Missouri and in congress he held a job as road overseer in Missouri.

"DEACON" WHITE SAID TO HAVE DIED PENNILESS.

New York, March 21.—Stephen Van Culen White, known as Deacon White, who won and lost several fortunes in stock market speculation, died penniless, relatives said yesterday. They declared that no application for the appointment of an administrator would be made for the reason that there is nothing to administer.

GETS MONEY AND DEPARTS

Man With Inheritance and Peculiar Marriage Sails for Europe.

Pays Scant Attention to Woman Claiming to Be His Sister.

New York, March 21.—John Spencer Turner, whose inheritance and peculiar marriage have brought him much newspaper notoriety, was in his stateroom on the outgoing steamship Kaiser Wilhelm II., when there came a peremptory rap on the door. He opened it to face an excited woman who claimed him as her long lost brother.

She began telling Turner that her mother had been married to his father forty-three years ago. Turner interrupted to say "It is not true," and banging the door, locked himself in his room.

The all-ashore gong had begun to sound, and as the woman showed no disposition to leave, stewards escorted her to the gangplank. To reporters she kept insisting that Turner was her brother. She gave her name as Mrs. Marie Stair and her home as No. 702 Grand street, Hoboken.

Complies With Will.

It was just before his departure by the Bremen liner that Surrogate Ketcham, sitting in Brooklyn, handed down a decision holding that Turner had complied with his father's will and was entitled to the $250,000 devised to him. Under the will the son was to receive only the income from the inheritance if he remained single, but was to receive the principal if he married. He remained single twelve years. Then he went to London, where he married Mrs. Helen Doty Compton, a 75-year-old widow, who died within a short time after the ceremony. Turner was then 42 years old.

In the papers filed with the Surrogate was an ante-nuptial agreement whereby Mrs. Compton waived all claims to dower right if Turner should die before she did.

STATE WANTS THE INHERITANCE TAX

Will Attempt to Collect on Estate of Edna K. Gilson.

St. Paul, Minn., March 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—Minnesota and New Hampshire are contending for the inheritance on the estate of Edna K. Gilson, who died near Charlestown, N. H., September, 14, 1912.

Miss Gilson left bonds, mortgages and stock in Minnesota property and corporations amounting to $390,969, real estate in this state appraised at $10,000 and $4,000 in North Dakota farm mortgages. They were in a safety deposit vault at the time of her death and have been appraised by the Hennepin county probate court.

According to Assistant Attorney General Stevenson, Miss Gilson made a will in Minneapolis in which she said she was a resident of New Hampshire. She lived in Minnesota, however, part of each year and it probably will be put up to the courts to determine her legal residence at time of her death. Mr. Stevenson is of the opinion the whole tax can be collected by Minnesota.

BLOWN TWENTY FEET.

Minneapolis, Minn., March 21.—Isaac Hanson was picked up by the wind while trying to cross a downtown street yesterday, and hurled twenty feet. He was thrown against a building and badly bruised. He was taken to the hospital.

BRIEF INTERVIEWS WITH ZENITH CITY VISITORS

Extreme Styles.

ADVANCE styles in men's clothes are to be very extreme," declares C. F. De Foster at the Spalding. "In the East the men, at least some of them, are wearing watches on their sleeves and are dressing to fit the part. The shoulders of the coats are not padded, and the coat is cut in a sort of effeminate effect. Perhaps this is a reaction from the extreme masculine style of dressing that some of the women of the East are affecting at the present. Cartoons have pictured the man of the house clothed in attire bordering on the effeminate and the woman in clothes to the other extreme. This idea is being more or less carried out."

Are Still Logging.

IVER LUND of Hibbing, who is registered at the Holland today, says the logging is the best it has been for years in the northern part of the state, and that with the holdout of the present weather for another week it is probable that some of the lumber camps will have established a new record for the amount of lumber taken out, despite the fact that labor has been very scarce during all of the present season.

COOKING CLAY PIGEONS.

Woman's Journal: Mrs. Mason, who had been married but two months, came hurrying into Mrs. Sutton's one morning.

"I've come to ask you to tell me something," she said, eagerly. "You see, I don't know how to cook everything yet."

"I will be very glad to help you," replied the older woman. "What is it you want to know?"

"Well, you see, my husband has gone out, and he told me he was going to shoot clay pigeons this afternoon, and I know he will bring them home and I don't know a thing about cooking a clay pigeon."

A MESSAGE TO PARENTS

W. C. T. U. Urges Stronger Home Influences for Children of City.

Points Out Snares and Pitfalls Waiting for Younger Generation.

An appeal to parents to be more watchful of their children and to guard them from the pitfalls into which young boys and girls of the city sometimes stumble, has been made by the Women's Christian Temperance union of Duluth.

The organization incorporated its ideas into an article which was prepared and presented to the school board with the request that permission be allowed to distribute copies among all school children of the city, each pupil to take the message to parents to their folks at home.

The school board although indorsing the sentiments, did not wish to establish such a precedent and was obliged to decline. A copy of the "appeal to parents" is as follows:

"We wish to call the attention of parents to the fact that many boys and girls are wandering on the streets afternoons and evenings, week days and Sundays; some are thronging the theaters, the rinks, the dance halls and chop suey houses.

"How does your boy get the money to go to these places? What does he see in them?

"In the theater, he sees usually some coarse, profane, sometimes indecent play; frequently his sense of humor is appealed to by songs, mostly passable, but containing some suggestive hint which works on his young mind like poison.

"Why are boys and girls allowed to wander the streets and visit these places? Men, not always young men, wait outside for girls as they come out, and wait to lead them astray with suppers, gifts, etc.

"Do you know there is a curfew law against young girls and boys being on the street after 9 in winter and 9:30 in summer? There is.

"Fathers and mothers, do you know where your boys and girls are after school or work hours, and in whose company they are? Are the boys smoking or gambling in some little unseen, unknown shack, thus breaking two laws? Are the girls hanging around the stores and telephones, accompanied by those they would not wish you to know?

"The juvenile court is full of such boys and girls.

"If you parents would only talk kindly to them about these matters (for children are thoughtless, ignorant, adventurous and easy victims of the tempter), it might help them grow up to be good men and women, instead of liars, thieves and criminals.

"The face of a child who runs the streets will be remembered, and his chances in after life be injured.

"Our immoral and criminal classes are every day recruited from the children who would have made good citizens with the right home training.

"Remember, parents, that the only thing you can make a man out of is a boy—the only thing you can make a woman out of is a girl—and the only thing a crimina, is made out of is a boy or girl.

"What your boy or girl will turn out depends on your care and teaching now.

"Make your home pleasin, so that the children may be happy there with their friends. Have them help you in the that they may take an interest in it.

"Take them to see and hear good things, or get others to do so, and encourage them to read what is good at home.

"What are you living for, but to bring up these children to be good men and women?

"THE WOMAN'S CHRISTIAN TEMPERANCE UNION."

PYYKKO TRIAL AGAIN POSTPONED

Murder Case Will Not Be Heard Until Next Month.

Hugo Pyykko, charged with the murder of Matt Kemp, Midway farmer, on the Thompson road on the evening of Oct. 30 last, will not be brought to trial in district court until the first week in April. Another continuance in the case to the latter part of the March term has been agreed upon between County Attorney Warren E. Greene and O. J. Larson, counsel for the accused man.

Pyykko has been in jail for nearly five months. He was arrested the next day after Kemp's dead body was found on Pine hill on the Thompson road. Pyykko was indicted by the November grand jury and would have been brought to trial at that time had he had the funds with which to defend his case. His attorney, Mr. Larson, asked for time in order that Pyykko might send back to his old home in Finland for some money. At the January term of court, he had not yet received the money and a second continuance was arranged.

GREAT NORTHERN'S EARNINGS GROW

Fiscal Year Will Show an Increase of $10,000,000.

With earnings showing an increase for the present fiscal year over the previous one to the tune of $10,000,000, it is hoped by the Duluth shippers that the Great Northern railroad will be able to find enough surplus loose cash to build a freight depot in Duluth during the coming year. At any rate, according to dispatches, it is said that the road earned that much last year over and above its earnings of the previous year. The dispatch follows:

"The Great Northern railway will break all its previous records for gross earnings this fiscal year. The best official estimates place the excess of gross earnings for the twelve months ending June 30 next over the preceding year at $10,000,000. In eight months ending Feb. 28, the gross revenue was a little over $8,500,000 better than last year, leaving over $1,500,000 of gain to be made up in the last four months of the year, or an average monthly increase of about $380,000.

"This expansion of business naturally will bring earnings on stock to new high figures. The Great Northern is also now in an exceedingly strong financial position. Its resources are further augmented by the sale of the $21,000,000 stock. One payment of 40 per cent has been paid on this subscription.

"One of the features of the Great Northern's growth has been the traffic development of its branch lines and feeders. The company has been most successful in making two and even four and five tons of traffic grow where but one grew before. Numerous little tentacles stretching out to the north and the south of the main stem do not look overimposing on the map, but they are bringing in business in generous trainloads.

"The Great Northern's traffic in Montana has grown conspicuously, and James J. Hill is authority for the statement that within fifteen years that state will equal North Dakota as an agricultural producer."

MORE MONEY TO STUDY THE LAW

Rochester Post-Express: The actual number of law schools in the United States only increased from 103 to 118 in the decade from 1902 to 1912, according to figures compiled at the United States bureau of education, but the numbers of students studying law in these schools increased from 13,912 to 20,760 in the same period. There were 3,524 graduates of law schools in 1902 and 4,394 last year. Law students, having a collegiate degree, doubled in the ten years. Financially the law schools show a remarkable advance. The endowment funds jumped from half a million to nearly two million dollars; the grounds and buildings tripled in value; and the total income in 1912 was $1,263,000, as against $523,000 in 1902. The 387,000 volumes in the law schools libraries of 1902 had grown to 926,000 in 1912.

WORK STARTS ON NEW PLANT

Universal Portland Cement Company Begins Construction at Gary.

Will Be in Operation in 1914—Immense Capacity.

The immense new plant of the Universal Portland Cement company, to be built at Gary, will soon be a settled fact and an operating industry in Duluth.

The company is a subsidiary one of the United States Steel corporation, and the plant, which is termed No. 7, will be erected in connection with the new steel plant now under course of construction at Gary. The new plant, on which work has begun, will cost about $1,700,000 and will have an output of 1,400,000 barrels of cement per year. It will be electrically operated throughout and will require about 5,000-horse power to work its machinery.

Edward M. Hagar, president of the company, says that work will be pushed as rapidly as possible, and it is expected that the plant will be in operation in 1914. With its present plants at Chicago and Pittsburg this will give the company a total output of 45,000 barrels a day, or, 13,500,000 barrels a year.

The shipments of Universal Portland cement in 1912—10,047,499 barrels—exceeded those of any other cement company in the world.

It is interesting to note the growth of this company, as well as the percentage of its output, to the total American production, as shown by the following table:

Year.	Production Portland Cement of U. S. Barrels.	Production Universal Portland Cement. Barrels.
1900	8,482,020	32,443
1901	10,711,235	164,316

Amusement Notes.

The happiest audiences in America are those to be found at a George M. Cohan play, and his newest one entitled "Broadway Jones" is no exception. George M. Cohan has furnished many interesting entertainments for America's great army of amusement seekers, but it is conceded that in "Broadway Jones" he has provided a play that will endure, for the reason that it breathes of real life, love and laughter amidst scenes that are enacted in an atmosphere of absolute cleanliness.

The appeal in "Broadway Jones" is its cleanliness. It does not offend in thought, utterance or action. On the contrary, young Mr. Cohan has taken a simple homelike idea and constructed an ingenious play absolutely free from any suggestion of coarseness, but so full of real hearty fun that the audience which views it is kept in a constant state of laughter from the first till the final curtain. It will be seen tonight and tomorrow at the Lyceum.

There are six emphatic song hits in the season's popular musical offering, "A Modern Eve," which Mort H. Singer will present at the Lyceum Sunday, Monday and Tuesday.

"Goodbye Everybody," the alluring waltz song, is the song sensation of the decade, and "Is the Girl You Married Still the Girl You Love?" "You're Such a Lonesome Moon Tonight," "Rita, My Margarita," "Hello, Sweetheart" and "Every Day Is Christmas When You're Married" follow closely as popular favorites. Alexander Clark, the well-known comedian, will be seen as Caseadler, the henpecked husband, said to be his funniest creation since his famous "Honeycomb" in "The Girl From Paris." Marion Roddy, the Milwaukee girl who sprang into immediate fame last summer during the phenomenal run of "A Modern Eve" at the Garrick theater in Chicago, appears in the prima donna role. Among the other well-known principals are Henrietta Tedro, Arline Bolling, Florence Bain, Ray Raymond, Louis Kelso, Harry Dickeson and John Patton.

No less an actress than Miss Jessie Busley will headline next week's bill at the Duluth Orpheum. Miss Busley will be remembered as the star of "In The Bishop's Carriage" which was seen in Duluth several years ago, and later she appeared in the all star company which opened the New theater in New York. She has a sketch called "Miss 318" by Rupert Hughes, as her vaudeville vehicle. The other six acts on the bill will also be of more than ordinary interest.

Meanwhile Don, the talking dog, continues to attract big audiences to the local theater in spite of the fact that it is Holy Week, usually the quietest week of the entire year in the theatrical world.

Don is the first quadruped to speak a modern language intelligently. There are certain birds, notably parrots and crows, that talk and, according to the learned Prof. Garner, certain species of monkeys have a language all their own, but Don speaks in a language that is intelligible to human beings; in short, he speaks a language of human mind.

And that is the reason he earns $1,000 a week and rides in taxicabs.

Three audiences were delighted with the vaudeville bill that was presented to the people of Duluth for the first time yesterday at the Empress theater. The program was repeated today and will be continued through this evening and tomorrow.

Dick Crollius and his company, who headline the bill, pleased the people immensely with the playlet, "Shorty." This number is presented by a caste of four. The persistent curtain calls, which the actors received, demonstrated beyond a doubt that they have made a decided hit. Crollius himself contributed not a little to the local slang vocabulary, and many of his expressions have taken so well, that they have become a part of the popular dialect of Superior street and vicinity.

A feature of more than common interest was the moving picture reproduction of the meeting of motion picture exhibitors, which took place in St. Paul recently. Many Duluth people were recognized and applauded, as their movements and surroundings were thrown upon the screen.

Hanella gave a remarkable illusion and sleight-of-hand performance. Nothing that he did excited more wonder and admiration than his presentation of "Rosa, the head that sings."

Carrie McManus was greeted with a liberal meed of applause for her singing and quick changes of costume. Her "Bumble Bee" song seemed to make the greatest hit of all her renditions.

Gilmore and Castle gave some remarkably clever eccentric dancing and singing, and were obliged to respond to the hearty calls for an encore.

Ex-Senator William O'Neill of Cass Lake opened the speaking, urging cooperation of the towns. This improved service is assured to H. C. Baer of the Commercial club in response to a petition from nearly all telephone users in this city, in a letter from Frank Bracelin of Fargo, district commercial manager.

two wires to St. Louis. Over these was carried a very small part of the mass of intelligence which normally is received and sent out from Chicago. The only crumb of comfort to those charged with transmitting press and commercial telegrams was that the Good Friday holiday relieved them of the usual burden of brokerage and market reports.

Six hours after the storm broke the sun forced its way through the clouds and the disturbance ceased almost as suddenly as it had begun. The damage, however, had been done and early estimates of the loss to wire and telephone placed the figures as high as $150,000.

Blizzard in Wisconsin.

Milwaukee, Wis., March 21.—A blizzard which started in early today is general throughout Wisconsin. The storm is a mixture of snow and sleet and is affecting traffic considerably.

Street cars are badly congested in Milwaukee and interurban traffic threatens to be tied up, as there seems no abatement in sight.

The train service on the steam roads is said not to be affected.

Bad in Central Southwest.

Memphis, Tenn., March 21. — Storms of wind and rain, in some instances approaching a tornado in proportions, swept through portions of the Central Southwest last night, the storm especially being severe in Northern Arkansas and unconfirmed reports tell of serious damage in the vicinity of Hoxie. Wire service out of Memphis in all directions was demoralized. In Memphis a number of storm windows were broken. Telephone and telegraph service was demoralized.

All Wires Down.

Memphis, Tenn., March 21.—Reports from North Mississippi, West Tennessee and Southern Kentucky and North and Wset Arkansas, which were swept by a severe wind and rain storm last night and early today are delayed because of an almost complete prostration of telegraph and telephone wires entering this city.

No definite advices have been received here from Hoxie, Ark., where the wind is said to have blown down a large number of houses and injured a score of persons.

At Fulton, Ky., considerable damage was done to property.

In Mississippi the storm was severe from Grenada to Water Valley. At Zeuabotia the wind was unusually high and houses are said to have been tossed about as if they were playthings. No loss of life occurred there.

Locally only minor damage was done. A heavy downpour of rain with continuous dashes of lightning accompanied the blow.

Snow and Sleet General.

Kansas City, Mo., March 21.—Snow and sleet and a drop in temperature were general over the Missouri valley and the Southwest last night and early today. In some sections the storm was accompanied by a strong wind.

Heavy rains preceded snow in South and East Missouri.

At Oklahoma City the wind rose to 46 miles an hour. The mercury this morning dropped to 13 here, 8 in Omaha, 12 in St. Joseph, Mo., 19 at Wichita and Concordia, Kan., 22 at Springfield, Mo., 16 at Oklahoma City, 2 at Denver and 10 at Amarillo, Tex.

PLEADS GUILTY TO LESSER CHARGE.

James H. Boyd, who was jointly indicted by the March grand jury with John A. McDonald and Nick Bronk on a charge of grand larceny, second degree, was allowed in district court yesterday to withdraw his former plea of not guilty and enter one of guilty to grand larceny, third degree.

Boyd, McDonald and Bronk were accused of having on Jan. 21 last, broken into a refrigerator car and stolen 180 pounds of pork loins, valued at $22.50. After Boyd changed his plea from not guilty to guilty, Assistant County Attorney Forbes asked the court to dismiss the indictment as to McDonald and Bronk on the grounds of insufficient evidence.

Boyd will be brought before the court later for sentence.

"Best Tonic and Stimulant"

MR. FRED J. RICHTERS—69 years old.

"Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey is invaluable when you are run down and depressed or convalescing from low fevers and other wasting diseases," says Mr. Fred J. Richters, at 150 Broadway, N. Y. City.

"As to my experience in using Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey, it has done me a great deal of good. I am now 69 years of age and have used it for many years, and have been greatly benefited from its use. It is a wonderful tonic and nourishment. I have found it particularly valuable when the system is run down; also in recovering from sickness. It is beneficial in catarrh. I use no other tonic, and always have some on hand. I recommend it to all my friends, and know that it is an article of high merit and should be in every household."

Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey

as a body builder and tonic stimulant is one of the greatest strength-givers known to science. It is an absolutely pure distillation of malted grain, great care being used to have every kernel thoroughly malted. Its gentle and invigorating properties influence for good every important organ in the body. It makes the old feel young and keeps the young strong and vigorous. Prescribed by physicians and recognized as a family medicine everywhere.

CAUTION—When you ask your druggist, grocer or dealer for Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey, be sure you get the genuine. Sold in SEALED BOTTLES ONLY—never in bulk. DOWLING AT WEST DULUTH

Talks on Vice, Saloons, Railroads and Municipal Ownership.

Says Lighting Plant Question Has Already Been Settled.

Vice, blind-pigs, saloons, the cost living, municipal ownership, public control of terminals and other subjects were discussed by P. E. Dowling, candidate for mayor, at a meeting at Dormedy hall in West Duluth last night.

A large crowd heard Mr. Dowling and many of his suggestions were enthusiastically applauded.

Mr. Dowling declared that vice cannot be abolished, but can only be checked. He said that blind-pigs are an injustice to the saloon keeper who pays for the privilege of doing business and that they should be abolished. He held that the municipal ownership of the electric lighting plant is not an issue, as the question has already been settled by the voters. He said, discrimination practiced by the Northern Pacific and Great Northern railroads must be wiped out, and that the terminals must be controlled by the city.

"Vice is not an issue of this campaign," declared Mr. Dowling. "It was with us ages ago, it will be with us always. The best that we can do is to check it.

"Danger Line."

"For the past twenty-two years you have not had men at the head of city affairs who have had sufficient backbone to deal with the vice problem properly. Why do we not follow Germany's example? That country has established segregation and the 'danger line.' No stranger in a German city is allowed by the police to enter an evil district without being warned.

"The saloon closing question is not an issue in this campaign. I know that 75 per cent of the saloon keepers of this city are willing to close in accordance with requirements of law, but the other 25 per cent have been able to wield unwholesome influence. Over restaurants, in private houses and over stores, the blind-pigger and the scarlet woman are both busily engaged plying their nefarious trades, unmolested and in defiance of decency, order and law.

"Are we fair to the saloon keeper who pays a yearly license of $1,000 for protection when such conditions are permitted to exist? It is not fair competition to subject him to when he is forced to stand all the blame for occurrences which take place in these down-town dens of vice long after the saloon has shut up shop for the night.

Must Follow People's Wish.

"I insist that the municipal ownership of the electric plant is not an issue in this campaign. Some time ago the people of this city voted to buy an electric plant. The new form of government can do no less than to ratify that vote. Whether the people will do well or ill in buying the plant is not for me to say. The official who will not follow the wish of the people must justly fall, a victim to the recall.

"We have heard a great deal about the cost of high living. For my part I never dreamed that anything material would come of the investigation of 'commission row,' which was started quite a long time ago. The way to fight the high cost of living is to establish throughout convenient parts of the city public markets, where farmers will be able to bring and dispose of their products. In this we need the co-operation of the local newspaper and all public spirited citizens. At every market place a man should be stationed whose duty it would be to keep the public in touch with prices through the newspapers.

Must Buy Terminals.

"If Duluth is ever to be great—and who among us is willing to doubt this—we must wipe out discriminations now being practiced against the city by the Great Northern and Northern Pacific railroads. This can be done in several ways; we can buy the local terminals outright, we can compel the railroads through the courts to cease obstructing such other roads from entering that may wish to do so, or the city can make an alliance with the Soo line road and in this way bring the Hill interest to reasonable terms.

"We must make this fight against the Hill interests in order that the trade and produce of the 500,000 people near to Duluth shall not be diverted to the Twin Cities, as is now the case."

In concluding his talk Mr. Dowling asserted that he was not "knocking," that he was simply offering criticism in a much needed quarter.

SOCIALISTS' WORK IN MILWAUKEE.

The Municipal Ownership league will dip right into the municipal campaign next week, assigning speakers to address meetings wherever an opportunity will be given.

Frank Crasweller, president, and J. H. Brigham, secretary, have issued on behalf of the league a request that brotherhoods, councils, commercial and improvement clubs, trade unions and other civic bodies and women's clubs or councils hold meetings next week for the discussion of the candidates and issues. Notice is also given that the league will furnish speakers for such meetings.

The league will hold a meeting at Kalamazoo hall tomorrow night at which the candidates and issues will be discussed by members who are not candidates. The plans of campaign to be conducted next week will be discussed and the forces of the league will be rallied to get busy during the last week and work for candidates favorable to municipal ownership.

me to write my name on a card, with that of my brother.

"Soon afterward a friend of mine rushed to me with the information that the American ambassador had given a card on which were the names of my brother and myself to Secretary of the Interior Granados, and the latter had immediately issued orders for our arrest. This friend had overheard part of a conversation between the ambassador and Granados, in which he said the ambassador had said that my brother and I were in fear of arrest. Granados replied that we had escaped his attention, but he would attend to our cases at once, and the order of arrest was issued.

"My friend hastened to me, gave me his purse and urged me to flee. I left Mexico City disguised as a track laborer that night. My wife and babies were disguised. Thanks to a friendly train conductor, we made our way to Salina Cruz and embarked for San Francisco."

THREE OPEN MEETINGS

Candidates for the Commission Will Be Out in Force.

Club Members Will Hear Talks on Campaign Issues.

The candidates for the commission will be out in force tonight.

Three free-for-all political meetings will be held and there will be a sufficient number of candidates at each to keep the voters interested for a few hours. Some of the candidates will make two and some three of the meetings, in order to gain a hearing from as many voters as possible.

The French Naturalization club will hold a meeting at the St. Jean Baptiste hall, Twenty-fifth avenue west and Third street. Nearly all of the candidates for mayor, and many of those who are in the field for commissioner, expect to be present and as many will be heard as time will allow. Among those who have announced their intention of being present are: W. I. Prince, M. B. Cullum, D. H. Day, P. E. Dowling and other candidates for mayor.

At the meeting of the Central Hillside Improvement club at the Franklin school, a number of candidates will be heard. Among them are: W. I. Prince and W. E. McEwen, candidates for mayor; and Leonidas Merritt, James A. Farrell, Carroll F. Graff, W. A. Hicken, Roderick Murchison, Martin J. Murray, Bert Wheeler and other candidates for commissioner. Vernon J. Prince, an architect, will also speak on the new building ordinance.

The third meeting will be that of the Oneota and Hazelwood Improvement club at the Merritt school, Fortieth avenue west and Sixth street. The club has issued an invitation to the candidates to come out and tell where they stand on public questions, and a number of them will accept the invitation.

Tomorrow evening, M. B. Cullum will speak at the Oneota hall, Thirty-ninth avenue west and First street, on "Efficiency." P. E. Dowling will speak tomorrow evening at the Bricklayers' hall, Nineteenth avenue west and First street.

PLANS CAMPAIGN OF SPEECHMAKING

McEwen Organizing Campaign Committee and Will Take Stump.

The organization of a campaign committee for W. E. McEwen, candidate for mayor, will be completed at a meeting to be held tonight in Kalamazoo hall, 18 West Superior street. At a meeting held Wednesday evening, the preliminary organization was effected. The meeting tonight is open to Mr. McEwen's followers generally.

Mr. McEwen has not made a campaign speech thus far, but he says that next week he will take the platform and make a whirlwind finish. He will make public ownership the basis of his candidacy, holding that a man who is with the people on the ownership of utilities, is with them on other subjects also.

"There are so many matters demanding the attention of the men who are elected to the commission, that they cannot all be given full discussion during the campaign," said Mr. McEwen this morning. "Only a few issues can be given adequate attention, for the people have their interest centered on those issues.

"The improvement of social conditions is one matter that should be given more attention. Take the case of the conditions of the men from the woods or the railroad camp, or even from the farm. Those men come into the city and no matter how much money they have they are welcome only at the Bowery lodging houses, not at the good hotels. The rooms are uninviting, there is no lobby, no writing room, no reading room. Their only real welcome is in the saloon, and they are drawn to the saloon by the desire for human companionship and recreation.

"I believe our library facilities can be extended to take in the man on the Bowery, the man in the rough clothes that go with his hard-working mode of life. He doesn't care to go to the library; we should take the library to him. A branch library on the Bowery and another on Lake avenue would greatly reduce the patronage of the saloons in those sections of the city.

"We are extending our playgrounds so as to promote the recreative life of the children and direct it into beneficial channels. We can extend our library system so as to direct the recreation of these homeless men into proper channels. It would not cost much, and the beneficial results would be incalculable in their magnitude."

NEW CROSBY LODGE.

Aitkin, Minn., March 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—A new Odd Fellows lodge is to be instituted at Crosby Saturday evening and the Aitkin lodge will exemplify the work in all the degrees. In addition to the degree team from here many members will go over to witness the ceremony of institution by the grand officers of the state, and a special train on the Soo will bring them back Sunday morning.

two wires to St. Louis. Over these was carried every small part of the mass of the news which normally is received and sent out from Chicago. The only way of communication was by cable with Canada, Mexico and Central America, by radio to ships at sea and commercial telegraphic service with the cities of the Pacific coast. Local business and market reports were lacking.

Six hours after the storm broke the sun forced through the clouds and cleared the sky almost as suddenly as it came. The damage, however, was done and the extent of the loss in wire and property could be figured as well as it ever will be.

Blizzard in Wisconsin.

Milwaukee, Wis., March 21.—A blizzard set in early today in this section of the state and is causing much suffering. Snow is falling heavily and is badly drifted in many places, making all interurban traffic impossible. Trains are reported stalled in the drifts, so there seems to be no way to get them out.

The train service on seven roads is said to be affected.

Bad in Central Southwest.

Memphis, Tenn., March 21.—Storms of wind and rain, in some instances taking on the aspect of a tornado in proportions, swept through portions of the Central Southwest last night, the storm especially being severe in Northern Arkansas and in northern Mississippi. Reports of serious damage in the vicinity of Hoxie, Ark., were received here today. Wire service out of Memphis in all directions was demoralized. In Memphis a number of storm windows were broken. Telephone and telegraph service was demoralized.

All Wires Down.

Memphis, Tenn., March 21.—Reports from North Mississippi, West Tennessee and South Missouri say North and West Arkansas, which were swept by a severe wind and rain storm last night and early today are delayed because of an almost complete prostration of telegraph and telephone wires entering this city.

At Fulton, Ky., considerable damage was done to property.

Among those who have announced their intention of being present are: W. I. Prince, M. B. Cullum, D. H. Day, P. E. Dowling and other candidates for mayor.

At the meeting of the Central Hillside Improvement club at the Franklin school, a number of candidates will be heard. Among them are: W. I. Prince and W. E. McEwen, candidates for mayor; and Leonidus Merritt, James A. Farrell, Carroll F. Graff, W. A. Hicken, Roderick Murchison, Martin J. Murray, Bert Wheeler and other candidates for commissioner. Vernon J. Prince, an architect, will also speak on the new building ordinance.

The third meeting will be that of the Oneota and Hazelwood Improvement club at the Merritt school, Fortieth avenue west and Sixth street. The club has issued an invitation to the candidates to come out and tell where they stand on public questions, and a number of them will accept the invitation.

Tomorrow evening, M. B. Cullum will speak at the Oneota hall, Thirty-ninth avenue west and First street, on "Efficiency." P. E. Dowling will speak tomorrow evening at the Bricklayers' hall, Nineteenth avenue west and First street.

PLANS CAMPAIGN OF SPEECHMAKING

McEwen Organizing Campaign Committee and Will Take Stump.

The organization of a campaign committee for W. E. McEwen, candidate for mayor, will be completed at a meeting to be held tonight in Kalamazoo hall, 18 West Superior street. At a meeting held Wednesday evening, the preliminary organization was effected. The meeting tonight is open to Mr. McEwen's followers generally.

Mr. McEwen has not made a campaign speech thus far, but he says that next week he will take the platform and make a whirlwind finish. He will make public ownership the basis of his candidacy, holding that a man who is with the people on the ownership of utilities, is with them on other subjects also.

"There are so many matters demanding the attention of the men who are elected to the commission, that they cannot all be given full discussion during the campaign," said Mr. McEwen this morning. "Only a few issues can be given adequate attention, for the people have their interest centered on those issues.

"The improvement of social conditions is one matter that should be given more attention. Take the case of the conditions of the men from the woods or the railroad camp, or even from the farm. Those men come into the city and no matter how much money they have they are welcome only at the Bowery lodging houses, not at the good hotels. The rooms are uninviting, there is no lobby, no writing room, no reading room. Their only real welcome is in the saloon, and they are drawn to the saloon by the desire for human companionship and recreation.

"I believe our library facilities can be extended to take in the man on the Bowery, the man in the rough clothes that go with his hard-working mode of life. He doesn't care to go to the library; we should take the library to him. A branch library on the Bowery and another on Lake avenue would greatly reduce the patronage of the saloons in those sections of the city.

"We are extending our playgrounds so as to promote the recreative life of the children and direct it into beneficial channels. We can extend our library system so as to direct the recreation of these homeless men into proper channels. It would not cost much, and the beneficial results would be incalculable in their magnitude."

CIVIC PROBLEMS AT THE ISTHMUS.

Edward T. Devine in the Survey: The end is in sight. Shops are concentrating, houses are being demolished where they are no longer needed, purchases of materials are made cautiously, army officers are speculating about future details, the Federation of Women's Clubs has held its last annual meeting.

And yet, notwithstanding the unmistakable signs of an early end, there are at the moment more men actually employed on the canal zone than at any previous time—over 40,000. The whole organization is working at its maximum capacity.

Yes, this is the time to see the canal. The hospitals and the penitentiary are in smooth working order. The quarters supplied by the authorities are fully occupied—congested at some places, the official reports say—and besides, whole villages of unofficial commercial tenements are crowded, really congested, with laborers and their families. Congestion of population and extortionate rents are among the sights of the canal zone which may be less in evidence next year than this.

The "red light" districts of Panama and Colon will no doubt remain, at least for a while, and the lottery (for these are not on the canal zone); and the overcrowding in those two cities will continue unless the United States, through its new civil government in the canal zone, decides to extend its sanitary regulations and police surveillance, as the treaty with Panama gives it the right to do if it deems it expedient.

The social and sanitary problems of the canal zone are expected to disappear with the completion of the canal. For the word is that, except for the army and the few necessary canal employes, the zone is to be depopulated. This is now said to be the easiest means of preventing yellow fever, malaria, congestion, illiteracy and immorality. If there is no life on the zone then the problems of life will be utterly simple.

DYNAMITING SOIL

Northwestern Agriculturalist: Some soils would not be benefited from blasting just as some soils do not need subsoiling. It is safe to say that any soil that would be benefited by using the subsoil plow would also be helped by dynamiting. Dynamite would, we believe, be more effective than deep plowing because the subsoil could be broken to a great depth.

As to relative cost, I have no statistics from which to give definite data. The probability is the dynamite would cost more and would put the soil in much better shape.

One writer on this subject states that in hard-pan soils the use of dynamite not only breaks up new soil for plant food, but also drains the top soil sufficiently by letting the water down oftentimes through into soil of more open texture. He also states that with a little experience the subsoil can be opened without covering the top soil with the clay from beneath, or if a thorough mixture of old and new soil is desired, it can be accomplished.

If you are "easily satisfied" with your boarding place, it will not be long before nothing else will matter much, either.

CHANCE FOR NEW MONARCH

Pretenders Stretch Out Like the Royal Line of Banquo.

Host of Candidates for the Possible Throne and Crown.

Belgrade, March, 21.—Albania is suffering from a plague of pretenders. That any man should want to reign in Albania is a puzzle in itself, but in fact there are about ten Europeans with "legitimate, indefeasible" claims to be Albania's rightful king; in addition to which there are about ten persons more who have no claims, but have very much better prospects.

The second class consists of princely young sons of reigning sovereigns, all of them respectable, talented and dull, with nothing at all in common with Albania. The first class consists of hitherto obscure, but picturesque personages with weird names and secular pedigrees who all swear they are descended from some prince, brigand or patriot in Albania's bloody past.

The most likely of the uninteresting respectable candidates is Prince Harald, younger brother of King Christian of Denmark. Harald is a brother of another brand new sovereign, King Haakon of Norway, and he is married to a princess of Schleswig-Holstein. He is a brother-in-law of August Wilhelm, the kaiser's third son.

Most Interesting Class.

The most interesting of the first, picturesque class of candidates are the descendants of Skanderbeg. George Castriot or Skanderbeg was Albania's fifteenth century ruler and defender. Until a few years ago no one knew that he had left any descendants. But now that the Albanian question has grown acute, descendants have sprung up in thick crops.

The most pushing is Prince Juan Aladro Kastriota, a black-eyed, good looking spaniard, a genuine aristocrat, who once represented Spain at The Hague. Prince Juan first preferred his claims to the Albanian throne in 1902. He proved that he is descended from Skanderbeg's daughter. He let fly batches of proclamations at the Albanians, begging them to foster their native culture and not to worry about religion (which they don't). In those days an Albanian committee was sitting in Rome, pretending to run Albanian interests, but in reality running Italian. The committee adopted Prince Juan as rightful claimant to Albania's then non-existent throne.

Last November when the Turks were beaten and it became plain that Albania wanted a king, the Albanians said what a nice thing it is to have a man who is descended from Skanderbeg's daughter. But at this moment there arose two gentlemen of Naples who poured cold water on the Prince Juan enthusiasm by announcing that they are descended from Skanderbeg's son. On the Legitimist principle these two Neapolitans have the strongest claim to the Albanian throne. They are Giovanni Castriota Skenderbeck, marquis of Auleta, and his cousin, Filippo, baron di Fossaceca. Which has the better right is doubtful. Both are descendants of Ferdinando Castriota Skanderbeck, whom a whole mass of historical evidence and family records brings back to the great Skanderbeg. The two cousins Skanderbeck have issued a statement proclaiming that they are the rightful heirs. They declare that they are too sure of their position to push their claims, but that they also do not intend to renounce them. They add that Prince Juan Aladro Kastriota, the Spanish grandee, has no claims at all.

Paleologi and Ghika.

Next in importance to the Skanderbeg posterity come various claimants from the families of Paleologi and Ghika. The Ghikas are a Roumanian family of Albanian origin which ruled on the Danube for many years, and produced half a dozen famous hospodars and statesmen. They originated in Koprilli. If no West European royalty becomes king of Albania, a Ghika will probably be chosen. However, they will first have to overcome the opposition of the great Paleologi, descendants of the once omnipotent emperors of the east.

Two Paleologi are in the field. The most important is Prince Nicholas Nemanic Paleologos Ducas Angelos Comnenos. The prince lives in a modest house in the Rue de Chiajo in Naples. He issues a circular in which he says that all Italian genealogists admit him to be the direct posterity and legitimate heir of the emperors of the East, who in 1453 lost Constantinople to the Turks and with Constantinople lost their suzerainty over Albania and Epirus. The prince appeals to the powers to accept him as the rightful heir of Emperor Constantine XI. "who lost all in the defense of the Christian faith and of the freedom of the peoples of the Orient."

The prince is reckoning without his rival, Col. Martyn Andreyevitch Paleologof of the Eighteenth Russian Chasseurs, who declares that it is he who is rightful king of Albania. He is an honest, penniless soldier, who lost an ear at Liao Yang. He proves beyond doubt to the Russian press that he is the only genuine Paleologos on the male side alive. He says that the genealogists declare that the last Paleologos was Prince Giovanni Laskaris, who died in Turin in 1874, but that the genealogists are liars and ignoramuses. He claims to be king of Albania because his ancestors were Albania's suzerains. The trouble with this argument is that Albania was ruled by the Slavs over 100 years before the Turks took the empire from the Paleologi.

A Moslem Claimant.

That is not the last claimant. Sali Beg, a Moslem notable of Herzegovina, has a better and more recent claim than anyone. He is a direct descendant of Ali Pasha of Janina, Byron's friend. Of Ali Pasha's reality as Albanian chief there is no doubt. He bossed Albania for fifty-six years and with it he bossed Epirus, Thessaly and part of Macedonia. Like the other rival claimants Sali Beg is certain of his ancestry. When Ali Pasha was forced to surrender to the Turks in 1822, his third son by a Christian slave escaped in a boat on the Lake of Janina, reached Constantinople, and later became an official in Herzegovina. Sali Beg is a suitable candidate for Albania with its mixed religion. He is a Moslem married to a Catholic wife. He is still more suitable because of his parentage. His father fought a whole series of blood feuds, ran away with Christian maids, and was burnt to death by foes. That is in true Albanian spirit.

Diocletian, Pope Clement XI., Saint Jerome, and Mahomet Ali of Egypt were all Albanians; and if anyone proves descent from them he has a chance of being king of Albania. More probably the stupid powers will insist on Harald or some other prince; and in a year the bored Albanians will be wishing they were back under the terrible Turk, with whom life was bloody, interesting and brief.

UNCOVER RELICS OF THE DIM PAST

Discoveries in Excavations at the Pyramids of Egypt.

Boston, Mass., March 21.—Official announcement is to be made of what will prove the most remarkable archaeological discoveries of the century, made by Prof. Reisner of Harvard university, in excavations at the pyramids of Egypt.

Prof. Reisner's work carries our knowledge of Egyptian history back 1,000 years farther than any discoveries heretofore made, and will probably upset many claims made by other archaeologists. In possessing the new art finds, the Boston Museum of Fine Arts and Harvard university will have a more valuable collection of Egyptian relics than is possessed by either the Metropolitan or British museums.

The main interest in the discoveries will be found in the articles taken from the tombs of the fourth dynasty, which Prof. Reisner found near the third pyramid. No records of the fourth dynasty have ever before been found. As it was the fourth dynasty that built the Sphinx, as well as the three pyramids, and the Temple of the Sun, Prof. Reisner's discoveries will solve the "riddle of the Sphinx" in more ways than one.

As is well known, the pyramids rest on a plateau of stone, now covered by sand. By following the line of rock down through the sand, at a point near the third pyramid, the excavators found the tomb of Myceneus, as well as a passageway running beneath the pyramid. It has also been discovered that the Sphinx is hollow, but this is of less importance than the objects discovered in the tombs.

These discoveries of objects dating back to 3,000 B. C. and before, are more remarkable than those made by Prof. Flinders Petria at Abydos, and will place American exploration ahead of either the German or the English.

Exploration work in Egypt is greatly facilitated by the liberality of the Egyptian government. Other great treasures of antiquity are to be found in Asia Minor, but the Turkish government absolutely refuses to allow objects found there to be taken out of the country. When a treasure is found, the government takes possession. This has completely discouraged American and European archaeologists there, and the work once carried on has been abandoned.

In Egypt the government charges tourists $6 apiece for visiting the ancient tombs. Archaeologists and the officials have managed to make a bargain by which both gain. The government grants concessions and allows the excavators to retain one-half of all they find. When a discovery is made, the government takes half, and the two parties exchange replicas of the other half, so that both keep complete lists of finds.

One of the most recent finds in Egypt was that of a beautiful alabaster sphinx. The sphinx was found on the site of Memphis, seven miles from the pyramids, near the great prostrate statue of Rameses II. The discovery was made accidentally by a native. An American reported the find and the Egyptian government had it dug out.

This find is remarkable, because it is the largest alabaster sphinx ever found. It is eighteen or twenty feet high, and is very beautiful. It is 800 miles at least from the point where this sphinx was found to the great alabaster quarry used by the ancient Egyptians at Assonam.

MOONLIGHT STROLLS IN MANILA BARRED.

Washington, March 21.—No more can the American fighting man in Manila walk hand-in-hand in the moonlight with his brown-skinned, starry-eyed sweetheart. The war department learned today that Col. George K. Hunter of the Seventh cavalry has issued an order prohibiting the men of the Manila garrison from appearing in public with native women. The order was imperative and read:

"Members of this command are hereby forbidden to be seen in public in the company of native women, except those men who are married to such women."

No explanation of the reasons governing the issue of the order accompanied the report. It is understood, however, that the prohibition will not prevent the men who have lost their hearts to the brown-skinned girls from courting them in the privacy of their homes.

BAKING POWDER TESTS

MADE FROM ACTUAL PHOTOGRAPHS
TAKEN TWO MINUTES AFTER MOISTURE WAS APPLIED

Cheap or "Big Can" Baking Powder

NOTE the unevenness of the contents; also the small amount of leavening gas from the height the powder has risen in the glass. The residues from these powders vary considerably.

Cream of Tartar Powder

YOU will also note the small amount of leavening gas here; also the sediment in the bottom of glass, which is a solution of Rochelle Salts. About 80 per cent. of this powder used is left in the food as Rochelle Salts. Ask your doctor about constant dosing with Rochelle Salts.

Calumet Baking Powder

NOTE here the amount of leavening gas by the way the powder has risen over the top of the glass. Note how light and fluffy it is; also how even the grain is. This test proves CALUMET has a great amount of leavening gas that it is gradually and uniformly given off. It leaves no unwholesome residue.

"THE TALKIES" COMING SOON

Edison's Latest Invention Will Be Shown Here March 30.

"The Talkies," as New York calls the new Edison talking motion pictures, will probably be seen and heard in Duluth for the first time the week after next.

The representative of the Edison company has been in the Twin Cities installing the apparatus during the last two weeks and Manager H. E. Billings of the Duluth Orpheum theater received word this morning that he would be in Duluth next week, and that the apparatus would probably be ready for a week from Sunday.

"That date may be changed," said Mr. Billings this morning, "but the pictures are coming very soon now, and I hope to have them by that time. Mr. Raymond writes me from Minneapolis that the pictures exceeded his fondest expectations, and that all attendance records for the theater have been smashed since they opened."

SPEAK BEFORE NEGRO CLUB

Eleven Candidates for Commission Are Heard in Short Talks.

W. I. Prince Makes the Keynote Speech of His Campaign.

Five candidates for mayor and six for commissioner talked at a meeting of the Afro-American club of Duluth at the Knights of Pythias hall last evening.

The civil service rules of the city were brought into the campaign as an issue. G. B. Kelley, secretary of the organization, asked the candidates if they would, if elected, stand for a civil service rule that would require the appointment of the high man in an examination, instead of a selection being made from the three high men as at present. The present rule is regarded as a discrimination against colored men. All of the candidates said that they would stand for a square deal for colored men in city employment.

Morris Kaplan, Bernard Silberstein, W. I. Prince, M. B. Cullum and P. E. Dowling, candidates for mayor; Fred J. Voss, candidate for the long term; Roderick Murchison, E. N. Edes, H. J. Mullin and B. N. Wheeler, candidates for the short term, and C. L. Hood for Leonidas Merritt, long term candidate, made short talks.

Mr. Kaplan made a plea for a municipal food sales department, and Mr. Silberstein took issue with him. Mr. Silberstein declared that if all the shops in Duluth were done away with, it would be a city of 10,000 people, instead of having attained its present growth. He declared for the municipal ownership of the electric lighting plant and said that the will of the people must be carried out by the candidates elected.

Prince's Keynote Speech.

It was Mr. Prince's first appearance on the platform in the campaign and his talk indicated the lines he is to follow in future speeches. He declared himself emphatically for municipal ownership, and declared that his platform is not dictated by any interest.

In opening, he said that the change in the form of municipal government was made in order to make the government more responsive to the people. He congratulated the charter commission on giving Duluth a charter, which he predicted will be adopted as a model by other cities.

"I cannot emphasize too strongly the statement that I stand absolutely on the platform I outlined when I decided to become a candidate for mayor," he said. "My platform is my own platform. It has not been dictated by or submitted to the Duluth-Edison interests, the brewery interests, the Duluth Street railway interests or any other interests. It is my own platform. It is what I believe in, and it is what I stand on. On the question of municipal ownership I think I have been as square-toed as anyone in this city, and if anyone cannot understand my platform, I am now willing to explain what I said.

"In my platform I stated that 'I am in favor of municipal ownership of public utilities and their acquisition by the city as the public necessities require.' This applies to all public utilities operating in the city. Further on in section 5 of my platform, I stated that 'all matters of regulation of public utilities by franchise or contract should be submitted to the voters for their consideration by the referendum, and their decision must govern and must be followed. This applies both to the past and the future.'

"I meant by that section in my platform that the decision of the voters on any question must govern and must be followed. The question of the electric light bonds was submitted to the voters and their wish as expressed a year ago must be followed and must govern, and I am in favor of carrying out the wishes of the voters as expressed by them.

"We have arrived at the stage in our municipal affairs when a man who would be a public officer must realize that he is the servant of the people. All government comes from the people, and the man who would set himself up over the people, disregarding their demands, does not deserve the support of a single citizen. The laws must be obeyed and if the people do like certain laws on our statute books, they should be repealed, but I tell you in so far as I am concerned that if I am elected mayor of Duluth I shall enforce the laws without favoritism or discrimination to any corporation, political ring or individual.

"If I thought that my election to the office of mayor could only be brought about by alliance with influences detrimental to the city, then I tell you in truth I would rather not be elected, for the only kind of an office I aspire to is the one where I can bring to it my best efforts, feeling that much can be done for Duluth by a continuous and constant study of its needs.

"Laws must be obeyed to the letter, and the man who thinks he is strong enough to break the law and succeed need expect but little sympathy from me.

"In this spirit of fairness, I say I have an ambition to be mayor of Duluth, but I want to say to you tonight in all sincerity, 'Lay aside your personal feelings, your prejudices and your political affiliations. Do your duty as an honest citizen, voting for the man for mayor who best deserves to work for the high standards you have set for him, and whether elected or defeated, I shall feel amply repaid in the knowledge that I can work with you either as your mayor ar as a private citizen for the attainment of the purposes we seek now to secure."

Mr. Cullum replied to criticism of his former administrations, saying:

"Under the old form of government I could not always do what I wanted to do. Under the commission plan, if elected, I will be able to carry out the people's wishes. However, every man in public office is criticized, and he can expect to be. You cannot please everybody. So many want you to say 'yes' to something that will benefit them at the expense of someone else. The thing for the voters to do is to elect men who will carry out their will. In regard to the commission form of government, I was the only one of the candidates for mayor now seeking your suffrage, to agitate this subject three years ago. I favored it because I realized that the mayor cannot carry out the people's rule unless he has a free rein."

DAY TALKS ON PARK POINT

Says Only Issue in Present Campaign Is Good Government.

D. H. Day, candidate for mayor, spoke before the Park Point voters at the mission last night on the issues of the campaign. Following his usual custom he gave a short explanation of the preferential system of voting.

He said in part: "To my mind the enforcement of the liquor laws resolves itself into a question of the elimination of the special privilege of the few. I cannot get it out of my head that the great majority of the saloon men are willing to obey the law provided their competitors, who apparently enjoy a special privilege, are compelled to do likewise. I feel satisfied that if the liquor laws were strictly enforced against the few who are persistently violating them, the rest of the saloon men would be glad to close up and go home at 11 o'clock at night, and take their Sunday vacation and rest with the balance of the people.

"I have said in my platform, and I say it now, and I shall continue to say it until the end of this campaign that the only issue in this election is good city government. We have adopted the most modern, democratic charter that ever was framed in the interest of the people of any city in the United States, a charter that makes possible a city government that will, in the right hands, approach more nearly the efficiency and economy of administration of the business affairs of the well-managed private business corporation than has ever been reached by any city in the United States.

"But I wish to impress upon you the fact that unless you elect at least three men who are absolutely free from the influence of the electric light company and the allied interests, you will find yourselves no farther advanced than you are at present. Beware of those candidates that are telling you to elect them first, and trust to the recall to protect your interests. The recall is a weapon in the hands of the people that can only be used when the public official gets so openly rotten that public sentiment will no longer tolerate him.

"You will never be able to recall a man for not carrying out the wishes of the people in regard to the acquisition of the electric light plant. Your only safe course lies in electing men as commissioners whose past lives and actions show that they are the true friends of the people.

"These men that have jumped on the municipal ownership platform at the last minute, and only then when forced to do so by public opinion are not to be trusted. I have a record behind me for work performed in the cause of municipal ownership. There are other men who have as good records. But they are not the last minute men, that desperate bunch of eleventh hour men that are now hanging around the neck of the Municipal Ownership league."

LEAGUE TO SEND OUT SPEAKERS

Organizations Are Urged to Hold Meetings to Discuss Public Ownership.

The Socialist candidates addressed a big crowd at Victor hall, West Duluth, last night.

Ed. T. Harris of Superior told of the achievements of the Seidel administration of Milwaukee, asserting that the Socialist candidates are inspired by the same ideals and determination and would, if elected, accomplish much more because of the wide leeway of the present charter for constructive work.

He recounted the history of the Socialist administration of Milwaukee. Among the most important achievements, he said, were the reduction of the price for paving from $2.50 to $1.45 a yard, saving, thereby, $700,000 in one year. They reduced the tax rate; gave all city employes one day off 'n seven and an eight-hour day; started child welfare work, thereby reducing infant mortality 43 per cent in the ward where it has been tried; established a municipal electric light plant in connection with the garbage incinerator and thus utilized the waste steam and saved the city $1,000,000 by compelling the street railway company to live up to the franchise provisions in regard to paving. The Socialist tax commissioner unearthed $45,000,000 more taxable property than his predecessor.

P. J. Phillips, Morris Kaplan and Ed. Blackwood were the other speakers.

The next meeting will be held this evening at Lakeside town hall. Sunday afternoon the candidates will speak at the Maccabee hall at New Duluth and Monday night at the mission at 1627 London road and at 431 East Fourth street.

WEATHER IS DRAWBACK

Early Easter Is Drawback to Some Lines of Trade.

Big Rush Expected Saturday—Beautiful Displays of Flowers.

While the Easter trade so far has been handicapped to an extent by the very unseasonable weather—as viewed from an Easter point of view—indications are that tomorrow there will be an enormous rush, and the various stories are preparing for it.

Everybody has been waiting to see what King Sol would do. Today has helped matters to some extent, and indications seem to be that there will be a further rush of purchasers tomorrow. Today people are buying much more liberally than they have at any time since the actual Easter season began. Of course Easter is always regarded as the correct season for the refurnishing of wardrobes and the day on which all—men and women alike—are expected to appear in their gala attire.

As it is the chief growth of purchasing is shown in the acquirement of Easter greeting cards. One Superior street dealer says that he has increased his orders each year ever since he has been in business and that although this year he grew reckless in giving an order for Easter cards, he is almost sold out. That seems to be the fact with most of the stationery stores which handle these cards. The habit of sending these neatly worded cards of esteem is growing, he declared, and it is conceded that he should know.

Easter is a month earlier than usual this year, but even at that, the neat little accessories such as postals and flowers are not forgotten. As to flowers, there is a fine selection at all of the stores, but one cannot see them from the outside for the reason that, unlike other years, the flowers cannot be displayed outside of the buildings, as is the usual custom. The dealers must trust to the memory of those intending to buy. Therefore, up to date the sales have not been so good, but there is today apparent a nervous haste among those who are buying which, it is believed, indicates a rush tomorrow. In cases of this kind, it is generally known, the rush comes at the last moment, and every flower dealer in Duluth expects his stock to be wiped out long before tomorrow night. There are some beautiful displays of the trumpet lily, jonquils, hyacinths and other flowers appropriate to the season, and all preparation has been made for tomorrow's invasion.

FIVE KILLED IN MISSOURI

Storm Does Great Damage in and Around Poplar Bluffs.

Memphis, Tenn., March 21.—Five persons were killed and more than fifty injured by the storm last night at Poplar Bluff, Mo., according to members of the crew of the St. Louis & San Francisco railroad passenger train which arrived here today.

They also reported one dead and twenty-five injured at Hoxie, Ark., and the town practically destroyed.

Great damage was done at Poplar Bluffs and the country between that point and Hoxie.

Aged Man Killed.

Columbus, Ohio, March 21.—At Tiffin, Ohio, William Wick, 75 years old, was instantly killed and six or eight are believed to be buried in the debris of the smokestack of the county infirmary, which was wrecked today by the high winds. Three others are known to be injured. Tottering walls made rescue almost impossible.

Startling Rumor.

Mobile, Ala., March 21.—An unconfirmed rumor from Lower Peach Tree on the Alabama river is to the effect that fourteen people were killed and an immense amount of damage done by a tornado which swept through that place early last evening.

Bringing Marooned Passengers.

St. Paul, Minn., March 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Great Northern Oriental Limited No. 1, carrying passengers from five Great Northern trains marooned in the Rocky mountains between Essex and Summit since last Tuesday, will arrive in St. Paul late today.

The first of these trains left Seattle for St. Paul last Friday. Since then every transcontinental train, both passenger and freight, has been blockaded by the drifts.

The blockade was broken early yesterday when a rotary snow plow succeeded in cutting through the mountains of ice and snow. Great Northern officials assert traffic has been resumed and conditions again are normal.

Two Boats Missing.

Sandusky, Ohio, March 21.—Two boats are missing, one is on the rocks and another is in distress in the sixty mile gale that is sweeping Sandusky today. It is feared six or more men have been drowned. Life savers have gone to the rescue of six others who are in extreme peril.

One Killed.

Shreveport, La., March 21.—One man was killed, several persons injured and property damage was done at Salina, La., a town of 200 in Bienville parish last night by the severe wind storm, according to a report received here today.

VERY FAR BEHIND.

"What is the matter, sir?" asked the clerk.

"There's no dictograph in my room," replied the state senator.

St. Vitus' dance makes children awkward at first, then restless; later comes the twitching of the muscles and jerking of the limbs and body.

At the first sign of nervousness, inability to sit still, sleeplessness or continued irritability give Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, one after each meal. The change will soon be apparent. As the thin blood becomes rich and red, the starved nerves get the needed nourishment and the alarming symptoms vanish. There is no danger of St. Vitus unless the blood is thin.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are 50 cents per box, six boxes for $2.50 at druggists or from the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y.

PRIMA DONNA IN "A MODERN EVE."

Marion Roddy.

The ideal type of Irish beauty, so often described in fiction, and so seldom observed in life, is to be found in Miss Marion Roddy, the young prima donna in "A Modern Eve," the tuneful Berlin operetta which comes to the Lyceum as the Easter Sunday, Monday and Tuesday attraction. Miss Roddy qualifies as the heroine of any one of Tom Moore's lyric rhapsodies. She was born in this country, but is proud of her Celtic parentage. Curiously enough, her home is in Milwaukee, so she whimsically claims to be German by adoption. Miss Roddy is the debutante of the company, having risen from the minor role of the "secretary" to the prima donna part in "A Modern Eve," because she is possessed of a voice of superior quality. Primarily, Miss Roddy is an out-of-doors girl, with horseback riding her favorite diversion. Her ambition is grand opera, with its preceding study in Europe, and she says that next summer will see her on her way to Milan, as she prefers the Italian school of singing.

WHY CHANCE UNCERTAINTY

Wm. L. Bernard's Council Record Speaks For Itself.

The short term commissioners will have as important a part under the new form of government for two years, at least, as the man who will be elected for the long term or for mayor.

The citizens of Duluth want commissioners of reliability; they want men of whom no doubt exists; they want men who can give them an administration which will carry out the wishes which were expressed by the adoption of the new charter.

The voters KNOW where William L. Bernard stands on the municipal ownership question. He demonstrated his posittion by the consistent fight which he has made for municipal ownership during the three years he has served as an alderman.

While in the council he has been one of its most progressive members. He has pushed all forward legislation looking to the best interest of the city. Investigate his record. It will satisfy you that in supporting him for short term commissioner you will be voting for a man who is not only familiar with city affairs but who has a record of useful accomplishment which eliminates any possibility of doubt of what his position will be as one of the commissioners who will be chosen April 1.

MAKES RHEUMATISM PROMPTLY DISAPPEAR

Chronic, Crippled-up Sufferers Find Relief After Few Doses of New Remedy Are Taken.

It is needless to suffer any longer with rheumatism, and be all crippled up, and bent out of shape with its heart-wrenching pains, when you can surely avoid it.

Rheumatism comes from weak, inactive kidneys, that fail to filter from the blood, the poisonous waste matter and uric acid; and it is useless to rub on liniments or take ordinary remedies to relieve the pain. This only prolongs the misery and can't possibly cure you.

The only way to cure rheumatism is to remove the cause. The new discovery, Croxone, does this because it neutralizes and dissolves all the poisonous substances and uric acid that lodge in the joints and muscles, to scratch and irritate and cause rheumatism, and cleans out and strengthens the stopped-up, inactive kidneys, so they can filter all the poison from the blood, and drive it on and out of the system.

Croxone is the most wonderful medicine ever made for curing chronic rheumatism, kidney troubles, and bladder disorders. You will find it different from all other remedies. There is nothing else on earth like it. It matters not how old you are, or how long you have suffered, it is practically impossible to take it into the human system without results. You will find relief from the first few doses, and you will be surprised how quickly all your misery and suffering will end.

An original package of Croxone costs but a trifle at any first-class drug store. All druggists are authorized to sell it on a positive money-back guarantee. Three doses a day for a few days is often all that is ever needed to cure the worst backache or overcome urinary disorders.

Dread of an Operation

N. Manchester, Ind.—Mrs. Eva Bashore, of this place, says, "I suffered female misery of every decription. Two doctors attended me, and advised an operation. I lost weight until I weighed only ninety pounds. I dreaded an operation, and, instead, began to take Cardui. In a short time, I gained 25 pounds, and feel as well as I ever did. Cardui, I am sure, saved my life." Cardui is today used in thousands of homes, where it relieves pain and brings back strength and ambition. It is a woman's medicine, for women's ailments, and you are urged to try it for your troubles. Ask your druggist. He will tell you about Cardui.

GOLD THAT IS NOW HOARDED

Will Be Invested in Securities When the Balkan War Ends.

This Year Expected to Break All Records as to Business.

New York, March 21.—The drain of gold to Europe and South America continues, and dealers in foreign exchange gave no idea as to how soon it will cease. The result of the movement, so far, is higher rates for money here, but not so high as to check business in the slightest degree.

So many dates have been set for the closing of the Balkan war, and the struggle still continued after those dates, that now European bankers and stock brokers refuse to make any predictions as to the time of its closing.

In discussing financial affairs this week with one of the most active of European promoters, he said that Europe's apparent scarcity of gold was not in any sense indicative of danger.

Europe, he said, possessed today more gold than ever before in its history, but that the banks by reserves, and the people through processes of hoarding, had curtailed the volume of circulation at the very time that commercial and industrial demands for currency were at a maximum.

In regard to sales of securities and operations in stocks, no heavy business, he said, was possible under the sentimental conditions of the dealers and people at this time.

When the Balkan war was finally out of the way, he stated, he expected the heaviest dealings in European stock markets that had ever been known. The money in the private hoards would be rushed to investments, and he predicted a famous bull market abroad for every kind of stocks when peace in the Balkan countries was once fully assured.

Gambling Habit Abroad.

He said that the stock gambling habit was far more prevalent in Europe, as far as men of large capital were concerned, than it was in the United States; that the men over the water who had money to invest paid less attention to the intrinsic values or merits of the mine, plant or process upon which stocks were issued than they did to the chances of rapid rise in values of the shares they purposed dealing in.

That men who had made a success in management and manipulation of shares to give profits to investors who went in early in their ventures, were regarded with more favor and could command a more profitable patronage than men who were in direct management of the mines, plants or works and knew their actual profit producing capacity.

His views as to this were clearly expressed, and he was so familiar with the details of various large operations that had been carried on in London, Paris and Berlin it was apparent he was describing a sphere of modern activity that was far removed from the old time methods when investments were made upon knowledge of the actual worth of the property invested in.

The proposed double tax rate on stock transfers in the state of New York will not be pushed, as defeat of the proposition was plainly evident, and Governor Sulzer, who at first favored it, was convinced that it would result in harm to the general business of the state.

Rejoicing on Wall Street.

There was tumultuous rejoicing in the stock exchanges and in the brokers' offices all over the downtown section when it was known that the bill was killed.

The other measures looking to the regulation and control of the stock exchanges through legislation bearing directly upon their operations will become law when amended and made over in certain lines. The net result will be clearer and straighter business upon the exchanges, and now that the state has assumed direction of their affairs, it is very probable that reforms from year to year will be in fashion and ultimately there will be little left in stock exchange methods for customers to find fault with.

Business outside of Wall street not only holds its very great volume of the last year, but is making higher records in many lines. There is not in any section of the country the slightest indication of a check or even a hesitation in trade.

I have made inquiry among persons whose trade relations are such that they are the earliest to show even a trade shiver so sensitive are their adjustments, but the result of the inquiry was the assurance that business was actually increasing in all the important branches of trade.

It is stated that in many forms of the steel and iron trades there is a limit to the output through inability to obtain labor, and yet capacity is being worked now fully up to 90 per cent of its maximum.

The Building Outlook.

The applications for building permits in Manhattan last week involved a total in valuations much greater than the same period of last year. One of the largest constructions on the files was the new store for Lord & Taylor, and this in itself ran into the millions in value.

The railways of the country are doing an enormous business, and their managers are so encouraged by the outlook for long continued and profitable big business that they are placing large orders for locomotives, cars and all classes of construction and repair material.

President Brown of the New York Central, is enthusiastic over the wealth of the West and the great reserves of the last harvests, which still have to be transported and marketed.

He is not alone in this, but if one may designate a great many who hold the same opinion as he, as a crowd of optimists, it would correctly describe the state of mind of the men in position to know true conditions as to material business affairs in the United States.

It is indeed difficult to say which section of the country is developing the fastest, for all of them are reporting increasing population and larger numbers of persons employed than at any time in our history.

The Pacific coast, from Vancouver to San Diego, is flourishing. The Rocky mountain states and the great Central Northwest never had so much business as at the present time, nor were the farming and mining intrests ever more profitable.

The gulf states, the Atlantic seaboard states, the great states of the Mississippi valley, these all are in prime condition as far as current and prospective business is concerned.

It looks as if 1913 will break all records as to huge business in values and volume.

COYOTES KNOW THAT DOGS ARE MUZZLED.

Grass Valley, Cal., March 21.—Five coyotes and two wildcats were trapped within a few days in Penn valley by Will Tisher. During the past several months the dogs all over the country have been muzzled, and the coyotes seem to have realized that their privileges in the foraging line were increased.

They ventured elcse to the houses, and appeared to have no fear of the muzzled dogs.

But now that the fear of rabies has passed, the farmers have removed the muzzles, and for a night or two the dogs brought down several coyotes, although it required a stiff fight in some instances.

Other farmers in that section have been successful in trapping the animals, and in addition to ridding themselves of these chicken thieves and pests, they will receive a bounty of $2.50 each for the coyote scalps.

MAN HAS GOT HIS OWN CHURCH NOW

Janitor, Deacon, Elder and Sometimes Even the Preacher.

Reading, Pa., March 21.—A novel service was held at Topton, this county, on Sunday, when Ephraim Steffy, 66 years old, until recently a member of the United Evangelical church, who has erected his own church, held the formal dedication ceremonies. He calls the church the House of God. He built it so he could "serve the Master with exuberant expression of heart and soul, according to the dictates of his conscience."

The church is a neat structure and was planned, erected and paid for by Steffy. Operations were started last October, and the finishing touches were made last week. The cost of the building, including the furnishings, is about $3,000. It has a seating capacity of 125. The building is complete throughout, containing even a miniature gas plant. The congregation is five members strong. No one has ever been selected to serve the church as pastor, and Steffy, for the present, is the janitor, deacon, elder and trustee, and sometimes he does the preaching.

The congregation will not be affiliated with any other sect or church. The House of God is the name given the building by Mr. Steffy and he gives the following reasons for calling it this:

"The people here on earth cannot live in harmony. If everybody will go to heaven, then surely there will have to be many apartments; some folks must be assigned to separate rooms. If people cannot live consistently here on earth, they can much less live together in the realms above. I mean just what I say. There is only one church and that is the church of God. My church is built on the rock of Jesus Christ. Many churches are easily swept away. The majority of the ministers nowadays preach only for money. They care not whether people go to heaven or to some other place. My heart goes out to the people of Topton who lack religion."

YOUR FRECKLES

Need Attention in February and March or Face May Stay Covered.

Now is the time to take special care of the complexion if you wish it to look well the rest of the year. The February and March winds have a strong tendency to bring out freckles that may stay all Summer unless removed. Now is the time to use othine—double strength.

This prescription for the removal of freckles is the discovery of an eminent skin specialist, and is so uniformly successful that it is sold by Boyce Drug Store under guarantee to refund the money if it fails. Get an ounce of othine—double strength, and even a few applications should show a wonderful improvement, some of the smaller freckles even vanishing entirely.

WORK IS RESUMED ON GRANT'S TOMB

New York, March 21.—Although thity-one years have elapsed since the corner stone of Grant's tomb was laid, the monument is not yet finished. The subscription fund of $350,000 for the building of the tomb proved inadequate to supply nine stained glass windows which were planned, but out of the city appropriation of $7,000 a year toward maintenance of the mausoleum the windows have at last been bought and placed.

Two other features originally planned, however, have not yet been realized. There are groups of statuary to decorate the top of the dome, and pavement and landscape gardening. Out of the city fund the Grant Monument association is now trying to save enough to provide the groups of statuary, and the park department is to ask a $25,000 appropriation for landscape gardening, including the planting of trees along the board walk leading to the entrance.

Among the thousands of visitors to Grant's tomb there have often been comments of the barren appearance of the site, which at present is relieved only by two trees of any size, those planted by Li Hung Chang.

TO BECOME PRIEST.

Former Successful Actor to Be Ordained in June.

Baltimore, Md., March 21.—Michael Byrne, one of the famous Byrne brothers who made fortunes out of "Eight Bells," a theatrical attraction of a quarter century ago, is to become a priest.

Mr. Byrne is the father of three children—Miss Bessie Byrne, a trained nurse, who resides in New York city; James Byrne, an actor, and Dr. John F. Byrne of Baltimore.

Mrs. Byrne died five years ago, and after continuing on the stage for a year Michael Byrne apparently dropped into obscurity. In reality he decided to become a priest and started his studies at St. Francis academy, Loretta, Pa., where he will be ordained in June. He has already been elevated to the rank of deacon.

When the ordination takes place his children will be present. His first mass will be solemnized in Norwich, Conn., where he made his home, and his first charge will be at Atlanta, Ga.

MOST DEVOUT MAY LIKEWISE BE LOST

Evangelist Says Common Fate Awaits Dissenters, Sincere or Otherwise.

"Can a Good Man Be Lost" was the subject of a sermon preached last evening before a large audience at the First Christian church by Rev. Robert Whiston, evangelist. His sermon was based on the conversion of Cornelius. Tonight he will give his lecture-sermon on "Heroes," in which he will describe the greatest game of baseball ever played, pitched by Cy Young and Rube Waddell.

Evangelist Whitson illustrated his sermon last evening by relating many experiences which he had had during his evangelistic work in thirty-two states. He said in part:

"There is but one source of information concerning the Christian religion and that source is the Bible, particularly the New Ttestament. No church, no human being are sources of information. The church is not the source of truth but the bearer. God has given the world His book as His final revelation, and the duty of the church is to pass it on absolutely without change. The Bible stands in the same relation to the church, that the Constitution of the United States does to this republic. The teachings and doctrines of the church are not matters of opinion but of divine authority.

"Cornelius was a devout man, a God-fearing man, a generous and praying man, yet it was necessary for him to hear and obey the gospel. He had lived up to all the truth he knew, and when the further truth was revealed he had the courage to do it. God will hold us to the light we have. Had this good moral devout man Cornelius refused to follow the new truth revealed, he would have been damned like any Twenty-fifth avenue west and Third street. sinner. 'He that knoweth to do right and doeth it not, to him it is sin.' There is a higher law than sincerity and conscience—the law of the truth. Sincerity amounts to little if we are wrong—particularly when it is possible to be right."

"Every Little OliveTabletHas a Movement All Its Own"

Your doctor will tell you ninety per cent of all sickness comes from inactive bowels and liver. Dr. Edwards, a well-known physician in Ohio, perfected a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil, to act on the liver and bowels, which he gave to his patients for years.

Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel, are gentle in their action, yet always effective. They bring about that exuberance of spirit, that natural buoyancy which should be enjoyed by everyone, by toning up the liver and clearing the system of harmful impurities.

BURIES A STRANGER INSTEAD OF HUSBAND.

San Francisco, Cal., March 21.—A year ago Mrs. Christine Webber identified a body at the city morgue as that of her husband and paid for its private burial. Mrs. Webber admitted that she had not seen her husband for five months, but just the same she was positive the body was his. She paid the cost of interment.

Some months before Mrs. Webber had filed suit for divorce, charging Webber with non-support.

Shortly after the funeral Mrs. Webber's husband appeared at the boarding house where his wife was living. Though her husband protested that he wasn't a ghost and wanted to be reconciled, his pleadings fell on deaf ears.

When Mrs. Webber recovered from her fright she renewed her divorce suit. The divorce was granted.

If you have a persistent, nagging bronchial cough beware of cough remedies. They are merely local in action, and if they do relieve it is the narcotics that do it. What you require is a blood purifier, a searching antidote that removes from the circulation the acid poisons that by their reflexes attack all weakness, susceptible spots and thus create local symptoms. The very best remedy known is Swift's Sure Specific. You will find it on sale in any drug store at $1.00 per bottle. It goes straight into the blood, becomes an internal blood bath, wonderfully increases the red corpuscles, cures all the local fever spots and irritations, increases appetite, you take on flesh and feel a wonderful sense of renewed strength. Hundreds of people worried beyond control at cough, pains in the chest, sore throat and constant expectoration of thick mucous have experienced the most wonderful change after using S. S. S. All doubt and apprehension is gone, those peculiar pains and aches vanish, there follows a period of most intense rejoicing to find that worst fears were based entirely upon a mistaken notion that cough and chest pains come from the lungs. REUNION OF MASONS ENDS

Maundy Thursday Banquet Attended By 630 Members of Scottish Rite.

Ceremony of Relighting Lights to Be Held Sunday Afternoon.

The spring reunion of the Scottish Rite bodies practically ended last evening with the Maundy Thursday banquet and the ceremony of extinguishing the lights. However, there will be one more gathering in this connection. That will be on Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock at which the members of the Rite will gather at the temple, corner of Lake avenue and Second street, to witness the closing ceremony, the relighting of the lights.

At the banquet last evening it is estimated that 630 people sat down. Scores came from the ranges and the surrounding country to attend. The ceremony of extinguishing the lights and the banquet were permissible for only Masons on whom has been conferred the eighteenth degree, the knighthood of Rose Croix. The banquet is obligatory upon such knights.

Carl F. Wiberg, wise master of A. T. C. Pierson chapter, Rose Croix, presided. During the program several numbers were given by the Scottish Rite quartet, each of which was greatly enjoyed. In fact all through the reunion the music by the quartet has caused a great deal of favorable comment. Last night the quartet sang the "Pilgrim's Chorus" from "Tannhauser," "Love's Old Sweet Song," and "Mine" by Solman. Charles O. Applehagen sang "The Ocean Never Sleeps."

At the beginning of the program, T. D. Hugo, inspector general of the thirty-third degree for Minnesota, responded to the toast "Albert Pike and the Supreme Council." Rabbi Lefkovitz, thirty-second degree, responded to the toast "Our Country." "The Grand Lodge of Minnesota" was responded to by B. F. Fowler, thirty-second degree, and Owen Morris, thirty-third degree and past grand master of the grand lodge of Minnesota, made a few remarks. One of the cleverest speeches of the evening was delivered by F. J. Searles, a young attorney of Cloquet, who responded to the toast to the class of 1913 of which he was a member.

The evening was finished by a roll call by Henry Nesbitt, K. C. C. H., "taps" by Charles Helmer and the quartet, and the usual pronouncement in memoriam of Gen. Albert Pike, by Judge William A. Cant, thirty-third degree.

TRAVELING SALESMAN ENDS LIFE WITH RAZOR

Oakland, Cal., March 21.—The body of a well-dressed young man, supposed to be T. J. Smith, a traveling salesman for the Waldron Jewelry company of Chicago, was found yesterday near one of the suburban railway stations, with the throat cut. Seventy rings and a quantity of other jewelry were in the pockets. Nearby lay a bloody razor and a card on which was printed "Anne J. Smith, 203 Terrance street, Janesville, Wis." The police believe Smith committed suicide.

Janesville, Wis., March 21.—No explanation could be given by relatives of Theodore J. Smith for the suicidal act of the man at Oakland, Cal.

He had been traveling for five years for the Waldron Jewelry company of Chicago, and was the son of J. Morris Smith, an engineer on the Chicago & Northwestern railroad.

The card bearing the name "Anne J. Smith" found in his pockets is that of his sister. Smith was 34 years old.

CONNECTED BY WIRE TO SAN FRANCISCO

Duluth Gets on Circuit With Big Western Cities Owing to "Wire Trouble."

"Wire trouble" early today was responsible for Duluth being "hooked up" with San Francisco, Omaha, Kansas City, Denver, Salt Lake City, Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul, Minneapolis and many smaller cities taking the leased wire service of the Associated Press.

Duluth was "on the end." The other end was San Francisco. Only once before has a direct wire to the coast been secured in Duluth. That was on the occasion of a big prizefight in Los Angeles.

All wires were down east of Chicago. Sleet storms passed over Southern Minnesota, Wisconsin, Illinois, Ohio, Indiana and east as far as Western Pennsylvania. During the night all wires went down near Pittsburg, Pa. At 7:30 a. m. today Chicago "got" Duluth, Minneapolis, St. Paul, Milwaukee and six or seven smaller cities. Then Chicago asked Minneapolis Postal office to "put on Omaha and Kansas City." This eventually was accomplished. The regular route out of Chicago to Omaha and Kansas City was down.

Omaha started to "call" for Kansas City. Kansas City finally got adjusted for Omaha. Then Chicago "called" Kansas City. Meanwhile Kansas City had been working with Denver. Denver answered up, and asked Chicago how he got Denver. Chicago said he got Denver all right. Denver than called "DU," which is the call for San Francisco. San Francisco immediately said "Good morning," and the circuit from the American Head of the Lakes to San Francisco and the Pacific coast was complete.

Then came a rattle on the circuit, and Minneapolis Postal reported that he had "lost" Chicago. Sleet had tied up the heavy copper wires between Minneapolis and the Windy City.

Omaha, Kansas City and the Pacific coast were lost directly afterward, and Duluth again resumed its position as part of the Northwest circuit, excepting that Chicago remained "lost."

MRS. G. W. SMITH DIES AT HER HOME

Had Been a Resident of Duluth for Last Twenty Years.

Mrs. G. W. Smith, 58 years of age and a well-known resident of Duluth for twenty years, died yesterday at the family home, 27 South Twenty-first avenue east, after a long illness.

The funeral services took place at the residence at 3:30 o'clock this afternoon and were private. Following the services the body was taken to Iowa City, Iowa, for interment beside that of her late husband, who died several years ago.

Mrs. Smith is survived by one son, Seymous, two daughters, Saddie and Helen, a brother, Dr. Frank Seymour of Fort Dodge, Iowa, and a sister, Mrs. Clara Knapp.

BLONDES LESS STEADY.

Woman Physician Advises Laundries to Hire Only Brunettes.

Chicago, March 21.—If blonde mangle girls find it hard to convince the boss laundryman they deserve more pay, they can blame it on Dr. Katherine M. S. Blackford of Chicago. Addressing the Illinois Laundrymen's association, the woman physician said:

"Don't hire blondes. They jump their jobs too quickly. Blondes like speculative lines and do not at all mind taking chances. Brunettes, on the other hand, generally are steady. They stick to one thing and don't run after variety."

ROARING BILL FROM ROCKIES IS BUCKER.

New York, March 21.—Roaring Bill, the Rocky mountain ram recently acquired for Bronx Zoological park, has already demonstrated his superiority over all other bucking goats there and is giving lots of trouble.

On his arrival he was installed in roomy quarters in the new zebra house, but he had not been there three hours when he demolished the heavy iron gate and was at work on the bars which would have given him the freedom of the park when he was observed by Keeper James McBride. The keeper tried to coax him back, but the ram got a good hold on McBride and only the thickness of the brick wall against which he was flung saved the keeper from landing out near the Southern boulevard. Since then McBride has had little to do with Roaring Bill, and Barney McEnroe, the real goat tamer, is now trying to persuade him to be good.

Besides smashing the iron bars and gate, Bill has demolished a new folding hayrack installed for his especial accommodation and has torn several bricks out of the ten-inch wall, greatly weakening it. He as also transferred most of the paint from the walls and fences to his horns.

Roaring Bill is of the Big Horn variety and weighs about 400 pounds. His horns are curved and corrugated, and Curator Ditmars believes that he would be able to penetrate armor plate.

"We have had some previous trouble with goats," said Mr. Ditmars, "but this one has done more damage than ever the Sardinian Mouflon, the Markhor or the Acudad ever tried to do. If he keeps on we'll have to construct a bombproof cell of armor plate for him."

Director Hornaday says Roaring Bill is one of the finest exhibits in the park. What some of the keepers say would not look well in print.

HELP THE STUDENTS.

Representative Child of Minneapolis has offered the legislature a bill that would authorize state loans to students in the state university who are in need of funds to help them complete their work there. The plan is that limited amounts should be loaned to needy students at 5 per cent interest, the amounts covered by notes payable on demand at any time after two years following the student's severance of his connection with the university.

The plan is well worth adoption. There has been much criticism in this and other states that the state institutions of higher education or of special education are beyond the reach of the people of small means. Such a plan as this would do away with that criticism, as it would give an opportunity for young men and women with ambition to fit themselves for life work under conditions that would not be too severe a strain on them after the completion of their studies.

The state can well afford to make such loans, even at only 5 per cent interest, for there is little likelihood that many of them would remain unpaid, and the money would go into the creation of that many more citizens well fitted for work in the several communities.

The same people who elected the members of the Illinois legislature declared for Lewis and Sherman for senators. Evidently the legislators don't think much of the wisdom of the people who elected them.

THE CASHMAN LAW.

After long fighting on the part of its advocates and much bitterness of spirit over the issue as between the two large cities of the state and the less thickly populated districts, the Cashman distance tariff bill has become a law, by its passage by both houses of the legislature and the signature of Governor Eberhart.

There is no expectation that it will become operative, even at so remote a date as Jan. 1, 1914, the date when its provisions are scheduled to take effect. In the first place some terms of the Cashman law are bound up with the state rate law now awaiting decision before the supreme court of the United States. And secondly, it is admitted that the provisions of the new act will be made the subject of a series of legal actions that, if they are accompanied by the customary injunction proceedings, will have the effect of delaying the operation of the law.

The Cashman bill as it passed the legislature, like other measures of the same character that have preceded it in that body, is based on the theory that the Twin Cities have been given preferential treatment by the railroads, and the new law is designed to put an end to that practice. It provides that whenever a railroad charges a given rate for stated service over any particular part of its system within the state, it must give the same rate for equal service for the same distance in any other part of the state. That is, if a railroad charges 5 cents a mile for hauling a ton of goods from Crookston to the Twin Cities, it must not charge more or less than 5 cents a mile for hauling a ton of the same kind of goods from Crookston to another point in the state the same distance from Crookston as the Twin Cities. Certain modifications of this provision are made to meet competitive conditions, but that is the general principle recognized in the act.

How it will work out in practice is admittedly somewhat problematical. Iowa has had it in force for several years, but no other state has copied the plan. Iowa has developed into a state with comparatively no cities of importance that were not built up before the distance tariff principle was put into practice, and opponents of the Cashman bill laid this fact largely at the door of the distance tariff. It is also charged that several communities now given suitable rates will find that benefit cut off by the Cashman law.

But all that is very largely theory. Granting that the courts do nothing to overthrow the new law, Minnesota is at last to have an intimate experience with the distance tariff. The fight has been long and bitter, and there can be no doubt that Senator Cashman will receive much congratulation on his work and its outcome. If the law shall prove but half as advantageous as its advocates have predicted, it will be a great factor in building up the sections of the state that as yet have hardly begun to attain their full possibility of development.

Year by year words take on new and unexpected meanings. Now an optimist is a man who still refuses to buy a new snow shovel even though the old one is worn out.

THE RENSAA CASE.

Even if an appeal is taken in the Rensaa case, the verdict granted in that action will stand out as an impressive warning both to saloon keepers and the companies that furnish bonds for those who engage in that kind of business.

Mrs. Rensaa was granted damages amounting to nearly $4,000 against Gust Egdahl, saloon owner, and $4,000 more against the company that furnished a bond for Egdahl, because her husband was seriously injured in a saloon owned by the former. The state law gives the wife of a man so injured an independent right to recover damages under such conditions. Rensaa himself still has a right to sue for damages on his own account.

The man who invites others to drug themselves into insensibility or helplessness in his place of business ought to be made to bear the responsibility for any injuries they may suffer when they accept his invitation. That is the principle on which the law is based, and it is one that the public at large heartily indorses. In the Rensaa case it has been enforced.

It may be claimed that any man who drinks thereby lays himself open to the results of his act, just as any man who thrusts his hand into the fire must expect to be burned. But is there no responsibility resting upon the one who invites him to undergo the danger? And what about the family and dependents of the victim? Have they no rights? The law says they have, and the verdict in the Rensaa case is in accordance with that law.

There are too many instances of men running saloons who seem to care nothing at all about what happens to those who patronize them. Anything, from personal assault to murder, is likely to happen in these places. A few verdicts like that in the Rensaa case will help to clean out such places as these.

Already the advantages of the new form of ballot are becoming evident. It's a lot easier to start an argument over the coming election than it was under the old system.

THAT CONSTITUTION BILL.

In the mass of bills that were presented to the legislature on the last day for such action there was one that ought to get particular attention. It is that offered by Representatives Bjornson, Holmberg and Nolan, providing for a vote on the calling of a constitutional convention to redraft the state's organic law.

At every election in the last few years the people of Minnesota have been called on to pass upon from two to ten proposed amendments to the state Constitution. At the next statewide election there will be another set ready for the voters. And as far as anybody can judge of the future, the election after that will see another lot of proposed amendments.

Our state Constitution now has the general appearance of a crazy quilt, with a few pieces of one color in one patch and a few pieces of another color in another. It is a fearful mess, when one looks at the original and then tries to fix it over according to the new terms.

There is only one way to get away from the present condition, and that is to have the entire document redrafted and submitted to the voters for their approval. This ought to be done as soon as possible, and goodness knows that will mean delay enough. The bill now before the house provides for submission of the constitutional convention plan to the voters at the general election in November, 1914. That is twenty months away now. If the people then indorse the plan there must be another election to determine the membership of the constitution-drafters, and then will come several months of work on the redrafting. All told, it would probably be at least three years before the new Constitution could be put into effect. It is a long, slow process, and ought to be got at as soon as possible.

The legislators should not allow that contitution bill to be lost sight of. It is important, and need take no particular time in debate. It is unquestionably meritorious, and could just as well be got out of the way in record time.

Reapportionment! Can you believe it?

WITH THREE PENS, TOO!

Reapportionment with three (count them—one, two, three) pens! Think of that!

Did the governor lack faith in the likelihood that the legislature would pass a reapportionment bill? Or what was it that led him to promise to three separate and distinct individuals the pen with which he should sign the bill after it passed the legislature?

But he got out of it very nicely indeed. He simply bought three fountain pens, signed "A. O." with one of them, "Eber" with the second and "hart" with the third. Simple, wasn't it? And so effective.

So now each of the three men to whom the promise was made is satisfied, because he got a historical scribble-stick; the governor is satisfied, both because he did not break his promise and because he got out of a bad hole in a nice way; and the people of the state are satisfied because they have got reapportionment at last. The only way the situation could have been bettered, it seems, would have been for the governor to have promised twenty-three pens, signed his full name and used a different pen for every letter and three for periods. Still, that would have made a big pen bill, and so maybe would have interfered with the governor's satisfaction, so perhaps it is better as it is.

Once more we are reminded of how little importanee we are to the world, individually, by the quick succession of the words, "The king is dead—Long live the king!"

DULUTH'S WATER AND GAS MAINS

To the Editor of The Herald:

How about a little explanation as to the 142,671 miles of water mains owned and operated by the city, also the 126,671 miles of gas mains as stated in The Herald of March 19. I think these figures perhaps may appear all right to some, but think the majority of your readers would be interested to learn the total number of streets in the city, their average length, and then providing each street to be supplied with water or gas mains its entire length it could be figured out and if I am not badly mistaken, the above mileage would supply all of Duluth's streets with water and gas mains, and I believe there would still remain enough mileage to supply several other good sized towns with both water and gas mains.

Mr. Hatch's report on the mileage may be O. K., but the public would be interested to know where the mileage of gas and water mains, as published in the newspapers, could have been used in and about a city the size of Duluth. A SUBSCRIBER.

Duluth, March 20.

There was no intention to mislead the public, either in the report of the water and light board or on the part of The Herald. The figures given by "A Subscriber" are as they appeared in the published statement of the report, as the correspondent says. But they are wrong, because in copying the figures given in the report a comma was accidentally inserted where there should have been a decimal point. The board's report says that there are 142.629 (one hundred and forty-two and six hundred and twenty-nine thousandths) miles of water mains in the city, and 126.671 (one hundred and twenty-six and six hundred and seventy-one thousandths) miles of gas mains. Also that the construction of water mains last year totaled 13.537 miles and of gas mains 14.995 miles.—The Editor.

PRESIDENT FOR ONE DAY.

To the Editor of The Herald:

Please tell me who was president of the United States for one day, and why. A. C. WHITE.

Duluth, March 20.

Senator David Rice Atchison of Clay county, Mo., claimed the unique distinction of holding the office of the president of the United States for one day. The terms of office of President James K. Polk and of Vice President George M. Dallas terminated by limitation on Saturday night at midnight, March 4, 1849. Gen. Zachary Taylor, Polk's successor, was not inaugurated until Monday, March 5, 1849. Senator Atchison was at the time president pro tem of the United States senate. The expiration of Vice President Dallas' term left a vacancy to which Senator Atchison instantly succeeded. This made him ex-officio vice president of the United States, but at the same instant there was likewise a vacancy in the presidential office, to which in turn Atchison instantly succeeded. Senator Atchison was very fond of humorously urging his claim to having been president of the United States for one day. He said he slept most of his term. Of course, there is nothing of record to show that he drew any salary as president.—The Editor.

Church Seats Only Ten.

The Pathfinder: Mexico, for a country that is so poor, boasts some wonderfully big and fine churches, and it also has what is claimed to be the smallest church in the world.

It is situated at Nenon, near the City of Mexico, and is a rude affair, yet it serves all purposes, as the local population is small. It has a "seating capacity" of about ten, though there are in fact no seats. The place is a favorite one for wedding ceremonies, though the altar is so small that only the couple to be married can stand in front of it.

The average person has to stoop in entering the door, but that encourages humility and is a good thing. The little edifice is crowned with two miniature towers with a bell in each, and these bells are rung as ceremoniously as those of the famous cathedral in the capital city.

Doing Good.

Judge: Mrs. Flitterby—So you are on the visiting committee of your social workers' society. I should think you'd find it dreadfully irksome, making all those slum calls.

Mrs. Hunter-Fadde—I'm willing to make the sacrifice for a good cause. Every visiting day I send my maid around with my cards.

When Actors Miss Their Cue

From the Philadelphia Ledger.

New York—"There is one blessing about audiences," said an old actor, "and that is that they are not recording angels. If they were, many a performance would be ruined, for many are the curious and funny mistakes that occur which 'break up' the actors that apparently are not observed from the front.

"Such things as slips of the tongue, passing unnoticed by an audience, are of very frequent occurrence. I heard an actor who had this line in his part: 'It not only means added reputation, but a big fat fee,' say very loudly and distinctly, 'It not only means added reputation but a big fat flea.' I looked quickly at the audience. Not even a faint smile could I perceive on any one face.

"If an actor retains control over his voice and facial muscles there appears to be little limit to the extent he can go in the way of talking nonsense and remain undetected by his audience. His tone of voice and expression of face seem to have so much more power than his words.

"I knew of an actor, cast for the king in 'Hamlet,' who went on for his first performance with insufficient preparation. He began his speech, 'Though yet of Hamlet our dear brother's death the memory be green,' and there he stopped, his memory refusing to carry him further. He retained his presence of mind, stepped with regal dignity down from his throned seat and walked over to Hamlet, his weighty stride heavy with importanee. He whispered into the ear of the star, 'Can't help it, governor, don't know any more,' and before the astonished Hamlet realized what had happened the king was standing majestically in the entrance, where he turned with outstretched arm and said in thrilling, warning tones, 'Mark well, Hamlet, what I have whispered unto thee,' and with a sweeping gesture disappeared into the friendly wings.

"It would seem impossible for a man to go through a whole performance not knowing a line of his part and the audience remain unconscious of that fact. Yet I know such a case. The play was 'Othello,' and, owing to a sudden illness, we were forced to send a man on for the part of Roderigo who not only knew nothing about that particular part, but was ignorant of Shakespeare generally. We were playing a repertoire, and he was in every bill except one Shakespearean play, and he was glad of it, for, he said, frankly, he did not care for that bill.

"So that night we suffered tortures while he enjoyed himself. For he took it as a huge joke when he was told he would have to go on for Roderigo, declaring that the only lines he knew out of Shakespeare were 'Odds bodkins' and 'Marry, forsooth.' I was playing Iago, but I did not flinch when I knew I would have to endure the most of him, for I knew the whole play and could easily dispense with cues. Our Roderigo clothed himself in the other man's velvet and lace costume, in which he remarked he looked about as imposing as a descending balloon. But if this man had little flesh he made up for it in spirit—mischievous spirit. He was warned not to gag in modern English, and then thrust on to the stake to open the play with me.

"He began, 'Ah, Iago, marry forsooth —'

"But I interrupted him, gave myself his line, and then replied to it. With that spirit of mischief facing me I scarcely dared stop to take breath. I incorporated as many of Roderigo's lines into my own speeches as were necessary to make sense, and ground out the whole in a monologue. So he romped through the whole part, making exquisite burlesque of my line in the fifth act—'I have rubbed this young quat almost to the sense and he grows angry,' by being excessively good tempered throughout. When I whispered to him to strike at Cassio he was ready to make several rounds of the fight, and I had some difficulty in persuading him to fall and lie groaning until he received his cue to die, which I gave him with a prod. Here the rascal strained us to the breaking point by saying the real line in the play—'Oh, damned Iago! Oh, human dog!' which he had studied between the acts to surprise us, and now recited with such intense emotional agony that a round of applause broke out from in front as he fell.

"'I'm great in Shakespeare,' he whispered, hear that—scene call.'

"Whereupon the stage manager, leaning tearfully over him, whispered into his ear:

"'They're nearly as glad as we are that you're dead.'"

Queerest of All Fish.

New York Herald: Young Mr. Ogcocepalus Radiatus arrived in New York yesterday from the Florida Keys and registered at the Aquarium. Although comparatively unknown in New York, Mr. Radiatus hopes to conquer Broadway promptly, as he is known in his congressional district as the most versatile fish that ever trod the earth. Trod? Oh, dear yes! He can tread, or stalk, or walk, or swim, or fly—things like that are his specialty, for he is just as much at home on land as a mosquito larva out of water.

Back in the Long Key fishing district they call Mr. Radiatus the bat fish. This is because he has several almost fins, which may be taken for fins, legs or wings, just as one happens to meet him. He is the first member of his family to come to New York, and he signalized his arrival by dashing four times around a tank at the Aquarium, climbing out onto the floor, hanging by his tail from a chandelier and doing two or three new tricks with cards. His tail is shaped like the end of a spear, and he can use it for a variety of purposes, such as picking up smaller fish on his way home to dinner or interfering with the projects of his personal enemies.

Young Mr. Radiatus is only seven inches long, but he is very young and has hopes of growing to more than twice that size. He has a row of spiny thorns down his back which make him look like a saw in repose. He is so fond of the temperature of the waters of the Florida straits that it was necessary for the janitor at the Aquarium to heat his tank to a temperature of 80 deg. before he would stay in it.

Pat and the Clock.

Judge: One of the inmates of a New York insane asylum, an Irishman, was sent to an adjoining ward to find out the correct time. He returned in a moment and announced.

"Twinty minutes t' twilve."

"Pat, are you sure that clock is right?" he was asked.

"Roight, is it?" he replied. "D'ye think it wud be in this place if it wuz roight?"

Statesmen, Real and Near

By Fred C. Kelly.

Washington, March 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—Of the three secretaries who served President Taft, Mr. Hilles was the most gifted in the rare art or handling men without stirring anybody's wrath. It is doubtful if he made an enemy of any caller at the White House during his two years' stay there. His predecessor, Mr. Norton, on the other hand, had a wonderful knack at invariably hitting on just the thing best adapted to send a caller away, sore not only at the secretary, but at the president himself, the wholo administration and the Republican party. And the list of people Norton made mad took in many of his coworkers about the executive offices. One day he had a run-in with a young man acting then as confidential stenographer to the president. Norton made up his mind to have the young man fired. And he purposed to notify him in a way marked by quaint originality and grim humor. He sent for the stenographer and dictated a letter to him. There was nothing unusual about that, in itself, but when the stenographer had the letter all down, he noted that it was his own letter of resignation. Norton bade him typewrite it neatly, paying close attention to the margins and punctuation, and sign it. The stenographer refused to typewrite the letter, and held his job. If he had been standing about in the corridor outside the president's room a few days ago, he would have seen something that might have amused him.

Norton, on a visit to Washington, had stopped in to pay his respects to the new president and the new secretary. He greeted Pat McKenna, the doorkeeper, effusively.

"Well, well, Pat, old fellow, how are you, anyway?" he inquired, extending his hand with much cordiality.

Pat gave him a look of austerity such as one might bestow on an objectionable aspirant for son-in-law or a fake mining stock agent, put his hands in his pockets, and said:

"How do you do, sir. Just sit down"—jerking his head in the direction of the row of chairs where visitors wait.

And there Norton had to sit just like the humblest stranger, while Pat leaned back in his chair and stared at him with much hauteur.

Although he did not know it at the time, Chairman McCombs of the Democratic national committee, was building up his organization to elect Woodrow Wilson president away back in his college days.

McCombs, when at Princeton university some twenty years ago, started an employment bureau to help students work their way through college and to get them jobs in the vacation season and after they got out of college. He got in touch with Princeton alumni in all parts of the country and they helped him place men when they could. Young men who got jobs in this way took their turn at placing younger men, and gradually McCombs had an effective employment bureau that was nation-wide in its scope. There was something fascinating about the system as it grew and expanded and McCombs had his first glimpse of the possibilities of organization.

After he had finished college, McCombs still kept track of hundreds of alumni for whom he had obtained jobs, and as they made good and became important factors in their communities, they formed the nucleus for an effective organization for starting almost anything one might wish to start.

When the time was ripe for launching the Wilson boom, McCombs was able, through his alumni acquaintances, to learn who could do things in any given locality and how to get them to do things that would accrue to the advantage of one Woodrow Wilson.

And thus did he get his project under way.

Key Pittman, the man of many adventures, who is now junior senator from Nevada, always has to stop and think when anybody asks him his age. All his life he has been officially a year too old. When he was about to enter college, he found that he was a year too young to get in, and for that reason "sweetened" his age a year. Gradually he himself came to believe he had lived all the years he said he had. And he has never been able to eradicate the "official" birthdate from his mind. He is now 40 years old—either that or 41.

"Well, do you hate to leave, now that your job has expired?" Martin Littleton was asked, as he stepped out of the house chamber on the last day of the old congress.

"No," said Martin, "I feel exactly like the butler who came in to his master one morning and said he wished to resign his place.

"'And why do you wish to leave?' asked his employer.

"'Oh, just pay me and I'll go on,' said the butler.

"'But that isn't fair,' insisted the employer. 'Tell me why you wish to leave. Haven't you always been treated well?'

"'Oh, yes, sir, but I want to make a change. Give me my money, and we'll say no more about it, sir.'

"'But why won't you tell me your reason for leaving?'

"'Well, if I must tell you, sir,' said the butler, rubbing his hands in nervous embarrassment, 'I'm just sick and tired of looking at you and your family, sir.'"

A Mother's Blessing.

I seek in prayerful words, dear,
My heart's true wish to send you,
That you may know that far or near,
My loving thoughts attend you.

I cannot find a truer word
Nor fonder to caress you,
Nor song nor poem I have heard
Is sweeter than God bless you!

God bless you; so I've wished you
Of brightness life possesses,
For can there any joy at all
Be thine unless God blesses?

God bless you! so I breathe a charm,
Lest grief's dark night oppress you,
For how can sorrow bring you harm,
If 'tis God's way to bless you?

And so, "through all thy days
May shadows touch thee never—"
But this alone—God bless thee, dear—
Then art thou safe forever.

The State Legislature

Press Views on the Session.

Will Help the State.

Red Wing Republican: The Bouck bill, which provides a fund of $75,000 for advertising the state and permits any county to contribute 5 cents per capita towards the support of any development society, has passed both houses and will undoubtedly be signed by the governor. Such a sum of money, if wisely expended, ought to do considerable in promoting the settlement and progress of every section of Minnesota.

Just as Well.

Red Lake Falls Gazette: It is certain that several hundred bills introduced in the legislature will never come up for final consideration. It is also certain that we can get along quite as well without some of the legislation proposed.

Sees Prohibition Ahead.

Park Rapids Enterprise: A constitutional amendment is proposed to be submitted to the voters of the state at the next general election, which would give women the right to vote on all matters dealing with the liquor question. If any one in this world has to bear the miserable effects of the liquor business it is the woman of the home, and there would be nothing less than justice in the adoption of such an amendment. With the women of Minnesota voting on the saloon question, this would soon be a dry state.

Winning Good Will.

St. Cloud Journal Press: The Minnesota legislature is winning the good will of the people of the state. It has passed only eighty-one bills of the 1,782 introduced. What a splendid record it would make by passing the Dunn good roads, the Cashman and the reapportionment bills, and then adjourning! But why expect the millennium in the year 1913, with a Democratic president at Washington?

Unpopular With Sportsmen.

Brainerd Dispatch: The bill before the legislature to prevent the shooting of game birds, prairie chickens, grouse and quail, for five years does not seem to be a popular measure among the sportsmen of the northern part of the state.

Regrettable Act.

Mankato Free Press: The legislature killed the county assessor bill. Regrettable act. The county assessor bill was one thing needful in this state.

The Dunn Bill.

Bemidji Pioneer: There appears to be a concerted effort on the part of the Twin City papers to throw discredit on the Dunn good roads bill. They claim that the funds coming from the 1-mill tax should be expended by a central body instead of by the county commissioners of eighty-six different counties. They advocate roads that start from some place and end somewhere. As we understand the bill, it provides that each county shall have at least 1 per cent of the fund and the remaining 14 per cent is to be apportioned where it is needed the most. Further, the money is not to be spent by the county commissioners without control, but is to be added to money available in the county and the total spent under the direction of the state highway commission. It would appear on the face of it that the Twin Cities want to have one man at the head of things. It would then be a comparatively easy proposition to influence him so that all roads would lead to the Twin Cities. That would be fine for the Cities, but it is hard to see how it would help the homesteader in this county or the thousands of other farmers scattered over the northern part of the state.

Springtime of Memory

The Craftsman: A good and wise man has said that memory is the great consoler of age—making youth eternal by recalling and vivifying the experiences of youth. As the receptive period of our life passes by, more and more we find ourselves turning to the comfort of that system of multiplying joys known as memory. We forget with our brains and remember with our senses; boundaries and figures learned in youth go down before the increased weight of years; but the sensations experienced in our early days, the smell of wet grass, the fragrance of arbutus borne on March winds, the bloom of crabapple trees in the twilight—what eternal measure of joy they bring! As memory thus touches our emotions we are children or lovers again with an intensity of happiness scarcely known in the actual days of childhood or realized romance. So through memory one experienced joy swells into a multitude of joys, stirred into life by the cry of a child, the color of a rose petal, the velvet sound of running water over smooth stones.

Happily for this memory of the senses—we do not wait for logic to turn our way or reason to release its stiff grasp. The joys of memory are ours for the having. A sensitive spirit will find them ready to shower blessings on every hand. Indeed age seems to vanish where the sensuous memory stirs to refresh and invigorate us. Memory can do what books fail utterly to accomplish; it leaves us the hero of our sweetest romance. Books exact our appreciation of the virtues (those stilted literary virtues) of others; memory thrills us with the splendid recollection of our own early hopes and our occasional achievements. Memory has but one vital rival in its power to bring swift, safe pleasure, namely, the companionship of very little children who are at once frank and wise, tender and serene.

And to have memory in our old age to call upon when impulse is waning a little and our capacity for material joys lessening we must fill our youthful days with fresh strong beauty. Young life must be full of wonder and romance, storing up impressions which through memory will furnish us enlivenment and profit in the years to come.

Lawyers.

Life: A lawyer is a man who arranges your future destiny, according to a rule laid down about 2,000 years ago by some Roman. But when he charges you, he adds on the increased cost of living between that date and this.

Lawyers are divided into two classes. The successful and the unsuccessful. The successful lawyers are those employed by large corporations, the unsuccessful are those assigned to you by the court when you haven't enough money to hire a successful one.

When Jove Threatens.

From Thomas, Lord Erskine's Argument in Behalf of Thomas Paine at his trial for libel: Engage the people by their affections, convince their reason—and they will be loyal from the only principle that can make loyalty sincere, vigorous or rational—a conviction that it is to their truest interest, and that their government is for their good. Constraint is the natural parent of resistance, and a pregnant proof that reason is not on the side of those who use it. You must all remember Lucian's pleasant story: Jupiter and a countryman were walking together, conversing with great freedom and familiarity upon the subject of heaven and earth. The countryman listened with attention and acquiescence, while Jupiter strove only to convince him; but happening to hint a doubt, Jupiter turned hastily around and threatened him with his thunder.

"Ah! ah!" says the countryman, "now, Jupiter, I know that you are wrong; you are always wrong when you appeal to your thunder."

WOMEN WOULD SERVE.

French Natives Wish to Be Placed on Army Staff.

Paris, March 21.—The Austrian government is about to make the experiment of employing women on the administrative staffs of the army with a view, if the first trial is successful, of eventually substituting them for men in the health, equipment and provisional departments.

This has caused a great stir among French women of all classes, who are asserting their willingness, even eagerness, to give practical proof of their intense patriotism and show they are not to be outdone by their sisters among the Triple Alliance.

Their feelings on this subject have found expression in a letter addressed to the war minister, M. Etinne, by the archaeologist and explorer, Mme. Jane Dieulafoy, the only woman in France who has the privilege of wearing trousers.

The example set by one of the most remarkable women of France has been loudly applauded, and it is thought possible that before long some means will be found for giving women the chance to serve their country in war time.

Window Ventilation.

Dr. Swan, in speaking before the Upper Mississippi Valley Medical association recently, said: "Pure air is of more importance in promoting life and health than any other substance on earth. Man can live a long time without food, but he cannot live five minutes without air." Everybody knows the value of pure air, but a large number of people simply refuse to accept their share, probably because it is the cheapest and most plentiful thing on the sphere. It is all of outdoors, and said to be four miles high; yet, on account of old prejudice largely, a host of people seem to be afraid to help themselves. To overcome such prejudice against fresh air, drafts and sunlight, there is more needed than mere education; fresh air must be made comfortable air, and drafts must be made warm drafts. It is quite natural that people generally should be led more by their feelings than their intelligence, for feeling is as old as life, while intelligence is a comparatively modern acquirement. But why not use the intelligence to propitiate the feelings by making fresh air comfortable air and warming all drafts?

I have frequently in the winter months stepped into the home of one of Chicago's poor families and found three or four children, mother, father and a sick baby, all occupying one or two small rooms, heated with the cook stove; the windows all closed and carefully sealed, so that no vagrant breath of fresh air might find its way in. Yet the baby was ill with pneumonia and was dying for the want of its share of fresh air. To get such people to open a window and probably save their baby's life, is a much harder task than to make a diagnosis and prescribe some medicine from the drug store; but the fresh air may save the baby's life, while the medicine, in all probability, would only help it to die easier. The tendency is for the busy practitioner to prescribe the medicine and let it go at that; because to overcome ignorant prejudice against fresh air seems such a hopeless task that he has neither time nor heart to tackle it.

Would it not be better to break a pane or two of glass and settle in the police court? It would certainly be more humane, and it is a big question just how to handle such cases.

This is, properly, one of the housing problems which confronts the social worker in every big city, but it is a problem which cannot be settled in one generation. Move such people into hygienic homes, having facilities for the ingress of plenty of fresh air and sunshine, and the chances are they will not thank you, but will resent your interference with their right to be happy in their own way. Therefore, it is plain that constant education on the subject of hygiene must go hand in hand with all housing reform. Such education is best brought about through children, and the public schools are the medium through which it must flow. Class work and "book learning," however, are of little service when compared with the educational results obtained through the establishment of efficient medical school inspection. It may be said that in this manner an education in hygiene is absorbed, not merely taught, as a part of the school course.

The best time for any city to seriously take up the question of proper housing for its workers is before it reaches a population of 50,000, but the next best time is now; for practical results in correct housing take years to mature, and the people must be educated in hygiene before they will appreciate sanitary and hygienic housing. Preaching the gospel of the open window and hygienic living may appear to many a thankless task, but if a sufficient number of earnest preachers keep constantly at it, the next generation will likely have a fair opportunity to get their share of the cheapest and most plentiful thing on earth —fresh air. To the younger people of the present generation, let me say that while the preaching of this gospel is the duty of every one having the welfare of his fellows at heart its practice will tend to both lengthen life and fill it with happiness and efficiency. Window ventilation is accessible to all classes of people and its advantages over expensive ventilating plants will be discussed in a later article, when some simple methods of making fresh air comfortable, and therefore more popular, will be set forth. But that window ventilation can be made efficient there is no doubt, and there are always grave doubts regarding the efficiency of any high-priced ventilation system until it has been tried out in all kinds of weather, with all directions of wind.

Questions and Answers.

Might Be Smallpox.

Reader writes: What would be the cause of pimples breaking out on my face? A water blister on the top of the pimple, and they are on my back, chest, face and neck. They itch until I can hardly stand it, so I have washed them with salt water and applied liniment, which eases them for a while, but soon they are as itchy as ever. What would you call them, and what would you do for them?

REPLY.

As stated in the note at the top of this department, I will not make diagnosis; but from your description, I would think of smallpox as a possibility, and chicken-pox as a probability. You should not delay in having a diagnosis by some reliable physician, or the board of health physician. The itching from chicken-pox is best relieved by bathing in weak solution of carbolic acid, teaspoonful to a quart of water, or applying carbolized vaseline.

Neuritis.

H. P. writes: What is neuritis, and what is it caused from?

REPLY.

Neuritis is an inflammation of the nerve trunk, or sheath. It is usually caused from some poison acting through the blood stream. The principal poisons causing neuritis are alcohol, lead, arsenic, mecury and the poisons of specific disease and rheumatism.

Sick Headache.

R. R. writes: I am a woman near 40, am troubled with frequent attacks of sick headache, which make me unfit for anything for a day or two at a time. I am frequently troubled with indigestion also, but think this is on account of poor health. A friend told me the headaches were caused from what is known as change of life, but I have no other symptoms which I have heard always appear at that time, so I write to ask your opinion and advice on what to do to get rid of the headaches.

REPLY.

Sick headaches may arise from so many different causes that no two cases can be remedied in the same way. From what you say in your letter, I would guess that your headaches come from indigestion and constipation, more likely than from anything else. You should have your teeth fixed in the first place, and that will likely cure the indigestion; then, cure any tendency to constipation; not by drugs, but by changing your diet. Eat plenty of fruit of any or all kinds, drink lots of water, have open air exercise every day; and, if this is not sufficient to cure the constipation eat bran bread or health bread in place of white bread, at least one of your daily meals. Don't take headache powders, or any of the advertised bromo cures, for although they may give a slight temporary relief, they will do more harm than good in the long run.

MEASUREMENT OF GOD'S DEVOTION

Lies in Words "Much More," Says Pastor-Evangelist.

"The Measure of God" was the subject taken last evening by Rev. M. S. Rice, pastor of the First Methodist church, at the meeting at the Lyceum theater, in the series which he has been holding nightly there this week. He took his text from Matthew vii:11: "How much more your heavenly Father." In discussing his subject he said:

"My theme lies around the words 'much more.' How much more God! The thought which is pouring out of this fine declaration of our Master is that thought which has always at the best been expression for human life is the only thing we have with which to measure God, and the measurement falls into an expression of 'much more,' which allows an infinite margin. When men find the best terms in which to describe their best with, they find a symbolism for God, but in application of the symbol are confounded by immeasurable dimensions. Jesus rendered us a fine service here when He said if at our best we do one thing how much more will our heavenly Father do. 'How much more.'

"It is the only possible dimension to put to the action of God when set in human terms. We cannot say what God will do. We lack language. Our words stagger. Our figures fail in meaning. We have a language proportioned to human ways, and even at the heights of that we feel about for words. 'What man of you is there, whom if his son ask bread, will give him a stone, or if he ask a fish will give him a serpent.' Such challenge rouses our sense of fatherhood, and we say we will starve ourselves willingly that we may put bread into the mouths of our little ones.

"We pride ourselves in our ability to strangle our own hunger in the care of our children. Some time ago in our own city I read an account of a father, so called, who came to town and appealed to the authorities to take his family. He said he couldn't care for them. Couldn't earn enough money. Hence he was going to leave them. Fine father he. Can't take care of them, so he will desert them altogether. No! No! That is not fatherhood. We rebel at the measure. We said: 'Go back there, sir. Fight that thing to a finish. Die if need be by those children you have fathered. In God's name save fatherhood from such disgraceful measure.' I remember so well another measure of fatherhood we had in our own city a few years ago. Out in the West end of our city a heart-broken man watching the hot breath of consumption smother the life from his beloved daughter. Poor man! He fought nobly. Every dollar he could earn he hurled at the enemy. He sold the piano he had bought by great self-denial, when his little girl was growing toward womanhood. He then sold the furniture, piece by piece, out of the little home to supplement the scant earnings he could bring to the fight. But at this farthest extreme of devotion, sitting beside her every hour he could be with her, he had to watch the roses fade from her cheeks, and the pale stare of disease brood in her once lovely eyes. And she died in his arms amid a home swept bare of everything that could be of possible service in the great struggle, and he, a father, stood forth thus with his dear dead in his arms to make all our faith strong in a father's devotion.

"And over that kind of a measure, I have said I have the alphabet at least, in which I can spell out a few of the words of God's devotion. This is the altitude of human character from whose sun-kissed crest we can look away toward God. We can pick up enough fragments of divinity in human conduct, to discern somewhat of the infinite divinity that is in God. When you find man noble in love, in pity, in sacrifice, then by multiplying that condition by infinity the result will be the measure of Your Father in heaven. I tell you that Jesus was leaving the way here, so men without mysterious theological argument and terms could catch the meaning of God.

"There be men who never see beyond humanity. They tell me they know no other divinity. They cling desperately to that limit. They hear not the tread of God. They see not the signs of God. To me God finds expression in human life. When he sets man eloquent in love and mercy and duty. He can then translate him into divine terms and get unto Himself a somewhat understandable measure as He says from that position: 'How much more God.' I am sure I have discovered here a clear and demanding call to each of us, that our lives shall present to men some elements, even though they be small, that nevertheless shall be sure signs of divinity, so that the 'much more' when placed beside us as we are, may be a sure index by which men may find God.

"There is searching fire in that idea. What men shall find in me must be true, or the rule of much more will but make me less God-like. There is judgment in the increase. These little lives of ours in which we have been fingering about for evidence of divinity that can be enlarged, cannot but feel a tremble at the thought. What have I in my life that could stand an infinite screen? What element in my poor action will ever endure the multiplication table leading toward an expression of God? Serious questions these. I feel a shudder when the 'Much More God' asks of me my offering to the world."

A REASONABLE PLEA FOR THE STOMACH

If Your Stomach Is Lacking in Digestive Power, Why Not Help the Stomach Do Its Work?

Not with drugs, but with reinforcement of digestive agents, such as are naturally at work in the stomach. Scientific analysis shows that digestion requires pepsin, nitrogenous ferments, and the secretion of hydrochloric acid. When your food fails to digest, it is proof positive that some of these agents are lacking in your digestive apparatus.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets contain nothing but those natural elements necessary to digestion and when placed at work in the weak stomach and small intestines, supply what these organs need. They stimulate the gastric glands and gradually bring the digestive organs back to their normal condition.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets have been subjected to critical chemical tests at home and abroad and are found to contain nothing but natural digestives.

London, 9th Aug., 1905.

I have analyzed most carefully a box of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets (which I bought myself at a city chemist's shop for the purpose), manufactured by the F. A. Stuart Co., 86 Clerkenwell Road, London, E. C., and have to report that I cannot find any trace of vegetable or mineral poisons. Knowing the ingredients of the tablets, I am of opinion that they are admirably adaptable for the purpose for which they are intended. (Signed)

John R. Brooke, F. I. C., F. C. S.

There is no secret in the preparation of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. Their composition is commonly known among physicians. They are the most popular of all remedies for indigestion, dyspepsia, water brash, insomnia, loss of appetite, melancholia, constipation, dysentery and kindred diseases originating from improper dissolution and assimilation of foods, because they are thoroughly reliable and harmless to man or child.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are at once a safe and powerful remedy. Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets will digest your food for you when your stomach can't.

BRONZE MEDALLION

To Be Unveiled at Birthplace in Memory of Maj. Butt.

Washington, March 21.—Maj. Archibald W. Butt, military aide to ex-President Taft, will be memorialized in the city of his birth when a bronze medallion, the work of Henry Price, a sculptor of New York, is unveiled on a conspicuous portion of the memorial bridge in Augusta, Ga.

The bridge was subscribed for by the public and the medallion was made possible through the generosity of the friends of Maj. Butt.

Mr. Price wrought the bronze with photographs of the dead aide as models. The work was not delivered until a brother of the dead officer came from England and declared it to be a striking likeness of Maj. Butt.

GOOD DINNER FOR EASTER

Preparations to Celebrate the Day Bull the Produce Markets.

Sales of Eggs Are Heavy—Fresh Vegetables in Keen Demand.

Preparations that have been made during the week to celebrate Easter according to custom have had quite a bullish effect on the produce market. There has been a heavy movement of eggs all through the week from the wholesale houses to the retail groceries and from these to the consumers. This has had the natural effect of causing a rise in price. Southern and hothouse vegetables are also higher, as they are in keen demand in preparation for the Sunday dinners. Easter is one of the days on which all families are anxious to feast as sumptuously as their financial resources will allow. For the same reason the movement of poultry during the past week has been given quite an impetus.

Fresh eggs, which a week ago were selling at 18 to 20 cents, wholesale, at Duluth, are now ruling at 20 and 21 cents. The rise in price is due not only to the fact that people have been buying great quantities of them to be dyed in gay colors for Easter decorations, but the market has been boosted also by the recent heavy snow storm. This snow storm for a time made the country roads almost impassable, and naturally diminished the movement of eggs from the farms to the country shipping points. Hence the receipts of eggs at the wholesale houses have been greatly diminished. It is expected, however, that the roads are well opened, and when people are eating their Easter eggs, instead of buying more, the increased supply and decreased demand and send the price considerably lower.

The effect that the approach of Easter has had on the prices of fresh vegetables is rapidly noticeable. A six-basket crate of Florida tomatoes, which a week ago commanded a wholesale price of $2.50, now rules at $3. Green onions have risen from 75 cents to 90 cents a dozen bunches, hot-house round radishes from 70 to 90 cents a dozen bunches, hot-house cucumbers from $1.75 to $2.15 a dozen. Florida peppers from 45 to 60 cents a basket, spinach from $1.25 to $1.40 for a two-thirds-bushel box and California cauliflowers from $3.50 to $4.50 for a crate of two dozen.

White stock potatoes, which a week ago were ruling at 42 cents a bushel, wholesale, are now selling for 42 to 45 cents. New potatoes are also on the market. These are from the Bermuda islands and Florida. They are selling at wholesale for $3 a bushel. Another new vegetable on the local market is asparagus from California, which is selling at $1.80 for a dozen bunches. This is a highly appreciated delicacy and is being eagerly sought for the dinner tables on Easter.

There has also been a good Easter demand for oranges. This, together with the scarcity, resulting from the havoc wrought by the frosts in California, has had the effect of causing a new rise in the price of the California navels. A box of such oranges, which a week ago sold at $4.50, is now bringing $5. The usual year's production of California navels this year will hardly exceed 2,000 carloads.

* * *

There has been a good movement of frozen turkeys and other frozen stored poultry during the past week on account of Easter, but the prices have not risen. The local wholesalers have been able to get a little fresh poultry during the past week from Sioux City, but not nearly so much as they would have liked. Arrivals of live poultry from the farm country tributary to Duluth have been very small.

* * *

Meats of all kinds remain high. The Lenten season has not affected the prices. It is not likely that there will be any decline in prices, as a result of the season coming to a close. Local wholesale dealers do not look for lower prices in the near future. Pork is higher than it was a week ago. The Duluth wholesale price of pork loins, which a week ago was 14@15 cents, is now 15@16 cents. Receipts of hogs at the principal packing centers have been very light. The country appears to be short of hogs. Last fall there was an epidemic of hog cholera in Illinois, Indiana, Wisconsin and neighboring states, and quite a shortage of hogs has existed ever since.

* * *

Butter and cheese are a little cheaper. The Duluth wholesale price of the best creamery, which was 36@37 cents a week ago, is now 35@36 cents. Dairy butter, which a week ago was ruling at 23@24 cents wholesale, is now selling at 22@23 cents. Twin cheese has dropped from 18 to 17 cents a pound, wholesale. There has of late been a larger output of both butter and cheese, milk having become more plentiful with the approach of spring.

GRANDMA USED SAGE TEA TO DARKEN FADED, GRAY HAIR

Mixed With Sulphur It Makes Hair Soft, Beautiful; Cures Dandruff.

The use of Sage and Sulphur for restoring faded, gray hair to its natural color dates back to grandmother's time. She kept her hair beautifully darkened, glossy and abundant with a brew of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Whenever her hair fell out or took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect.

But the brewing at home is mussy and out-of-date. Nowadays skilled chemists do this better than ourselves. By asking at any drug store for the ready-to-use product—called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy"—you will get a large bottle for about 50 cents. Some druggists make their own, which is usually too sticky, so insist upon getting Wyeth's, which can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair and is splendid for dandruff, dry, feverish, itchy scalp and falling hair.

A well-known downtown druggist says his customers insist on Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur, because, they say, it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied—it's so easy to use too. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush and draw it through your hair, taking one strand at a time. Do this at night and by morning the gray hair disappears, after another application or two, it is restored to its natural color and looks glossy, soft and abundant. Max Wirth.

BRIDEGROOM HIDES HIMSELF IN HAYSTACK.

Springfield, Ill., March 21.—After having remained in concealment in a haystack near his home for thirty-six hours and having been mourned as dead, after searchers had scoured the country for him, Medford Cruikshank, who mysteriously disappeared on the eve of his wedding to Miss Mae Hall, appeared at his home, south of this city.

He says he can remember nothing. It is believed he suffered temporary mental aberration, due to worry. His fiancee received him with joy.

The Gold Dust Twins' Philosophy

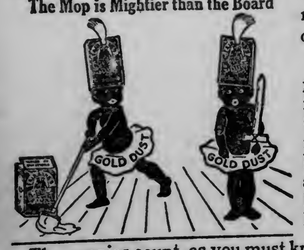
THE Village Sewing Circle met to gossip, in their little set, but one opinion seemed to hold despite the tendency to "scold."

When vexing problems, such as say, "What shall we do on Cleaning Day?" confront the Housewife, she may feel that Gold Dust tackles them with zeal.

The Envied Housewife

Staid matrons told of what a bore it was to scrub each dirty floor; young housewives thought that dishes claimed more worry than some others named. All uniformly took a "bit" from household work and argued it, while all in turn were loud in praise of what a part their Gold Dust plays.

The Mop is Mightier than the Board



Those tasks which, anyway, are mean, decrease with Gold Dust on the scene.

Those "Cost-of-Living" puzzles put the chairman of the club on foot. Said she:—"The Cost-of-Cleaning," too, should mean a mighty lot to you. If all of us combine, to buy, those goods that have a "REASON WHY," ere long our husbands needn't fuss. They'll leave financing games to us."

The pennies count, as you must know, and cleaning makes the pennies go. If Gold Dust cuts the toil in two and makes economy come true, why not adopt the "Cleaner way" and join the "Gold Dust Club" today?

TO REFORM CURRENCY

Believed Question May Be Taken Up at Extra Session.

President and Party Leaders Strongly in Favor of Action.

Washington, March 21.—Encouraged by the rapid progress made in the preparation of a tariff revision bill, close friends of President Wilson predicted last night that there surely would be currency reform before the extra session of congress adjourned next summer.

The president talked informally with some of his callers about the prospects for currency legislation. They went away convinced that while the president would devote himself mostly to tariff revision, he hoped that at least a start on monetary reform, if not actual legislation, would be possible during the extra session. From the first the president has believed in the necessity for immediate currency reform and though anxious that congress should focus its attention and that of the nation on the tariff, he has never given up the idea of getting a currency measure before the country within a few months.

Hopeful For Reforms.

Some of his friends said yesterday that they were particularly hopeful for currency reform because of the attitude of the Democratic leaders in congress toward expeditious action on the tariff. Senator Simmons, chairman of the finance committee, is reported to have said that the tariff could be disposed of within three months.

Like the tariff, the currency bill, when drawn, will be presented as a party measure, carefully worked out by congressional committees in cooperation with the president. It will not be made public, it is said, until it has been closely studied by members of the cabinet recognized authorities on currency questions and some of the leading business men of the country in whose judgment the administration has confidence. It has pointed out that all the work of preparation can be carried on inconspicuously while the tariff debates occupied the center of the stage in congress.

The president intends to stay in Washington throughout the extra session giving every attention to legislative matters. He has been declining invitations to make speeches outside of the city.

To Discuss Appointments.

The cabinet will meet today, when the question of making recess appointments will be discussed. The resignation of Huntington Wilson today as assistant secretary of state, leaves the state department under charge of Alva Adee, second assistant secretary of state. It is probable, however, that there will be a recess appointment of John Bassett Moore as counsellor to the state department tomorrow, so that he can co-operate with Mr. Adee in running the department. The president telegraphed Secretary Bryan that he need not cut short his vacation on account of the Washington Wilson withdrawal.

The president yesterday had a long string of callers. He talked over the tariff with Senator Thomas of Colorado; conservation with S. H. Thompson, president of the Woodrow Wilson club of Denver, and currency with Prof. J. Laurence Laughlin of the University of Chicago.

PARTS OF SPEECH IN WORDY "ROW"

Little Miss Carleton Had Been Studying Them Very Hard.

St. Louis, Mo., March 21.—Nellie Carleton, 13 years old, found grammar a difficult study, but she did not let its hard places discourage her. Instead she made fun of them. The result of her fun making was a humorous little essay, which greatly amused her classmates and teachers when she read it at the eighth grade commencement of the Emerson school.

R. L. Barton, principal of the school, was so much entertained by the essay, entitled "A Little Girl's Grammar," that he consented to its publication.

Here it is:

"The night before grammar examination I was studying very hard, but I couldn't straighten out the parts of speech. The Verb asserted its right to the throne of the Subject, and the Subject objected very seriously. The Complements would act so independently that I couldn't do a thing with them. The Adverb persisted in asking for the hand of Miss Attribute, while her mother, the Subject, chased him out of the house with a broomstick every time he called on her. Master Proposition kept trying to introduce Miss Objective to Master Object, but finally he got discouraged and went off to a corner to pout. The Third Person would try to speak while Master Verb kept asking for Miss Noun's number and all was confusion. Master Conjunction kidnaped little Miss Pronoun, therefore taking possession of her person. The Verb kept speaking constantly, changing his mood from time to time. The Adverb was trying to compare the Noun's case with that of the Pronoun.

"During this time I was having a great deal of trouble with the sentences. One declared that his neighbor had stolen his dress suit and that he needed it to wear to a ball that night; matters grew so complex and compound that I gave it up.

"I still had trouble with the marks of Punctuation. The Quotation Marks jumped over the moon, and I had a very hard time catching them. The Apostrophe was very bad and had to be sent to bed for teasing Miss Hyphen for being thin, and I couldn't make the Verbs parse right.

"Then I tried Conjugation. The Indicative invited the Potential and the Subjunctive to a dinner party. The Potential said he might go if his wife would let him, and the Subjunctive said that if she went they would have to take her home, and the Indicative became offended and told them to 'go to' if they did not want to accept his invitation. The row became noisy and I got scared.

"I couldn't stand it much longer, and was just going to cry, when mother called, 'Wake up, child, and go to bed; it is 11 o'clock and you will be late for school tomorrow.' Then I found I had been asleep."

TO BUILD LOG CABIN ON GARFIELD'S FARM.

Cleveland, Ohio, March 21.—The old log cabin in which James A. Garfield, martyred president, was born, will be duplicated. The farm in Orange township, where the murdered executive first saw light, has been bought by Dr. Harris R. Cooley, director of charities, who plans to erect a counterpart of the old cabin upon its original site. Cooley's wife's grandmother and Garfield's mother were sisters.

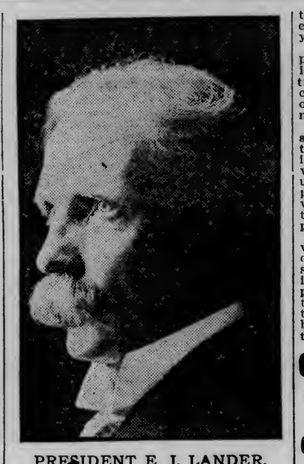
NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

CLUB'S WORK MAPPED OUT

North Dakota Commercial Club Decides Upon Campaign for 1913.

E. J. Lander of Grand Forks Elected President at Final Session.



PRESIDENT E. J. LANDER.

Officers for the coming year were elected as follows: President, E. J. Lander, Grand Forks; first vice president, John Bruegger, Williston; second vice president, W. H. Horton, Devils Lake; fourth vice president, A. O. Wold, Langdon; secretary, C. W. Graves, Grand Forks; executive committee, J. Dexter Pierce, Grand Forks; J. C. Harper, Enderlin; W. E. Hoibein, Lansford; G. W. Funk, New Rockford, and H. N. Johnson, Landin.

Changes were made in the bylaws of the organization which extend greater powers to the officers.

What Federation Wants.

In the resolutions that were adopted late yesterday afternoon the federation places itself on record for the following:

Thorough study of freight rates to bring about changes from present system under which it is charged that small towns and cities are discriminated against in favor of the terminals.

Systematic campaign against fires by the distribution of information on preventive measures, water supply and in prosecuting arson cases.

Systematization of publicity work by the local Commercial clubs, but not engaging directly in publicity work.

Careful study of the question of taxation with view of bringing about better taxation conditions.

Vigorous campaign for the addition of new members to the federation and for the organization of clubs in cities that have not got Commercial clubs now.

Approval of the work placed under way by the North Dakota Public Highways Improvement association, launched at a meeting held this week.

In his annual address President E. J. Lander said the federation was in a position to bring about splendid results through co-operative effort; that it was not for the federation to engage actively in the furtherance of a publicity campaign or a good roads campaign, but to secure the interest of the local commercial clubs in those works. He discouraged a plan that had been proposed for creating a $25,000 publicity fund for North Dakota.

Greater powers for the officers through amendments to the by-laws were urged also.

A. O. Wold of Langdon reported that the Langdon Commercial club had been engaged in road work during the past year.

J. Dexter Pierce of Larimore, ex-president of the federation, urged the importance of securing the co-operation of farmers showing that local clubs can gain the confidence and support of farmers by inviting them to become members.

A. I. Hunter of Grand Forks, representing the State Good Roads association, and J. P. Hardy of Fargo, speaking for that organization, indorsed the work being done by that body, and urged that the federation approve the plans that have been adopted under which it is proposed to make the automobiles carry the burden of road improvement.

Prof. F. M. Gilette of the state university devoted his attention to the question of commercial club work, showing how important such clubs are in the development of community improvement. He also showed wherein they could be of great assistance in the building up of social center work, both in the cities and in the rural districts.

CATTLE SHOWS TO BE ENCOURAGED

Cloverland Cattle Congress Organized By Upper Peninsula Counties.

Marquette, Mich., March 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—The agricultural and livestock development of the Upper Peninsula received a good boost at a meeting held here this week when the Cloverland Cattle congress, as it is called, was organized by people interested in farm advancement and the following officers elected:

President, Alton T. Roberts; secretary, John D. Mangum; treasurer, B. W. Wright. Vice presidents from each of the counties in the Upper Peninsula will be chosen later and with the other officers will constitute the executive board.

The congress will hold its first exhibition in conjunction with the Marquette county fair in this city Sept. 2, 3, 4 and 5. The organization will work independently of all other fair and cattle societies in the Upper Peninsula, and if successful in its first show will continue to meet each year, but in different counties.

To Recognize Minnesota Herds.

Aside from the herds of the Upper Peninsula, the congress will recognize herds from Southern Michigan, Wisconsin, Minnesota and Iowa, and the owners of fine cattle in these states will be invited to bring entries to this city in September for exhibition and competition. Prizes will be offered to exhibitors from all sections and there will be a general sweepstake, for which all entrants may compete. There will be special prizes for Upper Peninsula herds.

The congress is one of the first movements to be launched in accordance with a resolution adopted at the last annual meeting of the Upper Peninsula Development bureau, the purpose of which was to encourage the holding of cattle shows in connection with county fairs, and specifically to support a proposed exhibit to be held at the Marquette County Agricultural association's annual fair this year, it being the purpose of the largest cattle owners in the peninsula, expressed at the meeting, to bring their herds to Marquette if the plans materialize.

SEES BIG FUTURE FOR LIGNITE COAL

North Dakotan Believes Fuel Will Be Used By Railroads.

Grand Forks, N. D., March 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—Dean E. J. Babcock of the North Dakota school of mines is confident that lignite coal will be available for use as a railroad locomotive fuel, though he is not willing to discuss the probability of any of the appliances that have been placed in use on the Chicago & Northwestern locomotives and on the Burlington locomotives. The railroads are experimenting in the use of lignite as fuel for locomotives, and should they be successful, it will be a great boon to the lignite fields of Western North Dakota, which comprise about 500,000,000,000 tons.

Dean Babcock is the pioneer investigator in lignite coal possibilities, being in charge of the North Dakota lignite coal experiment station, which is maintained at Hebron, N. Is Your Hair Gray?

This Simple Recipe Will Darken It So It Cannot Be Detected.

A very satisfactory preparation which darkens gray hair and acts as a corrective agent for dandruff and other diseases of the scalp can be made at small expense and in your own home by dissolving a small box of Barbo Compound in 7 ounces of water and then adding an ounce of bay rum and a quarter ounce of glycerine. Any drug store can furnish these ingredients. This is to be applied once a week until the hair is sufficiently darkened, then every two weeks to keep the hair soft and glossy and the scalp in a healthy condition. It may be used with equal success in darkening the beard. This is a preparation that gives splendid results, both as a hair darkener and a remedy for all scalp disorders, and is well worthy of a trial. If your druggist is out of Barbo Compound, ask him to get it for you from his supply house, as a substitute for it is not possible in preparing this mixture. You will find it far superior to the ordinary store preparations and much less expensive.

CLUB'S WORK MAPPED OUT

North Dakota Commercial Club Decides Upon Campaign for 1913.

E. J. Lander of Grand Forks Elected President at Final Session.

Officers for the coming year were elected as follows: President, E. J. Lander, Grand Forks; first vice president, John Bruegger, Williston; second vice president, W. H. Horton, Devils Lake; fourth vice president, A. Wold, Langdon; secretary, C. W. Gray, Grand Forks; executive committee, J. Dexter Pierce, Grand Forks; J. C. Harper, Enderlin; W. E. Holbein, Larimore; G. W. Funk, New Rockford, and H. N. Johnson, Lankin.

Changes were made in the bylaws of the organization which extend greater powers to the officers.

What Federation Wants.

In the resolutions that were adopted late yesterday afternoon the federation places itself on record for the following:

Thorough study of freight rates to meet short charges from present system under which it is charged that small towns and cities are discriminated against in favor of the terminals.

Systematic campaign against fires by the distribution of information on practical business, water supply and the prosecuting arson cases.

Systematization of publicity work by the local Commercial clubs, but not engaging directly in publicity work.

PRESIDENT E. J. LANDER.

Careful study of the question of taxation with view of bringing about better taxation conditions.

Vigorous campaign for the addition of new members to the federation and for the organization of clubs in cities that have not got Commercial clubs now.

Approval of the work placed under way by the North Dakota Public Highways Improvement association, launched at a meeting held this week.

In his annual address President E. J. Lander said the federation was in a position to bring about splendid results through co-operative effort; that it was not for the federation to engage actively in the furtherance of a publicity campaign or a good roads campaign, but to secure the interest of the local commercial clubs in those works. He discouraged a plan that had been proposed for creating a $25,000 publicity fund for North Dakota.

Greater powers for the officers through amendments to the by-laws were urged also.

A. O. Wold of Langdon reported that the Langdon Commercial club had been engaged in road work during the past year.

J. Dexter Pierce of Larimore, ex-president of the federation, urged the importance of securing the co-operation of farmers showing that local clubs can gain the confidence and support of farmers by inviting them to become members.

A. L. Hunter of Grand Forks, representing the State Good Roads association, and J. P. Hardy of Fargo, speaking for that organization, indorsed the work being done by that body, and urged that the federation approve the plans that have been adopted under which it is proposed to make the automobiles carry the burden of road improvement.

Prof. J. M. Gilette of the state university devoted his attention to the question of commercial club work, showing how important such clubs are in the development of community improvement. He also showed wherein they could be of great assistance in the building up of social center work, both in the cities and in the rural districts.

CATTLE SHOWS TO BE ENCOURAGED

Cloverland Cattle Congress Organized By Upper Peninsula Counties.

Marquette, Mich., March 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—The agricultural and livestock development of the Upper Peninsula received a good boost at a meeting held here this week when the Cloverland Cattle congress, as it is called, was organized by people interested in farm advancement and the following officers elected:

President, Alton T. Roberts; secretary, John D. Mangum; treasurer, R. W. Wright. Vice presidents from each of the counties in the Upper Peninsula will be chosen later and with the other officers will constitute the executive board.

The congress will hold its first exhibition in conjunction with the Marquette county fair in this city Sept. 2, 3, 4 and 5. The organization will work independently of all other fair and cattle societies in the Upper Peninsula, and if successful in its first show will continue to meet each year, but in different counties.

To Recognize Minnesota Herds.

Aside from the herds of the Upper Peninsula, the congress will recognize herds from Southern Michigan, Wisconsin, Minnesota and Iowa, and the owners of fine cattle in these states will be invited to bring entries to this city in September for exhibition and competition. Prizes will be offered to exhibitors from all sections and there will be a general sweepstake for which all entrants may compete. There will be special prizes for Upper Peninsula herds.

The congress is one of the first movements to be launched in accordance with a resolution adopted at the last annual meeting of the Upper Peninsula Development bureau, the purpose of which was to encourage the holding of cattle shows in connection with county fairs, and specifically to support a proposed exhibit to be held at the Marquette County Agricultural association's annual fair this year, it being the purpose of the largest cattle owners in the peninsula, expressed at the meeting, to bring their herds to Marquette if the plans materialize.

Grand Forks, N. D., March 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—Dean E. J. SOOTHES AND HEALS

HYOMEI Medicates the Air You Breathe and Gives Quick Relief in Catarrhal Troubles.

Be wise in time and use HYOMEI at the first warning of catarrhal troubles.

Do not let the disease extend along the delicate mucous membrane, gradually going from the nose to the throat, thence into the bronchial tubes, and then down-ward until the lungs are reached and you are in danger of consumption.

HYOMEI will relieve all curable forms and stages of catarrh. It is so uniformly successful in curing this common yet dangerous disease that Boyce Drug Store takes all the risk of a trial treatment and agrees absolutely to refund the money if anyone uses HYOMEI and does not get relief.

There is no other treatment for catarrh that is like HYOMEI or just as good. None can take its place, none give such quick and sure relief and at so little cost. Its medication is breathed through a pocket inhaler that comes with every outfit, thus reaching the most remote cells of the air passages, killing the catarrhal germs and soothing and healing the irritated mucous membrane.

Begin the use of HYOMEI today and you will soon find that the offensive breath, the droppings into the throat, the discharge from the nose, sniffling and all other symptoms of catarrh are overcome and cured. The complete outfit costs but $1.00. Extra bottles of liquid, if later needed, 50 cents at Boyce Drug Store and druggists everywhere.

GIVE THEM A CHANGE.

Northwestern Agriculturalist: Vary the monotony of your meals in winter. Do not have meat and potatoes and pie all the time. This is a good time of the year for "made dishes," toothsome concoctions of the "left-overs," for meats, fish and vegetables can be kept in good condition for several days, and when put on the table in a new form will be just as acceptable to the family as when first served.

Nothing is better than a stew made of bits of cold meat, cut in small pieces, with a few potatoes or carrots also cut up. Make plenty of gravy, thickened with flour, season all well and serve on a large platter. Around the edge of the platter build a wall of mashed potatoes and if you have parsley lay a few sprigs here and there. This dish looks so inviting that there will be calls for "more."

Rice is always a staple article for the bill of fare. Cook it thoroughly and serve the first day as a vegetable to be eaten with meat. It can appear again as a pudding, made with or without eggs, but with raisins, and well sweetened, or it can come on as rice milk, made rather thin and with a well-beaten egg to give richness. Then there is rice with grated cheese stirred into it, and a thick layer of cheese on top. Put in oven and have it browned nicely. Just plain rice, served with cream and sugar is always liked by children and is a good and healthful dessert. Be sure the rice is cooked until soft, but not mushy.

GIRLS MAKE OWN EASTER HATS AT A COST OF FROM $2.50 TO $3

Easter hats for $2.50 and $3 are results of the work of the class in millinery of the Young Women's Christian association which will complete its first course on Wednesday of next week. Several of the hats have been finished and are ready to take their place in the Easter parade on Sunday and they are such fine looking hats and so well made that it would be difficult to distinguish them from the $20 little street hat which came from Eastern shops.

The members of the class under the direction of Mrs. A. D. Jacobs, instructor of the class have been working on their hats for five lessons and the most correct twists and turns, shapes and bows are evidence of the skill developed in the lessons.

One of the hats of a moire silk brim and a crown made of several folds of the maline and trimmed with a wired bow of the maline protruding from the back cost the maker just $2.50. Another of maline and chiffon cost the same and still another of shirred black chiffon with a trimming of a Nell rose Numidi plumes also put on in back came to $3. Another hat of velvet, silk and chiffon combination with some especially pretty plumes was the highest priced hat made by any of the class and that cost $5.

Materials are bought by Mrs. Jacobs from the wholesale house and the class members are given advantage of this saving in the price of the materials themselves and with a $1 fee for class membership they feel that they save a good deal on their millinery bills.

OBSERVATIONS

By PEGGY PEABODY

Women Should Not Find Fault With Their Husbands.

An editor asks his married women subscribers this question: "In the light of your experience, what sort of a man would you choose if you were to marry again?" To my mind, the consideration of such a subject cannot do the slightest amount of good, and is quite likely to work harm. In considering it, a woman is sure to recall the shortcomings of her husband, and to resurgect, and probably magnify, all the trivial differences that have occured during their married life. Hardly a profitable occupation.

A far more healthful one, and one which is the sacred duty of the husband, as well as the wife, is to do all possible to remove differences, and to strive to find mutual ground upon which all can stand on disputed subjects, strive to be strong when the other is weak, to appreciate the good traits, and not to pick out the defects.

We pay too much attention to marital differences. It is a topic of all absorbing interest. Every day the fertile, restless brain of some dissatisfied man or woman invents some trivial excuse for not carrying out the solemn obligations incurred at the altar. And the effect is to make other people restless and dissatisfied with their lot, and to send them seeking some loop-hole of escape from a position which they come to look upon as unbearable, simply because it is not the milk and honey proposition they dreamed it would be.

It is the easiest thing in the world to do—this pointing out of the faults of others—and one of the most difficult to be convinced of error in our own conduct. I have listened, while people set forth their story of some grievance and instantly recognized the point which has caused the second person to make objection. And I have heard women tell tales over which they expected me to weep tears of commiseration. But I could only be indignant that they could make so free with matters that should not be discussed with outsiders.

The woman who finds fault with her husband—I mean who does so to any extent beyond the bounds of reason—either to him himself, or in the presence of others, makes a serious mistake. Most people know each other pretty thoroughly when they marry, and allowance must be made for a full measure of fault on both sides. Of course the admonition of fault-finding holds good with husbands, as well as with wives, but this particular advice is given to the wife. There are nagging wives who must become intolerable, almost, and nagging husbands, too. One who has to endure such a mate has my sincere sympathy.

EAR FLAPS MAY BE NEEDED WITH THE NEW EASTER HAT

Weather Man Predicts Fair Weather, But It May Be Chilly---Straw Hats Already Seen on Streets.

That new Easter bonnet may have to have an earlap attachment for Easter Sunday, for the day won't be anything to brag about, says Mr. Richardson, the man who knows all about the weather. He isn't just sure what we will have on Sunday because storms in the vicinity have played havoc with the wire service and he says he can't be sure of what really is coming only it will probably be zero weather this evening. But he does say from present indications it may be generally fair and a little warmer on Sunday.

Duluth will probably have its Easter parade just the same even if it is a shivery, goose flesheY affair, for hundreds of Easter costumes have been delivered to their summer homes and are all ready to be donned early Sunday morning. Six little straw hats, impatient to make their debut have already been seen on Superior street, and mighty attractive little hats they were, too, at least they attracted a good deal of attention. They were all of them little and what a sensible style that is for early spring when the March winds try their best to appropriate the head dresses worn! Another nice feature about the small hat is the ease with which a veil with its protection from March freckles, may be arranged and the veil does add an air of trimness and smartness of its own.

There seems to be a decided preference this season for taupe and light gray veils with all black hats for these veils are softer and more becoming over the face than the black mesh and are much kinder to the average complexion.

The loose, fancy veils are always popular, draped over the hat in fascinating folds and they never go entirely out of fashion, so one may look for the veil as part of the smart Easter costume this season, while gorgeous colorings, and a general air of smartness and originality mark the suits and gowns which have been purchased by Duluth women for the big Easter parade.

COURTING AN IRISH GIRL.

London Mail: Rival suitors of a County Tyrone girl, Margaret Jane Wilson, figured in a case at Six Mile Cross in which she charged one of them, a youth named Corbett, with assault. She complained that while she was sitting on the knee of William Maxwell, Corbett pulled her off. Her aunt ordered him out and hit him with a broom.

"Were you angry with Corbett for interfering with your courtship with Maxwell?"

"Yes." (Laughter.)

"Did Corbett say that it was his turn to court you now?"

"He did."

The girl added that this was occasionally the way she spent Sunday evenings. With a warning to the defendant to behave himself the magistrates dismissed the summons.

The "tips" outwear the gloves

"The Kayser" SILK Glove

is the World's standard silk glove—all other silk gloves are measured by the "KAYSER" standard.

The development of the "KAYSER" Silk Glove represents the attainment of an ideal, the achievement of which has not been hampered by restrictions of cost or time, nor influenced by a passing demand for features most aptly characterized as "talking points."

We could not afford to buy expensive advertising space "year after year," to tell the women of America that "KAYSER" Gloves are the best—in style, fit and finish—if it were not true.

"KAYSER" gloves "cost no more" than the ordinary kind—and are worth double in quality, fit and value.

Don't accept the "just as good" kind, there's a way to tell the genuine—"Look in the Hem"—if you find the name "KAYSER"—you have the kind that "don't wear out" at the finger ends.

FIND VENUS IN SWEDEN.

Popular Stockholm Actress Has Nearly the Classic Proportions.

Stockholm, March 21.—The hunt for the modern Venus has spread to Sweden. A Stockholm newspaper is being deluged with applications from hundreds of ambitious Swedish girls, who believe they are second, if not first, editions of the Venus de Milo.

Of course, nothing would have been heard of these beautiful Swedes had not the craze for the specimen of perfect girlhood been started from Brooklyn. All the stories and pictures of dazzling handsome American beauties were scanned here with intense interest, and suddenly it occurred to one of the most gallant of Stockholm's editors to ask himself and his readers: "Why should Sweden wait for the United States to find a Venus de Americano? Are not the Swedish girls the most beautiful girls in Europe?" And so he has started a competition to discover the most perfect rival to Venus de Milo that Sweden can produce.

The favorite candidate at present for this Swedish crown of honor is Mlle. Elina Gistedt, the popular actress and one of Stockholm's most beautiful women. Her measurements closely approach the ideal Venus from Milo. They are as follows:

Height, 5 feet 4 inches.
Circumference of head, 21¾ inches.
Breast, under bosom, 33¼ inches.
Breast, over bosom, 37⅛ inches.
Waist, 23¾ inches.
Hips, 37½ inches.
Upper leg, 23¾ inches.
Calf, 13 inches.
Ankle, 7½ inches.
Knee, 14¾ inches.
Upper arm, 12⅝ inches.
Lower arm, 9¾ inches.
Wrist, 5 9-10 inches.

THE POWER OF SMELL.

Ellwood Hendrick, in the Atlantic: If, when you went to school as a child, you carried a tin lunch-box which often contained, let us say, some gingerbread and sandwiches and perhaps an apple, it is worth while to take a sniff at such a box again, now. It is surprising how this simple experiment may recall the patter of long-forgotten feet and the memory of childish voices that startle over the long lapse of years.

These flashes of memory aided by smell are wonderful. Through smell we achieve a sense of the past; the secret members of the mind are roused to life and memory. What a pity that we waste this talent!

Foods That Bind Little Children

Start Them Off Right With a Good Laxative and Then Watch Their Diet

Mothers are often unconsciously very careless about the diet of their children, forcing all to eat the same foods. The fact is that all foods do not agree alike with different persons. Hence, avoid what seems to constipate the child or to give it indigestion, and urge it to take more of what is quickly digested.

If the child shows a tendency to constipation it should immediately be given a mild laxative to help the bowels. By this is not meant a physic or purgative, for these should never be given to children, nor anything like salts, pills, etc. What the child requires is simply a small dose of the gentlest of medicines, such as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, which in the opinion of thousands of watchful mothers is the ideal remedy for any child showing a tendency to constipation. So many things can happen to a constipated child that care is necessary. Colds, piles, headaches, sleeplessness, and many other annoyances that children should not have can usually be traced to constipation.

Many of America's foremost families are never without Syrup Pepsin, because one can never tell when some member of the family may need it, and all can use it. Thousands endorse it, among them Mrs. M. E. Darling, R. F. D. No 4, Belleview, Pa., who writes: "I certainly think Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin saved my baby's life. Marjorie is a bottle baby and could not get her food to digest, but I found by giving her a small dose of Syrup Pepsin when she had colic it always cured her." Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is sold by druggists at fifty cents and one dollar a bottle, the latter size being bought by those who already know its value, and it contains proportionately more. Results are always guaranteed or money will be refunded.

MARJORIE DARLING

Everyone likes Syrup Pepsin as it is very pleasant to the taste. It is also mild and non-griping and free from injurious ingredients.

If no member of your family has ever used Syrup Pepsin and you would like to make a personal trial of it before buying it in the regular way of a druggist, send your address—a postal will do—to Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 417 Washington St., Monticello, Ill., and a free sample bottle will be mailed you.

At the Cathedral.

At the Sacred Heart cathedral (Catholic), Fourth street and Second avenue west, pontifical high mass was celebrated this morning by Rt. Rev. James McGolrick. The oils used in the church during the year were blessed at this service. Tenebrae service will be held at the cathedral this evening. The sermon will be preached by Rev. Three-hour Good Friday services were held this afternoon from 12 to 2 o'clock at the Trinity pro-cathedral, Twentieth avenue east and Superior street; at St. Paul's Episcopal church, Lake avenue and Second street, and at St. Peter's Swedish Episcopal church, 2801 West First street. At the pro-cathedral, Dr. Thomas MacLean, the vicar, preached a sermon on "The Seven Last Words From the Cross." The same topic was the subject of a discourse by Rev. A. W. Ryan, pastor of St. Paul's church. At this church a Good Friday morning prayer service was also held, opening at 10 o'clock. NORTHERN MINNESOTA MEN SATISFIED WITH REAPPORTIONMENT

but the house members were distributed so that only one of them went to Southern Minnesota. One went to the Sixth congressional district, one to the Fourth, and two to the Seventh.

Nor should it be overlooked that the over-representation held by Southern Minnesota constituted, if it could have been held together by sectional selfishness, a majority of the legislature which could have defeated any kind of reapportionment.

Concessions Necessary.

The slight concessions that were made were necessary in order to meet objections and, to be plain about it, to get votes enough to pass the bill. It cannot be said that Southern Minnesota abused the power it had very greatly.

The members of both houses from Northern Minnesota are well satisfied with the bill and they have reason to be. As stated in these reports Wednesday evening, the reapportionment bill that has become a law is quite as fair as it was sensible to expect. And it is quite as good a law as it was possible to produce at this session. The apportionment it provides, barring slight inequalities, is substantially just and equal.

Tables prepared by Representative C. H. Warner, chairman of the house reapportionment committee, illustrate this fact clearly.

The following tables exclude Ramsey and Hennepin counties, and show the number of senators and representatives in Northern and Southern Minnesota under the present apportionment and the new:

Senate.

Cong. Districts.	Pop.	Bill of 1913. No. of Sens.	Unit.	Bill of 1897. No. of Sens.	Unit.
1, 2 and 3...	555,283	20 1-6	27,353	25	22,211
6, 7, 8 and 9.	923,720	30 1-3	30,452	24 1-2	37,702

House.

Cong. Districts.	Pop.	Bill of 1913. No. of Reps.	Unit.	Bill of 1897. No. of Reps.	Unit.
1, 2 and 3...	555,283	31 1-2	16,095	41	13,545
6, 7, 8 and 9.	923,720	62 1-2	14,763	49	18,851

Southern Minnesota, with 25 senators at present, is reduced to 20 1-6 senators. Northern Minnesota—including Western Minnesota—has 30 1-3 senators against 24½ at present.

In the house Southern Minnesota is reduced from 41 members to 31½, and Northern Minnesota is increased from 49 members to 62½.

The figures by congressional districts are shown in the following tables:

Wages at Insane Asylums.

Senator Benson yesterday afternoon introduced in the senate a bill increasing wages at the state insane hospitals and asylums, and providing a system for the retirement and pensioning of aged and disabled employes. The bill increasing wages does not apply to superintendents and physicians, but it appropriates $50,000 for increases for minor employes. Those getting $50 or less per month are to be raised 15 per cent, and those getting more than that are to be increased 10 per cent.

• • •

Senator Elwell introduced in the senate yesterday afternoon a bill authorizing the state investment board to sell foreign bonds by a majority vote. The present law requires a unanimous vote, and the opposition of State Auditor Iverson makes impossible the sale of these bonds so that the proceeds may be invested in home development bonds of counties, school districts, etc.

• • •

Under a new bill introduced in the senate yesterday afternoon by Senator Pauly of Minneapolis collection agencies are required to take out licenses, to be issued by the county auditors, and to file bonds in the sum of $10,000 to protect their patrons.

Would Rotate Amendments.

Senator H. W. Cheadle of Duluth yesterday afternoon introduced in the senate a bill providing that proposed constitutional amendments shall be rotated on the ballot so that each one will appear an equal number of times at the head of the ballot. It is well known that where a number of amendments are proposed, only the first one or two stand much of a chance of adoption. Besides, it seems to be up to the judgment of the secretary of state which shall be first and which last. To remedy both of these matters, and to give every amendment proposed a fair chance, the Cheadle bill is proposed.

• • •

Other bills introduced in the senate yesterday afternoon were as follows:

By Senator Cashman—Relating to joint through rates.

By Senator Rockne—Appropriating $500,000, to be raised by certificates of indebtedness to provide a building for the supreme court, the law library and the state historical society collections.

By Senator Boyle—Requiring the use of the Australian ballot system in elections in towns and villages having more than 5,000 population.

The house committee on grain and warehouse yesterday afternoon voted to recommend for indefinite postponement the Rhenack bill amending the law of 1911 providing for the leasing by the state to the city of Duluth of the old state elevator site at Duluth.

As stated in these reports some time ago, the idea of the committee in taking this action is that either that committee or the house grain investigation committee may before the end of the session propose a constitutional amendment allowing the state to build a state elevator on this Duluth site.

• • •

The grain and warehouse committee voted 7 to 4, to report to the house without recommendation Representa- Teigen's bill prohibiting future trading in grain or stocks. It is not believed that the bill has any chance of passage.

Non-Partisan Features Cut Out.

At a meeting of the house committee on elections yesterday afternoon the senate non-partisan election bill, with the non-partisan feature stricken out, was recommended for passage. The committee decided to stand by its former action striking out the feature providing for the non-partisan election of all county offices. All that is left of the bill is a provision changing the primary election date from September to June, and another legalizing the Roosevelt or Progressive party in this state. The house later adopted the report of the committee without debate.

The house yesterday afternoon passed the following bills:

By Senator Boyle—Providing for changes of venue from one municipal court to another in St. Louis county.

By Senator Anderson—Prohibiting the manufacture or sale of parlor matches, so-called "wind matches" or double-dipped matches unless the first dip is an inert composition.

Senator Johnston in the senate yesterday afternoon gave notice that on Tuesday he will move to make a special order of his bill prohibiting shipments of cream more than fifty miles unless it is in refrigerator cars. The bill is aimed at centralized creameries, and is in the interest of rural and cooperative creameries.

Charges Against Iverson.

A. W. Thompson of Preston, formerly a deputy state auditor under State Auditor S. G. Iverson, came before the house committee on public accounts and expenditures voluntarily and besides making definite charges against the conduct of that office, gave the committee the benefit of his opinion as to the need for its present salary list.

Mr. Thompson asserted that there are a dozen clerks in the auditor's office who don't have to work two hours a day; that half of the force could be dispensed with and the remainder wouldn't be busy half the time; and that on top of that Mr. Iverson has also been raising salaries without consulting the legislature.

Mr. Thompson, in response to questions by Representative Sawyer, said that the only time he knew of when the state public exam investigated the state auditor's office was when Samuel T. Johnson investigated and made his famous report on the R. C. Dunn regime.

"Mr. Iverson," said Mr. Thompson, "has stood in with the examiners and has been able to evade examination. Of course, he is a consummate politician. You have to give him credit for that.

"He is the smoothest duck in Minnesota," said Mr. Iverson's former deputy, almost with enthusiasm.

"Are you on friendly terms with Mr. Iverson?" asked Representative Kerry Conley.

"Am I on friendly terms with him?" responded Mr. Thompson. "I haven't spoken a word to him since he kicked me out six years ago."

"What was the trouble?" asked a member of the committee.

"I don't know," said Mr. Thompson. "I'd like very much to find out. I am given to plain speaking and truth telling, which isn't always policy, perhaps, and maybe I talked too much when I was in the office."

Mr. Thompson charged that State Auditor Iverson has too many relatives in his office, and that some of his employes, including these relatives, have made money outside their salaries by selling information. He also stated as an instance of how the office is conducted that at one time Mr. Iverson patented a section of land to a Minneapolis man, and afterwards it developed that there was timber on it, though the record of appraisal showed no timber. Mr. Thompson said he tried to get Mr. Iverson to go into the case, but Mr. Iverson said that there was no use, as the land was patented. Finally the state auditor let him go ahead, and he turned the matter over to the attorney general. The result was that the state got the land back, and $8,000 besides.

Probation for Juveniles.

The house yesterday afternoon passed a bill by Representative Hopkins amending the juvenile court law so as to provide that in counties outside the three large counties where there are juvenile courts, there shall be a means of preventing children under 17 from going to jail. The bill provides that where a child under that age is convicted, forty-eight hours shall be allowed in which guardianship proceedings may be begun before the probate court. This will allow the discharge of the juvenile offender, under guardianship that will be equivalent to probation.

The house passed Representative Larson's bill authorizing county boards to change the names of counties. Pine county has long been desirous of changing its name to Clover county, hence this bill.

• • •

The house yesterday afternoon passed a bill by Representative N. S. Hillman of Two Harbors of considerable interest to labor. It prohibits employers, under penalty, of misrepresenting the facts in inducing workers to enter their employ. They must not misrepresent working conditions, and especially they must not misrepresent the facts as to the existence of a strike or lockout.

NORTHERN MINNESOTA MEN SATISFIED WITH REAPPORTIONMENT

but the house members were distributed so that only one of them went to Southern Minnesota. One went to the Sixth congressional district, one to the Fourth, and two to the Seventh.

Nor should it be overlooked that the over-representation held by Southern Minnesota constituted, if it could have been held together by sectional selfishness, a majority of the legislature which could have defeated any kind of reapportionment.

Concessions Necessary.

The slight concessions that were made were necessary in order to meet objections and, to be plain about it, to get votes enough to pass the bill. It cannot be said that Southern Minnesota abused the power it had very greatly.

The members of both houses from Northern Minnesota are well satisfied with the bill and they have reason to be. As stated in these reports Wednesday evening, the reapportionment bill that has become a law is quite as fair as it was sensible to expect. And it is quite as good a law as it was possible to produce at this session. The apportionment it provides, barring slight inequalities, is substantially just and equal.

Tables prepared by Representative C. H. Warner, chairman of the house reapportionment committee, illustrate this fact clearly.

The following tables exclude Ramsey and Hennepin counties, and show the number of senators and representatives in Northern and Southern Minnesota under the present apportionment and the new:

Senate.

	Bill of 1913.			Bill of 1857.
Cong. Districts	Pop.	No. of Sens.	Unit.	No. of Sens.	Unit.
1, 2 and 3	555,283	24 1-6	22,555	27	22,251
6, 7, 8 and 9	523,720	20 1-3	20,152	21 1-2	21,792

House.

	Bill of 1913.			Bill of 1857.
Cong. Districts	Pop.	No. of Reps.	Unit.	No. of Reps.	Unit.
1, 2 and 3	555,283	24 1-2	22,695	31	17,751
6, 7, 8 and 9	523,720	62 1-2	11,767	49	18,851

Southern Minnesota, with 25 senators at present, is reduced to 20 1-6 senators. Northern Minnesota including Western Minnesota has 20 1-3 senators against 21½ at present.

In the house Southern Minnesota is reduced from 11 members to 31½, and Northern Minnesota is increased from 19 members to 62½.

The figures by congressional districts are shown in the following tables:

Wages at Insane Asylums.

Senator Benson yesterday afternoon introduced in the senate a bill increasing wages at the state insane hospitals and asylums, and providing a system for the retirement and pensioning of aged and disabled employes. The bill increasing wages does not apply to superintendents and physicians, but it appropriates $50,000 for increases for minor employes. Those getting $50 or less per month are to be raised 25 per cent, and those getting more than that are to be increased 10 per cent.

• • •

Senator Elwell introduced in the senate yesterday afternoon a bill authorizing the state investment board to sell foreign bonds by a majority vote. The present law requires a unanimous vote, and the opposition of State Auditor Iverson makes impossible the sale of these bonds so that the proceeds may be invested in home development bonds of counties, school districts, etc.

• • •

Under a new bill introduced in the senate yesterday afternoon by Senator Purdy of Minneapolis collection agencies are required to take out licenses, to be issued by the county auditors, and to file bonds in the sum of $10,000 to protect their patrons.

Would Rotate Amendments.

Senator H. W. Cheadle of Duluth yesterday afternoon introduced in the senate a bill providing that proposed constitutional amendments shall be rotated on the ballot so that each one will appear an equal number of times at the head of the ballot. It is well known that where a number of amendments are proposed, only the first one or two stand much of a chance of adoption. Besides, it seems to be up to the judgment of the secretary of state which shall be first and which last. To remedy both of these matters, and to give every amendment proposed a fair chance, the Cheadle bill is proposed.

• • •

Other bills introduced in the senate yesterday afternoon were as follows:

By Senator Cashman—Relating to joint through rates.

By Senator Rockne—Appropriating $500,000, to be raised by certificates of indebtedness to provide a building for the supreme court, the law library and the state historical society collections.

By Senator Boyle—Requiring the use of the Australian ballot system in elections in towns and villages having more than 5,000 population.

The house committee on grain and warehouse yesterday afternoon voted to recommend for indefinite postponement the Ellsworth bill amending the law of 1911 providing for the leasing by the state to the city of Duluth of the old state elevator site at Duluth.

As stated in these reports some time ago, the idea of the committee in taking this action is that either that committee or the house grain investigation committee may before the end of the session propose a constitutional amendment allowing the state to build a state elevator on this Duluth site.

The grain and warehouse committee voted 7 to 4, to report to the house without recommendation Representative Telgen's bill prohibiting future trading in grain or stocks. It is not believed that the bill has any chance of passage.

• • •

Non-Partisan Features Cut Out.

At a meeting of the house committee on elections yesterday afternoon the senate non-partisan election bill, with the non-partisan feature stricken out, was recommended for passage. The committee decided to stand by its former action striking out the feature providing for the non-partisan election of all county offices. All that is left of the bill is a provision changing the primary election date from September to June, and another legalizing the Roosevelt or Progressive party in this state. The house later adopted the report of the committee without debate.

The house yesterday afternoon passed the following bills:

By Senator Boyle—Providing for changes of venue from one municipal court to another in St. Louis county.

By Senator Anderson—Prohibiting the manufacture or sale of parlor matches, so-called "wind matches" or double-dipped matches unless the first dip is an inert composition.

• • •

Senator Johnston in the senate yesterday afternoon gave notice that on Tuesday he will move to make a special order of his bill prohibiting shipments of cream more than fifty miles unless it is in refrigerator cars. The bill is aimed at centralized creameries, and is in the interest of rural and co-operative creameries.

Charges Against Iverson.

A. W. Thompson, of Preston, formerly a deputy state auditor under State Auditor S. G. Iverson, came before the house committee on public accounts and expenditures voluntarily and besides making definite charges against the conduct of that office, gave the committee the benefit of his opinion as to the need for its present salary list.

Mr. Thompson asserted that there are a dozen clerks in the auditor's office who don't have to work two hours a day; that half of the force could be dispensed with and the remainder wouldn't be busy half the time; and that on top of that Mr. Iverson has also been raising salaries without consulting the legislature.

Mr. Thompson, in response to questions by Representative Sawyer, said that the only time he knew of when the state public examiner investigated the state auditor's office was when Samuel T. Johnson investigated and made his famous report on the R. C. Dunn regime.

"Mr. Iverson," said Mr. Thompson, "has stood in with the examiners and has been able to evade examination. Of course, he is a consummate politician. You have to give him credit for that.

"He is the smoothest duck in Minnesota," said Mr. Iverson's former deputy, almost with enthusiasm.

"Are you on friendly terms with Mr. Iverson?" asked Representative Kerry Conley.

"Am I on friendly terms with him?" responded Mr. Thompson. "I haven't spoken a word to him since he kicked me out six years ago."

"What was the trouble?" asked a member of the committee.

"I don't know," said Mr. Thompson. "I'd like very much to find out. I am given, to plain speaking and truth telling, which isn't always policy, perhaps, and maybe I talked too much when I was in the office."

Mr. Thompson charged that State Auditor Iverson has too many relatives in his office, and that some of his employes, including these relatives, have made money outside their salaries by selling information. He also stated as an instance of how the office is conducted that at one time Mr. Iverson patented a section of land to a Minneapolis man, and afterwards it developed that there was timber on it, though the record of appraisal showed no timber. Mr. Thompson said he tried to get Mr. Iverson to go into the case, but Mr. Iverson said that there was no use, as the land was patented. Finally the state auditor let him go ahead, and he turned the matter over to the attorney general. The result was that the state got the land back, and $8,000 besides.

Probation for Juveniles.

The house yesterday afternoon passed a bill by Representative Hopkins amending the juvenile court law so as to provide that in counties outside the three large counties where there are juvenile courts, there shall be a means of preventing children under 17 from going to jail. The bill provides that where a child under that age is convicted, forty-eight hours shall be allowed in which guardianship proceedings may be begun before the probate court. This will allow the discharge of the juvenile offender, under guardianship that will be equivalent to probation.

The house passed Representative Larson's bill authorizing county boards to change the names of counties. Pine county has long been desirous of changing its name to Clover county, hence this bill.

• • •

The house yesterday afternoon passed a bill by Representative N. S. Hillman of Two Harbors of considerable interest to labor. It prohibits employers, under penalty, of misrepresenting the facts in inducing workers to enter their employ. They must not misrepresent working conditions, and especially they must not misrepresent the facts as to the existence of a strike or lockout.

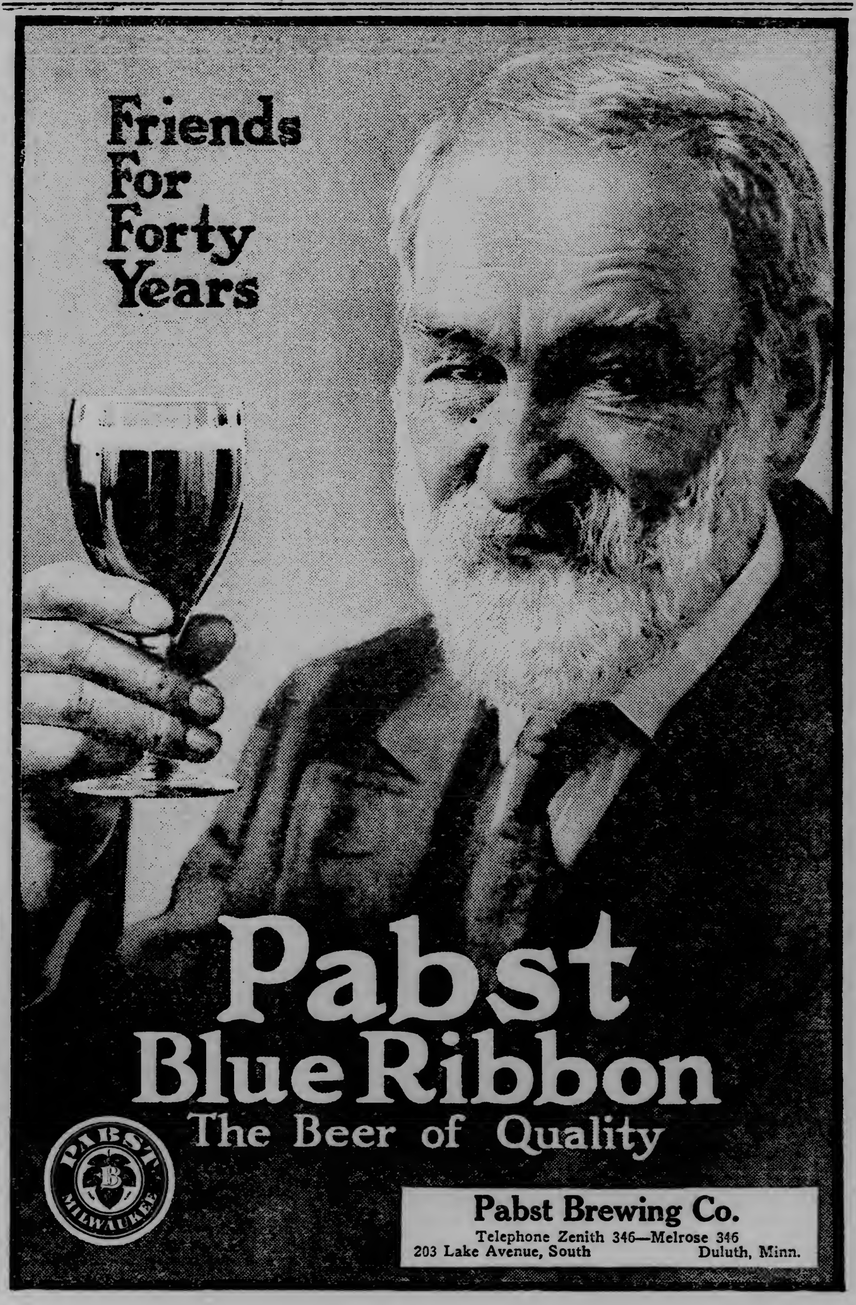
• • •

The senate committee on general legislation has announced a public hearing for Tuesday evening on the public utility bills.

• • •

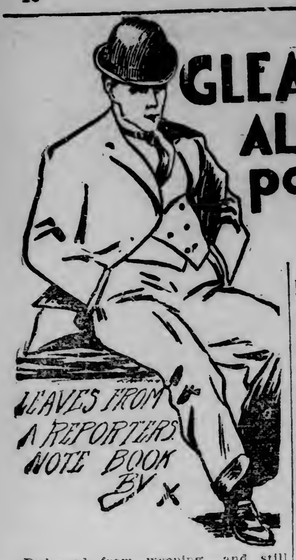
Both houses adjourned yesterday afternoon until Monday, today being Good Friday and a legal holiday.

STILLMAN H. BINGHAM.



INTENTIONAL DUPLICATE EXPOSURE

DEFECTIVE PAGE



GLEANED ALONG THE POLICE RUN

Red-eyed from weeping and still sobbing forlornly a little 6-year-old girl was found adrift in the West end, wandering disconsolately about, at 1 o'clock this morning.

Frightened by the blustering terrors of the night, the looming blackness of the shadows and the erie noises of midnight, the tiny tot had pretty nearly cried herself out.

Thinly clad she had suffered from the biting frost. Her little hands were numb with the cold, her scared, tear-streaked face was half blue and her feet were like icicles. All alone, she was crying piteously for the protecting shelter of her home.

The wee child was discovered by Charles Peterson of 2319 West Tenth street near the corner of Twenty-third avenue west and Superior street as he was on his way home from work. Gathering her in his arms and unable to induce her to talk or tell where she belonged, he wrapped her in his overcoat and carried her to his home, where she remained until late this forenoon.

The little girl was the daughter of Peter Murray, who came here with her from their former home in Michigan several weeks ago. Murray and the child have been boarding at 2327 West Superior street, near where she was picked up by Mr. Petersen.

Last night Murray went to visit with some friends on Garfield avenue, leaving the child alone in the house after he had put her to bed. Either she did not drop off to sleep or woke up some time after she had been left to herself. Probably afraid to remain alone, she dressed herself hastily and without regard to the freezing outdoor temperature. Thinking that she might find her papa outside the small girl ventured through the door and on the sidewalk in front of the house. Seized with the panic of the night she couldn't find her way back and toddled helplessly forth and back between violent spells of weeping. How long she had been there before she was found by Mr. Peterson is uncertain, but it was thought from her condition that it must have been quite a while.

When the father of the girl returned home at midnight and found her gone he thoroughly searched the premises in a frantic effort to find her. Then he called upon the police for assistance. When she was still missing this morning the case began to assume serious aspects. Detectives were sent out to make a thorough investigation of all the circumstances and the movements of the people who might have known something about her. They went to the home where Murray had called last night after leaving his small daughter alone, but found no trace of her. While the officers were still in the West end Mr. Peterson called headquarters and informed the police of the lost child whom he had found on his way home.

Nellie Blaine, keeper of a notorious dive in the district across the dead line, was found not guilty in police court yesterday afternoon of being the keeper of a vicious dog. The Blaine woman was arrested on complaint of Isaac Maki who stated that the dog had bitten him in the leg so severely that he had to call for the services of a physician. Maki was obliged to pass the resort while on his way to see another man on a business matter. The court thought that the Blaine woman would be liable in a claim for damages in a civil action, but that the evidence did not warrant conviction on the criminal charge.

Gus Peterson, a woodsman, was arrested last night on complaint of Carl Forstad, who alleged that Peterson had robbed him of $50 after they reached Winton from the camp in which they had been working. Both men came out with about the same amount of money. Peterson had put away $60 for safekeeping when he reached Duluth and had about $15 in his pocket. Forstad was certain that Peterson had robbed him but as there was no corroborative evidence Peterson was released this morning.

Walter Mattson was arrested shortly before midnight last night by Patrolman Neil Mooney as he was in the act of robbing Felix Loss on the edge of the redlight district near St. Croix alley and Sutphin street.

The police state that Mattson had knocked down Loss, a much smaller man, and was rifling his pockets when nabbed by the bluecoat. Loss swore out a complaint for Mattson this morning, charging him with grand larceny in the first degree.

Mattson denied his guilt and asked for an examination, which was set for Monday afternoon. In the meantime he will sojourn in the county jail.

Hans Markson was arraigned in police court this morning on a warrant sworn out by his wife charging him with having assaulted her. He pleaded not guilty and will be tried Tuesday afternoon.

* * *

Perry E. McGinnis was arrested last night on a charge of vagrancy and Edna McGinnis was picked up earlier in the day for begging. The police said they were not desirable characters. Both entered pleas of guilty, the man getting $75 and costs or sixty days in the county jail and the woman $50 and costs or thirty days over the hill. It is claimed that they were registered at a rooming house as W. H. Bliss and wife.

* * *

Elmer McLean and Joe Bliss, charged with having relieved Adolph Monty of $470 last Saturday night, were bound over to await the action of the next grand jury after a preliminary examination in police court yesterday afternoon. Monty doesn't remember much of what happened after he got drunk. Other witnesses testified that they had seen McLean and Bliss with him about the time he thinks he was separated from his wealth.

A telephone call reached the police this morning that somebody was being murdered at First avenue east and First street.

A detail from headquarters hurried to the scene and found Henry Malone and Frankie Hall, both colored, engaging in a battle royal, with the woman getting slightly the better of the argument.

Malone claims that he went to Frankie's room to get some letters and papers which he had sent her in the days when she was his tootsie wootsie, and that Frankie greeted him by laying him out with a lamp which she fired at his head with excellent aim. Frankie avers that Henry burst into the room and attacked her without warning.

Malone was arrested on a charge of having assaulted the bonbon of his former dreams. He pleaded not guilty and his trial was set for Wednesday morning.

Axel Makinen was bound over to the grand jury after a preliminary examination in police court yesterday afternoon on a charge of having robbed Gust Hermanson of $80. It is alleged that the robbery took place when the two were drinking together in a Floodwood booze joint.

What's in a name?

Ananias Erdahl was arrested yesterday on a charge of being drunk.

Ananias denied that he was drunk.

Ananias was found guilty after a trial. He was drunk.

Ananias then drew a suspended sentence.

There is a well-established Greek church in Minneapolis, and services will be held there. Several of the Duluth Greeks will leave tomorrow evening for Minneapolis to attend the services.

Local Greeks were much grieved at the assassination of their king. They are a very loyal race, and many of them returned to Greece to take part in the war against Turkey. King George was held in very high esteem by them, and his death was keenly felt.

Virginia, Minn., March 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—The agitation for the erection of a new city hall in keeping with the growth of the city took form at the last council meeting when President Boylan appointed a committee consisting of Mayor Murphy and Aldermen Heritage and Moylan to investigate the matter and report on the advisability of putting up a $200,000 structure.

Have $100,000 Available.

There is a special fund of $100,000 which can be used for the building of a city hall or any other permanent building or improvement work which might be designated by the council.

No definite site has so far been chosen but six lots owned by the Lenont hospital and opposite the present building are considered as the most suitable location.

New $35,000 Building to Be Opened With Annual Boola.

Virginia, Minn., March 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Elks will throw open their magnificent new building to the public during the Boola next Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday.

The building which was erected at a cost of over $35,000 is said to be the most complete Elks' home in the Northwest.

The Boola, which is an annual affair, is always very popular with the range people and this year's event will be the biggest ever held on the range.

Among the special features will be the grand carnival of nations, and the score of beautifully decorated booths which are crowded with a charming variety of articles, both useful and ornamental.

Special Nights.

Wednesday night has been set aside as Eveleth night and special cars will be provided by the Mesaba Electric railroad to take care of the crowds. Thursday night will be Hibbing night and on this night also special transportation facilities will be provided for the convenience of the visitors.

RUNAWAY IS HOME.

Hibbing Youth Picked Up in Duluth and Returned Home.

Hibbing, Minn., March 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—The tour of Albert Galley around the world, commencing at Stevenson, ended at Duluth yesterday when Galley met Police Officer Morris O'Donnell from his home town, and decided to accompany him back to Stevenson. Young Galley ran away from home Monday night, sending a dramatic message to his parents that he was on his way. His parents were much worried. His father said that he had no objection to his going out and up against the world for himself, but he wanted to see him started with a bankroll of about $100 in his pocket. Galley has decided that the world is not worth seeing after all, however, and went to work on a good job at Stevenson today.

AFRAID OF QUARANTINE: CHILDREN ALLOWED TO SUFFER.

Chisholm, Minn., March 21.—(Special to The Herald.) — While delivering packages to a home an express man discovered three children in one family suffering from scarlet fever, not one of whom had been given medical treatment. The children were running around the house while the mother performed her household duties. The father is employed at one of the mines and goes to work daily.

The delivery man asked the woman why she did not send for a doctor and the woman replied: "I send for doctor. He lock us up."

The man then asked her which she preferred, to be locked up or lose her children. After convincing the woman that she was acting foolishly, if not criminally, in permitting her children to suffer and take chances of them dying, she sent for a doctor and the house was immediately put under quarantine.

New Detention Hospital.

Health Officer Dr. W. R. Seimid has arranged a detention hospital that is suited admirably for the purpose of scarlet fever patients in one of the buildings recently purchased by the school board on the corner of Third avenue and Spruce street. It contains fifteen rooms, eight on the ground floor and seven on the upper story. Beds have been provided and four patients occupy it at present. Mrs. Adams, an experienced nurse, is in charge and the patients will be well taken care of by her.

SPEAKS WELL FOR HIBBING SCHOOLS

Members of Teaching Corps in Demand for Summer School Work.

Hibbing, Minn., March 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—Hibbing teachers are in demand as summer school instructors at several of the most important educational centers in the country. Hibbing teachers are in demand because Hibbing has the reputation of having one of the most efficient teaching corps in the country. Supt. Blair, who believes that no teacher except the best is worth having, is naturally pleased, and the school board feels the compliment on efficiency. The teachers who go to good positions are naturally well pleased.

To Direct Oshkosh Normal.

H. H. Faust, principal at the Washington school, has been retained to direct the summer training school work at the Oshkosh normal school in Oshkosh, Wis. Miss Janet St. John will be critic teacher at the same school. Miss Mabel Wombaugh, who is in charge of the fourth grade work of the Hibbing schools, goes to the summer training school at the Ypsilanti, Mich., normal. These three positions are perhaps as good as any in training school work in the country.

Practically all of the teachers in the staff of the local schools who want training school positions will be able to get them. All of them will go to as good places as there are in educational work in the Northwest.

BATTLE VETERAN ANXIOUS TO GO

A. J. Pool of Hibbing Wants to Accompany Veterans to Gettysburg.

Hibbing, Minn., March 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—A. J. Pool, veteran of the Civil war, 79 years of age and still hale and hearty does not want to be omitted from the list of veterans from Minnesota, who will be sent to the Gettysburg reunion next July.

Mr. Pool has made his home here for three years. He is the father of Oliver Pool of the location named after him. Although he will celebrate his 80th birthday in June he stills works every day and during all of the present winter has found himself equal every day to the task of splitting a cord of stove wood.

From 1861 to 1865 Mr. Pool served in the Thirty-First Indiana volunteer infantry. At the close of the war he was one of nine of the original muster roll of his company mustered out. Of that number seven had sustained wounds. He participated in forty-eight battles.

Mr. Pool followed Grant to Corinth, Mississippi in the Vicksburg campaign. At the battle of Shiloh he sustained three bullet wounds. Twice he was shot through the left hand, deformed owing to the crude surgery of the army hospitals, although he still retains the use of it.

The property has been controlled by the Patterson estate and by Martin Patterson of Superior. FLINN'S ESTATE PAYS STATE TAX

Minnesota Gets $20,000 From Estate of Iron Discoverer.

St. Paul, Minn., March 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—A tale of the north woods and the Minnesota range country is contained in the story of the life of Elisha H. Flinn of Detroit, Mich., multi-millionaire, whose estate today paid $20,000 inheritance tax to State Treasurer Smith.

Forty years ago Flinn, with two companions, Dorr and Murphy, comparatively poor, came from Michigan into Northern Minnesota and bought what is now the town site of Eveleth. They obtained the land for the timber there was on it, and subsequently disposed of the trees, although they were unable to sell the land itself.

Died Before Realizing Wealth.

It was not until 1894 that they began to realize their property contained some of the richest deposits of iron ore in the world. It made them all immensely wealthy, but Dorr and Murphy died before an inheritance tax law was passed and the state obtained nothing from either of their heirs. Flinn died a year ago, and his holdings were appraised at more than $500,000 at that time.

The estate still owns part of the original Eveleth townsite, but the town was moved some years after its founding to its present site, because its location was over one of the richest of the mines.

THE WEATHER.

Another drop in the temperature to about zero is predicted for tonight, and the weather can see nothing ahead for Easter Sunday but decidedly chilly weather. Today is gray and raw, a typical March day.

Cold windy weather prevailed a year ago today.

The sun rose this morning at 6:09 and it will set at 6:22 this evening, giving twelve hours and thirteen minutes of sunlight.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"The disturbance of marked intensity centered over Michigan has caused light to heavy snow or rain in the Lake region and Central Valley states. Most of the Eastern and Southern reports are missing on account of wire trouble. Severe cold weather prevails throughout Western Canada, the Dakotas, Montana, Wyoming, Colorado, Kansas and Nebraska. Conditions favor temperatures of about zero or below in St. Louis and Douglas counties tonight."

Local Forecasts.

Forecast till 7 p. m. Saturday for Duluth, Superior and vicinity, including the Mesaba and Vermilion iron ranges:

Generally fair weather tonight and Saturday. Colder tonight with lowest temperature about zero or slightly below at Duluth-Superior and 5 deg. to about 10 deg. below zero on the iron ranges. Brisk to high northwesterly winds diminishing tonight.

Shippers' Forecasts.

Protect 36-hour shipments of perishables against minimum temperatures of zero or below in the Dakotas, Minnesota and Northern and Western Wisconsin.

IS "THE FIRST DAY OF SPRING"

Calendar's Statement That Winter Is Over Not Generally Accepted.

According to the calendar, today is the first day of spring, the date of the vernal equinox, the day on which the sun shines twelve hours and is below the horizon twelve hours.

The calendar may be a dependable work, but it should not be relied upon too implicitly in determining the seasons for Duluth.

No man who, bundled in his overcoat, emerged from his front door this morning to encounter the icy blasts that told of winter's continued grip, can be made to believe that today is the first day of spring.

The weather man says that the sun rose this morning at 6:09 and it will set this evening at 6:22, making twelve hours and thirteen minutes of sunlight, so the calendar, the almanacs and the other works that disseminate weather information are off again, so far as Duluth is concerned.

PERMANENCE, AND BRIGHT'S DISEASE

We have been asked if the recoveries in Bright's Disease made by Fulton's Renal Compound are permanent. Many cases have established permanence.

For instance in the case of R. M. Wood, Editor of the Wine and Spirit Review of San Francisco, Cal.: It was twelve years ago that "the most noted analyst in San Francisco" established the genuineness of the case. The editor's physician told him that medicine would not avail him and advised him to go to Santa Barbara. He dropped from 225 to less than 190 pounds in a short while. On his return he was put on Fulton's Renal Compound and not only made a recovery but the reality and permanence of it may be judged from the fact that he is well at this writing, January, 1913.

Thousands of cases of Bright's Disease have reported progress or recovery under Fulton's Renal Compound. Medical works admit that they have nothing to control chronic Bright's Disease. And the deaths confirm—nearly ninety thousand annually. If you have Bright's Disease you owe it to yourself and family to try Fulton's Renal Compound before giving up. It can be had at druggists, supplied by Leithhead Drug Co.

For pamphlet on our investigation into the curability of Bright's Disease write John J. Fulton Co., San Francisco.

ADMITS THAT HE DID THE CARVING

John Wittila Changes Plea to Guilty in Assault Case.

John Wittila, charged with having carved Iver Lehto with a knife on Christmas day last, while the two were drinking together in a St. Croix avenue saloon, yesterday pleaded guilty in district court and now awaits sentence.

Wittila was indicted by the January grand jury and when arraigned denied the accusation. The case was not brought to trial at the last term of court owing to the inability of the county attorney's office to find Lehto, the complaining witness.

In the meantime, Wittila decided to change his mind about his guilt in the matter and this week signified his intentions of admitting his crime. Donald Holmes appeared in court as his attorney.

Wittila will be brought before the court later for sentence.

He returned this morning. His parents were much worried. His father said that he had no idea to take any action with regard to it, as he would let him alone himself, but he wanted to see him start with a full load of short hair in his pocket. AFRAID OF QUARANTINE: CHILDREN ALLOWED TO SUFFER.

Chisholm, Minn., March 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—While delivering packages to a home an express man discovered three children in one family suffering from scarlet fever, not one of whom had been given medical treatment. The children were running around the house while the mother performed her household duties. The father is employed at one of the mines and goes to work daily.

The drivers man asked the woman why she did not send for a doctor and the woman replied, "I send for doctor. He look us up."

The man then asked for which she proposed to be locked up or lose her children. After convincing the woman that she was acting foolishly, if not criminally, in permitting her children to suffer and take chances of them dying, she sent for a doctor and the house was immediately put under quarantine.

Mr. Pool followed Grant to Corinth, Mississippi in the Vicksburg campaign. At the battle of Shiloh he sustained three bullet wounds. Twice he was shot through the left hand, deformed owing to the crude surgery of the army hospitals, although he still retains the use of it.

FLINN'S ESTATE PAYS STATE TAX

Minnesota Gets $20,000 From Estate of Iron Discoverer.

St. Paul, Minn., March 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—A tale of the north woods and the Minnesota range country is contained in the story of the life of Elisha H. Flinn of Detroit, Mich., multi-millionaire, whose estate today paid $20,000 inheritance tax to State Treasurer Smith.

Forty years ago Flinn, with two companions, Dorr and Murphy, comparatively poor, came from Michigan into Northern Minnesota and bought what is now the town site of Eveleth. They obtained the land for the timber there was on it, and subsequently disposed of the trees, although they were unable to sell the land itself.

Died Before Realizing Wealth.

It was not until 1894 that they began to realize their property contained some of the richest deposits of iron ore in the world. It made them all immensely wealthy, but Dorr and Murphy died before an inheritance tax law was passed and the state obtained nothing from their heirs. Flinn died a year ago, and his holdings were appraised at more than $5,000,000 at that time.

The estate still owns part of the original Eveleth townsite, but the town was moved some years after its founding to its present site, because its location was over one of the richest of the mines.

Two Harbors—Freeman and Dean, forwards; Johnson, center; Peglow, Clark and McCurdy, guards. Referee, Conliff.

THE WEATHER.

Another drop in the temperature to about zero is predicted for tonight, and the weather can see nothing ahead for Easter Sunday but decidedly chilly weather. Today is gray and raw, a typical March day.

Cold windy weather prevailed a year ago today.

The sun rose this morning at 6:09 and it will set at 6:22 this evening, giving twelve hours and thirteen minutes of sunlight.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"The disturbance of marked intensity centered over Michigan has caused light to heavy snow or rain in the Lake region and Central Valley states. Most of the Eastern and Southern reports are missing on account of wire trouble. Severe cold weather prevails throughout Western Canada, the Dakotas, Montana, Wyoming, Colorado, Kansas and Nebraska. Conditions favor temperatures of about zero or below in St. Louis and Douglas counties tonight."

Local Forecasts.

Forecast till 7 p. m. Saturday for Duluth, Superior and vicinity, including the Mesaba and Vermilion iron ranges:

Generally fair weather tonight and Saturday. Colder tonight with lowest temperature about zero or slightly below at Duluth-Superior and 5 deg. to about 10 deg. below zero on the iron ranges. Brisk to high northwesterly winds, diminishing tonight.

Shippers' Forecasts.

Protect 36-hour shipments of perishables against minimum temperatures of zero or below in the Dakotas, Minnesota and Northern and Western Wisconsin.

IS "THE FIRST DAY OF SPRING"

Calendar's Statement That Winter Is Over Not Generally Accepted.

According to the calendar, today is the first day of spring, the date of the vernal equinox, the day on which the sun shines twelve hours and is below the horizon twelve hours.

The calendar may be a dependable work, but it should not be relied upon too implicitly in determining the seasons for Duluth.

No man who, bundled in his overcoat, emerged from his front door this morning to encounter the icy blasts that told of winter's continued grip, can be made to believe that today is the first day of spring.

The weather man says that the sun rose this morning at 6:09 and it will set this evening at 6:22, making twelve hours and thirteen minutes of sunlight, so the calendar, the almanacs and the other works that disseminate weather information are off again, so far as Duluth is concerned.

PERMANENCE, AND BRIGHT'S DISEASE

We have been asked if the recoveries in Bright's Disease made by Fulton's Renal Compound are permanent. Many cases have established permanency.

For instance in the case of R. M. Wood, Editor of the Wine and Spirit Review of San Francisco, Cal.: It was twelve years ago that "the most noted analyst in San Francisco" established the genuineness of the case. The editor's physician told him that medicine would not avail him and advised him to go to Santa Barbara. He dropped from 225 to less than 190 pounds in a short while. On his return he was put on Fulton's Renal Compound and not only made a recovery but the reality and permanence of it may be judged from the fact that he is well at this writing, January, 1913.

Thousands of cases of Bright's Disease have reported progress or recovery under Fulton's Renal Compound. Medical works admit that they have nothing to control chronic Bright's Disease. And the deaths confirm—nearly ninety thousand annually. If you have Bright's Disease you owe it to yourself and family to try Fulton's Renal Compound before giving up. It can be had at druggists, supplied by Leithhead Drug Co.

For pamphlet on our investigation into the curability of Bright's Disease write John J. Fulton Co., San Francisco.

ADMITS THAT HE DID THE CARVING

John Wittila Changes Plea to Guilty in Assault Case.

John Wittila, charged with having carved Iver Lehto with a knife on Christmas day last, while the two were drinking together in a St. Croix avenue saloon, yesterday pleaded guilty in district court and now awaits sentence.

Wittila was indicted by the January grand jury and when arraigned denied the accusation. The case was not brought to trial at the last term of court owing to the inability of the county attorney's office to find Lehto, the complaining witness.

In the meantime, Wittila decided to change his mind about his guilt in the matter and this week signified his intentions of admitting his crime. Donald Holmes appeared in court as his attorney.

Wittila will be brought before the court later for sentence.

PROFESSOR Wegener, who is on the job following his slight indisposition, believes that the physical department of the Y. M. C. A. is going to have the best athletic contests in the history of the association in the windup of the winter sports year. These events will be staged the latter part of the present month and are to be in the nature of a climax to pleasantly cap the most successful year in the history of the association.

Followers of athletics are keenly anticipating the athletic track meet in which the association, the Central high school, the boat club and several outside teams are to participate. Last season the boat club athletes carried off the palm of sweet and open faced victory, but if the hunch of the Y. M. C. A. is infallible and one of steady lip and steel nerve, the Christian cohorts are going to take down the bunting this year.

However there is Central and "Scotty" Brown. This kid is good for several events without the assistance of any of the other members of the team. Matthew — make him peeved—is one of the greatest runners produced in this section of the state for a number of years, and it is rather safe to believe that he is going to make a brilliant showing in the forthcoming games.

IN THE choice company of the athletic meet that is to be staged at the Y. M. C. A. might be mentioned the athletic card that is to be put on at the Catholic Athletic club gymnasium. The proceeds from this are going to further equip the large hall of the Catholic club.

Walter Miller has charge of the entertainment that is to be put on under the auspices of the C. A. C. association, and already the little wrestler has lined up some of the best talent in the city. As practically every member of the club is pushing the thing there is little doubt but that it will be an unqualified success.

During the past year the Catholic club has come smilingly to the front in the various forms of athletics of the city. In basket ball, indoor baseball and other sports of indoor games the club has made an especially strong showing. It is hoped to have this club enter a team in the games to be held at the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium, for some of the crack athletes of the city are to be found enrolled in the C. A. C.

THE sporting scribe on the morning contemporary has been mistaken in the facts regarding the weight that Walter Willoughby is to make for Mike Yokel, the world famous grappler of Salt Lake city.

Under the conditions of the match the famous wrestler of Mellen, Wis., is to come on the mat weighing 162 pounds—not 158. Mike Yokel is the only wrestler among the middleweights who would allow Willoughby to come in at a pound over the limit prescribed by the middleweight class, and this fact alone assures the fans in this part of the country of witnessing one of the greatest contests that have ever been held in the West.

Billy Rigg returned yesterday from Mellen, where he went on business. He says they are simply crazy over the coming contest. Down there, according to the story of William, there is not a man, woman or child but who believes that Willoughby is the greatest wrestler in the world and that he is going to pin the shoulders of Yokel to the canvas.

Over the long distance telephone yesterday Mr. Edward Gillouly, one of the prominent lumbermen of Mellen, stated that there would be a large delegation on hand the night of the contest. A big block of seats has been ordered reserved for the enthusiastic followers of Willoughby, who are not only coming up from Mellen, but also from the little towns down through Wisconsin.

Formerly of Buffalo, where he was the holder of the middleweight title, Willoughby has resided in Mellen for the past two years. In one of the most sensational matches ever wrestled in the middle West Willoughby lost the middleweight title to Henry Gehring a year and a half ago. The Mellen wrestler has always claimed that it was the making of low weight and not Gehring that robbed him of the title.

Whether that statement is true or not, the fact is that Gehring would never consent to give Willoughby a return battle. Then came along the great Mike Yokel, the bear cat of the Rocky mountains, and Gehring lost the title in a slam bang contest that went something like three hours. That was decided just before Yokel came out here and took the measure of Walter Miller.

Generously Yokel has consented to permit Willoughby to come on the mat at 162 pounds ringside. A forfeit of $200 will be deposited several days before the contest. If Willoughby or Yokel fail to get down to the 162 pound mark, the money will be forfeited.

In letters to the sporting writers of the two papers here Willoughby has freely stated that the weight is just to his liking. With the Mellen wrestler at his best and in the very pink of condition, the contest is going to be some mat battle.

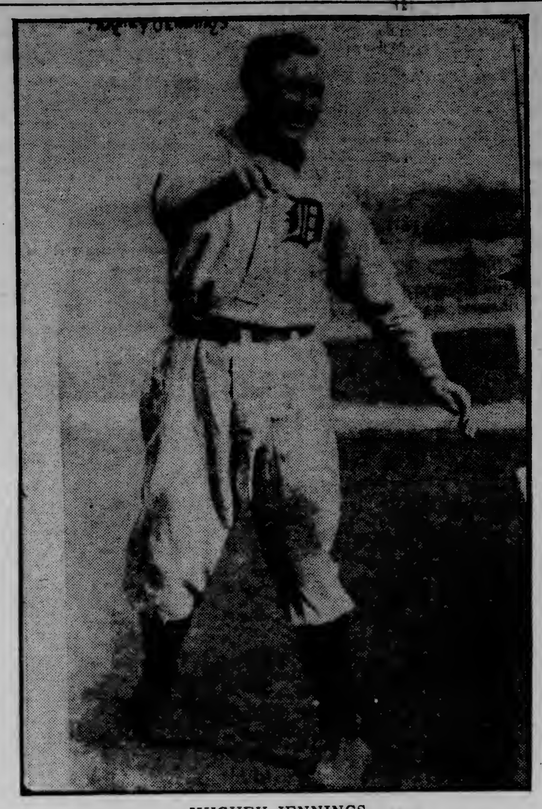
WITH the gymnasium of the Lakeside Athletic association nearly completed the athletes of the Eastern end of the city will shortly be starting work in the temporary quarters of the new and live organization.

The work of raising funds is going on at the present time. Those behind the club have been more than generous in their support. President Ryberg stated yesterday that membership subscriptions were needed at the present time to defray the expense the club is under for the various kinds of gymnasium apparatus that has been ordered. For that very reason the support of all those interested in the progress of the club is needed especially at this time.

YES, HE SHOULD WORRY!



HUGHEY JENNINGS.

Critics right at the present time are busy in estimating the strength and weaknesses of the various baseball teams of the country. Few of the scribes credit Detroit with any show of winning the pennant in Ban Johnson's league. It is generally believed that the Tigers have had their day and that the troubles of Jennings are numbered, even as the hairs of the head.

EFFORTS BEING MADE TO BRING VICTORIAS HERE

Crack Winnipeg Hockey Holders of the Allen Cup May Play the Duluth Curling Club's Seven.

Efforts were being made yesterday to close a hockey date with the famous Victorias of Winnipeg. Whether or not the negotiations will prove successful will not be definitely learned until sometime today.

The matter hinges upon the action taken by the Portage Lake team. Efforts are being made at the present time by John McNamara to close a game for Houghton, and in the event of big John being successful in his quest for a contest between the crack team of Western Canada and the amateur champions of the United States, it is likely that the Victorias may possibly be seen here before the close of the present season.

As the Victorias are the present holders of the famous Allen cup, some idea of the prowess of the team may be gleaned. It is said by those who know that the Winnipeg seven is really one of the greatest teams on the other side of the boundary line, and that is admitting a whole lot.

The Portage Lake outfit is very anxious to try conclusions with the stars from across the imaginary line. Jack Croze and a few of the others over there are of the opinion that there is no aggregation of puck-chasers within cable distance that has any license to defeat the gang genially captained by Paul Hogan. True it is that the Portage Lake seven has enjoyed a great year, but there are some of the opinion that in the Victorias the Houghton bunch will meet its match.

Great interest would attach to a contest arranged between the Winnipeg team and the Duluth Curling club seven, and if the Houghton people can make arrangements to date the Canucks for their town, it is not improbable that one of the greatest of all hockey teams in the dominion will be seen in action in Duluth.

PINE RIVER WRESTLER DEFEATS ED. PELKEY.

Brainerd, Minn., March 21.—At the wrestling match at Vernon & Clarkson's club on Front street Tuesday night Harry Miller of Pine River, weighing 175 pounds, gained two falls and the victory over Ed Pelkey of Brainerd, weight 150 pounds. Pelkey put up a game fight and worked his way out of many difficult situations. The first fall was gained by Miller with a scissors and bar hold in seven minutes. The second fall went to Miller by a bar hold and Pelkey lasted ten minutes before his shoulders touched the mat. It was a clean wrestling match and a return match will be arranged for within thirty days. The preliminary match was between Billy Brown and Emil Halland, the latter winning two straight falls. The attendance was good and was well satisfied with the evening's performance.

Spalding Guide Published.

That annual Harbinger of spring, the Spalding Official Baseball Guide, now in its thirty-seventh year, has made its appearance for 1913. As usual, it is full of interest for the fan.

The contents include a variety of topics on the game from the pen of the editor, John B. Foster of New York, with reviews of the season in the National league by the editor and a resume of the American league contest by I. E. Sanborn of Chicago. The world series is exhaustively described in a compact and interesting manner, the numerous plays illustrated in a panel at the top of each page of the article lending additional interest to the subject. The season in each of the minor leagues is described, together with other important happenings in the world of baseball, the official rules and schedules closing the volume.

New Orleans, La., March 21.—New Orleans defeated the Detroit Americans 3 to 1 yesterday.

Signs New Pitcher.

Charlottesville, Va., March 21.—James Shaw of Pittsburg, Pa., has been added to the pitching staff of the Washington American league baseball club. He will report here at once to join the squad for spring practice. Shaw is a right-handed amateur, and for the past two years has pitched for the Pittsburg Athletic club.

COACH EMPLOYED FOR MINNESOTA

St. Paul, Minn., March 21.—Members of the Minnesota Boat club today are rejoicing in the news that George Van Vliet, formerly coach of the Staten Island Boat club, New York, has signed to act in a similar capacity for the local oarsmen, thereby assuring St. Paul enthusiasts that the crews will be in excellent hands in preparing for a strenuous campaign. Van Vliet is scheduled to reach this city April 10 or 12, and immediately will assume charge over the local course.

The signing of Van Vliet followed a search from one end of the country to the other for a suitable man to assume the responsibilities of priming the local men for the events of the Northwestern international regatta, which will take place here in July, and hopes for a victory soared with the final decision of the famous oarmaster to come here. There is no more experienced oarsmen in the country than Van Vliet.

He was doubles champion for three years of the United States and Canada, each time winning this honor with a different partner. It is not said for how long a term Van Vliet has signed, but it is understood he intends to live permanently in St. Paul, and that he will enter business here during the winter months. If this be true, his services may be retained permanently. His present home is in New York city.

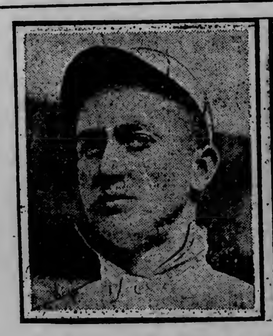
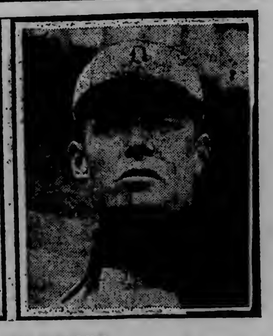
TWO GREAT STARS SIGN





COBB AND CRAWFORD.

With the signing of Wahoo Sam Crawford, one of the most famous of all the holdouts has come into the fold. Ty Cobb affixed his signature to a Detroit contract just previous to the conciliation act of old Sam. With Rube Marquard signed up, Jimmy Archer is one of the few great stars on the outside looking in.

FORMER DULUTH PLAYER SHOWS GREAT PROMISE

Old Wahoo Sam Crawford Declares George Dauss Has the Making of a Great Pitching Star.

Mobile, Ala., March 21. — George Dauss, pitcher, has the honor of being one of the few men that Sam Crawford has ever named as looking good as a player.

Crawford is one of the most reticent of men when it comes to picking players. Sam doesn't care to go on record as favoring one man against another, but the veteran star of the Detroit outfield is willing, at any time, to support his contentions regarding Dauss as a pitcher.

One day last winter Crawford declared that Dauss was the best appearing young pitcher that he had ever seen, and he had no hesitation in declaring that if the young man did not meet with misfortune he would be a star in the American league and with Detroit this summer.

Dauss was purchased by Detroit from St. Paul in the American association last fall.

He made an excellent showing in a couple of games with the Tigers during the late days of the 1912 season, but during the winter the recruit became ill and he has not recovered his strength and weight. If he is turned back it will be because of his physical condition, and not because of a lack of nerve or pitching kowledge.

However, there are any number of Tigers who insist that Dauss will not be turned away.

Began in 1900.

George began his pitching career with the Indianapolis manual school team and in 1909 he was taken over by the South Bend team in the Central league. After a few weeks he was sent to Duluth in the Minnesota-Wisconsin league and later was purchased by St. Paul and then was returned to Duluth. In the spring of 1911 he was again taken over by St. Paul and for the second time was turned back to Duluth.

The following spring he reported to St. Paul and becoming ill was let out to the Winona club, in the Minnesota-Wisconsin league. In 1912 he again reported to St. Paul and this time he stuck, making such a good record that he was purchased by Detroit.

Dauss had numerous experiences as a pitcher, but he tells of one with Claude Rossman, former Detroit first baseman, that is interesting.

"I was sent in against the Minneapolis club in the seventh inning one day, and Rossman was at bat," says Gerge. "One man was out and there were runners on third and second bases. It was my first experience against Claude and having heard that he was rather weak on a slow ball on the outside of the plate, I served up that sort of a pitch.

Then He Left.

"The last I saw of the ball was when it was shooting over the center-fielder's head; two runners crossed the plate and I left the game. Claude reached third, but had he been able to run any faster than a steam roller he would have reached home.

"Thereafter I did not give Rossman any slow ones."

SIR THOMAS THINKS TERMS ARE REASONABLE

Belfast, Ireland, March 21.—A request was sent yesterday by cable by the Royal Ulster yacht club asking the New York yacht club for a reconsideration of its refusal of Sir Thomas Lipton's challenge for the America's cup. This was accompanied by a long statement from Sir Thomas, with which the committee of the Irish club signified its agreement.

The committee hopes that the harmonious relations of the two clubs will be further cemented by another successful series of races and therefore requests the New York Yacht club to reconsider its challenge. Sir Thomas Lipton's statement is as follows:

"I deeply regret that the New York Yacht club has been unable to accept my challenge. After reading the explanation given of its refusal I can only conclude that the challenge and the intentions of the challengers have been misinterpreted. The deed of gift states:

"'The competing yachts or vessels of one mast shall not be less than sixty-five feet nor more than ninety feet at the water line.'

"The deed of gift also states that there shall be no time allowance.

"It must be presumed that the framers of the deed of gift intended that some reasonable meaning should be attached to their words, and they could never have contemplated such an absurdity as a challenger of sixty-five feet being met by a 90-foot defender.

"The deed of gift also requires that ten months prior to the race the challenger shall communicate the dimensions of his yacht, 'which dimensions shall not be exceeded.' If the real meaning of the words quoted is that the challenger is the person to fix within the limitation of the deed of gift the dimensions of the competing yachts and that both yachts are to be of that dimension, then the deed at once becomes intelligible and reasonable.

"I submit that this is the true interpretation of the deed of gift.

"It was on this understanding that I challenged and I repudiate the idea that any attempt has been made to impose limitations or restrictions not within the deed of gift.

"I venture to disagree from the statement made by the New York Yacht club that the present challenge does not differ in principle from the challenge I sent to America in 1907. The 1907 challenge asked for a variation from the deed of gift in order to permit of a race under the universal rule. No such variation is asked for in this case and I fail to see that there is any analogy between the two changes.

"I fully understand that the decision of the New York Yacht club in 1907 to permit no variation from the deed of gift despite mutual agreement on the clause, but I maintain that this has no bearing whatever upon my present challenge.

"The New York club states that it would have accepted with pleasure an unconditional challenge. The only conditions I ask are those of the deed of gift for I cannot conceive that the framers of that document, after taking pains to prohibit all time allowance, contemplated races between such ridiculous extremes as yachts of 65 and 90 feet.

"If upon reconsideration which I am sure the New York Yacht club will be good enough to give this matter, they accept my interpretation of the deed of gift, I shall be happy to remove from my challenge the words to which they object.

"My reason for selecting a 75-footer is that a yacht of this dimension represents the largest type of cutter now racing in any part of the world.

"THOMAS J. LIPTON."

ENGLISH DISAPPOINTED.

Refusal of New York Yacht Club to Race Is Condemned.

London, March 21. — The Yachting World says the New York Yacht club's refusal to accept Sir Thomas Lipton's challenge has caused great disappointment all over the country.

"Indeed," adds the Journal, "disappointment can hardly be said adequately to express the feelings of British yachtsmen in the matter. Indignation, in fact, would be nearer the mark.

"The action of the holders in refusing another contest after the lapse of ten years, displays lack of sportsmanship and we feel must be regretted by American yachtsmen as a body, as much as it is on this side of the Atlantic."

WALTER MILLER DEFEATS WHIPPS

St. Paul, Minn., March 21.—Showing excellent form, Walter Miller of Duluth last night defeated George Whipps here before a packed house. The former St. Paul wrestler proved a revelation to his former admirers by the speed, strength and aggressiveness he displayed.

Miller took the first fall in 23 minutes with a crotch and half nelson, while the second fall came in 13 minutes through the favorite hold of Miller, the scissors.

From the call of time the Duluth boy rushed at Whipps and took him off his feet in a jiffy. Only twice during the contest was Whipps behind his opponent, and then only for a brief spell.

Following the victory over Whipps the victor announced that he is to defend his title of welterweight champion against the world at 148 pounds, Miller declaring that he can make the weight without weakening himself in the least.

Big Offer for Roger.

Jacksonville, Fla., March 21.—Charles Murphy of the Chicago Nationals, before leaving here, declared he had been offered $35,000 and two first-class players in exchange for Roger Bresnahan by a National league club, the name of which he refused to make known. Although it was one of the biggest offers ever made for a ball player, he refused to part with the former St. Louis manager.

Crawford Signs.

Detroit, Mich., March 21.—It is officially announced here that Sam Crawford, veteran right fielder of the Detroit American league baseball club, has signed his 1913 contract. President Navin said the contract calls for a $5,000 salary which is the same as the 1912 agreement.

High-Steppers Are Sold.

New York, March 21.—The sale by Joseph W. Harriman to Edward B. McLean of Washington for $50,000 of the three high-stepping harness horses, Nala, Lady Dilham and Elegant Dilham, winners of scores of blue ribbons, championship prizes and challenge cups at the leading American horse shows, was announced last night.

LOCAL SPORT NOTES

The handball tournament is progressing nicely at the Y. M. C. A. courts and some fast and well played games are to be witnessed every afternoon. Kennedy meets Robertson this afternoon and Bell meets Moffatt this evening. Yesterday afternoon Honigman defeated Lewis, 21 to 15, and 21 to 12, Lewis taking one game of the three by the score of 21 to 13. Denny defeated Andressen, 21 to 17 and 21 to 5.

A rifle shoot is scheduled for the indoor range of the Quayle-Larsen company for tomorrow afternoon. Dr. H. E. Wunder, Dr. John Winter, Sam Cleveland, H. H. Nellson, Charles Wilson, William Abbett and W. McCarthy will meet a team of business men that will be selected sometime today. Rifle shooting is getting to be one of the popular indoor sports. When the gunners go on the range this spring their eyes will be well trained.

SAILOR JACK BEATEN BY HALSTAD WRESTLER

Red Lake Falls, Minn., March 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—Leon Curtis from Halstad, Minn., threw Sailor Jack of Duluth in two straight falls, securing the first fall in sixteen minutes, and the second fall in two minutes with a hammer-lock hold.

VIRGINIA HAS A STRONG TEAM

Virginia comes for a hockey game with the local team tomorrow evening. While it is expected that the curling club seven will be able to vanquish the visitors from the range, the management of the Virginia seven is confident of victory and state that a surprise will be sprung on the home band.

The Duluth team is in excellent shape at the present time and the members of the club expect that from the standpoint of Duluth one of the best contests of the season will be the result of the meeting.

The Queen City team gave Duluth boys a hard and close contest at the beginning of the present season. Since that time, according to the reports from Virginia, the range aggregation has received the benefit of practice and a number of games with outside teams. This has made the team stronger than it was upon the occasion of the former meeting with Duluth.

FRANK BRYANT TO MEET STARS

Frank Bryant is to enter the twenty-four hour endurance roller skating race which will be decided at Milwaukee on March 28. In this contest the little Duluth skater will compete against Fred Martin, Clarence Hamilton, Carl Carlson, Roland Cloni and other stars of the small wheels. As the local champion is in the very best of shape at the present time, and as endurance has always been one of his strong points, it is believed by his many followers here that Frank will make an excellent showing in this race.

ST. PAUL IN LEAD.

Sioux Falls Close Second in Bowling Tournament.

Minneapolis, Minn., March 21.—St. Paul men led in the doubles yesterday afternoon in the international bowling tournament. They were followed by those from Sioux Falls, S. D. The following leading scores were made:

The Schmidts, five-man team of St. Paul, rolled into second place last night with a score of 2,743. B. Gilbertson and B. Ryan of St. Paul took second place in the doubles.

LIMITS WINNINGS.

Detroit, Mich., March 21.—Although the Grand Circuit has rescinded the rule limiting the amount of money stake trotters can win, the Michigan state fair again has a condition of that sort in its program of early closing events for the meeting here Sept. 15 to 20. This is in the Michigan stake of $10,000 for 2:15 trotters and the condition is that any horse winning events of a face value of $35,000 before Sept. 2 shall not be eligible and payments shall be refunded.

Other state fair races to which entries close on April 15, are the 2:12 pace, $5,000; 2:05 pace, $2,000; 2:16 pace, $2,000.

ALLOWS INTERNATIONAL GAMES.

New York, March 21.—Secretary Cahill of the American Amateur Football association announced last night that at the request of a committee representing the association, headed by Dr. G. R. Manning, president; Commissioner James E. Sullivan agreed to recommend that a trophy for an international series of soccer football games be offered by the Panama-Pacific exposition.

Mr. Sullivan's consent to the plan was won when the A. A. F. A. officials were able to assure him that not only teams from New York and several other American cities would be sent to San Francisco but that Australia, Canada and probably England would send representative teams.

JOE RIVERS ARRIVES.

New York, March 21. — Joe Rivers, the only lad that ever placed the K. O. stamp on Knockout Brown, arrived here yesterday from Los Angeles. His bride accompanied him. Just before he started on his trip East to box Leach Cross on April 8, "Spanish" Joe took unto himself a wife. This is the honeymoon with a squabble bout which will net him, win or lose, $4,000.

This is Rivers' second trip to New York and his second match with Cross.

Kelly-Walters Match.

Chcago, March 21.—"Spike" Kelly and Billy Walters, rival Chicago welterweights, are matched to box ten rounds in Kenosha, April 8.

Illini Beat Tigers.

Chicago, March 21.—Despite the fact that two of its swimmers were absent, the Illinois Athletic club team last night defeated the Princeton university squad, 46 to 12. Hebner and McGillivray, both champions in their classes, were the absent athletes.

Miller After Carr.

Minneapolis, Minn., March 21.—Walter Miller, former St. Paul idol but at present a Duluth citizen, arrived in Minneapolis yesterday afternoon and immediately upon his arrival, the Beau Brummel of wrestling circles issued a challenge to Joe Carr, Minneapolis middleweight.

RAILROADS HARD HIT.

Upper Peninsula Lines Have Experienced Much Snow Trouble.

Calumet, Mich., March 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—Railroad conditions almost as bad as those contended with in the worst parts of the Rockies were met with by the railroads of the Upper Peninsula of Michigan this winter. The month of February was one continual blizzard from the first until within a few days of the last of the month, and the big storm resumed early in March continuing for a week longer. The heaviest snowfall recorded in a half dozen years was experienced by railroad men in the Copper country, while the heavy, sharp frost which continued throughout the big storms made railroading particularly dangerous and difficult because of its getting into the rails. Derailments of whole trains were of common occurrence and all the roads operating in the Copper country used their big rotary plows almost continually since the first of February. The South Shore road is still using its rotary plow in this district.

A CITY ON WATER.

On Canton's Rivers Live 330,000 Persons Who Never Land.

New York Mail: The rivers flowing through Canton, China, have upon their waters practically a city, composed of about 330,000 persons, living on sampans and houseboats. These floating homes are moored together in such a way that streets and squares are formed, through which the tradesmen ply their wares. Kitchen boats move along the liquid thoroughfares, barbers and doctors paddle about, ringing bells. There are fish boats, clothing boats, vegetable boats, and even floating biers to convey the dead to earthly graves. There are floating hotels, floating restaurants, floating dance halls and even floating leper boats, from which emerge pathetic figures who hold out trays for alms.

The inhabitants of the city never marry with the shore folks and seldom even land. In some cases the men get occupations on shore, but this is rare, and they chiefly make a livelihood by dredging coal dropped by passing steamers or by searching for articles lost overboard by tourists.

Each sampan within its scant twenty feet shelters under its bamboo roof from six to a dozen people. It is a rude one-room affair, and in most cases extremely dirty. Over the stern is usually hung a basket, where squawking poultry and squealing pigs bewail the fates that cast them into such cramped quarters.

MADAM! IF YOU DON'T FEEL RIGHT TAKE DELICIOUS "SYRUP OF FIGS"

Waste-Clogged Bowels, Torpid Liver and Decaying Food in Stomach Cause the Sick Headache, Gas, Backache, Sallowness, Biliousness and Indigestion.

All women get bilious, headachy and constipated — simply because they don't exercise enough. They don't eat coarse food, or enough fruit and green vegetables. Those are nature's ways of keeping the liver and thirty feet of bowels active; but very few women employ them. The next best way is delightful, fruity Syrup of Figs.

Nearly all ills of women can be overcome with Syrup of Figs alone. There is no need to have sick headache, backache, dizziness, stomach sour and full of gases, bilious spells, sallowness, coated tongue, bad breath, bad complexion, nervousness and depression. The surest and safest remedy is one or two teaspoonfuls of delicious Syrup of Figs. Try this tonight—you'll feel splendid in the morning when the sour bile, clogged up waste and poisonous matter have been gently but thoroughly moved on and out of your system, without nausea, griping or weakness. Your head will be clear, complexion rosy, breath sweet, stomach regulated; no more constipation, gases, pains and aches.

It is simply a matter of keeping your stomach, liver and bowels clean and regular. Then you will always be well—always look and feel your best.

But get the genuine—the old reliable. Ask your druggist for "Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna." Refuse, with contempt, the so-called Fig Syrups sometimes substituted to fool you. The true, genuine, bears the name California Fig Syrup Company; look for this on the label.

WILL WORK FOR CLOSED CITY

W. C. T. U. Members Will Support Law Enforcement Candidates.

The West Duluth branch of the Women's Christian Temperance union will actively support those candidates for the city commission who favor the strict enforcement of the liquor and vice laws of the city. This action was taken by the union at its regular meeting yesterday afternoon, held at the home of Mrs. Florence Merritt, 2105 East Second street.

A committee of the union recently wrote to all the candidates running for office and of the thirty-five letters already received, twenty-five are in favor of a strict enforcement of the liquor and vice laws. These letters are to be read at a general mass meeting to be held Monday afternoon, either at the Y. W. C. A., or at the central library.

Mrs. Joseph Cochran, district president of the W. C. T. U., yesterday appointed the hostesses and reception committee for the annual banquet to be held next Tuesday at the First M. E. church. The reception committee will consist of Mrs. T. B. Jones, Mrs. Cochran, Mrs. C. R. Keyes, Mrs. Ella Robinson, Mrs. H. Bevier, Mrs. Ed. Gustafson and Mrs. L. W. Linder. The hostesses will be: Mrs. J. T. Cullbertson, Mrs. H. Bevier, Mrs. Ida Merritt, Mrs. H. H. Phelps, Mrs. C. R. Keyes, Mrs. Helen Stewart, Mrs. David Adams, Mrs. B. H. Smith, Mrs. H. C. Ives, Mrs. Seglum, Mrs. T. F. Olsen and Mrs. M. E. Allen.

Miss Jessie Mauck, matron of the Bethel home, gave a short talk on "Amusements, With Special Reference to Purity." Mesdames Joseph Cochran and Alfred Jaques also spoke. Mrs. David Adams, assisted by Mrs. George King, sang several selections during the afternoon.

The next meeting of the union will be held April 3 at the home of Mrs. Harry Merritt, 4610 Magellan street. The annual election of officers will be held and plans for the year made at that time. A home-cooking sale will also be hld during the meeting.

CHARGED WITH REVOLTING CRIME

West Duluth Man Claimed to Have Abused Orphan Girl.

It will be to sensational charges that William Osborne, married, living at West Duluth, must answer when he is brought to trial in district court Monday charged with having carnal knowledge of a 14-year-old girl who has been placed in his home for adoption.

Osborne was indicted by the January grand jury and his arrest followed shortly afterwards. By mutual consent between Harry W. Lanners, his attorney, and Mason M. Forbes, first assistant county attorney, the trial of the case was continued until this term of court.

The state's version of the story is revolting and mostly unprintable. It is claimed that the Humane society in December, at the request of Osborne, placed a homeless 14-year-old girl in his home for adoption and that shortly afterwards, the accused man took advantage of her weakness and subjected her to continual abuse for one week.

The story of Osborne's alleged improper relations with the child came to the county attorney's office through a sister of the young girl, and the Humane society. The child was immediately removed and placed in proper surroundings. The girl appeared before the grand jury and related a story which resulted in an indictment being returned against the man.

Osborne has a wife, who was living with him at the time of his alleged relations with the girl. The girl's name is withheld by The Herald.

WATER SYSTEM FOR NEW DULUTH

Supply Tank Arrives and Will Be Set Up Immediately.

With the arrival yesterday of the new steel supply tank for the New Duluth water system, local residents now expect to have water running by the middle of May.

Work on the mains has been completed and it is now planned to start on the pumphouse and the erection of the tank, the foundations and supports for which are now being built. The pumphouse will be located near the foot of Commonwealth avenue and will be near the three large wells, now being dug. One of the wells has been completed, while work on the other two is progressing rapidly.

The supply tank will have a capacity of 10,000 barrels and is to be erected directly north of the suburb. The tank is 175 feet high and the various connections and pipes leading up to it have all been built.

The new water system will cost about $35,000 when completed.

NEW COURT WILL BE CONSTITUTIONAL

Bill Removing Possible Objections Passes in the Legislature.

All doubt as to the constitutionality of the West Duluth municipal court, as proposed in the new city charter, was removed yesterday afternoon by the state legislature. Harry W. Lanners, candidate for judge of the proposed court, received word this morning from Senator Cheadle to the effect that the bill covering it has already passed the house and senate, and all that is necessary now is the governor's signature.

Several weeks ago Mr. Lanners explained to the members of the West Duluth Commercial club that the new court as proposed in the charter, might not conform with the municipal court act.

The matter was discussed at length and the following committee appointed by the club to take the matter up with the state legislature and have the state law amended to conform with the local charter: Mr. Lanners, H. H. Phelps and L. A. Barnes.

Senator Cheadle first introduced the bill in the senate, where it was passed two weeks ago. It was introduced in the house by Representative Warner, and passed and will become a law when signed by the governor, which is practically assured the local committee.

At the meeting of the club this evening Mr. Lanners will make a report on the matter and the action of the state legislature.

CLUB INVITES ALL CANDIDATES TO SPEAK

An open discussion on the issues of the present municipal campaign, with a number of the candidates as principal speakers, will be held this evening by the Oneota and Hazelwood Improvement club at the Merritt school, Fortieth avenue west and Sixth street.

A general invitation is extended by the club to all the voters in this end of the city. Candidates are also requested to attend the meeting.

HOLIDAY IN ALL MARKETS

Stock and Grain Exchanges Are Closed for the Day.

Easter-tide is being fully observed by the stock, grain and other exchanges in all parts of the world. Exchanges in the United States and Canada closed not only over Good Friday, but continued their adjournment until Monday morning. The European exchanges, both British and continental, went a step farther and adjourned to Tuesday morning, thus observing Easter Monday also. Duluth grain and stock brokerage offices made no attempt to do business today and will follow the same policy tomorrow.

Today nearly all the public offices and many private concerns suspended business. All the city, country, state and Federal offices were closed, except in so far as the nature of their functions necessitated continued duty. The banks did not open their doors today.

The Chicago Paint, Oil and Drug Review says:

"There has not been any improvement in the linseed oil situation during the past week and buyers seem to be holding off and only placing orders when absolutely necessary. There is a feeling that prices may be lower, and as there are fairly good stocks there is practically no demand. It seems, however, that when buyers come to the conclusion they can buy rather close to the bottom, they will load up, not only for this year but taking as much stock as their capacity will permit for next year, as there is not much probability of there being much low price oil from the next crop of flaxseed.

"Meanwhile oil is quoted in Chicago at 42 cents. This is considered by crushers to be an exceedingly low price, taking into consideration the low price of oil cake, there is nothing in the present low prices of oil for the crushers. Oil cake sold at $20 at Minneapolis last week, which is the lowest it has brought for a decade or over. Under the circumstances, there is no occasion for viewing prices from the standpoint of the crushers excepting with a strong undertone.

"There has been practically no demand for oil cake and it is very difficult to get even a reasonable price for it when buyers put in an appearance. Sales were made in Minneapolis last week at $20, which is the lowest price at which it has been sold for a decade or over, and in fact, very few people can recall when sales were made at such a price.

"The demand for oil meal has been quite good and the market has ruled from $25.50@26.00 per ton in Minneapolis, according to seller and buyers, with prices $2 higher at Chicago."

A CITY ON WATER.

On Canton's Rivers Live 330.000 Persons Who Never Land.

New York Mail: The rivers flowing through Canton, China, have upon their waters practically a city, composed of about 330,000 persons, living on sampans and houseboats. These floating homes are moored together in such a way that streets and squares are formed, through which the tradesmen ply their wares. Kitchen boats move along the liquid thoroughfares, barbers and doctors paddle about, ringing bells. There are fish boats, clothing boats, vegetable boats, and even floating biers to convey the dead to earthly graves. There are floating hotels, floating restaurants, floating dance halls and even floating leper boats, from which emerge pathetic figures who hold out trays for alms.

The inhabitants of the city never marry with the shore folks and seldom even land. In some cases the men get occupations on shore, but this is rare, and they chiefly make a livelihood by dredging coal dropped by passing steamers or by selling for articles lost overboard by tourists.

Each sampan within its scant twenty feet shelters under its bamboo roof from six to a dozen people. It is a rude one-room affair, and in most cases extremely dirty. Over the stern is usually hung a basket, where squawking poultry and squealing pigs bewail the fates that cast them into such cramped quarters.

MADAM! IF YOU DON'T FEEL RIGHT TAKE DELICIOUS "SYRUP OF FIGS"

Waste-Clogged Bowels, Torpid Liver and Decaying Food in Stomach Cause the Sick Headache, Gas, Backache, Sallowness, Biliousness and Indigestion.

All women get bilious, headachy and constipated — simply because they don't exercise enough. They don't eat coarse food, or enough fruit and green vegetables. These are nature's ways of keeping the liver and thirty feet of bowels active; but very few women employ them. The next best way is delightful, fruity Syrup of Figs.

Nearly all ills of women can be overcome with Syrup of Figs alone. There is no need to have sick headache, backache, dizziness, stomach sour and full of gases, bilious spells, sallowness, coated tongue, bad breath, bad complexion, nervousness and depression. The surest and safest remedy is one or two teaspoonfuls of delicious Syrup of Figs. Try this tonight—you'll feel splendid in the morning when the sour bile, clogged up waste and poisonous matter have been gently but thoroughly moved on and out of your system, without nausea, griping or weakness. Your head will be clear, complexion rosy, breath sweet, stomach regulated; no more constipation, gases, pains and aches.

It is simply a matter of keeping your stomach, liver and bowels clean and regular. Then you will always be well—always look and feel your best.

But get the genuine—the old reliable. Ask your druggist for "Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna." Refuse, with contempt, the so-called Fig Syrups sometimes substituted to fool you. The true, genuine, bears the name California Fig Syrup Company; look for this on the label.

WILL WORK FOR CLOSED CITY

W. C. T. U. Members Will Support Law Enforcement Candidates.

The West Duluth branch of the Women's Christian Temperance union will actively support those candidates for the city commission who favor the strict enforcement of the liquor and vice laws of the city. This action was taken by the union at its regular meeting yesterday afternoon, held at the home of Mrs. Florence Merritt, 2105 East Second street.

A committee of the union recently wrote to all the candidates running for office and of the thirty-five letters already received, twenty-five are in favor of a strict enforcement of the liquor and vice laws. These letters are to be read at a general mass meeting to be held Monday afternoon, either at the Y. W. C. A., or at the central library.

Mrs. Joseph Cochran, district president of the W. C. T. U., yesterday appointed the hostesses and reception committee for the annual banquet to be held next Tuesday at the First M. E. church. The reception committee will consist of Mrs. T. B. Jones, Mrs. Cochran, Mrs. C. R. Keyes, Mrs. Ella Robinson, Mrs. H. Bevier, Mrs. Ida Gustafson and Mrs. W. Linder. The hostesses will be: Mrs. J. T. Culbertson, Mrs. H. Bevier, Mrs. Ida Merritt, Mrs. H. H. Phelps, Mrs. C. R. Keyes, Mrs. Helen Stewart, Mrs. David Adams, Mrs. B. H. Smith, Mrs. H. C. Ives, Mrs. Seglum, Mrs. T. F. Olsen and Mrs. M. E. Allen.

Miss Jessie Mauck, matron of the Bethel home, gave a short talk on "Amusements, With Special Reference to Purity." Mesdames Joseph Cochran and Alfred Jaques also spoke. Mrs. David Adams, assisted by Mrs. George King, sang several selections during the afternoon.

The next meeting of the union will be held April 3 at the home of Mrs. Harry Merritt, 404 Magellan street. The annual election of officers will be held and plans for the year made at that time. A home-cooking sale will also be held during the meeting.

CHARGED WITH REVOLTING CRIME

West Duluth Man Claimed to Have Abused Orphan Girl.

It will be to sensational charges that William Osborne, married, living at West Duluth, must answer when he is brought to trial in district court Monday charged with having carnal knowledge of a 14-year-old girl who has been placed in his home for adoption.

Osborne was indicted by the January grand jury and his arrest followed shortly afterwards. By mutual consent between Harry W. Lanners, his attorney, and Hugo M. Forbes, first assistant county attorney, the trial of the case was continued until this term of court.

The state's version of the story is revolting and mostly unprintable. It is claimed that the Humane society in December, at the request of Osborne, placed a homeless 14-year-old girl in his home for adoption and that shortly afterwards, the accused man took advantage of her weakness and subjected her to continual abuse for one week.

The story of Osborne's alleged improper relations with the child came to the county attorney's office through a sister of the young girl, and the Humane society. The child was immediately removed and placed in proper surroundings. The girl appeared before the grand jury and related a story which resulted in an indictment being returned against the man.

Osborne has a wife, who was living with him at the time of his alleged relations with the girl. The girl's name is withheld by The Herald.

WATER SYSTEM FOR NEW DULUTH

Supply Tank Arrives and Will Be Set Up Immediately.

With the arrival yesterday of the new steel supply tank for the New Duluth water system, local residents now expect to have water running by the middle of May.

Work on the mains has been completed and it is now planned to start on the pumphouse and the erection of the tank, the foundations and supports for which are now being built. The pumphouse will be located near the foot of Commonwealth avenue and will be near the three large wells, now being dug. One of the wells has been completed, while work on the other two is progressing rapidly.

The supply tank will have a capacity of 10,000 barrels and is to be erected directly north of the suburb. The tank is 175 feet high and the various connections and pipes leading up to it have all been built.

The new water system will cost about $35,000 when completed.

NEW COURT WILL BE CONSTITUTIONAL

Bill Removing Possible Objections Passes in the Legislature.

All doubt as to the constitutionality of the West Duluth municipal court, as proposed in the new city charter, was removed yesterday afternoon by the state legislature. Harry W. Lanners, candidate for judge of the proposed court, received word this morning from Senator Cheadle to the effect that the bill covering it has already passed the house and senate, and all that is necessary now is the governor's signature.

Several weeks ago Mr. Lanners explained to the members of the West Duluth Commercial club that the new court as proposed in the charter, might not conform with the municipal court act.

The matter was discussed at length and the following committee appointed by the club to take the matter up with the state legislature and have the state law amended to conform with the local charter: Mr. Lanners, H. H. Phelps and L. A. Barnes.

Senator Cheadle first introduced the bill in the senate, where it was passed two weeks ago. It was introduced in the house by Representative Warner, and passed and will become a law when signed by the governor, which is practically assured the local committee.

At the meeting of the club this evening Mr. Lanners will make a report on the matter and the action of the state legislature.

CLUB INVITES ALL CANDIDATES TO SPEAK

An open discussion on the issues of the present municipal campaign, with a number of the candidates as principal speakers, will be held this evening by the Oneota and Hazelwood Improvement club at the Merritt school, Fortieth avenue west and Sixth street.

A general invitation is extended by the club to all the voters in this end of the city. Candidates are also requested to attend the meeting.

HOLIDAY IN ALL MARKETS

Stock and Grain Exchanges Are Closed for the Day.

Easter-tide is being fully observed by the stock, grain and other exchanges in all parts of the world. Exchanges in the United States and Canada closed not only over Good Friday, but continued their adjournment until Monday morning. The European exchanges, both British and continental, went a step farther and adjourned to Tuesday morning, thus observing Easter Monday also. Duluth grain and stock brokerage offices made no attempt to do business today and will follow the same policy tomorrow.

Today nearly all the public offices and many private concerns suspended business. All the city, county, state and Federal offices were closed, except in so far as the nature of their functions necessitated continued duty. The banks did not open their doors today.

The Chicago Paint, Oil and Drug Review says:

"There has not been any improvement in the linseed oil situation during the past week and buyers seem to be holding off and only placing orders when absolutely necessary. There is a feeling that prices may be lower, and as there are fairly good stocks there is practically no demand. It seems, however, that when buyers come to the conclusion they can buy rather close to the bottom, they will load up, not only for this year but taking as much stock as their capacity will permit for next year, as there is not much probability of there being much low price oil from the next crop of flaxseed.

"Meanwhile oil is quoted in Chicago at 42 cents. This is considered by crushers to be an exceedingly low price, taking into consideration the low price of oil cake, there is nothing in the present low prices of oil for the crushers. Oil cake sold at $20 at Minneapolis last week, which is the lowest it has brought for a decade or over. Under the circumstances, there is no occasion for viewing prices from the standpoint of the crushers excepting with a strong undertone.

"There has been practically no demand for oil cake and it is very difficult to get even a reasonable price for it when buyers put in an appearance. Sales were made in Minneapolis last week at $20, which is the lowest price at which it has been sold for a decade or over, and in fact, very few people can recall when sales were made at such a price.

"The demand for oil meal has been quite good and the market has ruled from $25.50@26.00 per ton in Minneapolis, according to sellers and buyers, with prices $2 higher at Chicago."
